Church To Remain Standing

19th Ave., Lewiston.

After considerable discussion and great deal of study and investigation, the American Ridge church is to remain standing on its present location, although most of the ground surrounding it will be sold. The matter under consideration by the board of that church was tearing the building down and transporting it to Lewiston Orchards, to serve a community there, as services are no longer being held in the building. By request the Gazette reprints an article from our issue of Dec. 21, 1944, regarding this same building:

Leland played hosts to the Joint P.-T. A. of District No. 283, Monday of his car, Mr. Konen picked up the evening at the Leland school house and welcomed some 75 parents and teachers to a most enjoyable time.

The meeting opened with the group singing of "America." Following the reading of the Min-utes and the treasurer's report, Mrs. E. M. White presented the out-oftown guest, Mrs. Guy Wicks of Moscow, who is second vice president of the District P.-T. A. Mrs. Wicks was most generous with her praise for this unit, saying it was the best in the district, having actually accomplished more for our "kids" through co-operation in all activities. She called attention to the fact that the P.-T. A. is the largest organized group in the state of Idaho, and could well be a powerful influence. She then explained the need for a mobil X-ray unit which would make available a mass chest survey for all school children — so important in early diagnosis of T. B., and asked our unit to pass a reso-lution favoring the purchase of such a mobile unit, so that it could come before our legislature on the special agenda in January. After some discussion Mr. Cook made a motion we favor such a move, it was seconded and unanimously carried. Mrs. Wicks then talked a few minutes on the disgraceful condition of the Latah County "farm," citing its run down, neglected state. She, having visited it recently, painted a vivid picture of the over-crowded fire-trap that is housing our indigents, and feeling that we, as parents and citizens, should be roused and Mrs. Walter Benscoter attended to using our influence to bring it to now at home to their friends at 1512 the funeral of Mrs. Marie Amunds the attention of our county commissioners, that they may work to

The majority were dull, dreamy-eyed and listless. Goiter was noticeable on many of them. They were having a class recitation, pre-paratory to a canning project. The teacher was having such a time get-ting any response at all from the girls. They just couldn't or didn't think. They were mentally and physically tired. I talked with the girls afterwards and found out that they worked hard in textile factories as apprentices the rest of the week. School to them was like a vacation. The room was small and crowded."

newspaper Izvestia complained today against a Soviet biologist who held that man started on the downward path when he began to walk on his two legs.

This scientist, the paper said, is "an ignoramus." The biologist, Izvestia said really was a former pro-Czarist officer who had managed to worm his way into Soviet science circles.

S. D. Antipin, chief of the department of biology and the Kishinev medical institute, was the challenged scientist. Izvestia said he had advanced this theory:

Man's greatest tragedy oc-curred when he ceased to walk on all fours and cut himself off from the animal world by assuming an erect position. If man had continued to walk horizontally, and rabbits had learned to walk vertically, many of the world's ills would not exist.

Attacks Scientist

Boris Lavrenev, Izvestia writer, scrutinized Antipin's career, and said he is a former soldier in Admiral Kolchak's White Guards, fought the Red army and then, when Kolchak was defeated, managed to pass himself off as a "biologist."

Lavrenev said Antipin taught at various medical and veterinarian institutions until he landed his job as a department head at Kish-

Citing some choice Antipinisms, Lavrenev quoted, "Every four-legged animal excells man. Since man raised his head up, he lost his sense of smell and by using artificial meat grinders instead of his own teeth he has weakened his chewing equipment."

Because of man's vertical position his internal organs are piled one atop another like the floors of a building, Antipin held, and his lungs are not properly venti-lated, hence he is subject to tuberculosis. "As the descendant of a four-legged animal, man is constructed on the horizontal principle and thus, by becoming vertical, he is as curious as a steam engine, rolling along on its back wheels," Antipin was quoted.

