Hunters Having Fair Luck

Quite a number of local big game hunters have been able to bag their deer locally — some getting white tails and some mule deer. We do not have a list of successful hunters, but there are quite a number of them.

As far as the bird hunting goes — it is as slim as anyone could imagine — there having been but few killed, despite the many who have tried — for to be successful there must be birds, and there just aren't any locally this year. In our opinion it would have been well to have closed the season entirely.

THIRTY-NINE ENJOY "WOMEN'S NIGHT" AT COM. CLUB

Thirty-nine Commercial Club members and their wives enjoyed the annual "Women's Night" of the Kendrick Commercial Club Wednesday evening of last week, November 8.

The evening began with a 6:30 dinner served at Burt's Confectionery. Following the dinner adjournment was taken to the basement of the Community Church where Hal Gribble of the Lewis-Clark Council, Boy Scouts of America, showed two fine films on Scouting. The first of these was a training film for Scout leaders, but was very interesting to all, as it depicted the activities of Scouts from the time they joined a troop, until they became senior or "Explorer Scouts."

The second film showed the big Boy Scout Jamboree held this past summer at Valley Forge, one of the great historical spots of our nation. In technicolor, it showed their activities, followed them on visits to many historical points, and showed their activities, including their mass grouping of 46,000 Boy Scouts from the United States, Canada and Mexico.

At the conclusion of the program, a short business session was held. Following the reading of the Minutes and allowance of bills, letters were read from Mr. Robinson of the postoffice department regarding the proposed mail routes. After a bit of round-table discussion it was decided to hold up further action until congress was in session, then take the matter up with Senator H. C. Dworshak at Washington, D. C.

A letter from Senator Dworshak to the Kendrick Gazette regarding the $50,000 flood control project for the Potlatch river was also read. On this matter A. O. Kanikkeberg reported that a representative of the Army Engineers had been a recent caller in Kendrick, and discussed this matter with him, and possibly further information would be forthcoming from that organization.

Reporting for the Education committee Gerald Ingle said the local schools were operating smoothly — and that the last football game of the season would be Friday Nov. 10, with the Lewiston B squad, at Lewiston.

Henry Jones, local Scoutmaster, said that 42 attended the local Boy Scout drive "kick-off" breakfast at White's Confectionery, and that to date $189.25 had been turned in as Kendrick's contribution toward this fine work.

Reporting for the special "Field Committee" A. O. Kanikkeberg said that recent surveys seemed to indicate no dirt would be required on the local field before seeding was undertaken, many recommending a thorough springtoothing, and then removal of loose and surface rock — however, many think more dirt is needed, and it certainly could do no damage, as drainage would probably be improved.

Speaking on the same subject Ross Armitage announced pledges of $105 for work and dirt toward the field's improvement, but that it was impossible to proceed at this time, as the field was a lily-lob, and must dry out before action can be taken.

H. S. Schupfer, president, extended the thanks of the group to Mr. Gribble, and adjournment was taken until the next regular meeting, Wednesday, December 13.

Boy Scouts Have Fun

The local Boy Scouts, Troop 149, had a lot of fun Monday evening preparing a meal over the camp fire. Steaks, vegetables, and other items too numerous to mention were wrapped in aluminum foil and covered with hot ashes. In about a half hour these packages were taken out, and some very tasty meals enjoyed around the fire.

Scouts Dave Crocker, Darrel Brocke, Randy Wallace, Charles and Roger Christensen, George and Lee Jones; Scoutmaster Henry Jones and Committeeman Ben P. Cook tried their hand at this novel method of cooking — and found it most satisfactory.

All-in-all, it was a most pleasant as well as educational evening.

P.-T. A. Meet Nov. 20

The November meeting for the Joint P.-T. A. will be held at the Kendrick school on Monday evening, Nov. 20 at 8:00 p. m. The Leland ladies will be hostesses for the evening.

Ross Armitage will lead the discussion on "His Home and His Community."

It is hoped that Mrs. L. G. Harris, II District vice president, will be able to make her annual visit this month.

Masons and Stars Have Fun

Friday evening, Nov. 10, at the Fraternal Temple, the Masons held their fall party, with wives, friends, and ladies of Eastern Star as special guests. Alfred Severson's orchestra from Troy provided music for the old-time dancing. About 35 couples attended.

