SOCIAL SECURITY PAYMENTS GET BIG UPWARD REVISION

Here is what happened to old-age and survivors insurance in the Lewiston area Monday when President Truman signed the 1950 amendment to the Social Security Act.

All monthly insurance checks now being paid to the 1,350 social security beneficiaries in the seven counties administered by the Lewiston Field Office will be raised substantially, beginning with the September check, according to Marlow V. Wotten, acting manager of the local office. Wotten explained that these automatic increases, for September, are scheduled to reach local beneficiaries during the first week of October. Increases will range from about 50 percent to about 100 percent. For example, the average primary benefit of approximately $26 per month for a retired worker will be increased to about $46. A widow with two children, who had been receiving $55 a month, will now receive about $110 altogether.

Wotten said that under the old terms of the social security law the 1,350 beneficiaries in this area would receive about $26,000 (total) for the month of September. Under the new increases, however, total payments for September are estimated to be about $48,450, or an immediate increase of some $22,450 monthly in insurance benefits to this area.

Under the new law the amount of earnings which a beneficiary may make in a month, and still accept his insurance payment for that month, is raised from $14.99 to $50. This applies to beneficiaries under age 75 and for earnings in a job covered by social security. After attaining age 75, a beneficiary may have any amount of earnings and still accept his insurance checks.

Approximately 9,700 more people may have old-age and survivors insurance under the revised laws. For most of the new groups, coverage will be mandatory after January 1, 1951. However, employees of non-profit, charitable, religious and educational institutions will come under social security only if the employer chooses and if two-thirds of the employees express a wish to participate. Employees of state and local governments may have social security but the state government must take the initiative if it chooses to participate.

Wotten estimated that the State of Idaho would have approximately the following numbers of newly covered workers under social security: 17,000 self-employed (businessmen); 7,500 farm workers, and 1,600 household workers in private homes. There are about 10,500 employees of the State of Idaho and its local governments who might be covered if the state so chooses.

A very important aspect of the new legislation is the more liberal qualifying conditions. Wotten pointed out that any individual now age 65 or more who has had at least six "quarters of coverage" may be immediately eligible for monthly benefit payments. It has been estimated that about 750,000 people in the United States may qualify for insurance payments under this new clause. Many aged persons may now claim benefits even though they have not been employed long enough to qualify under the former requirements.

Other persons not yet age 65 — those now 65 and over — will also only need six quarters of coverage — roughly a year and a half of employment in work covered by social security — to be insured upon reaching age 65 and retiring. A sliding scale requires longer employment for those reaching age 65 after 1953, but in no case will a person be required to have more than ten years of employment under social security in order for benefits to be payable.

Still excepted from social security coverage are farm operators, ministers and members of religious orders, and certain self-employed professional persons.

The new law gives wage credits of $160 per month toward old-age and survivors benefits for military service in World War II. Those wages are to be used in computing all monthly benefits payable on the basis of veterans' wage records after 1949, whether the veteran died in service or after discharge, and regardless of whether pension or compensation is paid by the Veterans Administration.

Included in the social security program for the first time, and under special conditions, are household workers regularly employed in private homes. Household workers, including maids, cooks, laundresses, practical nurses, gardeners, chauffeurs, etc., will receive credit only for their cash wages, and will not be covered by law at all unless they are employed 24 days or more and their cash wages are over $50 in a calendar quarter.

Regular farm workers, including household workers in farm homes, will be covered by social security beginning in January. To be affected, the worker must be employed by one farm operator for a period of not less than five months, and those months must fall within two calendar quarters. After full three months employment in the first quarter, the employer must work for the same employer in the second quarter, not less than 60 days with cash wages of at least $50 for work in that quarter. This bars occasional or seasonal farm workers and itinerant harvesters from coverage under the new social security law.

If any worker or employer is in doubt as to his status under the new law, it is suggested that he contact the "Social Security Administration" in the Post Office Building at Lewiston.

Has Ancient Coins

Harve Williamson, Juliaetta, was in town Friday visiting with old friends. He brought with him his old coin collection — which has a number of coins in it that are really collectors items.

Included was a Dime dated 1825 (125 years old); a nickel dated 1869; a portion of an old "Columbia" quarter, which has been through a fire, but on which the date is discernible, 1872; a silver "Half Dime" not a 5c piece, dated 1861.

Rarest of all the old coins in his display was a 25c gold piece. This coin, slightly smaller in diameter than the eraser on a lead pencil, and not much thicker than a sheet of paper, bears no date, but when examined with a magnifying glass shows on one side an Indian Head, very similar to that on the Indian Head penny, and on the reverse side appear the words "California Gold."