Dislikes Mouth Lavrenev said Antipin was especially displeased with the human mouth and fulminated against women's lips. "No wonder many women paint their lips as if to say—see I'm human, not a monkey," Antipin Lavrenev said Antipin's magnum opus was entitled, "Rebuilding human organism on a horizontal principle, on the harmfulness of walking on the hind legs, and placing rabbits in a vertical position so as to lengthen their

Physicians Give Patients As Good Care as They Get

CHICAGO.-Physicians give their patients as good medical care as the doctors give themselves, the Journal of the American medical association asserts.

It is said that a survey by Frank G. Dickinson, director of the association's bureau of medical economic research, showed that the average age of American physicians at the time of death was 67.3 years, as compared with 67.5 for the average white male.

Heart disease accounted for 42.2 per cent of the deaths among physicians studied, as against 38.9 per cent of the deaths among white males of comparable ages.

Cancer, second leading cause of death in this country, ranked third among physicians probably because of ability to recognize symptoms early and begin treatment promptly, the Journal said, adding:

"Apparently the members of the medical profession cannot give their fellow members longer life than their patients enjoy."

HONG KONG.—The Chinese Communist radio has come up with a Sergeant York tale that goes the Tennessee sharpshooter one better.

It is said that a lone communist guerrilla, Chiu Yin-shan, armed only with a shoe, had captured 49 Nationalist soldiers while he was walking down a highway in Kiangsi province.

Chiu met seven Nationalists, the broadcast said, and having exhausted his supply of hand grenades, he pulled off his shoe, brandished it and shouted, "Hand over your arms or you die." Thereupon, according to the broadcast, the soldiers fluing down their arms. Soon, 42 more soldiers appeared and surrendered when Chiu fired two shots from the captured rifles, the radio reported.

Use of Television In Religious Work Being Recognized

NEW YORK .- That television: will become increasingly important as a religious, as well as a cultural. and entertainment vehicle, seems assured.

The possibilities of television: have been recognized by religious leaders from the beginning, and church groups more and more are discussing ways of utilizing the new medium, described by one spokesman as "essential to the work of the Christian church to-

Television programs of religious interest already have become familiar to video audiences.

Latest innovation is a religious-news program, first of its kind, recently launched by station' WRGB in Schenectady.

Known as "Through the Eyes of Religion," the new program consists of news analyses, talks, photo illustrations, and live shots. The program is now on a 10-minute spot every two weeks, but is expected shortly to be presented on a weekly basis.

Until now, the most impressive. use of television has been in the presentation of significant church ceremonies.

Cod Fish Experiment Seen Aid to Far North Explorers

DETROIT. - Future Antarctic and Arctic expeditions may bene-fit from experiments in which cod fish will get heat stroke.

The fish are Arctic cod which thrive in the icy waters of the far. They are going to be dropped, by Dr. John Field of Stanford university, into waters comparable in temperature to those of the Pacific ocean off the California coast.

Human swimmers may shiver in these waters on a July day, but to the cod they are hot water. Although he expects the cod to die, Dr. Field has reason to believe they might survive if they could be adapted to the higher water temperatures by slow degrees. He will try this in later experiments.

Dr. Field's experiments are being carried on at Point Barrow. Alaska, under a contract with the U. S. office of naval research which is interested in the mechanisms by which animals and fish adapt themselves to extremes of heat and cold. He reported some of them at a meeting here of the federation of American societies for experimental biology.

Arctic cod, he found, can live in waters as cold as three degrees below freezing because their metabolism, or rate of bodily chemical reaction, hold up well at low temperature.

Cosmic Rays Are Born In Huge Galactic Clouds

NEW YORK. — Huge galactic clouds in the interstellar space are the "birthplace" of the mysterious cosmic rays that bombarded earth from all directions, according to Dr. Enrico Fermi, Nobel prize physicist.

In reporting the new_theory of the cosmic rays, Dr. Fermi believes that the rays originate from collisions between protons, atomic particles, with a magnetic field in a huge galactic cloud.

