Dance Much Enjoyed

The annual Firemen's Ball, held in the Kendrick gym. New Year's Eve was very well attended, about 75 couples being present. The decorations were in keeping with the season, and just before midnight caps and noisemakers were distributed to the merrymakers. Don Millard was awarded the door prize.

The attendance would undoubtedly have been much larger had there been more time to get out advertising — but it was not known until Thursday, long after the Gazette had gone to press, that an orchestra had been secured — two having cancelled commitments.

GAZETTE CHANGES HANDS; P. C. MCCREARY TAKES OVER

The Gazette has been purchased by Mr. P. C. McCreary of Stanwood, Wash. The new owner will take over the plant, January 1.

Mr. McCreary and his son, W. L. McCreary, who will do all their own work, are practical printers with many years of experience. They published the Genesee News for 16 years and until recently they published the Stanwood News at Stanwood, Wash. They are well known in Latah county.

W. L. McCreary has a wife and baby five months old who are at present visiting in Spokane. The two Mr. McCreary's were in Kendrick a few hours Saturday searching for a residence and meeting some of the business men. They left for Lewiston in the afternoon to go from there to Spokane to spend Christmas with relatives. They will return to establish themselves in a residence not later than Saturday, Dec. 25. By Monday morning at the latest they will be ready to go to work.

Mr. McCreary and his son both enjoy living in northern Idaho, and they are glad to return to a country that seems like home to them. Kendrick is to be congratulated on securing two, able practical printers. The Gazette will indeed be in good hands. — Rollin B. Dickerson, Dec. 27, 1949.

Policy Not Be Changed

As stated in last week's issue, the Gazette has again passed into new hands, and while new in Kendrick, we are not new at the country newspaper business, nor in Latah county. For sixteen years we owned and published the Genesee News — and we hope to be in the business right here in Kendrick equally as long.

While we have been here only a short time, we are very favorably impressed with the town and the people. It will be our constant aim to work for the best interests of Kendrick and the surrounding country, and will give the people as good a paper as possible, consistent with good newspaper business.

We do not expect to make any radical changes in the policies of the paper. It will, however, be absolutely independent in politics.

We extend a cordial invitation to each and every one to visit the Gazette office and become acquainted. It isn't necessary that you have any business to transact to make you welcome — come in any time. The latch string will always hang out.

And — we wish you all a Very Happy and Prosperous New Year. — P. C. McCreary, Jan. 3, 1950.

Detour Really A "Dilly"

The detour provided at the edge of Kendrick along the new road construction was really a "dilly" for several days — especially over the holidays. Ruts were so deep that modern low-swing cars found the section almost impassable, and most drove up over American ridge and back down in order to avoid the stretch. Pickups were often known to "bang their pans," and some even reported damage.

It was especially bad for the three-day holiday, and many wished to go visiting or expected company — and no work was done for the three days.

The cold of the past few days has frozen the roadway into a mass of ruts, humps, bumps, etc., and anyone caring anything about their car are advised to "shop in Kendrick."

New Chevrolet Powerglide Simple to Operate

Performance of the 1950 Chevrolet Powerglide, first automatic transmission in the low-price auto field, is illustrated by the five small pictures set over the controls. When the pointer is positioned at "Park," wheels are locked and the car cannot roll. "Neutral" is an idling position or for starting the engine. When the lever moves the pointer to "Drive," forward momentum is entirely dependent on accelerator pressure. "Low" is for emergencies, as in deep mud or snow. In addition to backing, the "Reverse" position gives quick response when conditions make necessary the "rocking" of a car by shifts from low to reverse.

Helicopter's Field of Duty Expands Steadily Since War

The day when thousands will own helicopters for private pleasure hopping lies far in the future, qualified observers agree. Daily headlines prove, however, that the humming-birdlike aircraft have found permanent duty roles in commerce, agriculture, exploration, patrol and rescue work. They are economically useful in many parts of the globe.

Only a dozen years ago the helicopter was just being developed. Today it enables man to carry on almost as if he had wings of his own, and comes nearer than other types of aircraft to realizing the dream of flight that inspired men to develop flying.

Maine's Aroostook county potato farmers save time and money by enlisting helicopters for frequent DDT dusting to control fungus and bugs. On New England blueberry acres, chemical dust is fed from hoppers into the downwash from the rotor blades' during ground-skimming flights. Helicopter dusting increases the yield from Massachusetts cranberry bogs.

