"Snake" or Worm Identified

The very peculiar "snake" or worm reported as having coming from a big Mormon cricket on the Gus Kruger farm, Cameron, a couple of weeks ago, and turned over to the Soil Conservation Service, has been identified by them as a "Nematoad or Roundworm, a parasite of the hopper or cricket family."

It seems these parasites often leave their "carrier" near water, when fully developed, and are sometimes called "hair snakes."

ARBUCLE-STEDMAN NUP-TIALS FRIDAY EVENING

Miss Betty Arbuckle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Arbuckle, and Samuel N. Stedman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stedman, were united in marriage at a beautiful candlelight ceremony Friday, Aug. 4, at 8:00 p. m., in the Kendrick Community Church. The Rev. J. A. Ireland, pastor of the Assembly of God, Full Gospel Church, read the impressive double ring ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The church was beautifully decorated with baskets of dahlias, marigolds, snapdragons and sweet peas, the gladioli in tall baskets flanked by tiered candelabra.

The bride was dressed in a gown to white nylon marquisette, with a finger tip lace veil. She carried a white Bible with long white ribbon streamers. On the Bible rested a single gardenia flanked by stephanotis.

Miss Patricia King of Asotin, a cousin of the groom, acted as maid of honor. She wore a pale green gown and wristlets, and carried a pink bouquet.

Charles E. Massie of Asotin, a friend of the groom, was best man. Paul Arbuckle and George Jones were ushers.

The candle lighters were Bonnie Arbuckle and Ann White, sister and cousin of the bride — both dressed in identical dresses of aqua.

The bride's mother wore a grey suit and chose a corsage of pink carnations.

The groom's mother wore a dark sheen dress and also wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Mrs. William Mulvaney of Lewiston was the pianist, accompanying the Misses Louise and Lois Smith who sang, "Oh, Promise Me" and "I Love You Truly," at the beginning of the ceremony, and as the bride and groom knelt at the altar they sang "Savior, Like a Shepherd Lead Us."

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the basement of the church. After the traditional first piece of cake was cut by the bride and groom, Mrs. E. M. White, an aunt of the bride, finished cutting the large four-tiered cake, and the guests were served by Miss Rita Cain and Miss Kathryn Brown. Mrs. W. H. White, also an aunt of the bride, poured the punch.

Miss Judy Whitte had charge of the gift book, and Miss Susie Candler and Miss Eunice Westendahl assisted in the opening of the many gifts.

The happy couple left on a short honeymoon, going to Coeur d'Alene and from there on into Canada. They will make their home in Juliaetta this summer. In the fall they will go to Seattle where Mr. Stedman will attend the third year of Northwest Bible College.

On Sunday, Aug. 6, a family reunion was held in the Kendrick park honoring the visitors — there being 58 relatives and a few friends present. It was also a farewell, as Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bateman and family left Monday morning to visit a few days on the coast before returning to their home.

At the picnic were: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bateman and children of Edson, Kansas, guests of honor; Mr. and Mrs. Grant Bateman and son; Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Trout and family of Lewiston; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Morrison and family of Lewiston; Mr. and Mrs. Watson and family of Juliaetta; Mr. and Mrs. Don Bateman and daughter; Mrs. Wade Candler of Ahsanka; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Reecer and daughter of Cavendish; Mr. and Mrs. T. C. King and T. E. King and Diane; Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Wells, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Armitage and Arlie, Mr. and Mrs. Rollin Armitage and family and Mrs. Mattie Hayward, all of Southwick; Mr. and Mrs. Ross Armitage and family of Kendrick, and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hayward of Lewiston.

No Word On Road Oiling
To date no word has been received by Clarence Perryman of the local highway department, as to just when oiling operations from Arrow through Kendrick are to begin — although he, with Ed. Brown, have completed the trucking and winnowing of the gravel chips to be used in this area. All are hoping that this operation will soon be begun.

Clarence warns that when the work does begin "restricted speed" will be the order and strictly enforced. Not only must this be the case for protection of the new oil, but it is to the motorist's and trucker's advantage, as spattered oil on a vehicle is very difficult to remove.

New Car Badly Damaged

Dr. D. A. Christensen had the misfortune to be involved in a car accident last Thursday as he was returning from Lewiston. As he approached the Spalding junction, two trucks he was following slowed down suddenly, and he in turn applied his brakes quickly. The car following him evidently could not stop as rapidly and plowed into the rear of his new Nash — turning him around completely. No one was hurt but his car was so badly damaged that a wrecker was used to return the car to Lewiston for repairs.