Mr. Williamson inherited the coins from his mother, and prizes them highly for sentimental reasons as well as for their value as collectors items.

Word On Road Oiling

Semi-official word was received by Clarence Perryman Monday in Lewiston that McAtee & Heath, who hold the oiling contract from Spalding Junction to the Big Bear Ridge road junction, that they expected to begin this work "about the first of September."

Local residents will probably take that news "with a grain of salt," for they have been "kidded" about such things before — particularly the road between Kendrick and Juliaetta, when the DeAtley Construction Co. required about 10 months to construct less than a mile!

Here's hoping Mr. Perryman's information was correct — for those living along this road, particularly the new section, have been engulfed in dust with the heavy harvest and logging traffic for many weeks.

Fire On Genesee Breaks

Tuesday night of last week the Genesee fire department was called to a lightning strike on the canyon breaks near the Belle Isaaksen farm. They thought they had the blaze extinguished, but Friday it again broke out. They again fought the blaze, but finally notified Henry Jones of the local Forestry unit, Saturday night. He, with Tommy Long, responded, and after about a ten-hour battle the blaze was controlled, but was watched by men from the local department until Tuesday night.

Mr. Jones emphasizes that all fires in this territory, even though believed under control, must be reported!

Help Prevent Holiday Accidents

Boise — Towns and cities of Idaho are co-operating to make drivers safety conscious. J. T. Williams of Kellogg, president of the Idaho Chapter National Safety Council, declared this week.

"If drivers can be made safety conscious while they are in the towns and cities of Idaho, they will be more likely to drive safely on the highways," Williams pointed out. "If only one life is saved this Labor Day week-end, the efforts of these city officials will have paid dividends."

Williams estimated that without the co-operation of Idaho cities and towns in the safety campaign, 30 percent more persons might be killed during the three-day week-end this year than in 1949, when 410 lives were lost throughout the nation.

In 1946 only 239 people were killed in traffic accidents. In 1947 the toll was 293, and in 1948 there were 288 traffic deaths. During the past year, Williams pointed out, 57 percent of all drivers involved in fatal accidents were violating some traffic law at the time of the accident.

Last year the Silflow listings led.

Fine Harvest Weather Continues

The past week has seen as fine harvest weather as anyone could want — warm, almost hot days, with the temperature climbing to highs of 92 degrees, but mostly hitting around the high 80's.

Big problem for the farmers has been to "find a place to dump" their grain — one farmer from Cedar ridge being forced to haul to Lenore!

Local warehouses are chuck-a-block, and have been able to care for incoming grain only so far as their shipments out would permit — and box cars have been a very scarce item!

Mistake In Identity

It seems the Gazette was misinformed on the identity of the MacPherson family of Salmon — as appearing in a news item in our columns some two weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. MacPherson are still residing at Ashton, Idaho, and "Mac" is still in the insurance business in that city — and again high man in the state.

P.-T. A. Conference

The District P.-T. A. Conference will be held this year at Cildesac, on Sept. 6. This will be an all-day session, with registration at 9:00 a. m. and lunch at noon. It is hoped to have a good representation from Kendrick.

The meeting is open to all P.-T. A. members, and reservations for lunch must be made by Sept. 1. Please contact Mrs. Gerald Ingle, P.-T. A. president, if you can go.

W. S. C. S. Fall Meeting

The Kendrick W. S. C. S. will hold their first meeting following summer vacation next Friday, Sept. 1, in the church basement, at 2:00 p. m. The topic for the afternoon is "Health Through a Brotherhood of Nations," led by Mrs. Ben P. Cook. Hostesses are Mrs. John Darby, Mrs. Wm. Holt and Mrs. Wade T. Keene. All are invited to attend.

Sunday School Sept. 10

The Sunday School teachers of the Kendrick Community Church announce that Sunday School will begin Sept. 10 — which is the second Sunday of the month. Postponement is due to the Labor Day holiday.

Bird's Eye Fresh Frozen Foods of many varieties are obtainable at Blewett's Grocery-Market in Kendrick — and they're good. 1-adv.

Lewiston — 1950 population, 12,910; 1940, 10,548.
Orofino — 1950, 1,653; 1940, 1,602.
Latah county climbed from 18,804 in 1940 to 20,904 in 1950. Evidently all of the county, with the exception of Moscow, lost population.

Nez Perce county had 18,873 in 1940 and 22,553 in 1950, most of the gain occurring in the town of Lewiston.
Clearwater County showed a loss for the 10-year period, the 1940 figures giving the population at 8,243 and the 1950 figures 8,143.
No figures are available for any town of less than 1,000 population, as yet.
Total state population (released from Washington, D. C.) shows Idaho's 1950 total at 586,037 — the 1940 total 524,873.