Other scientists have expressed belief the rays come from the sun or from far-off stars, but no hypothesis has been proved-hence. the many studies being made today of cosmic rays.

Dr. Fermi, inventor of the first uranium chain reaction pile that led to the atomic bomb manufacture, said his new theory was based on an idea originally proposed by H. Alfven, a Swedish physicist, who called attention to the fact that the galactic clouds in interstellar space carry magnetic fields with them as they move about.

Fermi, writing in the Physical Review, said that the fast-moving magnetic fields acting upon protons, or atomic particles in space, would gradually accelerate them: to energies, ranging from one billion volts to energies of one million times larger.

Tobacco Important In Marshall Plan

Is Present Prop Of Tobacco Farmer

Tobacco, from the time of the Virginia colony, has marched along has an intimate part of the American story to the present day. In the wake of World War II, as the United States emerged the strongest economic power, the American eigarette became temporarily a universal wampum—the chief cur-

"You have a cigarette economy from Paris to Peking," a member told the house of commons in 1946.

John Rolfe, husband of Pocahontas, would be astonished if he could see what he started when he brought in the seed of modern tobacco. In 1948, the United States made about 387 billion cigarettes, and the tobacco industry directly paid in excise and import taxes nearly two billion dollars.

From Virginia and Maryland the tobacco fields, growing over 25 types, have spread into North and South Carolina, south Georgia and northern Florida, Connecticut and Massachusetts, and the great burley area of Tennessee, Kentucky and the north bank of the Ohio.

America and the world have smoked the tobacco in pipes, cigars and cigarettes, and snuffed it in powdered form and chewed it.

The "chaw" is the most American of tobacco habits. European visitors have looked upon this habit with disgust. In 1947, addicts chewed 100 million pounds of tobacco.

The cigarette is the prime favorite. The modern cigarette, as we know it, was created almost on the eve of World War I. The formula for the popular brands sounds appetizing and nutritious. They mix with the bright leaf some Turkish tobaccos, much sweetened Burley and some Maryland. A quantity of glycerine or its equivalent preserves moisture. The whole is made tasty with such flavors as sugar, rum, licorice, chocolate, and vanilla-like products or chemicals

The cigarette has even wooed many of the ladies away from their pipes or snuff sticks.

Tobacco is of considerable importance in the Marshall plan—and the Marshall plan is the present prop of the tobacco farmer.

Considerable Care Urged in Tree Moving

Considerable care should be exercised when young fruit trees are moved from the nursery to an orchard or yard where soil fertility and other conditions may be less favorable.

Dr. A. Lee Schrader of the horticulture department, University of Maryland, points out that when trees are dug for shipment, part of the root system inevitably is lost. After the trees have arrived, new roots — sufficient to supply water and minerals to the entire tree — must be grown in order to insure normal development. Lack of adequate root growth, Dr. Schrader warns, often results in death of the tree or, at best, a poor growth of new shoots, particularly where the soil is low in certain minerals.

European Corn Borer Reduced Crop in 1948

The European corn borer reduced the 1948 crop of field corn by 85, million bushels, the U.S. department of agriculture announced in Washington, D. C. Surveys recently completed by the bureau of entomology and plant quarantine, with cooperating agencies, indicate this loss in corn production is more than double that of 1947.

Mechanical Cleaner Suggested for Barns

If you're building a new barn, or remodeling an old one, it would be a good idea to include plans for installing a mechanical barn cleaner. That's the advice of M. W. Forth, of Illinois college of agriculture.

Forth says it would pay to make provisions for a barn cleaner even though plans might not call for one right away.

BRITAIN WORRIED

'Rock' Apes Grow Fewer

NEW YORK.—With fewer than 20 of the famous Barbary apes still left on the Rock of Gibraltar, Great Britain, ever concious of the legend that "when the apes go, the British go, too," again is taking steps to "reinforce" the unique garrison at the gateway to the Mediterranean Sea.

