'50 Crop Production Is Near Record Peak Output Exceeds Average For Previous 8 Years

The United States department of agriculture reported crop production in 1950 was the third largest on record. This output exceeded the average of the previous eight years, the most productive period in American agriculture.

Farmers attained this result despite reduction in acreage of several important crops and a growing season that had many unfavorable aspects.

The composite yield per acre in 1950 was the second-best on record. A prolonged fall season for maturing and harvesting crops helped improve both quantity and quality. Few crops contributed record

Important Part Played By Mahogany in Wartime

In World War II, mahogany played a strategic part in the air-plane industry. Before the war ended, some eight hundred million square feet of mahogany veneer were allocated to plane construc-tion. This was used chiefly for plywood which replaced scarce metals in many parts. Not only were flat panels made of the mahogany plywood but also molded forms such as wings and fuselage. Modern methods of bonding sheets of veneer to-gether with synthetic resin adhesives resulted in a waterproof bond stronger than the wood itself. Thousands of mahogany gliders landed troops in France during the invasion of Western Europe in 1944 and planes largely constructed of mahogany took part in every campaign of the war.

The famous little PT poats which did such gallant service in the Pacific war were made of mahogany and in one of them General MacArthur and President Quezon made their escape from the Philippines after the Japanese invasion. Later a dozen of them severely damaged the Japanese fleet at Guadalcanal with little air or naval support. They harassed supply lines and were indomitable attackers in the naval battle around the Philippines. Many rescue boats and landing craft were also constructed of mahogany which has always been a valued material in ship building.

A little-known war use of mahogany was in submarine detecting devices. So secret were these devices, that even the waste from their con struction was destroyed lest some clue be given by the odd outlines; left in the wood after the parts were cut out.

America's Death Rate Reaches Low Ebb in 1950

The year 1950 witnessed marked improvement in the country's health, with the death rate declining to the lowest level in our his-

New low levels in mortality were established for a number of diseases, and for some the reduction was substantial. General health conditions during the coming year should be even better, barring severe epidemic or other unforeseen contingencies. The year's health record and the promising forecast are vital assets for national defense in the present crisis.

The death rate in 1950 was about 9.6 per 1,000, or 1 per cent below the previous record of 1949. This outstanding record was made in the face of a continued increase in the proportion of older persons in the population and despite a wave of respiratory disease which spread over a large part of the country early in the year.

Nevertheless, the mortality from respiratory diseases was kept in check. The influenza rate, although above the 1949 level, compared favorably with that of earlier years. Indications are that the death rate from pneumonia will differ little from the record low in 1949, and may even better it. In any case, the net effect of the outbreak of respiratory disease was not of major proportions, and any losses that may have been due to it were more than offset by the gains in other directions.

Sheep Scab Outbreaks The often-baffling return of sheep scab in flocks that are supposedly cured has been fully explained by new experiments carried out in England. Key to the problem, British veterinarians found, is a hideout on the sheep's body where scab mites find refuge while the animals are being sheared or treated. Not that the mites run for cover: when they see an insecticide dip being readied or when the wool clip starts. On the contrary, the move is a random scattering for better or worse, during which some of the luckier mites find life-saving shelter in such places as the ears or under the tail—where the dip or clipper doesn't get to them.

Scanty Fertilizing Only Crop Starter

Soil Building Practices Needed for Best Results

Scanty fertilizer applications are like a shot in the arm a doctor gives his patient. The treatment enables the patient to recover enough to take more nourishment. But in the case of scanty fertilizer applications, the "crop starter" gives the plant quick early growth and a strong root system, but fails to provide enough nourishment to carry the crop through to healthy, highyielding maturity.

You can fit the soil for maximum returns from fertilizer by building up its organic matter content. This can best be done by growing wellfed deep-rooted legumes regularly in the rotation. The legume roots and tops add organic matter and make a thicker layer of soil. A soil high in organic matter has plenty of water-storing capacity.

Illinois Farmers Enjoy Good Year, Reports Show

Farmers attending the 36th annual meeting of the Illinois agricul-tural association were agreed that 1950 has been generous to Illinois.

Farmers in every section of the state agreed that corn, soybean and other grain crop yields for 1950 were satisfactory. Many reported corn yields better than expected in view of the anticipated damage from Cattle feeders, hog raisers, wool growers and dairymen also enjoyed generally good years.

Fruit growers, however, reported peach yields were very light and said the apple crop was only about half of normal.

Illinois livestock producers association, a state wide agency coordinating the work of livestock marketing co-ops, reported that member companies handled animals valued at approximately $150,000,000 during the year...

Approximately 5,000 farmers attended the meeting.

The study was made by the U. S.
Fish and Wildlife Service in cooperation with the Idaho fish and game department. It was made in an effort to determine the number of salmon which utilize the area of the Snake river above the proposed site of the dam and below Swan Falls. Its purpose was to determine what effect the erection of such a dam might have on salmon runs in the Columbia river.

Spawning nest counts along the river were made by air and ground workers, the latter wading over sand bars where turbidity of the water precluded an accurate aerial count.

Results of the study showed that practically all of the spawning activity noted along the river was observed between Swan Falls and Marsing, a distance of 26 miles. Although no spawning activity was noted in tributary streams during the first three years of the study, some nests were observed in the Payette and Weiser rivers during the 1950 studies.

Texas Steer Crowned U.S. Grand Champion

Animal Sold for Record Price of $12 Per Pound

The 1950 International Livestock Show held at the Chicago stockyards was the most successful in the history of the event, show officials announced.

"Big Spring Special," a velvetbrown-and-white hereford steer

The white-faced animal, the nation's choicest chunk of beef, was shown by 19-year-old Lloyd Robinson, a 4-H Club member. The steer
