Harvesting operations in this area are now almost at an end — perfect weather having prevailed throughout the entire harvesting season.

Some are still cutting late oats and barley, and a little spring grain is still tricking in. The storage situation, which has been acute for the past ten days, still remains, but with the aid of quite a number of box cars, all has been taken care of, and none poured on the ground. Bean and clover operations are still underway. The yield for beans is described as "far below average" but the quality is excellent. Beans gave every indication of a fine crop until the long, hot, dry spell began. which shriveled blossoms and caused many of the tender pods to fall off. Clover, too, is very spotted as to yield, some producing "average quantities" while other fields, which looked fine, were hardly worth cut-

All-in-all this season may be described as "most unusual."

PUBLISHED BY THE KENDRICK CO-OPERATIVE CREAMERY

HELLO, THERE FOLKS:

Don't Forget:

It's been quite a while since those cards were mailed to you announcing our big special meet-ing in the Community church basement on Wednesday evening, Sept. 7 — so we think it time to remind you again. This meeting is of the utmost importance, and we urge every stockholder to be present. Anyone else interested is also welcome.

About That Cream:

We realize that right now is a pretty slow cream production time, as pastures are quite dry, and many of you are feeding. However, make that feeding pay by bringing that cream in to us. Don't wait for a large quantity to accumulate, bring or send it in often. No quantity is too large-none too small. Send it in by a neighbor if you're not coming, as the chances are he hauls to us,

A gentleman slipped on the stair of a subway and started to slide down to the bottom. Halfway down he collided with a lady, knocking her down, and the two continued their way to the lower landing.

After they had reached the bottom, the lady, still dazed, continued to sit on the gentleman's chest. Looking up at her, he finally said politely: "Madam, I'm sorry, but this is as far as I go."

Bob: "Who would you say is a true lover of music?" Betty: "The man who, upon hearing a soprano voice in the bathroom, puts his ear to the
