WHAT HAPPENED HERE TWENTY YEARS AGO

Main Street Worked Over — The Main street in Kendrick was given a complete overhauling Tuesday and Wednesday morning. A big road grader and caterpillar tractor were used in doing the work, which very materially helps the looks of the street to say nothing of eliminating the bumps.

Car Collision — A small car collision took place about noon Tuesday, when a car driven by Pete Blevins and the city truck driven by Marshal Ernest Davis collided. It seems Davis was descending the school house hill and Blevins was ascending on the left hand side. The sign that says plainly, "Keep To The Right" at the intersection, is where they collided. The car driven by Blevins had the left fender and light badly damaged, while the city truck had the front axle bent and the steering gear and wishbone badly damaged. It is strange how accidents don't happen at this intersection, as most cars ascending hug the left-hand side as they make the turn.

Lock "Jimmied" — Some one evidently thought they could gain entrance to the Commercial Hotel, now unoccupied, broke the glass in the front door the other night and undertook to gain entrance to the building by turning the night lock — but it so happened that another lock had been turned and they failed to get in this entrance. They also tried to pry the padlock off the front door to the hall leading upstairs, but also failed there.

Trout Season — Trout season opens in Idaho April 16, for all species, including steelheads. Now is the time to oil up that fishing rod and reel.

Another High Wind — Another high wind, accompanied by thick dust and then rain, visited this section Tuesday. When all had subsided housewives could be seen everywhere, armed with the proper "tools," washing windows and cleaning up the dirt deposited on porches and window ledges.

Big Bear Ridge — The Community hall was the scene of gay activity Saturday night, the occasion being a masquerade dance. A great deal of originality was shown in the various costumes. During the evening masks were removed. A midnight supper was served by the hostesses, Miss Elizabeth Jones and Miss Bessie Carter. The Ladies Guild met at the home of Mrs. Wm. Elliott this week. Election of officers was held with the following chosen: Mrs. Wm. Elliott, president; Mrs. Robert Clemenhagen, vice president; Mrs. King Ingle, secretary; Mrs. Fred Gladden, treasurer. Lovely refreshments were served by the hostess at the close of the afternoon. Wallace Emmett was a Lewiston visitor Monday.

Leland — Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Daugherty and children and Henry Jones were callers Sunday afternoon at the Fleishman home. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zimmerman and family were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Thornon.

Kendrick Personals — Frank Brocke of Troy spent the week-end here with home folks. E. A. Deobald drove to Lewiston Monday to bring his wife and baby son, John, home from the hospital. Elbert Long, a student at the U. of I., spent the week-end here with relatives. Dr. and Mrs. N. M. Leavitt of Genesee were week-end guests in the McCreeary home. A. G. Peters went to Spokane Wednesday on business. Mrs. Gus Farrington was a passenger for Lewiston Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. George Brocke spent Sunday in Lewiston.

Juliaetta — Walter Cochran is removing a large number of cherry trees damaged during last winter's severe cold. The work is being done by Bill Behrens and his tractor. Those who attended the Rebekah card party last Friday evening report a most enjoyable time. High honors at bridge were won by Miss Stump of Kendrick and Arnold Behrens.

School News — Bessie Morey, a first year typing student, won her Remington Typewriter award by writing at the rate of 38 words a minute for 15 minutes, with but three errors. Lady Frances and the Nifty Shop are to be given by the Glee Club at the Kendrick Theater, Friday, March 28. Characters are as follows: Frances, Irene Davis; Bridget O'Harrigan, Nettie Mae McDowell; Ellen Woody, Bessie Blevins; Bessie Morey, Marjorie Davidson; Mae Freytag, June Davis; Ethel Cummings, Eldwa Jones, Rowena Ramey and Elma Jones form a chorus of College Girls.

Cameron — Mr. and Mrs. Clay Albright returned to Cameron Saturday after having spent a week visiting his parents in Juliaetta. Mr. and Mrs. Carl L. Wegner and daughters Mildred and Selma were Lewiston visitors Saturday. Little Helen Newman celebrated her seventh birthday anniversary Sunday. The little guests present were Margaret, Madeline and Viola Schultz. Others present at the Fred Newman home were Mrs. John Schwarz, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mielke, Mrs. Ida Stoneburner, Emma Hartung, Miss Marie Schwarz, Edwin Mielke, Walter Koepf and Ernest and Lawrence Schwarz. Mrs. Henry Wendt was permitted to leave the hospital this week after having spent the past five weeks there. She is reported as improving rapidly. The Misses Martha Brammer and Bertha Abitz of Spokane arrived Friday to spend the week-end with home folks. Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Blum and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Rodgers and daughter Adeline were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. August Brammer. Mrs. Blum of Genesee was home over Sunday.