Gibraltar's apes, the only simian species living wild in all Europe, have roamed the castus-covered upper reaches of the 1,350-foot Rock for centuries, notes the National Geographic Society. Numbering 100 or more in the 19th century, they have dwindled alarmingly close to the disappearing point several times since. On each occasion a new batch of "recruits" replenished the colony.

Apes Rounded Up

As a focal nerve center in the war—General Eisenhower directed the invasion of North Africa from "Gib"—and a citadel bristling with military activity, the Rock no longer could risk the danger of roving apes possibly causing wild confusion and serious damage. Accordingly, they were rounded up and placed in captivity for the duration. Most of those at large today are replacements brought from Africa after the end of hostilities.

The powerful tailless creatures, the size of big airedales, are not really apes. They are macaques, native to the forests of Barbary south across the strait in northwest Africa.

Scientists believe they first came to Europe in prehistoric times when the Mediterranean was a lake and the Strait of Gibraltar was dry land. The modern explanation is that pet macaques brought from Barbary frequently escaped or were freed from bondage by humans and found hospitality and sustenance in the labyrinths and vegetation of the Rock.

Even a few dozen Barbary apes running wild could make Gibraltar seem infested, so constant were their acts of mischief at times. Many are the stories of their destructive or playful descents, always by daylight, on shops, dwellings and barracks, as well as on civilian and military inhabitants of the community.

Officially Protected

In a noble experiment, the British gave the Gibraltar apes official protection in 1856. They were added to the garrison strength, given limited food rations and placed under a sergeant, "Keeper of the Apes." On one occasion they rewarded their benefactors by noisy warnings of an attempted surprise attack by a Spanish force.

In general, however, they took advantage of their immunity by acts of thievery and damage to property and human dignity. The worst offenders were arrested and sometimes exiled to distant zoos. After 1880, their liberty was curtailed.

The leader of one band, caught stealing kits from the garrison, had his head and face shaved closely. His gang would have none of so bare-faced a scoundrel, and greeted him with a shower of sticks and stones. Whereupon he returned to take up humble quarters with the soldiers who had punished him.

Auto Easy to Purchase In Prague for $8,000

PRAGUE.—If you want to buy a car for $8,000, it can be done easily here.

Just walk into any outlet for the nationalized automobile industry in Czechoslovakia and you can get a Skoda 1101 tudor sedan for a mere 415,856.80 crowns ($8,317.16).

If you have a ration permit, it will set you back only half that, 203,505.40 crowns, but you will have to prove very specifically that you have some really valid reason for needing a car.

On the free market you needn't prove anything except that you have the money. (Four hundred thousand crowns represents about 80 months of the average worker's pay, or about 10 months of the average top managerial salary in this country today.)

The Skoda 1101 is a small car, considerably smaller than the 1933 Chevrolet but a little larger than the German volkswagen.

Jerusalem Scrolls Found Oldest in Old Testament

JERUSALEM.—A two-man scientific expedition to the Dead Sea has returned here with what they said was evidence that the Jerusalem scrolls are the oldest known manuscripts of the Old Testament.

The world first learned of the existence of the scrolls when Syrian scholars called them to the attention of the American School of Oriental Research in Jerusalem a year ago.

41 Per Cent of Land In U. S. in Herbage

Grass Top Resource, Cattlemen Assert

Grass is one of the greatest resources of this nation. In the United States there are approximately 779 million acres of land which will grow nothing but hay, grass and other herbage unfit for human consumption.

This great acreage represents 41 per cent of the total land of the nation. About 9 per cent of the lands in the United States are plowable but are used also to produce pasture, hay or forage crops. It can be concluded, therefore, that about 50 per cent of the United States would not be used if it were not for meat animals.

This little fellow, obviously so well-started in life, is symbolical of what good pasturage can mean to cattle and just how much cattle depend on grass. In the United States there are approximately 779 million acres of land which cannot grow anything but hay, grass and other herbage.

