Writes From Fort Knox

In a brief note containing a change of address, Gilbert Candler says, in part:

Fort Knox, Ky., Mar. 17, 1951.

Dear Bill:
 Guess it is about time I dropped you a line and let you know I am getting the paper O. K. It surely seems good to read the news from home.

I will have a new address for the next 16 weeks. This move was rather sudden. It is "radio mechanics" school and from what I hear it is a pretty tough course.

I came through seven states on the way here, and they all looked alike — but none as good as Idaho.

It has been raining practically ever since I got here, and they say it rains every other day here. If that is the case I can see why they have so many floods.

The southern hospitality is pretty good down here, though I guess they still believe in racial discrimination. They have a very nice service club in Louisville, where I am at this time. There is dancing, singing, games and "good ol' television" which is just like having a movie in your home. — Pvt. G. L. Candler.

Birthday Party

Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Forest entertained Monday evening in honor of their son-in-law, Norman Fry's birthday anniversary. Those present besides the guests of honor, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Fry, were Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Forest, Bertina, Joe and Edwin Forest, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Harris and daughter Karen.

EASTER NEWNESS

Here it is Easter Sunday morning. Some people wind their way to the top of a high hill for Sunrise Services, just as the bright sun peeps over a far away hill. Many more not so eager to greet the Risen Christ find their way to a later morning service.

Among the women and girls of the throng some wear saucy new hats on pretty heads. There are lacy white dresses with corsages of yellow daffodils; sky-blue dresses with delicate white trim; bright red dresses with matching accessories. They are almost all new.

The men and boys sport new or newly-cleaned suits. White handkerchiefs peep out of breast pockets. Shoes squeak of their newness. New hats sit on thoughtful heads. Faces glow in the Easter sun. Again I say, all is new.

What is the reason for all this newness, the new clothes, those new smiles, this new cheerfulness?

Perhaps, this is the one explanation: All feel the need to be new, they want to be new—inside! They want to change their hearts! They know Christ is risen, they know that He is new. They know instinctively they must be like him if they are going to be worthy of the name of Christian. There must be something new about them. They must change. They know not how to change their hearts, so they at least change their attire. That explains the crowds going to Sunrise Services and to the churches of every creed. That is why so many people do not merely dress up in their new clothes and go for a ride or other amusement, but rather they go to some of the many churches to find this new heart they are longing for—to find out how to change their lives.

But even with all this external commemoration of the Feast, even with the external "going to church," many feel that there is something lacking. Some may even feel a little insincere or a trifle illogical. Yet that "lack" reflects no thoughtlessness nor ill-will. It is just that the inner man, the soul, cries out against its inadequate part in the Easter observance.

Crowds throng religious services, but how many are satisfied when they come away? Are not most of their hearts the same? Do they not feel a sickening feeling that they are no different than when they first went into the Church?

Many know from past experience that this is so. If this is your case, then start in earnest to seek the Newness of the Risen Christ. If you do not find Him in one church, go to another, and another until you do find His newness and peace which no sorrow or woe can disturb. Then, you will be new—inside.—Author Unknown.

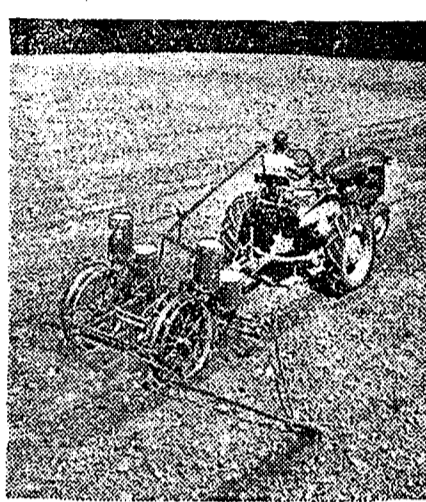

* Our Note: The above article was set for use last week, but was crowded out by last-minute local news. After seeing the Easter church crowds here we consider it too true to discard—so here it is.

Time of Planting Loss Curb Factor Earworm, Other Damage To Crops Avoidable

Earworm damage to field and sweet corn and to other vegetation can be reduced by the time of planting. Early tomatoes and string beans and alfalfa foliage, particularly in the late summer, are also damaged by earworms.