About Our Detour

Considerable improvement has been noted so far this week in the detour provided along the new construction work between Kendrick and Juliaetta — and it is said to be the best right now that it has been since work began late last fall — although that might not be saying too much.

At any rate it can be negotiated (with care) without danger of tearing a hole in the oil pan of a car or otherwise damaging the vehicle.

We count that as a real improvement — although what it may be by the week's end is something else!

HUCKLEBERRY-TSCHANTZ MARRIAGE VOWS TAKEN

Miss June Arlene Huckleberry, daughter of Mrs. Guy Huckleberry, 937 5th St., Clarkston, was married to Robert O. Tschantz, son of Mrs. Joseph Tschantz, 216 6th Ave., Lewiston, at a candlelight ceremony at the Christian Missionary Alliance church, Lewiston, Thursday evening, March 30, at 8:00, the Rev. Ernest Evers reading the double-ring ceremony before an altar banked with palms and large baskets of daffodils and candelabra lit with white tapers.

The bride, given in marriage by a friend of the family, Orville Roe of Clarkston, was lovely in a white crepe gown fashioned with a tight fitting bodice, having a three-tiered peplum over a floor-length skirt. Her finger-tips veil of net was topped with lilies of the valley over a white satin crown. The bridal bouquet was of miniature calla lilies and pink bountiful rosebuds with stephanotis and shower ribbons. She wore a pearl necklace, a gift of her mother.

Miss Corinne Roe, as maid of honor, wore a pastel blue formal made with a shirred blouse and sleeves and a matching over-net skirt. The bridesmaid, Mrs. Douglas Dodson, was attired in a pink formal with a bertha collar, tight waist and graceful flared skirt. Each attendant carried a colonial bouquet of pastel flowers to match her gown, and wore white ruffled net head-pieces decorated with stephanotis and daisies.

James Ridenour was best man. Jack Smead of Los Angeles, sang "Because" and "I Promise Me," and while the bride and bridegroom knelt at the altar he sang the "Lord's Prayer." Mr. Smead was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. C. J. Hopkins, who played the processional and recessional.

Ushers were Earl Evers, Melvin Ruark and Sylvan Ruark. Mrs. Guy Huckleberry wore a black dress trimmed in silver with matching accessories and a shoulder corsage of yellow rosebuds. Mrs. Joseph Tschantz was dressed in a black silk print with black accessories and her corsage was of gardenias.

Mrs. Robert Tschantz attended the Clarkston schools and is employed at the Clarkston branch of Jane's cleaners.

The bridegroom attended schools at Southwick and Lewiston and was graduated from Kendrick high school with the class of 1946. He served in the army two years, spending a year in the Philippine Islands. At present he is completing his second year at N. J. C. E., Lewiston.

After a short wedding trip, the newlyweds will be at home to their friends at 710 7th street. Out of town guests included Mrs. R. A. Halstead, Spokane; Miss Dorothy Neils, Pullman; Miss Evelyn Lash, Pullman, and Mrs. N. C. Donaldson and Norman Donaldson of Pomeroy. Mrs. Halstead is an aunt of Mrs. Huckleberry and Miss Neils, a cousin. Mrs. Donaldson is the grandmother of the bridegroom.

Girl Scout Program

Plan to keep April 10th open to attend the Girl Scout International Program to be held in the Community church basement at 8:00 o'clock. The girls plan to entertain with costumes, radio script, displays, and a Chinese auction of things they have made. Mother, dad, brother and sisters are urged to come and bring their friends.

Most all the girls have fulfilled requirements for their second class badges, and Janice Christensen is now ready for her first class badge, with two or three others close on her heels.

New songs with actions were sung and as soon as weather permits we will put the proper jig and reel with the right tune.

A special "Scouts Own" program will be the highlight of the next meeting with Nancy Callison and Donna Kanikberg leading.

The Girl Scouts are still collecting clean cotton rags for re-sale. Be sure to save those items for them when they make their regular "Ho-bo" call.

Honored On Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. John DeHaven of Kendrick were the guests of honor at dinner Sunday, in the home of their daughter, Mrs. Lester Techner and family, at Grangeville, the event honoring Mr. and Mrs. DeHaven's 40th wedding anniversary.

Other guests present were Mr. DeHaven's sister, Mrs. Louise Brown of Grangeville and Harvey and Ellsworth Peterson of Whitebird, cousins of Mrs. DeHaven. The latter three were present at the marriage ceremony at Grangeville, April 3rd, 1910. The family gathering was held one day in advance of the DeHaven's anniversary, so that most members of the family could be present.

CANCER RESEARCH WORK MAKING STEADY PROGRESS

Boise, April 5 — Dr. Alfred M. Popma of Boise, executive chairman of the Idaho Cancer Society, and a member of the board of directors of the American Cancer Society, today termed the advances made in cancer research during the past year as outstanding, and predicted continued expansion of such a program during 1950. Twenty-five cents of every dollar raised in Idaho during the April campaign is allocated to national research projects.