Reaction to Tumors in Mice Studied by Yale Scientist

A Yale scientist, engaged in cancer research, has discovered that the length of time mice can survive after developing malignant tumors is related to the age of the mother of the mice.

Dr. Leonall C. Strong, geneticist of the Yale University school of medicine, has found that litters of mice, all born of the same parents, show significant differences in their reaction to the tumors.

His experiments indicate that the survival period is shortest in mice born in the first litter, and longest in mice born of the same parents but who already have produced six or more litters.

The survival period tests are the latest discovery in Dr. Strong's cancer research with mice that extends back more than a decade. He has for years produced mice having a strong resistance to malignant tumors and has shown that this resistance mechanism is transmitted to the next generation by some means other than through the germ plasma.

Resistance of mice to tumors is significant because it may possibly provide a means of controlling cancer.

In his work on survival periods, Dr. Strong used eight litters of mice born of the same mother. Each mouse received an injection of methylcholanthrene, a powerful tumor-producing chemical. As soon as the tumor developed in the mouse, observations were made to determine the number of days the mouse survived.

Dr. Strong found that mice of the first litter survived an average of 52.4 days, with the survival period gradually increasing with succeeding litters until the average survival time for mice of the eighth litter is 130 days.

Nerve Impulses Go Faster Following Initial Stimulus

The first in a series of nerve impulses may act as a motorcycle escort, clearing the way for those that follow and enabling them to go faster in their hasty travels over the networks of the nervous system.

This is indicated in the results of a study of fundamental mechanisms of the nervous system by Dr. Theodore H. Bullock and Lillian R. Berkowitz of the University of California.

The study shows that in many cases when a nerve receives an impulse, subsequent impulses travel at a faster rate through the nerve fibers for a short time. This acceleration continues until fatigue slows down conduction.

An investigation was made at the rate at which impulses are conducted through the single nerve fibers of sea worms, earthworms, and whole nerves of frogs. The rate of conduction was actually increased after a "conditioning" impulse in all these cases up to 20 per cent.

Until these results were observed, it had been thought that an impulse slows down subsequent impulses until recovery to a normal rate is complete.

These observations may greatly simplify the search for the basic mechanisms of nervous function.

The study was made under a U.S. public health grant.

Honey Substitute for Bees

If feeding is necessary, the best substitute for honey, as a food for bees, is a heavy syrup made of white granulated sugar and water. For winter stores, the syrup should be made by dissolving two parts of sugar in one part of water. In feeding the colonies in cold weather, increase the ratio of sugar to two and one-half parts of water, adding one teaspoonful of tartaric acid to every 20 pounds of sugar to keep the syrup from granulating. In making water to dissolve the sugar, and add the tartaric acid to the boiling syrup. Stir constantly until all sugar is dissolved. Sugar syrup that has fermented, especially in tin or iron containers, should not be fed to bees, for it is often poisonous to them.