In major fruit and vegetable areas of Florida, Texas, and the West Coast, too, there are crop-dusting companies ready to provide helicopters on short notice. Besides laying chemicals accurately on insects and weeds, the machines have substituted for smudge pots by forcing downdrafts of warm air. They have rounded up range cattle, scared hungry game away from ricefields and other crops.

In Argentina last year, 10 helicopters broke up a devastating locust scourge. In Arabian date-palm groves they were reported superseding the laborious hand-pollinating operation. Great Britain finds helicopters well suited to spraying England's hedge-row-enclosed fields, and sends them to work in distant colonial lands in the off season.

Researchers Synthesize 3 Metals for First Time

Three minerals, eucryptite, spodumene, and petalite, have been synthesized for the first time.

The work was conducted by Dr. Elbert F. Osborn, Dr. Rustum Roy, and Della M. Roy, of the department of earth sciences at the Pennsylvania state college. It was sponsored by the geophysics division of the office of naval research.

Eucryptite is easily synthesized, growing readily into crystals with a remarkable resemblance to quartz. The fact that it has been found only at one place, near Branchfield, Conn., indicates that it may have been mistaken for quartz. Petalite also can resemble quartz and often has been confused with it. Both petalite and spodumene are used in the ceramics industry in glazing tile.

To complete the research work, extremely high temperatures and high pressures were necessary. Stainless steel bombs, with temperatures as high as 800 degrees C. and pressures of 10,000 to 20,000 pounds per square inch were used.

The Penn state researchers learned that eucryptite inverts at 972 degrees C. to a high temperature form which melts incongruently. Spodumene inverts to a high temperature form at a maximum temperature of 500 degrees C. and petalite decomposes to a high silica beta-spodumene solid solution at 680 degrees C.

Reward for What It Takes

Faith in an idea, hard work, perseverance and the willingness to make sacrifices because our patent system promised protection of their inventions from copyists, has brought fame and fortune to many men, and endowed their fellow men with a better life. It doesn't take a magic formula to make an inventor, nor does it take so-called genius. Who knows? Perhaps as you're juicing oranges some morning you may hit upon an idea that will make your relatives glad you're on the family tree.

L-P Gas Progress

Once a waste product at oil fields and refineries, LP-Gas—also known as bottle, tank, butane and propane gas—today brings city comfort and convenience to over 5,500,000 rural and suburban homes, has hundreds of industrial, commercial and farm uses. Big factor in conservation of natural resources. Less than 30 years old, LP-Gas industry owes spectacular growth to patented inventions and discoveries which made it possible to recover and liquefy "wild gases," and put them to work.

"Worldly" House Paint

In the very early days of our nation, the austere Puritan worthies felt that people who enjoyed color also enjoyed life too much to be tolerated. Paint, too, was frowned upon. Reflecting the fact that it was considered a sign of worldliness is the record that, in 1830, a clergyman in Charlestown, Mass., was haled before the city council, charged with the serious crime of painting his house.

Wingless Chickens Cause Speculation

Impact on Industry Studied by Growers

Poultrymen and consumers throughout the United States are still speculating on the degree impact on the poultry industry of the development of wingless chickens.

Peter Baumann, Des Moines, Iowa, a veterinary-supply salesman, has raised a flock of 400 such chickens and has proclaimed loudly that they are the "nearest thing" alive to famed cartoonist Al Capp's "shmoos."

Baumann said he had spent 10 years developing the wingless flock, and that he expects the breed to set a new trend in chicken raising. He pointed out that the wingless chicken has a thick layer of white meat where ordinary chickens have wings.

Baumann said he had kept his

chicken breed a secret because he wanted to be sure it was a success. He studied animal husbandry at Iowa State college and asserts his wingless chickens are not a "freak." A freak does not reproduce, he argued.

The ancestors of this new breed of chicken, Baumann said, came from Texas. He was traveling through that state in the 30's when he acquired a light Brahma rooster and a white Minorca hen. Each bird had only stubs for wings.

He bred them, he said, and was astounded when the hen hatched wingless chickens. He then began experimenting and breeding.

Baumann reported that at first he got only three or four wingless birds out of 100 eggs. Now, he said, about 95 of every 100 chicks have no wings at all. Some of the others, he said, have stubs or a stub on one side and a wing on the other.