"The scientific programs of the American Cancer Society, have just ended their fourth year of intensive research," he said, "and at the present time 229 recognized scientists, 54 research fellows and an additional 540 professional, technical, clerical and other assistants are carrying on more than 240 individual research projects in 95 universities, hospitals, laboratories and medical schools in 31 of the 48 states.

"All such projects are coordinated by the Committee on Growth of the National Research Council and it is the purpose of the council to preserve the spirit of clear, calm objectivity which science demands of its servants, yet remain aware of the nation's death toll from cancer and its personal meaning to the victims and their relatives.

"The ultimate objective of scientists engaged in cancer research — though they must predicate their advances on a firm pursuit of knowledge, and though many of their interests may seem obscure and worlds removed from the bedside scene — it is the same as that of the cancer patients, his family and his family physician.

"The goal of research is to find a means of eliminating cancer as a health problem and meanwhile relieve suffering and increase the individual's years of useful life to the utmost," concluded Dr. Popma.

A total of $2,172,747.00 — contributed to the cancer society by the general public during fund raising drives — was allocated to research last year and present plans call for the allocation of an equal amount during the coming year.

During the past five years, Idaho residents, through the cancer society, have contributed $82,858.47 for research work.

Many 4-Hers Raise Poultry

Based on the increasing popularity of the national 4-H Poultry Achievement program, 4-Hers should top their last year's record of raising a total of 8,000,000 chickens, turkeys, ducks and geese. Likewise the enrollment figure is expected to pass the 150,000 mark reached in 1949.

County extension agents and local 4-H club leaders work with the youth, instructing them in the newest methods and approved practices used in poultry and egg production. Members are encouraged to carry out the six main objectives of the program which, briefly, are: Learn the place of poultry in the economy of the farm; acquire skill in poultry raising; assist in production of eggs and fowl to provide adequate supplies for food; appreciate the nutritive value of eggs; learn to grade and market poultry products; study scientific developments and apply the knowledge to home flock production.

The 4-Hers carefully keep records showing production of birds and eggs, and also general achievements in other phases of club work. At the end of the year these records are judged for special honors. Five sterling silver medals will be presented to winners in each county; a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago for the state winner, and college scholarships of $300 each to the 10 national champions.

The program is under the direction of the Co-operative Extension Service.

Legume Ensilage Meeting

Farmers of Latah county have shown an increasing amount of interest in the past several months in grave-legume ensilage. There are several reasons for this trend, the chief ones appearing to be wheat allotment, decline of field pea demand and the need for more effective soil conservation methods. Farm operators also know that too often the value of their hay crop is greatly reduced by bleaching and loss of leaves.

A county-wide meeting for all those interested in the producing and feeding of ensilage has been set for today (Thursday, April 6) in the Moscow Grange hall. This meeting will start at 1:30 p. m.

Members of the agricultural engineering, animal husbandry and dairy departments of the University of Idaho and farmers of the county who have signed their intentions of putting into the meeting, J. O. Broyles, county extension livestock committee chairman, will preside.

High School News

Basketball Tournament a Success — Everyone had fun at the basketball tournament Friday night. The Farmer's turned out best for the event and would have been awarded the Sportsmanship Cup — but there was no cup. The Merchants won the tournament and the teachers were the runners-up. The "all-tournament team" was composed of Gordon Peters, Jacob Brant, Vern Dunham, Ed. Mielke and Dick Blewett. The high school basketball players had their pencils sharpened up and took notes of the various styles and techniques of ball handling, dribbling and passing — while conservative scoring high-lighted the event.

More seriously — the high school sincerely appreciates the help of the town and country people in making the event a success, and the $40.27, which was cleared after all expenses were paid, will go far to pay the transportation and registration expenses of Jorena Holt and Bennie Cook, our senator and representative, respectively, to the Y. M. C. A. Youth Congress in Boise next week. We thank all who took part and all who supported us with their attendance.

Several salesmen were callers at the school Friday of last week.

Business Houses Close Friday

In deference to Good Friday, the Kendrick Commercial Club has asked that where possible, all places of business in town close between the hours of 12:00 noon and 3:00 p. m. to permit the business men and their employees to attend the inter-denominational services at the Kendrick Community church during those hours. If impossible to close for the entire time, everyone is asked to close for at least an hour.

Dr. J. H. Coulter states that there will be suitable breaks in the services to accommodate those wishing to come and go.

Farmers and others coming into town are asked to bear these hours in mind — and are urged to attend the services if possible.

Parade Entries Increasing

Tom Keene reports that there has been a very good response to the Red Cross Pharmacy pleas for entries in the parade scheduled for April 22nd — and in his ad. this week he announces some of the prizes.