Rain Interrupts Harvest
Harvesting operations in this area were interrupted by the rains of Friday night and Saturday — but by Monday afternoon trucks were again rolling — mostly on winter barley.

To Glen Wegner goes the honor of bringing in the first wheat to Kendrick warehouses, he delivering fortyfold to the Kendrick Rochdale Co. on Tuesday, August 1, and to the Lewiston Grain Growers on Wednesday, August 2.

Gene Taylor, Juliaetta, delivered the first wheat to the Lewiston Grain Growers, that being on Tuesday, August 1 — and also being fortyfold.

Hugh Parks, Juliaetta, brought in the second wheat to the Rochdale, on Wednesday, August 2 — it also being of the Fortyfold and Elgin varieties.

Both warehouse managers, W. A. Watts of the Kendrick Rochdale, and Ben Westendahl of the Lewiston Grain Growers — ask farmers to please wait until the grain is sufficiently dry! Wet wheat brings a moisture dock as well as creating a fire hazard — so be sure it's dry before you thresh!

Again Open For Business
The redecorating and complete interior renovating of the Kendrick Cafe was completed Friday evening, and Saturday afternoon the institution re-opened for business under its new name "White's Confectionery."

The ceiling of the main room is painted sea-foam green; the walls, down to the back bar and booth tops are watermelon, and the back bar and booth tops of mist gray, as are the table supports and wood work.

The whole presents a very neat and clean appearance.

Honored At Party
A large number of friends gathered at the Full Gospel church parsonage Monday evening for a farewell party honoring the Ralph Arbuckle family, who are leaving on Thursday for Portland, Oregon.

The women of the church brought cakes, sandwiches and koolaid. The evening was spent in singing.

The Arbuckle family was presented with a lovely tablecloth and large bath towel as going away gifts.

Called Back To Active Duty
Cpl. James Candler, U. S. A. F. who was on the active reserve list, received orders Monday to report for duty August 13, at Long Beach, Calif. He is an electrician.

Cpl. Candler received his honorable discharge on May 2nd, 1943 — but now Uncle Sam needs him again.

He has been employed for the past several months by the Lewiston Grain Growers, and was recently married.

PUBLIC MEETING HELD ON LATAH CO. HOME

(By Mrs. Guy Wicks)
A public meeting was held Monday, July 24th, at the Latah County Court House with the Commissioners regarding public support of a move to better conditions at the County Boarding Home. There were representatives present from some 43 organizations from all of the county, who sent them to lend support to the movement.

At the outset it was stated that the meeting was not political in any way, nor critical of the management of the county's business by the County Commissioners, but rather an expression of public interest in a condition which the people of the county wish rectified. The county boarding home has been the subject of discussion in the county for the past year — the commissioners lending their perplexities and "head-aches" over the matter to the general feeling of dissatisfaction with the home as it now exists. It was the feeling of all present that the fire hazard which constantly menaces the Home, plus the difficulty of heating the building in winter, along with the impossible task of caring for the people there under present facilities make a change necessary as soon as possible. There are some two or three dozen people who receive pensions due to age who can not find board and room elsewhere in the county, plus some seven to twelve county indigents who must be housed there. This means that there must be a place for these people to stay.

The possibility of immediate remedy was not found feasible. However, it was recommended that by resorting to the state law regarding the erection of rest hospitals that the opinion of the county attorney, J. M. O'Donnell — was that the levy of 1.5 mills could be legally made for this purpose. Mrs. Bessie Babcock, county auditor, said that this levy would yield approximately $24,000 a year. With this fund to be established in the county budget to be formed early in September, the matter could be attended to in the next few years.

Chris Hagan, pioneer citizen of the area, recommended that a portion of the present county farm be sold and the funds used to augment the sum from the levy to aid in the building of a better place. He stated that there are some 20 to 30 acres belonging to the county on state highway 95, which is just 1 1/4 miles from the fire department in Moscow on a direct route — that this highway is kept open in winter while the road to the present Home is not always open. The site on the highway has good drainage, which is not true at the present site. This location, not in town, but rather near one, would solve many of the problems which the managers of the rest hospital must meet. Mr. Hagan finished by assuring the commissioners that if a better plan were presented, he would be "all for it."

The commissioners were assured by all present that they were not telling them how to solve this problem, nor dictating to them in any way regarding ways and means, but rather that the feeling present was one of helplessness and conducted in the best spirit of democratic cooperation of consultants with those who represent them.