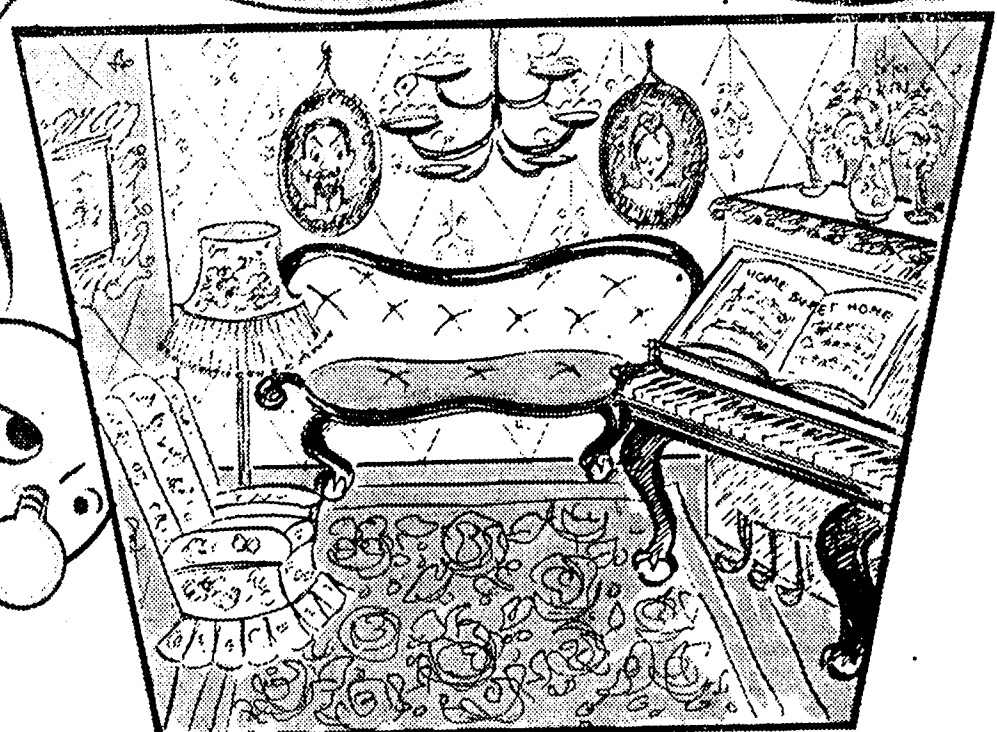

E-Bond Series Lead

Purchases of Series E savings bonds since the war seem to have stabilized into a pattern in which the largest denomination certificates, those of $500 and $1,000 face value, have been contributing more to the annual dollar totals than the smaller denominations combined. The $1,000 bond alone has been averaging about 42 per cent of all E-Bond purchases in dollar totals in the last three years and the $500 bond approximately 14 per cent. Thus the two together represent an average of around 56 per cent of all E-Bond sales since 1947.

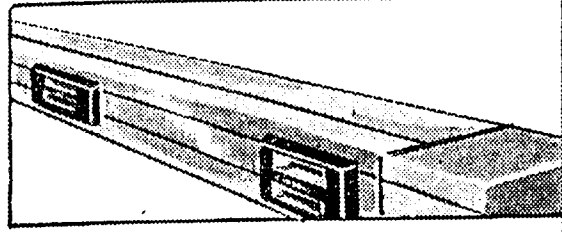

Handles Carefully Finished

Ever notice the finish on the handle of your paint brush, screw driver, penholder, paring knife, saw, hoe, rake, or umbrella? It had to be carefully formulated so that it would be hard, glossy, smooth, resistant to moisture, perspiration and abrasion. It must not soften or become sticky when it's in use. Lacquers and hard-drying varnishes fill all these specifications to a high degree and are frequently used for such purposes.

Nation Will Produce More 'Green Pastures'

Grass, Farm Mechanization More Vital in Later Years

Prospects are evident that America's farmlands will grow greener in the second half of the 20th century.

Outstanding in farming's past 50 years and bound to play vital parts in the years to come are the new importance of grass and the mechanization of the farm.

According to experts on the subject, grass is soon to rank as a prime contributor to the health and wealth of the United States. Farmers who will turn to the use of grass as a real crop in itself, will find that it prevents erosion, builds up the soil, improves the land for crops that are to follow and provides greater profit through more economical feed.

Because they can now grow more grass with less work, farmers are planting more and more acres in green pastures. They are using more grass as rotation and cover crops and tests have proved to them that grass in rotation with corn and cotton vastly increases yields.

The making of hay and grass silage is the basis of grassland farming. This is a true product of the 20th century. Experiments started about 25 years ago are just now getting widespread acceptance as farmers find that grass silage is second only to grazing in a good livestock program.

Handy Device

August Bruynell, proprietor of the Forest Hill poultry farm, North Weare, N. H., has a handy device to carry feed and eggs when he works in his big laying house which houses 1,925 New Hampshire bred hens.

Cultivator Needed In Control of Weeds

Chemical sprays are not yet ready to replace the cultivator in controlling weeds, according to Dr. J. C. Willard, agronomist in the college of agriculture at Ohio University.

"No chemicals so far available for use in crops will kill all weeds," Dr. Willard said. "If we use chemicals without cultivation to remove the weeds left after spraying, it will be only a short time before we have fields which are as weedy as before, but the weeds will be different and of kinds harder to kill."

Introduction of new chemicals every year makes spraying more of a specialist's job, he pointed out, cautioning farmers to beware of the fly-by-night operator.

Sleeping Sickness Menace To Livestock Is Recounted

Each summer and fall livestock owners are warned of the toll which may be taken of animals by sleeping sickness. Losses from this disease showed a startling increase in 1947 and 1948, and figures for the past year are expected to show but little decline when finally compiled.

The virus of the disease may have "wintered over" with more virulence and in more places.

U. S. Milk Industry Vastly Transformed

Cost of Product Rises Less Than Other Foods

Since the turn of the century the milk industry has undergone a transformation rivaling that of the airplane, according to dairy scientist and historian Dr. J. Lloyd Henderson.