Eases Farm Chores

Wagon unloaders are among the latest electrical devices to be developed for farm chore use. Most types are still in the experimental stage, but many sections of the country already are using them to a large extent. In Wisconsin, for example, 50 per cent of the farmers who have forage harvesters also have electric wagon unloaders.

Under ordinary circumstances, a three-ton load can be handled with an electric unloader by one man in five minutes. Cost of operation is low, with power provided by a 1/2 horsepower portable motor which can be used on other farm machines when not connected to the unloader.

Narrow Poultry Houses Give Way to New Style

D. D. Moyer, extension poultry specialist at Ohio State university, says the narrow type poultry house 15 to 20 feet deep is giving way to houses 30 to 40 feet in depth, built long enough to house 500 and more birds.

Moyer cites a number of advantages in the new style housing. Warm space is cut down, heat loss reduced, cleaning is easier and it is less trouble to move equipment.

New Motion Camera Lens Developed by Scientists

University of Rochester scientists have developed a new motion picture camera made from artificial sapphire which is believed to have several advantages over optical glass lenses.

This was revealed by Dr. Robert E. Hopkins, associate professor of optics, and Dr. Brian O'Brien, professor of physiological optics and director of the institute of optics at the University of Rochester.

In perfecting the sapphire lens, the Rochester researchers have overcome difficulties which delayed its development for many years. The Zeiss company of Germany gave up on the problem 20 years ago, it was said.

One advantage of the sapphire lens is its extreme hardness. It is second only to the diamond in the hardness of natural gems. Used for the outside element of an optical system, it is almost impossible to scratch it. In fact, it can be cleaned by scouring with sand without injury, Dr. O'Brien said.

The sapphire lens' high refractive index and low dispersion gives the lens designer far greater freedom in eliminating aberrations and improving the quality and sharpness of images produced, the Rochester men reported.

"Light, in entering sapphire from the air, is slowed down to only a little more than half its speed," Dr. O'Brien explained. "The bending of light rays by a lens is thus accomplished with flatter lens curves and many advantages are derived from this. In addition to having the very high refractive index, sapphire has what is known as a very low dispersion. That is, the refractive index changes very little with the color of the light, and no glass as yet discovered can compare with sapphire in the combination of these two properties."

Scientist Finds Sea Cow Skeleton in California

Skeletal remains of an ancient sea cow which inhabited the earth some 30 million years ago have been unearthed from fossil deposits near Coalinga by a University of California scientist.

Fossilized teeth and jaws of the ancient beast had been found earlier, but his place among the animals of the prehistoric world long has been a question mark among men of science. The find will make possible a new understanding of the sea cow and its relationship to other mammals.

The sea cow which belongs to an order of mammals known technically as the Sireniens, apparently has always been rare on the earth.

Previous to the Coalinga discovery, only two skulls, two partial jaws and some of the teeth of the beast had been unearthed by fossil hunters. Because of the complete lack of a skeleton its relationship with other animals has never been definitely settled. The Sireniens are best known as forming the basis for legends of the mermaids, creatures which are considered to be half human and half fish.

The remains of the sea cow were unearthed by Roy H. Reinhart, teaching assistant in paleontology.

National Park Travel

The number of visitors to the national parks and other areas administered by the national park service again broke all records in 1949. Total travel for the year (which runs from October 1 to September 30) amounted to 31,864,180, eight per cent more than 1948's high of 29,608,318, and this despite transfer on July 1 to the corps of engineers of administration of the Lake Texoma recreational area, in Oklahoma and Texas. Even without the approximately 2,000,000 visitors to Lake Texoma up to June 20, the total travel reported exceeded that of 1948 by more than a quarter of a million.

Traffic Death Statistics

The honeymoon is over in post-war traffic safety, the National Safety council declares. It is now apparent, the council says, that the steady reduction of the traffic death toll since the end of the war has leveled off, and unless a new incentive for safer driving and walking can be found, the nation can reconcile itself to an annual loss of about 32,000 lives in traffic. That conclusion is based on the council's nine-month tabulation of 22,320 traffic deaths for 1949—only 2 per cent fewer than the 22,750 death toll at the end of September, 1948. The September 1949 toll was 3,060 deaths—about the same as in September, 1948.