Following this meeting in the afternoon, the State Department of Public Health met with the county commissioners and discussed the closing or further licensing of the present Home. The Home has not been licensed for over two years and action was needed at once. After a time together, the Public Health department stated that it would not close the Home "if he Board showed good intentions" of levying for a better place.

Hurry To Get Permits
 Hunters were reminded that Aug. 21 is the last day the Idaho game department will receive applications for permits to hunt elk on the Selway game preserve.

Drawings will be for 1,000 permits, R. E. Hoffman, chief clerk, said. The hunt will not open until September 20, and continues until October 31, for permit holders. Drawings are made approximately one month ahead of the hunt's opening date to allow hunters time to prepare for the hunt and allows the game department time to mail permits.

Applicants were reminded that under the law, persons who secured an elk on any special hunt last year are not eligible to apply this season.

 There were approximately 3,000 Republican votes cast in Latah county to 1,400 Democratic ballots.

Pfost Leading Wall
 In the First District congressional race, on the Democratic ticket, the preponderance of southern Idaho population appeared to again be swinging the tide, Gracie Pfost, with 10,913, leading; Harry Wall, Lewiston, was a close second with 10,273, and Burns, B. Erieham, Genesee, a poor third with 2,974 votes.

Little County Returns
 In the race for Latah county assessor (5 men) and probably the most hotly contested of all, E. Dan Pederson of Genesee was far out in front at last returns: E. Dan Pederson, 638; John Rothfork, Moscow, 324; Everett S. Anderson, John K. Borg and Delwin W. Hobza were far in the rear.

Ancient Book Comes To Light
 While engaged in cleaning up the old "Cling Thomas place," which he purchased about three weeks ago, Walter Sparber found an old Village of Kendrick account book, which runs from May of 1895 to May of 1904.

In it village warrants are listed by number and by fund, but nowhere does there appear the names of those to whom drawn.

In 1895 there was a "Marshal and Police Fund" a total of $148.33 being expended. During the same period the "Village Attorney Fund" expended $50.00.

In the same period "Sidewalks and Cross Walks" consumed $100; "Street Improvements and Drainage" $200.00; "Printing" $126.00; the Village Clerk $60.00; Interest on Bonded Indebtedness $150.00 and Cemetery $50.00.

In that year (1895) the cost of a Village election was $44.85 — and the General Fund showed a "red ink" balance of $595.86.

Here is the 1903 budget:

Treasurer	$ 60.00
Election	30.00
Cemetery	50.00
Clerk	60.00
Printing	75.00
Police	500.00
Cross Walk	100.00
Streets and Alleys	700.00
General Fund	365.00
Attorney	60.00
Total	$2,000.00

Also in the book is a clipping of Ordinance No. 96, specify the width and construction formula for all sidewalks (board) within the village. The ordinance is dated Jan. 4, 1906. It is signed by R. E. Himes, Chairman, and F. L. Lehmicke, Clerk.

On the reverse of this clipping appear the ads. of "Crocker & Jenkinson, Horseshoeing, Blacksmithing, Wagon and Carriage Work"; "Wm. Meyer, Woodwork, Locksmith and Blacksmithing"; "Capt. Carlton, as Auctioneer, and "Dr. Cunningham, Veterinary Surgeon and Auctioneer."

The thing that puzzles us the most is the large amount expended for printing during those days. Today, all printing for the Village of Kendrick will hardly exceed $2.00 per month!

Watch Out For New Sprays
 New spray insecticides have been blamed for fatalities now being reported throughout the United States, said H. C. Clare, Idaho Department of Public Health, this week.

The health department joined with the department of agriculture and University of Idaho to issue a warning to all persons using such insecticides as those containing Parathion and Tetraethyl Pyrophosphate, better known as TEPP. These may be marketed under various trade names.

According to Mr. Clare both compounds are being widely used to protect fruit trees and field crops against spider mites, aphids and thrips. They are highly toxic and should be handled with extreme care while mixing and using.

It was said that these preparations may be absorbed through the skin with no indication of the severity of the exposure, causing fatality to humans and stock as a result. Deaths due to a small drop splashed in the eyes have been reported.

Mr. Clare recommended that sprays prepared from wettable powder solutions applied with conventional spray machines be used in place of other methods if possible, since drifting spray smoke has resulted in at least one livestock death in Idaho.

He added medical attention should be sought immediately if headache, painful vision, weakness, cramps or nausea occurred as a result of exposure.

Migratory Fowl Season Be Set
 Migratory fowl hunting seasons and limits will be announced about August 26, says a Boise dispatch.

The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service has delayed setting the regulations this year until all possible information can be gathered from the field relative to populations and hatching sources.