In this research it was soon observed that damage to early plantings by the earworm was related to the time of planting. This led to a series of studies on different varieties of field and sweet corn to determine the optimum time of

Here a farmer sets to work planting at the proper time—a practice that can curb earworm damage to field and sweet corn and other vegetables.

Tree Expert Gives Tips On Spring Care of Trees

Spring is the season when most of the important types of tree care are administered.

Take out "hangers"—the dangling branches left by winter storms. Prune out dead or unsightly limbs. Branch space choice trees by selective thinning to thwart wind breakage. If a tree shaded the house too much last summer, have it properly pruned now. Remember that character pruning adds gracious touches to trees—bringing out their branching habits and lending harmony to your landscape.

If you have elms, be certain to prune out and burn all dead and diseased branches by May 1. This will destroy any overwintering bark beetles which may wing their way to healthy trees and transmit the dread Dutch elm disease.

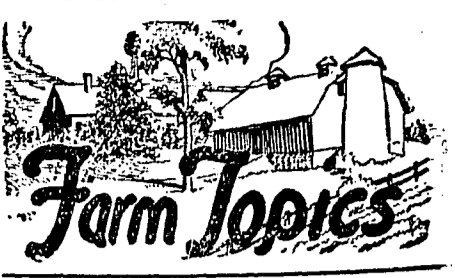

Paint over cuts that have been made on trees after the wounds have dried. Use a standard wound dressing.

Early spring is the best time to adjust braces and cables and other tree supports. A few years of normal growth may cause a cable to become a drawback on the continued healthy progress of a tree.

Cut out fire blight cankers on apple, pear, flowering crab, hawthorn and mountain ash. Prune below the point of infection, using sterilized instruments. A Bordeaux spray at time of bloom of these trees is effective if combined with sanitary pruning to stamp out fire blight.

Prune out black knot of cherry and plum the same way.

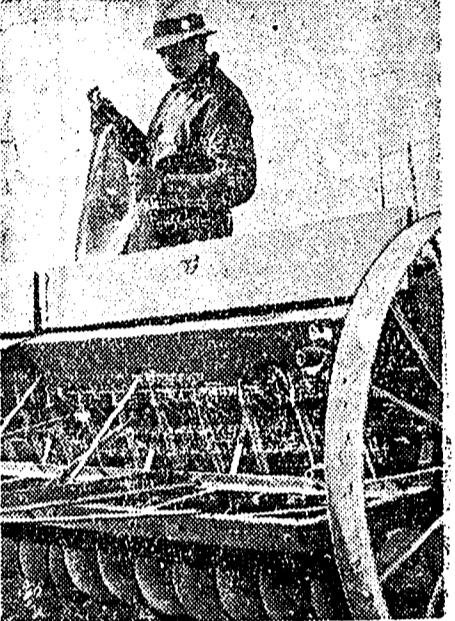

If you haven't fed your trees, do so as soon as possible. And prepare to give them a delayed dormant spray just before the buds open. Trees are friends. Treat them well and care for them properly. They will repay you richly in companionship and beauty.

New Chemicals Make Plants Insect-Proof Federal Entomologists In Experimental Study

New chemicals that make plants toxic to insects for short periods are being tested by scientists of the U.S. department of agriculture. These chemicals kill insects that suck the juices of treated plants. They are known to the entomologists as "systemic poisons" and should not be used by the public until further tests have been made.

Studies now are in progress to determine if these insecticidal chemicals will break down into harmless compounds within a few days or weeks. If they do, a new

Teen-Age Workers Injured More Often in Work Mishaps

Teen-age drivers have come in for their share of criticism, but how about teen-age workers?

Well, the National Safety Council says the picture isn't very rosy there, either.

The U. S. department of labor found that workers under 18 years of age are injured more frequently in industrial accidents in manufacturing plants than are workers 18 years of age or older, performing the same type of work.

Workers 18 or older had an average injury frequency rate of 15.7 (disabling injuries per 1,000,000 man-hours worked). But the rate for the younger workers was 22.9.

The frequency of permanently disabling, injuries such as finger amputations, was nearly twice as high for workers under 18 as for the older group.

The council says that the same characteristics of youth which gave teen-agers a higher traffic accident rate apparently apply also to work habits—lack of experience, impulsiveness, daring, and the desire to show off.

approach will be available to American agriculture in the control of some of the most difficult insect pests, according to entomologists of the federal bureau of entomology and plant quarantine.

