Train Continuance Refused

Following many conferences, telegrams, etc., final word has apparently been received from the Northern Pacific Railway company on the request of Clarkston, Lewiston, Juliaetta, Kendrick, Troy and Moscow that the trains scheduled for removal Dec. 1, be retained until Jan. 1, or a satisfactory mail schedule worked out.

The Northern Pacific reply is as follows:

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 20, 1950 Kendrick Commercial Club Kendrick, Idaho Attn. H. C. Schupfer, Chairman Gentlemen:

Your telegram of November 15, addressed to Mr. Denny, has come to my attention. We have had similar requests from other cities concerned and I have already advised them that after giving the subject full consideration, we cannot justify continuing the operation of these trains.

The question of a satisfactory or adequate mail schedule is a matter for discussion between the cities and towns involved and the post office department.

I regret that I cannot give you a favorable answer.

Very truly yours, Robert S. Macfarlane

Wonderful Winter Weather

This past week the Kendrick area has been enjoying as fine winter weather as anyone could wish. True, we have had some rain squalls, a little bit of wind, and a touch of snow, which melted as fast as it hit the ground — but on the whole, the temperature has been moderate, with several lovely sunny days.

Roads are in excellent condition for winter. Pastures and lawns are a bright green, and some shrubs in protected spots, have not yet lost their leaves.

Christmas Decorations Up

Christmas decorations and goods are making their appearance daily in larger quantities at the local stores and some of the seasonal window displays are very attractive indeed.

Making use of the "pigeon hole" type display windows are the Red Cross Pharmacy and Abrams Hardware. In other store windows are to be found the more conventional type display — but worthy of a second look.

SHORT NEWS ITEMS FROM OUR LOCAL SCHOOLHOUSE

Chalk Artist Here

Bob Wood, famous chalk artist, visited the student body on Tuesday morning of this week. Mr. Wood, famous for his artistic ability in many ways, demonstrated this in drawing a wide variety of scenic locations in China, Japan and the deep south along the Mississippi river. He also showed how to write large names both upside-down and backwards. One of his best attractions was placing students names on the board in a scrambled form — then making split-second drawings of them. It is hoped that Mr. Wood can return to Kendrick some day, as he has one of the "better" National School Assembly programs.

Senior Ball

The Kendrick High School Seniors will present their annual Senior Ball this Friday, at 9:00 p. m., in the K. H. S. gym. Kenny West and his orchestra will be the main attraction of the evening. The Senior class has been working very hard, trying to make this one of the most attractive dances ever to be held in the gym. Everyone is invited — all are guaranteed an excellent evening.

Expected to show up well again this year are veterans Orville Halseth, center; Max Clemenhagen, guard; Stan Smith, forward. Other veterans are Parker McCreary and Rex Knight, forward and guard respectively. Prospects to help this year are Albert Clemenhagen, Keith Thornton and Charlie Christensen.

Car Goes Over Bluff

Wednesday evening a new Plymouth sedan (102 miles on the speedometer) owned and driven by John Halliday, Juliaetta, and carrying as passengers, Buzz Nye and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson, all of Juliaetta, went over the 40-foot bluff near the Werner Brammer ranch, between Kendrick and Juliaetta.

Mr. Halliday, the driver, was the more seriously injured, receiving numerous cuts and bruises, as well as a deep lip cut and injury and loss of several of his front teeth. Mrs. Anderson and Mr. Nye were shaken up, and received severe cuts and bruises. Mr. Anderson was not hurt. Mr. Nye had several cuts on his head, 32 stitches being required to close the wounds.

The car was traveling in the direction of Juliaetta, and Mr. Halliday evidently missed the easy turn, and "just drove off." The car was completely demolished.

Quonset-Type Huts Meet Storage Needs 'Little Business' Answers Challenge in Grain Belt

Called upon by the department of agriculture to perform a modern miracle, "little business" in 10 midwestern states is tackling one of the biggest jobs of its kind ever undertaken anywhere in peacetime. Its Herculean assignment is the site preparation and erection of 2,300 steel buildings—each 32x88 feet or larger—at 670 widely separated locations.