Of the total feeds consumed by beef cattle 78.7 per cent is grass, hay and dry roughage. A minimum of grain is needed to bring feeder steers from 700 pounds to 1,000 pounds when the principal part of the ration is made up of hay, ensilage or other roughage.

The process of producing beef cattle normally involves the following steps:

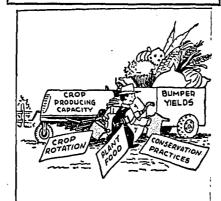

1. The purebred operator who produces the sires and females which are the foundation of beef animal production. This branch of the cattle industry is one that requires heavy investment and efficiency in management.

2. The commercial breeder who produces the calves which are the offspring of commercial herds of female and purebred sires.

3. The pasture cattleman who grows the animal from the weaning or yearling stage to two years old, taking his profit from the poundage gained on grass and hay.

4. The feeder who "finishes" the animal from grass stage to slaughter condition, disposing of a large percentage of roughage.

Crop Rotation >

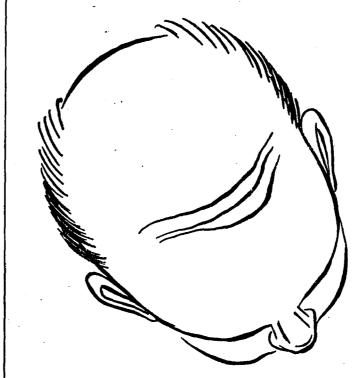

Crop rotation with deep-rooted legumes, plant food and good management methods are the "gas, oil and lubricants" that keep your soil's crop producing machine going on high.

Each of these has a job to do. Each needs help from the others. They all have to work like a team. Valuable as a good rotation is in balancing soil - building legume crops against soil-robbing row crops, it has to be backed up by wise land management methods. Cropping in even the best rotation drains the soil's supply of phosphate and potash.

And even if your good management program puts back every scrap of barnyard manure, plows under the legumes and returns straw, corn stalks and crop aftermath to the soil, you still ship away hundreds of pounds of plant food in the grain, beef and milk you sell every year.

Good Pasture Increases Dairy Herd Production

With 2.5 million fewer cows on farms now than in 1945, possibilities for profit in dairying are greater if labor-saving, high value pasture is the center of the production program. Good pasture can increase milk output and cut production costs. That means a bigger profit margin. Getting bigger pasture yields is a matter of feeding the soil plant nutrients so it can feed legume-grass mixtures.

The man

and his two wives*

Do you remember the story?

A man, whose hair was turning gray, had one wife that was old and one wife that was young. Every night the younger wife would comb her husband's hair and pick out the white hairs, since they made him look too old. Every morning, however, the older wife would pick out the black hairs, she was satisfied to see her husband growing gray and did not wish to be mistaken for his mother. Soon . . . the man found himself entirely bald!

And so it is with the surrendering of our basic rights under free enterprise. Look at the C.V.A. We give up a right here, a privilege there . . . a privately-owned, tax-paying institution here, a profession there. Unless we are aroused to the dangers of socialism, in the disguise of so-called "cheap" public power, we shall find in time that our basic freedoms have been so undermined that it is impossible to restore them . . . that government dominates us, our jobs and futures.

Are you losing your rights and liberties one by one?

CVA Opponent Organize

Opposition to the proposed Columbia Valley Administration crystalized last week into formation of the Washington State Development Associations sociation by a large group of farmers and businessmen.

The group named E. R. Welis, Prosser fruit grower, as president. A resolution passed at the organization meeting said:
"The association is opposed to a CVA or any such type of federal organization because a CVA is neither desirable nor necessary for con-servation and development of the natural resources of the Pacafic Northwest states, and because the form of governmental organization and the authorities and powers re-peatedly proposed in CVA bills are contrary to basic concept of representative government."