LEWISTON CHAMBER ASKS MONTH'S TRAIN EXTENSION

Lewiston, Sat., Nov. 11 — Temporary continued operation of the present passenger train schedules between Lewiston and Spokane was requested yesterday by the Lewiston Chamber of Commerce to provide time to arrange adequate mail service to the Troy-Kendrick-Juliaetta region.

The Northern Pacific has been granted permission by the Idaho public utilities commission and the Washington public service commission to discontinue two of its four trains effective Dec. 1, northbound No. 312, which leaves Lewiston at 8:05 a. m. and southbound No. 313, which leaves Spokane at 9:45 p. m. The postal transportation service has received bids for an alternate star mail route to be served by truck. Southbound from Spokane, this route would serve the towns now receiving mail by train No. 313. Northbound from Lewiston, the route would be directly to Moscow, depriving the Juliaetta-Kendrick-Troy area of the present morning mail service.

A chamber of commerce special investigating committee, J. A. McArthur, chairman, wired a request to C. E. Denny, Northern Pacific president, St. Paul, that suspension of the present train service be delayed until Jan. 1. In the meantime it recommended two alternates to the proposed Lewiston-Spokane star route truck service:

1. A diesel railway-car service from Spokane to Moscow, with a connecting truck star route service to Lewiston, serving Juliaetta-Kendrick-Troy on the return northbound trip.

2. Splitting the proposed Spokane-Lewiston truck star route into two contracts, one operating heavy equipment from Spokane to Moscow, and another lighter equipment from Moscow to Lewiston, which would return via Kendrick and Troy.

The committee also recommended investigation of the possibility of requesting a re-hearing by the Idaho public utilities commission on its original order granting the Northern Pacific permission to discontinue the operation of trains 312 and 313. The suspension order was granted, the committee contended, on the premise that the substitute mail service by truck to the affected communities would be adequate and comparable to that now provided by train. Failure of the postal transportation service to provide such adequate substitute service would constitute grounds for asking a re-hearing.

The postal transportation service was also asked by the committee to suspend awarding a contract for the Spokane-Lewiston star mail route under the routing proposed in bids which were received in Spokane on Oct. 28. The bids were forwarded to Washington for decision by the postal transportation service and no information has been received here as to whether a contract has been awarded. The committee sent a message to Assistant Postmaster General John M. Redding, asking that awarding of the contract be delayed until that the department make a full investigation of the problem. Members of the Idaho delegation in congress were also requested to intercede on behalf of the action.

The proposed combination railway-truck star route from Spokane to Lewiston was endorsed Wednesday by directors of the Moscow Chamber of Commerce. The suggested schedule for the service would provide for the diesel railway car to leave Spokane at 12:01 a. m., arriving at Moscow at 3:15 a. m., and connecting with a truck which would leave Moscow at 3:45 a. m. and arrive at Lewiston at 5:45, via Genesee. On the northbound trip the truck would leave Lewiston at 6:30 a. m., arriving at Juliaetta at 7:15, Kendrick 7:30, Troy 8:00 and Moscow at 8:30, where it would connect with the northbound railway car. The southbound schedule from Spokane would permit delivery of mail received there from the coast and east on late trains which do not now connect with the Spokane-Lewiston night train.

Splitting the Spokane-Lewiston star route into two divisions would have the advantage of permitting operation of light truck equipment south from Moscow, McArthur explained. The postal transportation service has contended that the heavy truck equipment which would be required for serving the entire route could not ascend the Kendrick-Troy grade during severe weather.

McArthur stressed that Lewiston has a "community obligation" to assure adequate mail and transportation service to all towns of its trading area. Other members of the chamber investigating committee are Russell Randall, W. R. Rouse and T. W. Campbell. — Lewiston Tribune (Sat. Nov. 11).

Lewiston, Nov. 13 — J. A. McArthur, chairman of a Lewiston Chamber of Commerce committee appointed to investigate Juliaetta-Kendrick-Troy mail delivery plans will report to the chamber board of directors this noon on actions taken by his committee.

The committee was established to investigate complaints from residents of the Juliaetta-Kendrick-Troy area that under proposed plans their mail service will be inadequate.

Mail would be carried to the communities by a star route truck traveling from Spokane to Lewiston under a postoffice department proposal. The truck, however, on its northbound trip, would run directly to Spokane, eliminating the three communities.

Snow Again Falls Locally

Tuesday night of last week old man winter made his first appearance, when he laid a white carpet a-top the ridges surrounding Kendrick, the depth reaching about two inches at Southwick. During the snow there, rain fell in the canyon. Wednesday morning school busses came in with "white frosting" but the weather turned warmer and by Friday the snow had disappeared.