Usage of "Pumpkin"

Riley, Whittier, Irving, Thoreau, and many others have written about pumpkins and pumpkin pies. So established is the usage of "pumpkinhead" and "some pumpkins" that dictionaries recognize and define both colloquialisms. Pumpkin Center and Pumpkin Chapel are Kentucky postoffices. Pumpkinvine creek joins the Etowah river south of Cartersville, Ga. Elwood Haynes in 1894 launched one of America's first "horseless carriages" on Pumpkinvine pike, Ind.

THE STORY OF

Ten Little Workers

THESE ARE THE WORKERS

REDDY DOCTOR RAILROADER MINER STEELWORKER FARMER LAWYER GROCER SALESLERK REPORTER

Ten little free workers in this country fine and fair. But if you cherish your freedom—worker have a care! Ten little free workers—Reddy was doing fine. Until the socialists got him—then there were nine.

Nine little free workers laughed at Reddy's fate. Along came federal medicine—then there were eight.

Eight little free workers thought this country heaven. But the government took over the railroads, then there were seven.

Seven little free workers—till the miners got in a fix. Uncle said coal's essential and took over leaving six.

Six little free workers 'till the day did arrive. The steel mills too were federalized—then there were five.

Five little free workers—but the farmers are free no more. The farms have been collectivized—that leaves only four.

Four little free workers till the government did decree. All must have free legal advice—then there were three.

Three little free workers—the number is getting few. But with government groceries selling food—then there were two.

Two little free workers—our story's almost done. With clerks at work in federal stores—that leaves only one.

One little free worker—the reporter son-of-a-gun. Mustn't criticize government—so now there are none.

Ten little workers, alas, no longer free; Sold out their birthright to state control you see. The promise of a C. V. A. may sound as fine as gold. But once it's here they squash you, if you don't do as you're told!

Quonset-Type Huts Meet Storage Needs

'Little Business' Answers Challenge in Grain Belt

Called upon by the department of agriculture to perform a modern miracle, "little business" in 10 midwestern states is tackling one of the biggest jobs of its kind ever undertaken anywhere in peacetime. Its Herculean assignment is the site preparation and erection of 2,800 steel buildings—each 32x96 feet or larger—at 670 widely separated locations. The task arose with the grain belt's acute need for space in which to store the record-breaking carry-over of 1948's corn crop. In line with the trend toward economical "horizontal" grain storage, the department ordered Quonset buildings for a large part of the necessary new facilities. These arched steel units now are mushrooming up beside highways and railroads near farm centers through the efforts of local businesses and labor, rather than the work of transient crews employed by a few big and distant contracting firms.

Grain being loaded into Quonset huts for CCC storage near Paulding, Ohio.

Within two weeks time more than 1,100 concrete foundations had been laid, and erection of steel was under way on them in every state. The concrete work alone was roughly equivalent to laying 25 miles of highway in a time that an average road-making crew would require to put down one.

Sweat Down Costs

Sweat down your production costs if you want to maintain profits in these days of declining farm prices.

One way to sweat down those costs is to increase your crop yields per acre. More bushels of corn and grain per acre, more pounds of meat, milk, dairy products and poultry mean lower production costs per unit. On such a basis you can make a profit even if prices slacken further.

You can get those higher yields and lower costs with good soil management. Good soil management means giving your soil a fair deal. It means supplying the soil a well-balanced ration of plant foods, so crops will be well nourished. It means building up instead of breaking down soil structure and tilth. It means "recharging" the land with soil-enriching crops at regular intervals, instead of growing soil-draining row crops year after year on the same land.

Dangers of Butchering At Home are Outlined

Home butchering is profitable on the farm and many rural families are replenishing their lockers, jars and pantries.

But, unless undue caution is used, home butchering can be dangerous. Equipment, too, should be used with care. All knives should be kept in a suitable place when not in use. Hoisting equipment should be checked. A tamper should be used to force meat into the grinder.

Attention to Details Pays Off for Hog Farms

Attention to details is the biggest reason why some hog farms earned $2,000 more than some others during the past year.

P. J. Reiss, farm management specialist in the Illinois college of agriculture, said that 128 high income hog farms averaged $10,200 earnings from swine last year, while 161 less-efficient farms took in only $8,000. Extra care at farrowing, control of parasites, helped

Idaho Has Really Big Fish

The catching of a 32-lb. Dolly Varden trout in Lake Pend Oreille set a new world record not only for Idaho but for the United States. The famed Kamloops trout often weigh 30 to 35 pounds, however, and are Idaho's most famous game fish. But the sturgeon, which makes its home in the Snake river remains Idaho's biggest fish. Catching the giants is still a popular and exciting sport.