Information and recommendations will be presented at Portland when the Western Association of State Fish and Game Commissioners meet for their annual sessions beginning August 14.

Tax Collections Up
 From the office of the State Tax Collector, Boise, comes a comparative tax statement for the month of July, 1950, which shows total income to be $1,683,932.25. During 1949's comparative figure, it was $1,472,331.46, for an increase of $213,958.15.

Only taxes showing a decrease were Punchboards, which fell off $2,304.85, and Mines, which lost $52.51 — leaving a net increase of $211,600.79.

Washington Water Power Judged Outstanding Electric Company in U.S.!

Wins Coffin Award for Superior Service to Customers

Against keen competition from electric operating companies all over the nation, Washington Water Power again won the Charles A. Coffin Medal and Prize for Public Service in 1949 — making the Company the only second-time winner of this award in 28 years of competition for it.

Among important factors contributing to the Washington Water Power Company's second-time winning of this national recognition for superior service were:

SKILL AND LOYALTY OF EMPLOYEES, many of whom have been with the Company more than twenty years. During the record-breaking November storms of '49, Company crews worked round-the-clock to find and repair storm-caused breaks in lines and restore service in record time.

CONFIDENCE OF THE PUBLIC IN THE COMPANY, evidenced by renewal of franchises to the Company by many Inland Empire communities during the year.

LOW RATES TO THE PUBLIC, in spite of increased cost of operation.

DEPENDABLE OPERATION in all phases of the Company's work. Efficient generation of electricity; dependable distribution through well-built and well-maintained lines; progressive personnel policies; cooperation with community groups in projects for community betterment; advanced accounting practices ... all play a part in the Company's record of successful operation.

Cigarette Use Tapers Off After Long Upward Trend

Although U.S. smokers used three and one-half billion more cigarettes in 1949 than in 1948 there was a decrease of about one package of cigarettes per capita says the U.S. department of agriculture. The bureau of agricultural economics reports suggests that the demand for cigarettes may now be leveling off after a series of record breaking years.

Last year, the BAE reports, that the increase of three and one-half billion in use of cigarettes was about 1 per cent, bringing the total for the year to 352 billion. But population increased more than 1 per cent. The increase in cigarettes for the first half of the year was about 2 per cent, and for the last half was just about even with the 1948 consumption for those months. With an estimated population increase of more than two and one-half million, this figures to a per capita supply of 2,435 cigarettes in 1949 as compared with 2,455 in 1948.

The steady and sometimes sharp upward trend in cigarette consumption in the United States has been under way for many years, the BAE records show. Only one drop in civilian consumption has been noted. In 1944 the civilian use ran below the 1943 record. But the bureau says that "when allowance is made for the great volume consumed by large numbers in the armed forces and overseas personnel, total consumption in 1944 substantially exceeded that of 1943."

During and since the war, cigarette smoking has continued to gain. The figures for the last half of 1949 are the first indication of a break in the climb.

Eniwetok Atoll Ranks High Among Battered Land Spots

When the history of the 1941-1950 decade is written, Eniwetok Atoll will take top rank among the most bludgeoned of Pacific land spots. Typhoons, World War II bombs, and atomic weapon tests will have pooled their awesome power to put it there.

Eniwetok, soon again to feel atom blasts in its role as proving ground for the Atomic Energy commission, has already been battered by all three of these forces in the now waning decade.

This northwest outpost of the scattered Marshall Islands, 2,725 miles southwest of Honolulu and about the same distance southeast of Tokyo, was home to 138 island natives two years ago when its destiny in the atomic program was announced. The inhabitants were moved to Ujelang, 150 miles southwest of Eniwetok, a few weeks before the first secret atomic tests at Eniwetok in the spring of 1948.

They left with little regret, since the main islets containing Japanese installations had been razed to their coral bases and denuded of trees by heavy bombardment in mid-February, 1944. That attack culminated in a quick conquest of Eniwetok by U. S. amphibious forces.

Something About Cats

Cats can be trained easily to be neat in houses and apartments. The mere provision of toys for their personal entertainment, plus a little discipline, will keep them from damaging curtains and other household items. They are slaves to habits, such as eating, and are homebodies in that they seem to become more attached to their homes than to people. When a cat fails to respond to its master's orders, it isn't necessarily being ornery. More likely, it fails to comply because it sees no sound reason for doing so. Cats may breed at any time of the year, although January and February are their preferred months. A cat "in heat" may wriggle along the floor and cry as if she had a severe stomach ache. "People unfamiliar with this symptom are apt to think that the animal is critically ill," he said.