Tuesday morning of this week when Kendrickites arose they could see snow along the canyon rim, with Southwick again receiving about a two-inch fall.

SHORT NEWS ITEMS FROM OUR LOCAL SCHOOLHOUSE

Kendrick Bows To Lewiston Kendrick played their last football game of the season on the Bengal gridiron, with the Lewiston B squad at 2:30, Novmbr 10.

In the first half Lewiston tallied two touchdowns, but couldn't push over the conversions. In the second half Lewiston drove to a first down with one foot to go for a touchdown but couldn't make the conversion. The score then stood 18-0 in Lewiston's favor. In the fourth quarter Burt Souders had the misfortune to break the smaller bone in his right leg, but this didn't stop Kendrick. Christensen drove over for a touchdown and they couldn't stop him on the conversion, due to the very good blocking done by the line. The final score stood 18-7, Lewiston.

All-School Play

Due to this fact we have been having trouble keeping the Art students at their work instead of watching practices — so we feel certain that you will enjoy it. The cast includes five boys and two girls. The dialogue, written by Booth Tarkington, is especially clever, with emphasis on the "terrible teens." So come along next Tuesday night to the gym for an evening of laughs.

Co-operative Creamery

The Kendrick Co-operative Creamery was sold last week to Oscar Medallin, Kendrick, who, we understand, purchased building and equipment for approximate book valuation.

Mr. Medallin plans the installation of some new equipment immediately, and an over-haul of that now in use. The business will not be closed up, as so many have feared, but will be operated completely.

The Kendrick Co-operative Creamery was organized in 1942, with Frank G. Harris, former manager of a large Lewiston creamery, as manager. The organization purchased the building and equipment of the Thomas Creamery, and has continued to put forth excellent dairy products, butter, ice cream, cottage cheese, etc., under the brand name of "Potlatch Chief," with an Indian head as their trademark.

We understand that for the time being, at least, Mr. Medallin will continue the name "Potlatch Chief" and will operate under the name of "Kendrick Creamery."

Mr. Medallin will be assisted in the creamery by the present staff, plus his son, Allen, who is now employed there.

Now Raising Lemons

With two ripe lemons to encourage him, Harry Wright, 1212 Idaho St., Lewiston, and a former old-time Kendrick resident, predicts the Lewiston area may become known as the lemon belt, rather than the banana belt — provided a lemon tree he now has continues to bear fruit.

It was brought to him last summer by a daughter who lives in California. The fruit developed from blossoms since he has had the tree. Planted in a large tin can, the tree will be kept indoors this winter.

Mr. Wright says he and his wife intend to make themselves a tasty glass of lemonade soon!

Sons Visit Grandparents

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Goff of Lewiston brought their sons up Monday and left them with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben P. Cook, while they went on to Spokane on business. They returned Tuesday evening.

Road Work Progress Slow

Progress on the rebuilding of the Brady Gulch road is making slow progress, hampered by rains and machinery breakdowns, resulting from "mud working."

However, it is hoped to have this job completed before Thanksgiving — and a much better road it will be. In the meantime, motorists would do well to observe the detour signs and go up the old Juliaetta grade, which is in very good condition.

Buildings Being Re-roofed

The White's Confectionery building is receiving a new roof at the hands of Jack Kuykendall — and the Gazette office at the hands of Walter Sparber — in preparation for the coming winter, which all hope won't be nearly as long or severe as that of the two preceding years.

Employed At KRLC

Benny Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben P. Cook, long a "ham radio" fan, has been employed on a part-time basis by radio station KRLC in Lewiston. Benny will make spot announcements, rustle local news, and otherwise keep busy about the station.

Bit of Wyoming's Wild West Retained in National Parks

"Away out west" in Wyoming, something not yet old has been added to Uncle Sam's Jackson Hole national monument and Grand Teton national park.

The Rockefeller family's gift to the U.S. government — covering more than 33,000 acres of land lying within these two areas—is new by recent presentation. It is old because it includes bait of the pioneers' "Wild West" to be held untouched for nature lovers amid the cultivated fields, ranches, and expanding communities of modern America.

In northwest Wyoming, just south of Yellowstone, the Jackson Hole and Teton regions recall scenes of natural grandeur which greeted the first explorers and fur trappers to push into the Rocky Mountain country of Indians and wild game. Then vast numbers of elk, moose, bison, black and grizzly bears, deer, and beaver populated these mountains and valleys.