The task arose with the grain belt's acute need for space in which to store the record-breaking carry-over of 1948's corn crop. In line with the trend toward economical "horizontal" grain storage, the department ordered Quonset buildings for a large part of the necessary new facilities. These archroofed steel units now are mushrooming up beside highways and railroads near farm centers through the efforts of local businesses and labor, rather than the work of transient crews employed by a few big and distant contracting firms.

Within two weeks time more than 1,100 concrete foundations had been laid, and erection of steel was under way on them in every state. The concrete work alone was roughly equivalent to laying 25 miles of highway in a time that an average road-making crew would require to put down one.

Sweat Down Costs

Sweat down your production costs if you want to maintain profits in these days of declining farm prices. One way to sweat down those costs is to increase your crop yields per acre. More bushels of corn and grain per acre, more pounds of meat, milk, dairy products and poultry mean lower production costs per unit. On such a basis you can make a profit even if prices slacken further.

You can get those higher yields and lower costs with good soil management. Good soil management means giving your soil a fair deal. It means supplying the soil a well-balanced ration of plant foods, so crops will be well nourished. It means building up instead of breaking down soil structure and tilth. It means "recharging" the land with soil-enriching crops at regular intervals, instead of growing soil-draining row crops year after year on the same land.

Dangers of Butchering At Home are Outlined

Home butchering is profitable on the farm and many rural families are replenishing their lockers, jars and pantries. But, unless undue caution is used, home butchering can be dangerous. Equipment, too, should be used with care. All knives should be kept in a suitable place when not in use. Hoisting equipment should be checked. A tamper should be used to force meat into the grinder.

Attention to Details Pays Off for Hog Farms

Attention to details is the biggest reason why some hog farms earned $2,000 more than some others during the past year. F. J. Reiss, farm management specialist in the Illinois college of agriculture, said that 128 high income hog farms averaged $10,200 earnings from swine last year, while 161 less-efficient farms took in only $8,000. Extra care at farrowing, control of parasites, helped.

A BIT OF IDAHO HISTORY

Idaho was discovered by the Lewis and Clark expeditionary forces, but that group crossed the territory at the northern and narrower part. The first extended trip along the Snake river was made a few years later. William P. Hunt and a party of 60 belonging to the Pacific Fur company left Fort Henry on Oct. 19, 1811, to move westward. They started down the Snake river in 15 canoes, but encountered so many rapids that it was decided to abandon the boats and divide the party into two sections. Hunt, with his guides and 18 men, took the right bank, and the remainder under the leadership of a man named Crooks, took the left.

Through November and December the two groups walked on either side of the river, past Shoshone Falls, and on through the snow and cold in their efforts to reach the Columbia river. About half-way across Idaho, Hunt's party was started to hear Crooks' men calling from the other side of the Snake, asking for food. Somewhat desperate themselves, the Hunt party nevertheless built a raft, covered it with the skin of a horse killed the day before for food, and ferried the meat to the half-famished men. One man was drowned at this point.

That winter must have been an extremely cold one, for even when the two parties reached Old Fort Boise, west of where Parma is now located, the Snake river was full of floating ice. Half-starved and half-frozen, weak and dispirited, Hunt and his men managed to cross the dangerous river and join their companions on what is now the Oregon side of the Snake.

No record exists to tell of the number of men who were drowned, frozen, and so sickened they were left to perish alone along the trail. It is known, however, that perhaps only half of the party ever got through the winter. The survivors, unable to proceed encumbered with the disabled members, found it necessary to go on, leaving the ill-fated ones to wait for death in the volcanic and sagebrush wastes along the river.

Meat Increase Needed

If total population in the twelve western states—the range livestock group—should reach the forecast 30,000,000 by 1955, another 1,200,000-000 pounds live weight of meat animals will be needed yearly for its markets. This forecast on probable trends in western livestock is from a new bulletin just issued by the U. S. department of agriculture in cooperation with the agricultural experiment stations of the dozen states involved.