High School Students

High school students who earn the best grades follow specific study procedures, a northwestern university professor discovered in analyzing the study habits of more than 1000 secondary school pupils. Dr. William G. Brink, a professor in Northwestern's school of education, made the study to provide data for high schools considering changes in curricula to produce higher scholastic achievement. As the result of his investigations, Dr. Brink recommends that "guidance in the improvement of study habits should be integrated with instructional activities." The study habits of students in the upper fourth of their classes followed similar patterns, the educator found.

Sea Anemone

A strange partnership of the tropical coral reefs exists between the sea anemone, which paralyzes its prey with its stinging cells, and the small anemone fish, somehow immune to the sting of its companion. The fish lurks among the tentacles of the anemone until the prey passes within reach. Deftly it maneuvers the prey, usually another small fish, within range of the stingers and holds it there until paralyzed. Then anemone and partner share the meal.

Proper Milk Cooling Necessary for Grade

Warm Milk Excellent For Bacteria Breeding

Milk must be cooled properly in order to be classed as Grade A. Unsatisfactory cooling can make good pasture, a healthy herd and observance of all health and management rules look mighty sick. To preserve quality, milk should be cooled to 50 degrees or lower soon after it is drawn. Milk is cooled in one of three ways on the farm: by water, ice and mechanical refrigeration.

Electric milk coolers are thermostatically controlled and use from 25 to 30 KWH per month to cool 10 gallons of milk per day. Even they, however, might be improved.

One attempt to do this is illustrated in the accompanying photograph. It shows a farmer setting a timer to operate an extra agitator on a conventional cooler. By means of this special equipment, he starts building up the ice bank in the cooler the minute the milk cans are immersed. There is no waiting for the escaping heat from the milk to set the cooling mechanism in action.

Small Acreage Farmers Practice Conservation

Small-farm operators are beginning to change their belief that soil conservation is a luxury they can't afford.

Thousands of small farms are now practicing all-out soil conservation with exciting results.

Back in the 1930's, a farming magazine recalls, farmers were told to cut down on corn and small grain. The idea was to keep more of the land in grass and most of the rest in hay crops most of the time.

After giving soil conservation a try, thousands of operators of small farms have now concluded, the magazine finds, that one can raise more of everything. Some have doubled production in just a few years under soil conservation practices.

Broilers Need Water

Broilers need water to put on weight. Laying hens need it to maintain satisfactory egg production. And they need it all year round—winter and summer.

In years past, poultry waterers required almost constant attention during the winter. Often the battle against ice was fought with steaming kettles of water.

One method of overcoming this problem is presented in the accompanying illustration. It shows the installation of a heat lamp over a common type of waterer. The warmth produced is sufficient to keep the water free of ice as well as to prevent litter from becoming wet around the waterer.

Dry Silage Sometimes Contains Few Vitamins

Dry silage, which has been subjected to long-continued, high heat of fermentation, has little carotene of Vitamin-A content left in it. Carotene usually is badly needed to supplement the other rations.

The farmer with several silos to fill should start several days ahead of when the kernels have finished denting to avoid ending up the silo-filling with corn that is "rattle dry" as it is blown in.

Substitutes for Steaks May Require Strong Stomach

Annoyed by the price of steak? Then why bother with it—there are a lot of substitutes.

Of course, the substitutes, such as grasshoppers, lizards, and sheep's eyes, do require a practiced palate and a tolerant stomach; but to some of our Europeans and Asiatic gourmets they are better than filet mignon.

Grasshoppers and other members of the locust family have been a delicacy for centuries. Shakespeare uses the eloquent expression, "luscious as locusts," and the book of St. Matthew cites locusts and wild honey as the fare of John the Baptist.

The Chinese relish their locusts whole and candied, while in the Arabian desert the insects are dried, ground, and mixed into a tasty flour for bread.

By the way of variety, the Australian bushman adds rat cutlets to his meal of locust hors d'oeuvres; and the African pygmy goes him one better by supplementing his grasshopper, or locust, dinner with a choice assortment of beetles, caterpillars, field mice, and monkeys. Grasshoppers are an important staple in the diet of the Negrito, the Filipino pygmy, who also enjoys an occasional lizard or snake.

Our pallid, mild-flavored butter would seem a poor product in parts of Afghanistan, where bread is buttered with a slab or two of pungent sheep-tail fat.

But it is the Persian and the Eskimo who probably have made the most exotic contribution to the dinner table. Both like their caviar in the form of eyes instead of eggs—fish eyes for the Eskimo, sheep's eyes for the Persian.