A number of local business houses have signified their intentions of putting entries of one kind or another into the event, and with Boy and Girl Scout, 4-H club and other entries, a "bang-up" parade should result.

Tom asks that if you are at all interested that you come in and talk the matter over with him — it won't cost you a nickel.

Wild Bird Nesting Time

One of Idaho's largest factories will soon start rolling, as balmy spring days and warming sun stir all nature to life and start mankind to thinking of the old fishing hole. As though not commonly considered as such, Idaho's fields and farms are in reality huge pheasant factories — which annually produce nearly a million birds.

While the average sportsman turns to angling and other summer diversions, nature is quietly going ahead to produce thousands of brilliantly colored pheasants for mankind's hunting on frosty fall days. Hunters agree that most pheasants are incorrigible rascals (especially after an unproductive day in the field). Perhaps this unruliness can be traced to the pheasant's early childhood, which is rough and very devoid of comforts, judged by any standards. The fish and game department has been studying Mr. and Mrs. Pheasant for several years and has discovered some previously unknown and unusual facts, which may account for some of the fluctuations in population and also form the basis of pheasant hunting seasons as set by the Idaho Fish and Game commission.

Maurice Lundy, bird supervisor, reports that field studies have shown that 60 pheasant hens can be expected to produce about 100 nests per year. Modern "clean farming" practices, predators or other factors will destroy 40 of these nests. If the first nest is destroyed, the hen will often lay another clutch of eggs. That accounts for tiny pheasant chicks often seen as late as the forepart of September.

A popular fiction has it that Mr. Pheasant is a devoted father, and often takes care of the young chicks. Actually, he is an irresponsible lout, who runs off to chase grasshoppers, leaving the raising of the seven-chick family to the harried hen. Out of seven chicks hatched, only an average of three will reach hunting size.

Since enactment of the protective so-called "hen law," Idaho's pheasant hunting has maintained a fairly even keel, with a plentiful supply of birds in areas having good habitat, and the usual not-so-plentiful supply in areas of barren habitat.

Mathematically, the pheasant situation is cold turkey. Fifty hens and fifty roosters will produce 500 fertile eggs. Fifty hens and five roosters will still produce 500 fertile eggs, because the pheasant is polygamous. The 45 roosters can be harvested by hunters without damaging the pheasant crop for next year. Subtract a hen, and you subtract ten.

Our Note: Local sportsmen, don't shoot. We didn't write the above article — it came from Boise.

Grange Meeting

Forty-nine Grangers attended the church services in a body Tuesday evening. Following the service regular Grange meeting was held in the Fraternal Temple. Before the business session Dr. Christensen introduced Mr. McCarthy, of Lewiston, who spoke briefly on a group Medical Service plan.

The business of the evening followed, with a plea for old clothing for over-seas relief.

A communication regarding the retaining of the Spalding Museum at Spalding was read, and the group voted approval of Senate and House bills.

An afghan made by Mrs. Grant Bateman was presented to the Grange and ways and means discussed regarding it — the proceeds to go to the building fund. It was finally decided to sponsor an old time dance on April 22, at which time the afghan will be disposed of.

A delicious and attractive lunch, in the Easter motif, was then served by the hostesses for the evening.

"Snazzy" New Coat Designed

A woman's coat with more pockets than a pool table and as many gadgets as a dime store has been developed this spring by the home economics staff of the department of agriculture. It's called the "handi-coat" because it fits the bill in any weather and has handy pouches and trick compartments to take care of the assortment of what-nots a woman ordinarily packs in her pocket-book.

Information regarding patterns can be obtained through the Latah County Agent's office. The "handi-coat" has been tried by Miss Esther Nystrom, extension clothing specialist at Moscow. She made one, and has information on the details of construction.

The design was created by Clarice Scott, a clothing specialist in Washington, D. C. She chose pre-shrunk, colorfast material, treated to resist showers and wrinkles.

On one sleeve are slots for the grocery list and a small pocket in the seam for a handkerchief. A pencil on a chain and a fountain pen fit into the lower right-hand pocket along with the wallet. The check-book comes out of the lower left pocket. Both pockets have zippers. There are larger pouches for gloves and other items. In one pocket there is a dispenser for streetcar tokens attached to an automatic pull chain. On the same chain there is a place for the house key.

The coat is suitable for blustery weather. There is a full-length zipper. A separate hood, with built-in visor to defeat sun and rain, fits snugly when drawstrings are pulled. A shoulder cape for further protection against rain is attached to the hood.

Mummies Found at Saqqara Throw New Light on Egypt

The patchwork story of ancient Egypt, gradually emerging through dusty finds in tomb, temple and pyramid, is richer by 10 more mummies, discovered in deep-underground, rock-walled tombs at the Saqqara cemetery of Egypt's old capital, Memphis.