Many wild animals still haunt the western Wyoming region. Visitors report that antelope race their cars along open-range roads; beavers often annoy farmers by damming irrigation ditches, and Jackson Hole ranchers have built high fences to protect their haystacks against marauding elk.

The first white man to see the majestic Teton Range rising west of the lush green valley now known as Jackson Hole is believed to have been John Colter. In 1807-8, this woodsman and trapper, previously on the Lewis and Clark expedition, crossed and recrossed the mountains. Traveling alone, with a 30-pound pack and gun, Colter also penetrated the northern wilderness on this trip, discovering Yellowstone.

Tastier Drinking Water Promised by New Technique

City drinking water free from unpleasant odors and tastes has been made possible by a new technique which for the first time can isolate and analyze the water's minute organic contaminants.

The water supply of key cities along the Ohio river will be investigated by using the new test as the first step in removing the impurities.

In the course of a year the average adult will consume less than a quarter teaspoonful of organic matter present as impurities in the water he drinks. Yet this small amount of organic matter can and frequently does impart a wide variety of unpleasant tastes and odors to a year's quota of water for an adult.

Big strides forward are being made in successfully handling the taste and odor problem this minute quantity of organic material causes. However, the exact nature and chemical properties of the trace amounts of organic matter in the water have remained almost completely unknown. What has long been needed is a method for recovering the extremely dilute dissolved organic matter from the water so that its composition and properties might be investigated.

Enemies of Lemming

The most dangerous natural enemies of the lemming are the snowy owl, the arctic fox and ermine, who depend almost exclusively on the lemming as their winter fare. The snowy owl—white except for sharp, black bars across the body—is a born and trained hunter, equipped with ice-pick sharp claws for seizing a victim. Though the owl travels south during a season of lemming migration, he rarely breeds outside his home in the arctic circle. The ermine, thin and sinuous, is more successful than the fox in hunting down the lemming in the rodent's years of scarcity. The ermine can travel winter under a heavy blanket of snow—while the fox must smell and search and dig for his food.

Bandaging Dog's Tail

A long-time problem of veterinarians—how to keep bandages in place on monkeys' and dogs' tails—may be solved in the future by use of stainless steel tubes as surgical dressings for injured dogs. Dogs and monkeys are noted for tampering with bandages, often biting or pulling off dressings meant to protect wounds. Steel tubes promote healing by protecting the wounded tail from further injuries resulting from biting or scratching, allow free ventilation of the wound and make it easy for veterinarians to observe how healing is progressing.

Test New Cancer Method

Scientists in the University of California medical school are testing a method of treating cancer by injecting anticancer drugs directly into arteries serving tumor areas. They hope thereby to cause maximum damage to cancer tumors and minimize the toxic effects of drugs on the whole system. The research, supported in part by the American Cancer society, is being conducted under the direction of Dr. Michael B. Shimkin, director of the laboratory of experimental oncology, a joint venture of the university and the National Cancer Institute.

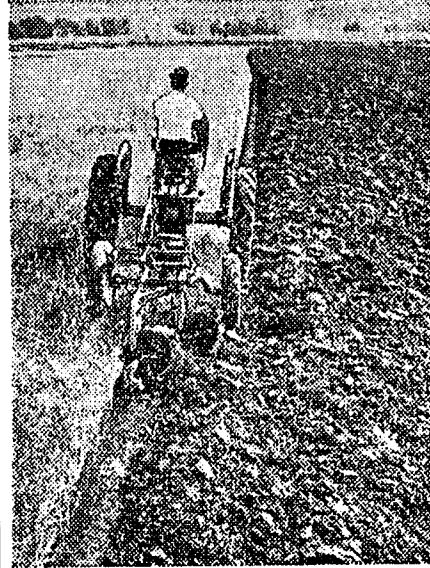

Condition of Land Vital to Economy Good Farming Practices Aid Conservation Work

That the condition of the land and its productivity affect the vigor and vitality of the national economy is a fact becoming more generally recognized by farmers, business men and industrialists alike.

And, according to W. R. Tascher, extension soil conservationist of Washington, D.C., there is a certain point in land deterioration which when reached becomes the principal factor in influencing the nation's economy.

In the United States about two-thirds of all raw materials come from the land for the country's total industrial production, Tascher said. About 60 per cent of all manufacturing plants in this country depend upon the soil for their principal raw materials.

This photo shows the kind of land use and development which is vital to the condition of the soil.