The group further resolved to present its views "from time to time" to members of the Washington delegation in the nation's capitol.

Seeking to promote the conserva-tion and development of the natural resources of the Pacafic Northwest," m. the association urged in a five-point Thanksgiving Day — A Thanksgiving Service in the evening at 7:45. All are welcome.

The association urged in a five-point resolution that this goal be accomplished within the existing governmental framework.

Good Clean Pasture Helps Poultry Men

Home Grown Feeds Cut Operating Cost

Good clean pasture and plenty of home grown feeds for your pullet crop pays dividends in more eggs, lower production costs and bigger poultry profits. The use of range shelters, range feeders and barrel waterers makes such a program easily possible.

Missouri university tests show that pullets on well-fertilized alfalfa pasture consumed 17 per cent less feed than birds on bare range. The pasture-fed pullets needed less feed for each pound of gain. Birds on clean pasture were healthier and more energetic. Mortality rate was lower and there were fewer culls. Out of 100 pullets at four weeks of age, 94 of the alfalfa-ranged birds later went into the laying house, compared to 70 of those raised on bare ground. Purdue university tests showed that ladino clover with corn and small grains provided a complete ration for laying flocks.

Getting good pasture and a cheap and plentiful supply of grain is a matter of putting farm soil in shape to produce bigger yields per acre. For this you need a rotation in which deep-rooted legumes and grasses are keystone. You need to build up the organic matter supply via plowed-under legumes, crop residues and manure. You need to feed the soil a good ration of plant nutrients, so it, in turn, can feed the crops. In such a program, fertilizer is an important member of the soil-building team.

At current prices, eggs will buy nearly twice as much fertilizer as 10 years ago. It takes only 90 dozen eggs to buy a ton of 3-12-12 fertilizer today, whereas it took 170 dozen back in 1939.

Check Work Stock

Owners of the 55,000 horses and mules on Maryland farms have been urged to "check intake valves, | remove carbon from the cylinders, and adjust the carburetor."

Those terms aren't as mixed as one might think. Joseph M. Vial, extension animal husbandman, explained that a horse's mouth and teeth may be compared to intake valves on a tractor. The teeth need to be floated (just as the intake valve needs to be properly seated) if they are to meet evenly and let

Just as tractors are troubled with carbon in the cylinders, horses may have trouble with internal parasites. These may be removed by any competent veterinarian and the horse will be a better worker during the coming summer.

The carburetor on the tractor adjusts fuel supply to the work load. For horses, this is accomplished by getting them in proper condition before the heavy work load comes. Vial recommends this be done by "feeding the horse a handful of oil meal with his grain at this time of year to keep him in good condition and by giving him as many jobs to do as possible; such as spreading manure or hauling logs.'

Other recommendations include: 'Keep water in his cooling system, keep his tires in good condition by having him properly shod and see that his harness fits.

Farm Record Keepers Told of "Short Cut"

"It's easier to keep up than to catch up," advises Clara Leopold, extension home management specialist at the University of Nebraska, to the home and farm account recordkeeper. Another hint, she says, is to keep a pencil attached to the account records. According to Mrs. Leopold, a Serving The Finest

To Get Better Milk

Only clean cows produce good milk and giving bossy and occasional haircut will not only keep a lot of dirt from getting into the milk pail, but it'll put more dollars in the dairyman's pocket.
Grant Hall, dairy herdsman at the University of Idaho, says clipping cows before winter stabling will improve the quality of the milk. In addition it cuts down on the time required to clean the dairy animal and get her ready for milking. "There's a lot of mud and dirt around the farm in fall and winter that gets on the cow when she lays down," the herdsman points out. "Millions of bacteria collect on this foreign matter and clings to the long hairs of the cow. Unless this hair is cut short the sediment drops into the milk, greatly impairing its quality.' So, for health's sake, the herdsman urges dairy farmers to clip and brush those cows besides washing the udders and teats with a disin-