This burial ground by the long-vanished fountainhead of early Egyptian power already has yielded a rich store of detail for the historians, notes the National Geographic society. On the Nile about 15 miles south of Cairo, it saw the beginning, in 1930, of epoch-making searches into the secrets of the First and Second Dynasties of 5,000 years ago.

Archeologists' "digs" at Saqqara have revealed complex patterns of royal and other burial structures, significant inscriptions, and thousands of personal articles hinting at life during various periods of Egyptian development. The recently explored tombs, buried near the famous and far older Step Pyramid, have been attributed by the experts to the Twenty-Sixth Dynasty, about 600 years before Christ.

The tombs and their valuable contents were turned up in connection with the extensive pyramid project of the Egyptian antiquities department. One of the mummies has been identified as a scribe in the temple of the god Ptah. Another is believed to have been his wife, whose wrappings contained a golden heart buried with her.

Sod and Mulch Culture
Recommended for Orchard

Grass and legumes should play a prominent part in an orchard management program, says Dr. H. B. Tukey, head of the horticulture department at Michigan state college.

"In apple and pear orchards a system of sod and mulch culture has proved successful in most parts of Michigan," Dr. Tukey states. "Of all the things a fruit grower can do and be wrong in the doing, he is least likely to be wrong when he mulches."

A 20-year experiment at the college was used to compare the cultivation-cover crop and sod-mulch systems of soil management in apple orchards. Although the trees in the cultivation-cover crop plot started faster, the trees in sod and mulch were larger and had produced the greater total acre yield at the end of the trial.

The cultivation-cover crop method is more popular in peach, plum, and cherry orchards, Tukey points out. However, some growers are successfully producing these fruits in a permanent sod-mulch program.

Soil erosion in orchards can be effectively controlled with grasses and legumes, whether permanent or temporary. In addition, these covers will add very important organic matter to the soil.

Mulching materials can often be produced right on the farm. Alfalfa, smooth brome, and other crops can be grown on land too rough for other use.

True Color Complements

Of all the patterns for color harmony, the easiest to determine are the true complements. These are the two colors directly across the color wheel from each other: red and green, orange and blue, yellow and purple. Each of these pairs represent all the colors in the visible spectrum range, or completeness of color. Take the complements, red and green, for instance. In green, blue and yellow are combined. That means that red and green together contain the three primary colors — completeness of color in other words.

Swine Erysipelas

In areas where there are outbreaks of swine erysipelas, it may be necessary to take immediate steps to protect newly farrowed pigs, according to livestock health authorities. In such cases, pigs often are vaccinated against this disease on the day of birth, so as to prevent losses. Owners are cautioned that it is easy to confuse swine erysipelas with other diseases, particularly navel ill, hog cholera, allergic conditions, and nutritional deficiencies. Because of the rapid spread and deadly nature of erysipelas, and the danger of its transmission to other animals and human beings, swine growers are urged to place suspected cases immediately under the care of a veterinarian.

Add Tomatoes to Meat

Tomatoes hold a large share of their vitamins and fine flavor when canned. Adding them to meat dishes is a popular way to get them into family meals. Miss Grace Armstrong, nutritionist, University of Illinois college of Agriculture, suggests pouring the canned tomatoes over a pot roast about an hour before the end of the cooking period. The tomatoes seem to help tenderize the meat, and they add flavor to the gravy. For extra flavor, add a very small amount of garlic and just a trace of thyme along with the tomatoes.

Valley Authorities Report

Twin Falls — The special number of "Governmental Affairs," publication of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, containing a report on "Valley Authorities" is available now in Idaho. H. A. Elcock, Twin Falls, president of the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce, announced this week.

"Valley Authorities," although only six pages long, has been acclaimed one of the most thoughtful and forceful presentations of the valley authority question as it affects all parts of the United States.

The special number of Governmental Affairs goes into the background of valley authorities, discusses omnibus legislation and the CVA bill, points out the issues, and sets forth the National Chamber policy.

"About 300,000 copies of this special number are being distributed in the nation," Elcock said. "They can be obtained by writing the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce, 524 Idaho Building, Boise, Idaho."

The proposal to create a Columbia Valley Administration is a national issue of the first magnitude, Clarence R. Miles, manager, department of governmental affairs for the National Chamber, points out in an introduction to "Valley Authorities." Miles contends that CVA is the first move in the campaign designed to create "authorities" in nine river valleys, covering practically every acre of the United States.

The National Chamber of Commerce has advocated national legislative policies which recognize the interests and rights of the states in water utilization and control and afford full opportunity for states and their communities and private enterprise to participate in the development and operation of water resource projects. The National Chamber has steadfastly opposed the CVA and all other regional authorities.