Well, it's an idea. How badly do you want to balance the budget?

Sea Spiders of Antarctic Spend Lives in Cold Seas

Sea-spiders swarm in Antarctic waters.

The cold seas which lash the southern continent seem to be the natural habitat of these strange little creatures, ancient and remote relatives of crabs, lobsters, spiders, and scorpions.

A representative collection of these tiny-bodied, long-legged water animals was made by the 1947-1948 navy Antarctic expedition and turned over to the U. S. national museum for study.

The little creatures of the cold seas have somewhat the general appearance and habits of spiders, and it is generally agreed by zoologists that the two forms come from a common ancestor. Most of them spend their lives crawling over seaweed and lower marine animals, from which they suck the juices.

One hitherto undescribed form, listed as a new species, was found by Joel W. Hedgpeth, who made a taxonomic study of the collection. The collections were made from Marguerite Bay, site of one of Admiral Byrd's base camps on the western coast of the Palmer Peninsula, and from the offshore waters of Peter island. Mr. Hedgpeth also included in his study small previous collections from South Georgia and the Falkland Islands.

Retired Street Cars

Forty-two 10-year-old streetcars retired a year ago in New York's Bronx are now among the finest in Vienna. The war took heavy toll of the Austrian city's 3,600 trolleys, then already past their prime. Another 25 comparatively new Bronx cars were shipped last March to Bombay. Throughout Europe and Asia in general, cars are overaged and overworked. Most South American city streetcars are U.S.-built. Lima, Peru, and Sao Paulo, Brazil, have bought 10 New York city veterans since World War II. In Sao Paulo, the red-painted, closed cars are called "shrimps." They carry peak loads four times a day because Paulinos like to dash home for lunch.

How to Lose Weight

You can lose weight and at the same time enjoy appetizing meals. If you want to lose weight, nutritionists recommend, a sane, well-balanced diet that includes all the foods necessary for good health. This is described as a sensible diet liberally sprinkled with patience and will power. It's the sum total of everything you eat that counts. Don't blame the potatoes, bread or dessert. You gain weight when you eat more food calories than your body needs and uses. Eat plenty of vegetables, but go easy on butter, rich sauces and salad dressing. Skim-milk will supply calcium as well as whole milk, and fruits should be eaten with little or no sugar.

Home Storage Problem

Homemakers dream about storage space—and more space, in new homes and old. But there are ways to make those dreams come true. Plan what you need in storage space in your home, considering the needs of every member of the family. Have a specific plan in black and white before the carpenter or builder arrives to start work. It's even better if you have worked out a plan, laid it aside for awhile and then reworked it. If you have done this you will be more satisfied with closets and cupboards after they are constructed.

Find Clue to Mortality Among Baby Calves, Pigs

Nobody knows definitely why many newborn calves and pigs die shortly after they begin to nurse, but a theory advanced by research veterinarians is winning acceptance because it seems to be the most logical explanation yet offered.

Picture a starving man who eats food that makes him violently ill, only to die from the illness rather than from starvation, and you will have an idea of what is believed to be happening to countless pigs, and calves too, on the nation's farms. The main difference is that the newborn animals die after consuming their mother's milk—the very thing upon which they depend for life.

This is how the trouble starts: While the cow or sow is pregnant, she is attacked by a virus disease that may or may not be apparent to the owner. Her natural body forces produce substances called antibodies that fight off the infection, and at the same time some of these antibodies find their way to the unborn calf or pig.

Large amounts of them also go into the colostrum or first milk, that will nourish the youngster after birth. These disease-fighting substances have a sensitizing effect on the unborn animal. Then, after birth, when the youngster starts to consume colostrum, it gets a large dose of the antibodies and dies from shock.

Prevention of such losses is a problem now confronting veterinarians. While the colostrum from affected cows and sows is obviously harmful, it also has many properties vital to the survival and health of calves and pigs. Ordinary milk and other feedstuffs do not contain all of these essential properties, and so far satisfactory artificial foods have not been developed for practical farm use.

Veterinarians Tell Ways To Prevent Pig Scours

These five suggestions for keeping scours out of the spring pig crop are offered by swine disease authorities of the American veterinary medical association:

1. Set up a definite schedule for feeding the sow. Irregular feeding results in an uneven flow of milk that causes nursing pigs to go hungry at one feeding and then scour from overeating at the next.
2. Don't overfeed the sow. Newborn pigs often scour because the brood sow is being overfed. Give her only warm water and no solid feed the first day after farrowing and a small amount of bran or oats the second day. After that, the ration can be increased a little each day so that she is on full feed within two weeks.
3. Feed a balanced ration. If the sow gets too much corn, her litter is almost sure to scour.
4. Keep sows away from mud holes, manure, and filth. Many cases of pig scours are traceable to filth consumed while nursing.
5. Protect pigs against sharp changes in temperature. Failure to keep pigs warm when the weather suddenly turns cold will cause outbreaks of digestive trouble.