Dr. Henderson, co-author of "The Market Milk Industry," a standard textbook whose latest edition will be released this spring said "Our research since the war's end points up the fact that although labor and equipment costs have kept pace with rising scales in other industries, the cost of milk and its products has risen less than that of any other food. In fact, milk, from a nutritive point of view, is far and away the housewife's best food buy."

Cost-saving scientific advances in milk processing and startling economies due to improved, distribution practices have been responsible for this, Henderson points out.

The industry shed no tears as it buried the familiar 10-gallon milk

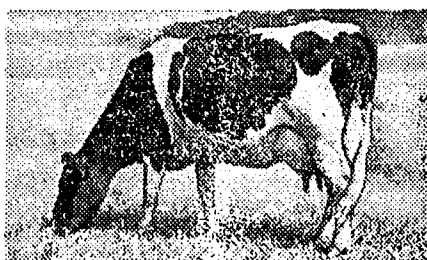

This excellent herd of cattle, grazing quietly and contentedly is symbolic of vast milk industry which has undergone such a transformation in the past two decades.

can and converted to huge insulated tank trucks for bringing milk from the larger farms to the processing plant. Savings in handling due to this change have only been matched by the improvement in sanitation and quality of the product, Henderson said. Every-other-day delivery, now practically standard practice in major cities, plus the use of retail trucks of almost double capacity, also helped keep the housewife's milk budget in line.

The flash pasteurized, once outlawed by health authorities, has been so improved that today every milk company of any size uses it to save expensive man-hours and production space.

Check Cows' Feet

Although one would hardly gather the impression from the Holstein cow (above), cows are like people in more ways than one—one sure one being that when their feet hurt, their production lags. Farmers can help prevent loss of production from this source by periodic attention to the feet of their cattle to check for foot infection or other ills.

New Dairy Element Seen As Aid in More Output

The animal protein factor—miraculous dairy element which speeds up the growth of farm animals and poultry at less cost to the farmer—is now in tonnage production and should be readily available to consumers within a short time.

Officials of the chemical company producing the element which is accomplished by bacterial fermentation, promise feed efficiency that will represent a significant new advance in animal nutrition.

The fermentation APF, as the feed component is known, has a Vitamin B12 content approximately 40 times that of good fish meal, the outstanding natural source of APF which has been widely used heretofore in feed mixtures. This vitamin compound is one of the most effective known for supplementing chicken and hog feeds.

Superphosphate Will Help Add to Manure Properties

Adding superphosphate to manure not only increases its plant food balance, but helps it hold valuable nitrogen that otherwise might be lost, according to Prof. C. J. Chapman, University of Wisconsin agronomist. He says it should be added before the manure is spread on the field.

The superphosphate can be put in the spreader at the rate of 20 to 25 pounds per load.

Many Research Projects

U. of I., Moscow — Research, an important part of the University of Idaho's "teaching-research service" program, has taken the form of more than 500 projects during the last two years. Dr. L. C. Cady, executive secretary of the research council, reported this week.

Presently underway at the university and experiment stations throughout the state are 225 projects. Before June 1, 1950, 217 research projects were completed; 46 were inactive due to lack of personnel or lack of promise after the exploratory work was completed, and 22 were merged with other projects. Graduate students made contributions to a number of the projects as research assistants or on a part-time help basis. Over 170 of the 510 projects were studied as graduate research problems. During the second semester of the 1949-1950 year, 132 staff members were spending part of their time on research. Between June of 1948 and June of 1950, the time reported by Dr. Cady, more than 185 research publications were written and published by the university staff members.

The college of agriculture leads in the number of projects now active, with 115. Second is the college of letters and science with 45. Other divisions and numbers of active projects are: School of Forestry, 27; College of Engineering, 22; school of Mines, 9; School of Business Administration, 4; School of Education, 2, and the College of Law, 1.

Taxpayers Pay Difference
The U. S. Interior Department published, at a total cost of $61,242, a 23-volume series on the Columbia River Basin. The printing cost per set was $36.06, but the publications were put on sale at $6.90 per set. Many sets were distributed free.

A MORNING PRAYER

Let me today do something that will take
A little sadness from the world's vast store,
And may I be so favored as to make
Of joy's too scanty sum a little more.

Let me not hurt, by any selfish deed
Or thoughtless word, the heart of foe or friend.
Nor would I pass unseeing worthy need,
Or sin by silence when I should defend.

However meager be my worldly wealth,
Let me give something that shall aid my kind —
A word of courage, or a thought of health
Dropped as I pass for troubled hearts to find.

Let me tonight look back across the span
'Twixt dawn and dark, and to my conscience say —
Because of some good act to beast or man —
"The world is better that I lived today."