A Bit Of Idaho History
In the summer of 1862, a party of prospectors entered what is now known as Boise Basin, near where the town of Centerville now stands. It was there that one of the party discovered gold dust in the sands of a creek. The prospectors moved on up the creek and found more gold where Hogen, later called Pioneer, was established. They prospected a third place near what they called Pilot Knob.

In the Boise Valley the group had been warned by friendly Indians that there were some fierce tribes in the mountains, and later the prospectors sighted some Indian teepees. For several days they were not bothered, but suddenly they were attacked and a man by the name of Grimes was killed.

It became apparent to the prospectors that they could not stay and fight, but must retreat. They wrapped Grimes in a blanket and buried his body by the little stream which they named Grimes Creek, the name it still bears.

The retreat was made in August and the party reached Walla Walla a few weeks later where they announced their discovery of gold. About 50 men agreed to return to the Boise Basin with the discoverers and pack animals were purchased to carry adequate supplies and arms back to the gold field. The season was well into October, 1862, before the party returned to Grimes Creek.

Inasmuch as the Indians never stayed in the high mountains during the winter, there were no savages to molest the miner. Soon other parties followed, and by spring of 1863 there were hundreds of persons in the Boise Basin, with thousands more to follow them shortly.

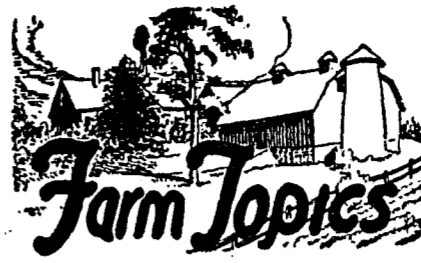

Townsites were located, and Placerville, Centerville, Hogen and Bannack were thriving towns. Soon along every gulch and ravine in the Boise Basin were miner's log cabins with shake roofs, and every stream was muddied by the washing of gold.

Bannack City later became Idaho City and reigned as the capital of the new Basin empire through the years. Gold is still being dredged in the Basin along the streams, and as new means of recovering the dust are found, old diggings are worked over and over again. A sign outside Idaho City today points out that more gold dust was mined in the Boise Basin than was ever found in the famed Klondike area, or in Alaska itself.

Can You Top It?

The president of the Pine Hollow Bank walked into the hardware store next door.

"Good morning, Peter," he said genially. "You know, our typewriter broke down. Could we borrow yours to get out some correspondence?" "Well, yes," replied the merchant. "It might be arranged. What security do you have to offer?"

Wingless Chickens Cause Speculation

Impact on Industry Studied by Growers

Poultrymen and consumers throughout the United States are still speculating on the degree impact on the poultry industry of the development of wingless chickens.

Peter Baumann, Des Moines, Iowa, a veterinary-supply salesman, has raised a flock of 400 such chickens and has proclaimed loudly that they are the "nearest thing" alive to famed cartoonist Al Capp's "shmoos."

Baumann said he had spent 10 years developing the wingless flock, and that he expects the breed to set a new trend in chicken raising. He pointed out that the wingless chicken has a thick layer of white meat where ordinary chickens have wings.

Baumann said he had kept his

chicken breed a secret because he wanted to be sure it was a success. He studied animal husbandry at Iowa State college and asserts his wingless chickens are not a "freak." A freak does not reproduce, he argued.

The ancestors of this new breed of chicken, Baumann said, came from Texas. He was traveling through that state in the 30's when he acquired a light Brahma rooster and a white Mincra hen. Each bird had only stubs for wings.

He bred them, he said, and was astounded when the hen hatched wingless chickens. He then began experimenting and breeding.

Baumann reported that at first he got only three or four wingless birds out of 100 eggs. Now, he said, about 95 of every 100 chicks have no wings at all. Some of the others, he said, have stubs or a stub on one side and a wing on the other.

Eases Farm Chores

Wagon unloaders are among the latest electrical devices to be developed for farm chore use. Most types are still in the experimental stage, but many sections of the country already are using them to a large extent. In Wisconsin, for example, 50 per cent of the farmers who have forage harvesters also have electric wagon unloaders.

Under ordinary circumstances, a three-ton load can be handled with an electric unloader by one man in five minutes. Cost of operation is low, with power provided by a 1/2 horsepower portable motor which can be used on other farm machines when not connected to the unloader.

Narrow Poultry Houses Give Way to New Style

D. D. Moyer, extension poultry specialist at Ohio State university, says the narrow type poultry house 15 to 20 feet deep is giving way to houses 30 to 40 feet in depth, built long enough to house 500 and more birds.

Moyer cites a number of advantages in the new style housing. Wall space is cut down, heat loss reduced, cleaning is easier and it is less trouble to move equipment.

Modernize Heating System This Summer, Experts Say

Summer is the best time to modernize the heating system, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries bureau.