It is obvious, he continued, that scarcely a segment of the nation's economy can assume continued survival without the care of its land resources in such a way as to insure continued adequate production.

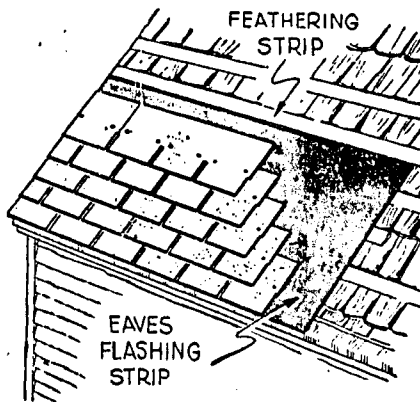

Spud Harvest Study Would Cut Damages

Preliminary work to determine the points in potato harvesting and handling where bruising injury occurs, with a view to developing methods for avoiding such damage, was started in North Dakota last fall, Perry V. Hemphill, associate agricultural economist of the North Dakota experiment station, reports.

A survey was made by the experiment station in cooperation with regional potato laboratory in East Grant Forks. Samples were taken immediately after digging, from the picker sacks standing in the field, from sacks on the truck at the warehouse before unloading, and from the bins immediately after unloading.

It was noted that the percentage of bruising increased during each operation. After digging it was found 11 per cent of the potatoes were bruised, after picking 17 per cent were bruised, after trucking the percentage bruised went up to 18, and after binning 41 per cent were bruised. It was noted an increase of 23 per cent may be due to the binning process alone.

Applying Shingles

In applying asphalt shingles over an old wood shingle roof, first nail down loose shingles. Split warped shingles and nail down the segments. Place bevelled wood "feathering" strips along the butts of each course of old shingles. Apply an "eaves flashing strip" of asphalt roll roofing. Use six nails in each three-tab, square-but.

Overhead Water System Creating Wide Interest

The use of overhead sprinkling systems for irrigated farming has created widespread interest in areas where artificial watering is necessary to crop production.

Among the merits of overhead sprinkler systems is that land leveling—which removes valuable top soil from high spots, is not necessary, and ground ordinarily used for ditches can be utilized for growing crops.

Really Fooled Him

Our neighbor's daughter Sally is not only pretty but deceptively mature for her years. I was chatting with her one day when a local bachelor approached and I introduced them. A few days later he phoned her and asked if she were busy Saturday night.

"Why, no," she replied. It was agreed that he should call for her at seven. Saturday night he engaged a table at a smart night club, but when he drove over for Sally she came down clad in blue jeans and a baggy sweater, and carrying some schoolbooks.

"How long will it take you to get ready," he asked.

"Oh, I'm ready now," she said. "I always wear these."

"But we're going to the Penguin Club. I've got reservations."

"Penguin Club?" she gasped. "I can't do that. I was going to do my homework. I thought you wanted a baby-sitter." — Reader's Digest.

Watch For Pork Color

When buying pork look for meat of light pink color — not deep red, advises home demonstration agents of the University of Idaho. Fat should be snowy white and rather soft, but not oily. Meat is best that is firm and well marbled with fat.

Pork should always be cooked well before serving.

Proper Milk Cooling Necessary for Grade Warm Milk Excellent For Bacteria Breeding

Milk must be cooled properly in order to be classed as Grade A. Unsatisfactory cooling can make good pasture, a healthy herd and observance of all health and management rules look mighty sick. To preserve quality, milk should be cooled to 50 degrees or lower soon after it is drawn. Milk is cooled in one of three ways on the farm: by water, ice and mechanical refrigeration.

Electric milk coolers are thermostatically controlled and use from 25 to 30 KWH per month to cool 10 gallons of milk per day. Even they, however, might be improved. One attempt to do this is illustrated in the accompanying photograph. It shows a farmer setting a timer to operate an extra agitator on a conventional cooler. By means of this special equipment, he starts building up the ice bank in the cooler the minute the milk cans are immersed. There is no waiting for the escaping heat from the milk to set the cooling mechanism in action.

Small Acreage Farmers Practice Conservation

Small-farm operators are beginning to change their belief that soil conservation is a luxury they can't afford.

Thousands of small farms are now practicing all-out soil conservation with exciting results.

Back in the 1930's, a farming magazine recalls, farmers were told to cut down on corn and small grain. The idea was to keep more of the land in grass and most of the rest in hay crops most of the time.

After giving soil conservation a try, thousands of operators of small farms have now concluded, the magazine finds, that one can raise more of everything. Some have doubled production in just a few years under soil conservation practices.