"The statements made in this publication, which is a report on a study of shifts in western livestock slaughter, are highly significant to the Idaho livestock producer," declares William E. Folz, head of the department of agricultural economics. This department represented the Idaho station in the cooperative study.

The report indicates that if all the meat to supply the demand for the additional western population is to come from western ranges, then 1955 livestock production for local slaughter will have to be about 800,000 cattle; 375,000 calves; 1,110,000 hogs, and 1,000,000 sheep above that of today.

Forecast trends in livestock killing represent a continuation of recent developments. The report points out that slaughter of commercial meat animals in the 12 western states has practically doubled during the last quarter century. During this same time population has increased by nearly two-thirds, the most striking increase during the last ten years.

In round figures, slaughter expanded from roughly 3 billion pounds to 6 billion pounds live weight from 1925 to 1948. Population grew during the same time from 16 million to about 26.5 million. A population of about 30 million is forecast for 1955.

Girl Champion 4-H Clubber

Nampa—Darlene Frost of Nampa is the 1950 Idaho 4-H champion raiser of meat animals. The selection of the 16-year-old daughter of Donald W. Frost for first place was announced this week by Dan E. Warren of Moscow, state 4-H leader. Miss Frost has had six years of experience in the Lone Star Livestock Club. She is a Nampa high school junior, and finds time from her livestock activities to play clarinet in the high school band.

One of her Angus steers was reserve champion at the Canyon county junior show this year. In the same event Miss Frost won the showmanship championship. She has exhibited 14 steers at various shows. She has won two grand championships; two reserve championships; 28 blue ribbons, and three grand championships for showmanship.

Although she goes in most strongly for beef cattle, Miss Frost also raises Duroc Jersey pigs and high quality sheep. She was grand champion showman in the 4-H sheep division at the Caldwell Fair.

"I like to work with calves," Miss Frost said in her summary of work. "They seem to enjoy me brushing and currying them. I enjoy seeing the steers lying in knee-deep straw in a nice warm pen when the weather is bad."

More Or Less Congressmen?

Boise — What will the 1950 census do to the membership of the House of Representatives in the national Congress?

Because a number of inquiries have been received at the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce asking this question, that organization has summarized an article published in the current issue of the California State Chamber of Commerce magazine.

Three of the 11 western states will gain a total of 11 seats in the House of Representatives, with California gaining eight; Washington two, and Oregon one, according to estimates. The other eight states in the west, including Idaho, will neither gain nor lose.

Unless Congress takes some action the total number of Representatives will remain at 435, where it has been since 1910. At that time one Congressman represented approximately 214,000 persons, but in 1950, based on tentative population figures, each Congressman represents 345,000 persons.

Obviously, the article points out, if the total number remains the same, some states must lose Congressmen, and the principal losers will be New York, giving three; Pennsylvania and Missouri losing two each, and Illinois, North Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama, Kentucky, Oklahoma, Mississippi and Arkansas losing one each.

Besides the three west coast states others that will gain are Michigan with two more seats, and Texas, Indiana and Florida with one each.

A state can lose representation even though it has gained population since the last census, the article points out, if it has gained at a rate lower than the national average. Reapportionment will be made early in 1951 after final figures are released by the census bureau. — Idaho State Chamber of Commerce.

Idaho 4-H'ers Win Awards

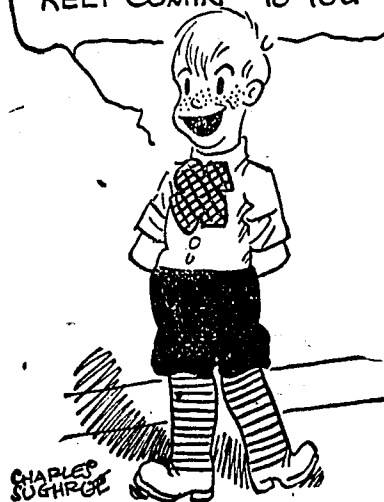

Idaho's junior homemakers captured top honors this fall when 4-H girls won 19 blue ribbons at the Pacific International Exposition at Portland. Three 2-girl teams placed high in the judging and demonstration contests, says Miss Lillian E. Johannesen, assistant state 4-H leader.