The summer of 1949 is the ideal time for the overhauling of heating plants because all types of heating materials and equipment are now available and labor is in better supply.

Thousands of heating systems, which survived the war years, are now due for either a thorough-going overhauling or replacement of essential items. There is hardly any phase of home modernization which will bring such an immediate return in economy and comfort as the improvement of the heating system.

The significant progress which has been made by the heating industry in recent years is another reason for viewing older systems critically in the light of new developments in boilers, radiators, convectors, oil burners, stokers, and gas conversion burners, all of which are now in plentiful supply.

Also in plentiful supply is the baseboard heating system which is enjoying general popularity as one of the newest and most interesting developments in heating. New controls are available, both the indoor and outdoor type, which provide precise regulation of temperature for the utmost in fuel economy and comfort.

Heart of the heating system is the boiler. The replacement of many old boilers with modern units designed for the particular fuel to be burned is advisable.

New Cap Lamp for Miners Assures Dependable Light

Development of a cap lamp for miners which gives 25 per cent more light than ever before available from a cap lamp, has resulted from years of work by scientists of General Electric company, Cleveland; Thomas A. Edison, Inc., West Orange, New Jersey; and the Mine Safety Appliances company, Pittsburgh.

This cap lamp has been tested and approved by the U. S. bureau of mines.

A direct descendant of the original miner's electric safety lamp invented in 1915 by Thomas A. Edison, it uses for the first time in any cap lamp a four-cell battery design without any appreciable change in size compared with the preceding three-cell model. It has 100 times more illuminating intensity than Edison's first model. The additional cell provides greater wattage and assures a maximum amount of dependable light during an entire working shift.

Although the Edison lamp was invented originally to improve safety in mines by eliminating open flames in gaseous atmospheres, many design changes have been made during the past 34 years. Today, the lighting ability of the lamps has been so increased that they are used extensively in metal mines and other non-explosive areas, as well as in gassy coal mines, to provide better illumination.

Weed Control for Potatoes

Cyanamid holds more promise for weed control with potatoes than various forms of 2,4-D, the popular weed-killing chemical. Tests at Pennsylvania's agricultural experiment station the past two years indicate that cyanamid not only gives good weed control but also provides nitrogen to the growing crop later in the season. Prof. J. Stanley Cobb, in charge of the experiments at Penn. State, reports that granular cyanamid was used as a pre-emergence application, placed in a band about a foot wide down the row, at the rate of 400 pounds. This is the equivalent of 1200 pounds if the entire acre was covered. Professor Cobb explained. His tests showed that use of cyanamid boosted the yield of potatoes by 100 bushels per acre as well as controlling grass and bread-leaved weeds.

Finishes Aid Auto Makers

A development of great value to the manufacturers of automobiles has been the perfection of a method by which wood tones and wood designs are pre-printed on a large flat metal sheet before fabrication into instrument boards, moldings, and parts for interior trim. Great simplification, time-savings and avoidance of much handwork are thus achieved. First, the primer and ground coat are applied. Next comes the printing of the graining of wood tone design. Third, the application of the final glaze coat of lacquer.

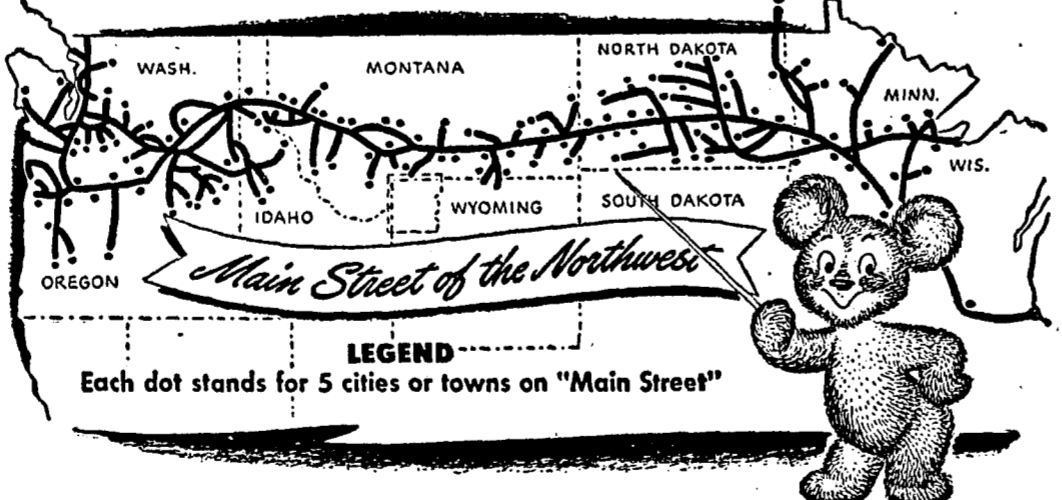

Invented Self-Starter

Thanks to Charles F. Kettering women are no longer dependent on male muscles to start the car when they wish to go motoring. It was Kettering who invented the self-starter. Before then it frequently happened that milady wrecked her careful grooming and her temper by trying to start the car herself. Kettering was the gallant knight who settled that problem for all women for all time. Today she merely presses her foot against a small pedal or presses a button with her finger.