Saws Used in Home

The saws commonly used in the home are the hacksaw and the handsaw. The hacksaw is used to cut metal and the handsaw to cut wood. There are two types of handsaws, the rip saw to cut with the grain and the crosscut to saw across the grain. All saws should be kept sharp. In starting a saw cut, the thumb of the left hand should be used to guide the blade until the cut is started at the desired location. The first stroke of the saw should be in the up direction. Sufficient pressure should be used when starting the cut so that the saw immediately begins to bite into the wood.

Warning to Cattlemen

Stock owners who use grazing land that adjoins oil lines and tanks are warned to watch out for crude oil poisoning in their herds. A bulletin from veterinary medical authorities cautions that the lines and tanks occasionally spring leaks, leaving pools of oil, and cattle may consume enough of it to be fatally poisoned. Animals on poor grazing land seem to have a special liking for crude oil, the bulletin adds. Cattlemen also are advised to keep their animals off pastures fronting recently oiled roads, particularly during rainy weather. The reason is that rain may wash enough oil onto the pasture to poison all or part of a herd.

Early Days of Indiana

Indiana territory's initial 1,000 settlers came from Kentucky, Virginia, and the Carolinas. They built their cabins in the south, along the Ohio and lower Wabash. They found the farm land rich, and when, in 1813, they moved their capital to Corydon, 20 trail miles west of Louisville, their number was 30,000. The total had jumped to 75,000 by late 1816, when statehood was won. There were a million and a half Hoosiers in Civil war days. By that time, the state's "naturals" in crops—corn, wheat, and hogs—had been found. Hominy and hogs continue to be good Hoosier fare.

Bit of Wyoming's Wild West Retained in National Parks

"Away out west" in Wyoming, something not yet old has been added to Uncle Sam's Jackson Hole national monument and Grand Teton national park.

The Rockefeller family's gift to the U. S. government—covering more than 33,000 acres of land lying within these two areas—is new by recent presentation. It is old because it includes bait of the pioneers' "Wild West" to be held untouched for nature lovers amid the cultivated fields, ranches, and expanding communities of modern America.

In northwest Wyoming, just south of Yellowstone, the Jackson Hole and Teton regions recall scenes of natural grandeur which greeted the first explorers and fur trappers to push into the Rocky Mountain country of Indians and wild game. Then vast numbers of elk, moose, bison, black and grizzly bears, deer, and beaver populated these mountains and valleys.

Many wild animals still haunt the western Wyoming region. Visitors report that antelope race their cars along open-range roads; beavers often annoy farmers by damming irrigation ditches, and Jackson Hole ranchers have built high fences to protect their haystacks against marauding elk.

The first white man to see the majestic Teton Range rising west of the lush green valley now known as Jackson Hole is believed to have been John Colter. In 1807-8, this woodsman and trapper, previously on the Lewis and Clark expedition, crossed and recrossed the mountains. Traveling alone, with a 30-pound pack and gun, Colter also penetrated the northern wilderness on this trip, discovering Yellowstone.

Tastier Drinking Water Promised by New Technique

City drinking water free from unpleasant odors and tastes has been made possible by a new technique which for the first time can isolate and analyze the water's minute organic contaminants.

The water supply of key cities along the Ohio river will be investigated by using the new test as the first step in removing the impurities.

In the course of a year the average adult will consume less than a quarter teaspoonful of organic matter present as impurities in the water he drinks. Yet this small amount of organic matter can and frequently does impart a wide variety of unpleasant tastes and odors to a year's quota of water for an adult.

Big strides forward are being made in successfully handling the taste and odor problem this minute quantity of organic material causes. However, the exact nature and chemical properties of the trace amounts of organic matter in the water have remained almost completely unknown. What has long been needed is a method for recovering the extremely dilute dissolved organic matter from the water so that its composition and properties might be investigated.