Various methods are used to catch sturgeon, but the following is one that is tried and true:

The equipment needed is several hundred feet of stout quarter-inch rope, a few feet of wire cable for a leader, and several strong steel hooks, baited usually with raw beef. One end of the rope is tied to a tree on the bank and the other is anchored with a stone out in the river. When a sturgeon is hooked, the fun will begin.

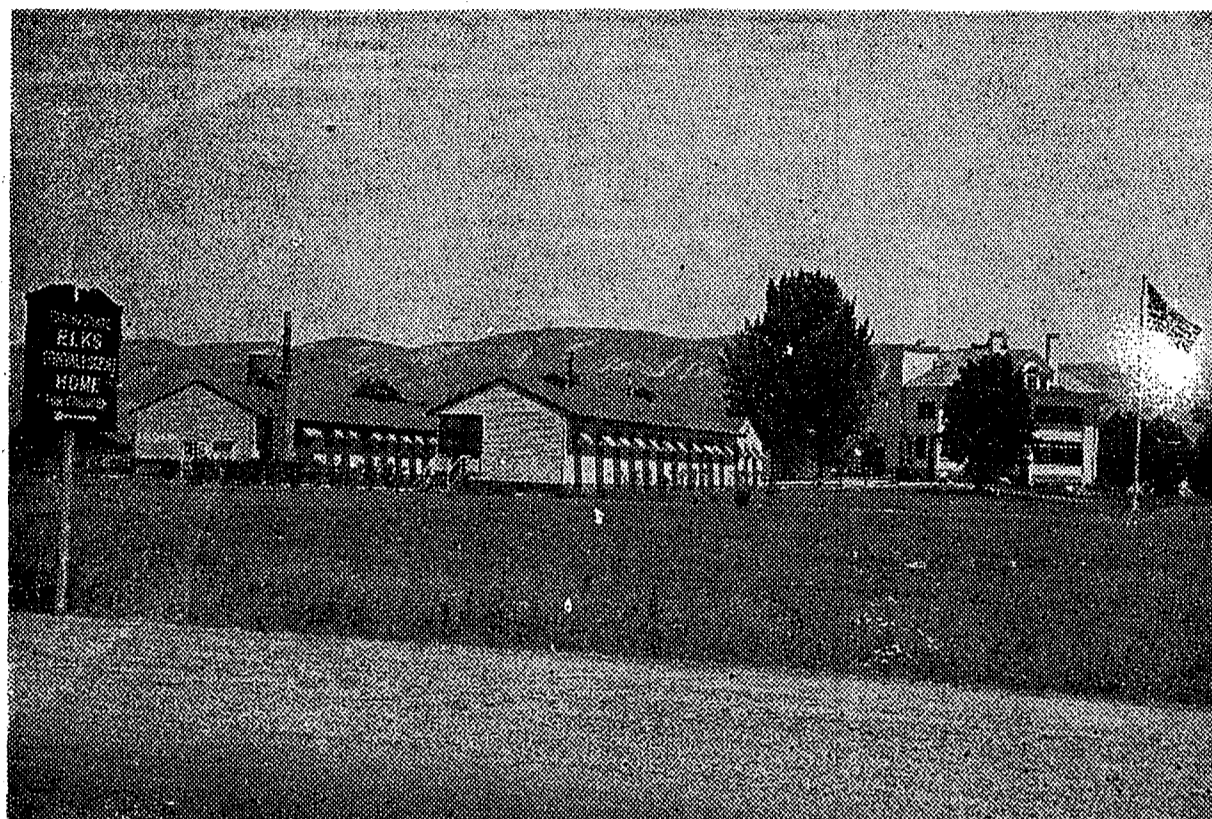

One old-timer near Bruneau (in south Idaho) who used to catch sturgeon for a living, usually hitched a horse to the rope after the sturgeon was hooked, and after a lot of maneuvering the giant fish was dragged ashore. Others, preferring more fun and adventure in their fishing, use a boat manned by several persons.

Often a sturgeon, when hooked, will lead almost to the bank so gently that the one towing the line will imagine he has no catch. But when the big fish comes close enough to see his enemy, he may turn suddenly and speed back to the middle of the river. Many sturgeon fishermen have had their hands burned severely by a sizzling rope.