You Do The Worrying

A man called his banker the other day and asked: "Are you worried about whether I can meet my note next month?"
 "Yes, I am," confessed the banker.
 "Good," said the client, "that's what I'm paying you six per cent for."

Packaged Language Course Made Available by Yale

A series of "packaged" language courses based on wartime teaching developments is now being made available to the public by Yale university.

The courses, which include printed texts and between 11 and 12 hours of recorded speech, are being produced at the Institute of Far Eastern Languages under the supervision of Gerard P. Kok, associate director of the institute and assistant professor of Chinese.

Courses in Chinese and French already have been "packaged" for distribution, and plans are under way for similar courses in Russian, Korean and other languages.

The primary goal of the institute in sponsoring the series, according to Professor Kok, is to help raise the level of spoken language instruction in the public secondary schools and in colleges where the number of "native" language instructors is limited. The recorded lessons are designed to offer the purest type of pronunciation.

Professor Kok said that plans are being made for experimental use of the "packaged" courses by language students in high schools in the New Haven area. The courses are already in use by student groups at Sarah Lawrence and Seattle Pacific colleges.

The institute at Yale is the first non-commercial educational organization to offer such a program to the public.

Insects Look for Quality In Food, Entomologist Says

The effects of insect injury may be considerably more serious on corn to be used for seed than on corn to be used for feed, U. S. department of agriculture entomologists observe in their investigations on the protection of both seed and feed corn. This, says Dr. R. T. Cotton of the bureau of entomology and plant quarantine is because "the germ of the seed, with its high food value, is particularly attractive to insects. Thus species that are not of great importance, if we consider the mere quantity of the grain they destroy, are of concern to the seedmen because they feed almost exclusively on the germ."

What is probably instinctive in the insects is very much in line with recent scientific research in human nutrition which has emphasized the high food, vitamin and mineral values in grain germs, much of which is milled out in manufacture of the "finer" grades of flours and meals.

The flat grain beetle, cadello, almond moth, and Indian meal moth are some of the insects particularly destructive to seed corn, Dr. Cotton finds, because they make their first attack on the germ.

Research and practical tests show that a three-to-one mixture of ethylene dichloride and carbon tetrachloride is the safest fumigant to use in protecting seed corn from insect damage.

Garden Insecticide

"Rotenone is the most valuable single garden insecticide," say Clemson extension service specialists. "Five per cent DDT dust alone or in combination with fungicides is valuable on potatoes and cabbage, but it should never be applied within a month of harvest to any leafy vegetable or to tomatoes. "Don't handle moist plants—it spreads diseases," they caution. "This is especially true of the members of the melon family, tomatoes, and beans, but it may apply to other crops as well. Drops of moisture are easily transferred from one plant to another, and, if disease-producing organisms are present, they are widely spread."

Television-Eyebits

Among the by-products of television are complaints of eye troubles by those who watch programs. Some of these troubles are imaginary, but some may be actual, according to the Better Vision institute. Persons with normal vision can get eye fatigue if they watch an object from too nearby or with the head in an uncomfortable position, and the same may apply to video-viewers. One theory is that people who report eye difficulties after watching a video screen really have been suffering all along from some visual error such as nearsightedness or astigmatism. They may not have noticed it before because they did not employ the eyes on activities comparable to focusing for long periods on a small screen filled with moving images.

Quarantines in Britain

From the point of view of animal health, Britain is fortunate in being an island. Such serious epidemic diseases as rinderpest, which have at times devastated the herds of her continental neighbors, have long been excluded. But in a country which imports so many animal products, strict quarantine precautions are necessary, and even the most elaborate do not always succeed. Rare outbreaks of hoof and mouth disease are promptly stamped out by drastic slaughtering and burning, with government compensation to the affected farmer.

Weather Still "March Like"

The calendar says that this is the first week in April — but if one did not have a calendar —
March would certainly be the month chosen.

We have had rain, hail, snow, sleet, sunshine and wind, with a particularly vicious windstorm Saturday, which lasted most of the day. The latter littered the streets with seed pods and limbs from the locust trees, as well as whipping dirt into almost every nook and cranny.

And to top it all off, early rising Kendrick residents found their thermometers reading 30 — two degrees below freezing — Tuesday morning!

On the good side we might say that lawns are getting greener by the day — and Marvin Long says his garden is up!