Enemies of Lemming

The most dangerous natural enemies of the lemming are the snowy owl, the arctic fox and ermine, who depend almost exclusively on the lemming as their winter fare. The snowy owl—white except for sharp, black bars across the body—is a born and trained hunter, equipped with ice-pick sharp claws for seizing a victim. Though the owl travels south during a season of lemming migration, he rarely breeds outside his home in the arctic circle. The ermine, thin and sinuous, is more successful than the fox in hunting down the lemming in the rodent's years of scarcity. The ermine can travel winter under a heavy blanket of snow—while the fox must smell and search and dig for his food.

Bandaging Dog's Tail

A long-time problem of veterinarians—how to keep bandages in place on monkeys' and dogs' tails—may be solved in the future by use of stainless steel tubes as surgical dressings for injured dogs. Dogs and monkeys are noted for tampering with bandages, often biting or pulling off dressings meant to protect wounds. Steel tubes promote healing by protecting the wounded tail from further injuries resulting from biting or scratching, allow free ventilation of the wound and make it easy for veterinarians to observe how healing is progressing.

Test New Cancer Method

Scientists in the University of California medical school are testing a method of treating cancer by injecting anticancer drugs directly into arteries serving tumor areas. They hope thereby to cause maximum damage to cancer tumors and minimize the toxic effects of drugs on the whole system. The research, supported in part by the American Cancer society, is being conducted under the direction of Dr. Michael B. Shimkin, director of the laboratory of experimental oncology, a joint venture of the university and the National Cancer institute.

Hopeless Russia

As the weeks and months go by, we have been pussy-footing with Russia—there has to date been nothing but failure in our attempts to gain their help in establishing a firm foundation for peace.

Secretary of State Marshall has laid a straight-forward program in the laps of Britain, France and Russia. Molotov turned it down at London and Paris and now we have the sight of Mr. Vischinsky doing the same thing in the big U. N. conference at Flushing, N. Y. That seems to be their way of thumbing their collective noses at the United States.

Wasn't it time for the United States to speak their piece plainly, just as has been done following the recent bitter Russian attacks? If we have a job to do in Europe or Japan that is still unfinished, we think Mr. Marshall's judgement can be trusted, and feel sure that he will work with the governments of the world that will cooperate with us, toward a sane and last peace.

Russia is always claiming a right to the possession of the atomic bomb. We know that America isn't fool enough to trust a nation that has never proven its friendship for us. We trusted Secretary Marshall in war—let's trust him in peace.

Pheasants Being Released
 Pheasants raised at the Lapwai and Jerome bird farms are being released in the field by game department crews as soon as they reach eight to ten weeks of age, Maurice Luny, bird supervisor, reported this week.
 The two game farms will produce approximately 28,000 pheasants this year, Luny added.
 Releases are being made direct into better cover and food areas in addition to plants made from approximately 35 "release pens". Release pens are located in excellent cover with water and shade. Food is provided until the young birds fly out from the enclosure and forage for themselves. The release pens have aided the young bird survival after the transition from care and protection at game farms.
 Hen pheasants are being sorted prior to release and will be placed in hold-over pens at Coeur d'Alene, Lapwai, Eagle and Jerome for release in the spring. Biologists and conservation officers are starting to receive birds reared by youngsters this summer. The department pays $1.00 for each bird raised to an age of eight to ten weeks by cooperators.

ALL THAT EXTRA WHY COMFORT and WEAR? THAT'S EASY TO FIGURE OUT!

EXTRA WEAR because BOTH soles and uppers are of inner-shell horsehide. The center layer is the shell. The grain runs vertical—the wear is on the end of the fibers—like the wood in a butcher's meat block.

EXTRA COMFORT because Wolverine's exclusive triple-tanning process tans this super-tough 3-ply hide so it is buckskin-soft—dries out soft—yet retains all its remarkable strength and wear.

Only WOLVERINE SHELL HORSEHIDES

ONLY Wolverine SHELL Horsehides have this stronger, tougher inner-shell leather in BOTH soles and uppers—this 3-ply leather that wears and wears—that costs less to wear month by month on any work shoe job. No other work shoes in the world of leather tanned like Wolverine Shell Horsehides. Come in and try on a pair... no obligation.

I KNOW SOMETHING GOOD ABOUT YOU

Wouldn't this old world be better
If the folks we meet would say—
"I know something good about you!"
And treat us just that way?
Wouldn't it be fine and dandy
If each handclasp, fond and true,
Carried with it this assurance —
"I know something good about you!"
Wouldn't life be lots more happy
If the good that's in us all
Were the only thing about us
That folks bothered to recall?
Wouldn't life be lots more happy
If we praised the good we see?
For there's such a lot of goodness
In the worst of you and me!
Wouldn't it be nice to practice
That fine way of thinking too?
You know something good about me;
I know something good about you!