How big is a sturgeon? Some of them taken from the Snake river have weighed close to 1,000 pounds, but most of them are much smaller. A sturgeon weighing more than 200 pounds is not considered the best of eating, but the smaller ones, when properly cooked, are delicious. — Idaho State Chamber of Commerce.

The Elks Convalescent Home, Boise, Idaho—where the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis underwrites medical care for Idaho's polio convalescent patients at a current cost of $27,720.00, exclusive of doctor billings, per month to Idaho's County Chapters. "A National Foundation Chapter exists in all of Idaho's forty-four counties to render complete or partial financial assistance to any Idaho polio patient. The National Foundation also provides the needed equipment and trained personnel for polio care. These services are made possible by the public support of the annual March of Dimes campaign conducted each January".

Experts Find New Method To Analyze Hay Fever Cause

A series of skin tests to determine the potential value of new anti-histamine drugs before they are used on hay fever or allergy patients has been devised by three Northwestern university (Chicago) allergy experts.

The investigators applied anti-histamine (allergy combating) solutions to scratches made on the backs of patients. After removing the solutions, the men added histamine (the chemical liberated in allergy) to the same places.

The degree to which the skin irritation from histamine is prevented may indicate the effectiveness of various drugs in inhibiting different types of allergy, the Northwestern medical men believe.

Dr. Samuel M. Feinberg, associate professor of medicine at the Northwestern University medical school, and Dr. Ellis A. Canterbury and Dr. Harold B. Lovejoy, both graduate students in medicine, report that the tests are a "simple yet reliable method of appraising the therapeutic action of anti-histamine preparations."

Research undertaken by Northwestern's medical school some time ago disclosed that one of the major reactions in persons with hay fever or other allergy is sensitivity and irritation of certain areas of the skin. From this, the three University investigators went on to discover that the prior application of the anti-histamine drug at the place of the histamine application reduces the area and degree of skin sensitivity.

Different anti-histamine preparations showed varying degrees of success in inhibiting the histamine. It is known, too, that the same anti-histamine drug has varying success depending upon whether it is administered on the skin, as in tests, or taken internally for therapeutic reasons. In the latter, action is influenced by metabolic changes and absorption from the gastrointestinal tract.

Cotton Gains Prominence For All Wintertime Use

No longer is wool the only popular winter-time fabric; cotton and rayon both are coming into new prominence. Nylon, too, is in any department dress.

The new flair for corduroy and velveteen is manifest not only in school and day time dresses, but in coats and in hat collections. Wide and medium-wale corduroy is made up into any number of dressy princess design coats, belted models with huge pockets, as well as straight, all-weather coats.

Since certain individuals have an allergy for wool, it is a convenience to have other fabrics appearing with such smartness and suitability. Recently, chemicals have been developed that will give cottons the same lovely color tones as wool and silk.

The rayon afternoon suit or suit dress is fast becoming a classic. Accessories can turn such basic costumes into party clothes, or they can be worn quietly as a suit for work or street.

Nylon continues as a fashion-worthy fabric with new uses for this practical material appearing almost daily. Dark, semi-tailored nylon fabric is actually gaining a foothold for the basic dress. Why shouldn't it when it can be washed, dry in four or five hours, and then not need ironing?

Special Coatings for Blinds

Metal strips for Venetian blinds are roller-coated at the rate of about two feet per second. Both sides and edges are coated at the same time. The coating must be especially formulated to resist mechanical wear, soaps and other compounds used in cleaning, sunlight and moisture. It must also be anticorrosive and as flexible as is possible, consistent with the required hardness. In addition, it must be smooth, pleasing in both texture and color, and must retain these properties for a long time.

Why Baby Pigs Die

Deficiency of vitamin A in rations for gilts and sows can be blamed for several diseases and defects of baby pigs. Unless swine producers are certain that rations for their breeding stock contain plenty of this vitamin, it is good insurance to feed a vitamin A supplement, the committee advises. Even carefully selected rations may be short on vitamin A. When this happens, litters are smaller and pigs are stillborn or physically defective and too weak to survive, with scours and pneumonia often adding to their difficulties.

A King's Secret

An English monarch, Charles I, had a French chef who made ice cream for him. But Charles believed ice cream was a dish for royalty alone. When his chef retired, Charles granted him a generous pension to keep the recipe secret. However, it leaked out little by little. Finally colonists in the far-off wilderness of America were making ice cream too.