Beef Herd Decision Problem in Corn Belt

Whether or not to have a beef herd is a long-time decision for the corn belt farmer.

Under average corn belt conditions, a cow can be credited for a 450 pound calf at weaning time. For instance, if you had a 30-cow beef herd on a corn belt farm and a 90 per cent calf crop, you'd have 27 calves worth around $135 each. Or, at 30 cents per pound, a gross income of about $3,000. If four replacement heifers were kept back, there'd be 23 calves worth $3,100 and four cull cows, worth about $1,000, to sell.

There would be a gross income of $4,100 to cover the cost of maintaining a herd of 35 mature animals, including 30 cows, four heifers and one bull, or about $117 per animal per year. If you used the average value of cows and calves over the past 15 years as a yardstick, your gross income would be about half of $4,100.

Solve Felting Problem

Laundries have solved the felting problem by the installation of washers which gently squeeze soapy water through the fabric with squeeze rolls under little or no pressure. Or they may use a type of washing equipment that uses only a circulation of the soap solution through the fabric to do the washing. Another type of machine has a very slow-moving cylinder (about 8 to 10 revolutions per minute.) Some plants employ no friction at all in the washing of wools. They use a machine with a cylinder divided into three pockets. The wool fabrics or blankets are merely dipped into the soap solution and then allowed to drain as the cylinder revolves.

Figure Slimmers

How you do your housework may make a great deal of difference in whether you keep the waistline down, according to William Shaw of Chicago. He suggests these techniques. When you pick up the children's toys, Sunday's newspapers, or the snippings of cloth in your sewing room—bend squarely from the waist with legs stiff and straight. Occasionally, squat with back vertical and head held erect. Keep the posture erect when you go up and down stairs. And when you use the vacuum cleaner on draperies and walls, give your midsection a good stretch. Move arms freely and easily and clear into the shoulders.

Rayon Output

In 1949, for the first time in 11 years, rayon production declined. Specifically, a decline of 12 per cent is reported—a total of 993,800,000 pounds, compared to 1,124,300,000 in 1948. Viscose high tenacity yarn was the only category of rayon produced in the U. S. showing an increase. A total of 289,000,000 pounds was purchased in 1949, compared with 263,100,000 pounds in 1948, a 10 per cent increase. Production of acetate filament yarn dropped 12 per cent; viscose-cupra textile filament yarn, 15 per cent; acetate staple, 23 per cent; and viscose staple, 30 per cent.

Clothes From Sacks

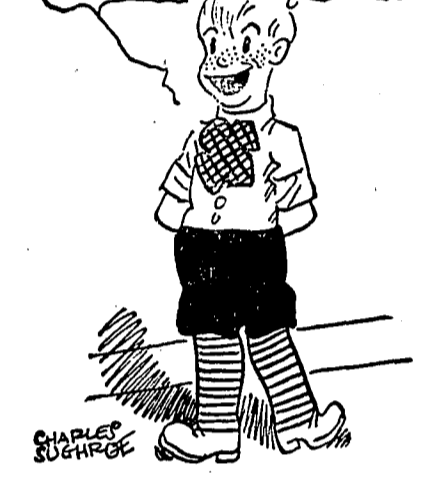

With feed manufacturers vying with each other to create pleasing bag designs, rural America has the opportunity to turn these sacks into many glamorous garments. Here, Jackie Frehand, member of the Wanchese 4-H club on Roanoke Island, N. C., feeds chickens from one of the flowered feed bags, especially designed for re-use by customers.

Summer Eggs Must Always Be Kept Cool, Odor-Free

The poor quality of summer eggs is not the fault of the hen. "Hot-weather" eggs, with their thin whites and flat, weak yolks cause many people to stop buying them. This waste can be prevented, top poultrymen say, if farmers would gather eggs at least three times a day in hot weather. All handlers of eggs need to keep them cool at all times, and away from odors.

IPC, New Weed Killer, Showing High Promise

The new alphabetical weed killer, IPC, that was humorously hailed as the eventual successor to the lawnmower in press releases because of its grass growth control possibilities, is in reality showing a tremendous promise as a selective grass killer in a variety of crops.

Virgil Freed, associate agronomist for the Oregon state college agriculture experiment station, reports this to be the case after experiments with the weed killer.