Broilers Need Water

Broilers need water to put on weight. Laying hens need it to maintain satisfactory egg production. And they need it all year round—winter and summer.

In years past, poultry waterers required almost constant attention during the winter. Often the battle against ice was fought with steaming kettles of water.

One method of overcoming this problem is presented in the accompanying illustration. It shows the installation of a heat lamp over a common type of waterer. The warmth produced is sufficient to keep the water free of ice as well as to prevent litter from becoming wet around the waterer.

Dry Silage Sometimes Contains Few Vitamins

Dry silage, which has been subjected to long-continued, high heat of fermentation, has little carotene of Vitamin-A content left in it. Carotene usually is badly needed to supplement the other rations.

The farmer with several silos to fill should start several days ahead of when the kernels have finished denting to avoid ending up the silo-filling with corn that is "rattle dry" as it is blown in.

"With Love!"
Everything possible had gone wrong that morning and to cap the climax the top of the hot water faucet had broken off. I was hunting frantically for a way to stop the water pouring down the drain when the telephone rang. "Oh, dear, what next?" I groaned as I lifted the receiver.
"This is Western Union," said the voice at the other end. "I have a telegram for you from Dartmouth: Arriving home 6:30 for week-end. Bringing four boys. With love, John."
"Heavens!" I gasped involuntary. "How can he do this to me? Grandma is sick in bed, the house is a mess. . . ."
"Remember, madam," interrupted the impersonal voice of the operator, "he said, 'With love.'"

25 YEARS AGO

Hartung-McCall Nuptials
 One of the prettiest fall weddings was solemnized at Cameron at the Carl Hartung home, Nov. 11, when Miss Bertha Hartung and Walter McCall were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. A. Rein of Cameron, beneath a bower of evergreens and a huge wedding bell hung before an improvised altar of burning cathedral candles, banked on either side by myrtle and chrysanthemums.
 The house was elaborately decorated in yellow and white, the color scheme that was carried out in the flowers and gowns of the bridesmaids. Seven little friends and relatives of the bride formed an aisle of white streamers. The bridal party passed down the aisle and through an arch to the altar, where the bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was met by the groom. Mrs. E. A. Rein played Lohengren's wedding march and also "Believe Me, If All Those Endearing Young Charms."
 Miss Hannah Hartung and Clare Marquette of Lewiston were the bridesmaids. Walter and August Hartung, brothers of the bride, were the attendants of the groom.
 Miss Hannah Hartung wore a gown of apricot flat crepe with a front tunic of ecru lace and a large rose of apricot shade on the shoulder. Miss Marquette wore a gown of deeper apricot shade in the same material and fashioned on the same lines.
 The bride's gown was of moon-glow satin and made with flares set in panels and trimmed with self-material roses and ostrich. Her long tulle veil was held in place with a wreath of myrtle and pearls. She and her maids carried bouquets of huge chrysanthemums in yellow and white.
 After the ceremony, which was held at high noon, an elaborate wedding feast was served to 82 guests. The tables were waited on by the Misses Stella McClelland, Ruth Boenke, Toke Wilken, Bill Mielke and Heber Wolf.
 After a trip to Spokane and the coast the young couple will make their home on the McCall farm.
 The entire community joins in wishing the popular young couple a long and happy wedded life.

An Efficient System
 I was in a small tavern in northern Michigan one night when the lights went off for an instant. People around me chuckled, and someone called out, "Go on home, Tom." From a far corner an old fellow roared and talked out, grumbling. The man on my left explained: "Tom and his wife own the dynamo up the river, and when she figures he's been here long enough she just turns off the power. Us townsfolk ready!" he asked.
 always see to it that he leaves right away, because the next time the lights go off they don't come back on." — Reader's Digest.

Tires Being Deflated

Youngsters about town seem to imagine they are having lots of fun letting the air out of tires, particularly on heavy equipment.

Since Halloween the big orange school bus that travels between Kendrick and Juliaetta had the air let out of the front tires and its ignition system disturbed, causing it to miss one day's travel and inconveniencing other bus drivers, who were forced to change their schedules to meet the emergency.

And, on Monday morning, two of the rear tires on the Kendrick Highway District's big diesel patrol were found to be flat — vandals having let the air out of them. This forced the removal of the tires from the machine, and then being brought up town in order that they might be inflated.

Such delays are costly, and not in the least "funny." It should also be borne in mind that tampering with such property is a misdemeanor, and punishable under law.