The top three places in the home economics judging contest were taken by Canyon county in first place, and Kootenai county, third. The winning teams competed with 27 county teams all over the Pacific Northwest. Marilyn Weaver and Rose Ann Moon, Nampa, comprised the Canyon county team. Karen Kvern and Barbara Moneth, Cataldo, made up the Kootenai county team. Placing first in the home economics demonstration contest were Linda Lee Sizemore and Gay Ingram, Burley, representing Cassia county. They demonstrated "Dairy Foods at a Tea."

Almost half of the 4-H tailored dress, party dress and lined suit clothing entries exhibited at the show were garments sent in by girls from Idaho, who won blue ribbons in one of the four district demonstrations in one of the four district demonstrations in the state.

Earworm, Other Damage To Crops Avoidable

Earworm damage to field and sweet corn and to other vegetation can be reduced by the time of planting. Early tomatoes and string beans and alfalfa foliage, particularly in the late summer, are also damaged by earworms.

In this research it was soon observed that damage to early plantings by the earworm was related to the time of planting. This led to a series of studies on different varieties of field and sweet corn to determine the optimum time of planting for least injury by the insect.

Recent observations have shown that the critical stage of injury is the silking date. It was learned that three-fourths of the earworm eggs laid on corn silks were deposited on fresh silks before the silks started to wilt.

Dates of planting field corn in the midwest that are recommended as a result of this research are May 1 for field corn; May 1 for sweet corn varieties requiring long growing seasons; May 15-18 for varieties of sweet corn needing medium growing seasons.

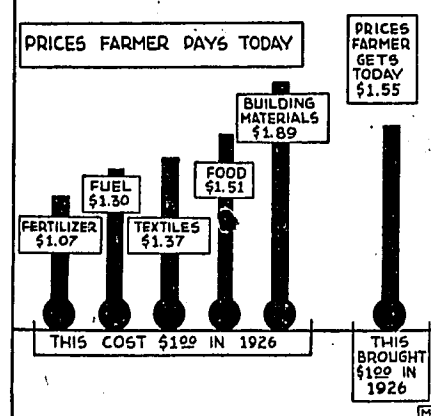

IPC, New Weed Killer, Showing High Promise

The new alphabetical weed killer, IPC, that was humorously hailed as the eventual successor to the lawnmower in press releases because of its grass growth control possibilities, is in reality showing a tremendous promise as a selective grass killer in a variety of crops.

Virgil Freed, associate agronomist for the Oregon state college agriculture experiment station, reports this to be the case after experiments with the weed killer.

Conceding that work with IPC as a lawn grass growth regulator is still in its earliest experimental stages, Freed points out that IPC's uses as a weedy grass killer in legumes, seed crops, vegetable crops, strawberries, orchards and perennial grasses are advanced enough to tab the chemical nearly as valuable as 2,4-D.

Fertilizer Is Bargain

How much you get for a dollar you spend today as compared with what you could have got back in 1926, depends on what you buy with that dollar.

U.S. bureau of labor statistics show that building materials that could have been bought for $1 back in 1926, cost $1.89 today. Food that would have cost $1 back in those days, now costs you $1.51. A dollar's worth of textile at 1926 price levels, today costs $1.37. Fuel and lighting materials cost $1.30.

Remote-Control Switch Convenient for Farmers

Farmers now can turn their farm yard light off and on from a half-dozen places with a new, remote-control multiple switch.

A farm electrification specialist explains that the heart of this new control is a magnetic relay which will turn the light on or off from as many points as desired by means of simple push-button switches. It is said the unit is very economical to operate and easy to install.