Conceding that work with IPC as a lawn grass growth regulator is still in its earliest experimental stages, Freed points out that IPC's uses as a weedy grass killer in legumes, seed crops, vegetable crops, strawberries, orchards and perennial grasses are advanced enough to tab the chemical nearly as valuable as 2,4-D.

Fertilizer Is Bargain

How much you get for a dollar you spend today as compared with what you could have got back in 1926, depends on what you buy with that dollar.

U.S. bureau of labor statistics show that building materials that could have been bought for $1 back in 1926, cost $1.89 today. Food that would have cost $1 back in those days, now costs you $1.51. A dollar's worth of textile at 1926 price levels, today costs $1.37. Fuel and lighting materials cost $1.30.

Remote-Control Switch Convenient for Farmers

Farmers now can turn their farm yard light off and on from a half-dozen places with a new, remote-control multiple switch.

A farm electrification specialist explains that the heart of this new control is a magnetic relay which will turn the light on or off from as many points as desired by means of simple push-button switches. It is said the unit is very economical to operate and easy to install.

Electronic Purifier
Kills Offensive Odors
Farmers Using Purifier
To Clear Up Farm Odors

The old problem of odors on a farm caused by live stock or poultry, by dampness or mustiness, can now be solved. And for less than a half cent a day.

A powerful air purifier, called Air-Tron, uses ozones, nature's own "air freshener" to create outdoor freshness in foul-smelling places by killing odor-producing bacteria in the air and on the surfaces. Farmers in many areas are reported taking advantage of the purifier and are turning their farms into more pleasant places in which to live and work.

The Air-Tron is a compact unit which generates short wave ultra-violet rays destroying unpleasant odors electronically. It is produced by Roy C. Stove and Company of Chicago.

A single-lamp unit provides air freshening protection for an area up to 600 cubic feet—the size of the average milk house. For areas up to 1,200 cubic feet, the double lamp has been developed.

Herd Numbers Decrease,
But Milk Supply Grows

In the past two decades, milk production on United States farms has increased by 20 billion pounds, or one-fifth while the number of milking herds has declined. In some of the individual dairy states, changes have been even more spectacular. In New York, for instance, one-half more milk is marketed by 15 per cent fewer farmers than in 1929.

Milk is produced on about 4 1/2 million of the six million farms in the United States. On about two million of these, the milk is produced solely for home use. Most of these farms have only one or two cows, but their milk provides an important part of the food of some nine million farm people.

On the other 2 1/2 million farms that have milk cows, some milk, cream, or farm-churned butter is sold. These sales range from a few pounds of farm-churned butter per year up to thousands of pounds of milk per day.

World's Record

A new world's record for a pure-bred beef animal was set recently when Hillcrest Larry 4, was purchased by Henry Sears, owner of the Chino Farms in Church Hill, Md., for $70,500 at the Hillcrest Farms sale. Surrounding the high-priced hereford are (left to right) Jim McClelland, manager of the Turner Ranch in Sulphur, Okla.; C. A. Smith, owner of Hillcrest Farms; Henry Sears, the purchaser, and his wife; and Arnold Olson at the halter.

Keep Garden Seeds—Many leftover vegetable seeds may be kept for planting next spring, but should be stored at about 50 degrees.

Strawberries Need Good Protection From Cold

Strawberries need protection against cold by means of mulching with straw, leaves or sawdust, fruit specialists warned farmers.

Wheat straw, oat straw and rye straw have all been successfully used as strawberry mulches. Fairly heavy coverings are suggested in order to avoid heaving from frost and consequent root damage. Ordinary leaves give good results on home plantings.

Several Scholarships Voted
Several sportsmen's organizations throughout the state have joined in voting scholarships for use by teachers interested in attending summer workshops in conservation education. The workshops, jointly sponsored by the game department and department of education, will be patterned after the summer camp held last year at Black Pine Camp as a part of the summer program of the Northern Idaho College of Education. They will be conducted this year by Idaho State College, N. I. C. E. and the University of Idaho. Boise Junior college may also join in the work this year. Sportsmen's club all over the state have been notified of the plan whereby they can put their dollars to work constructively through provision of scholarships of $75.00 to be awarded to teachers to help defray costs. Interested teachers may secure application forms from their local superintendents, complete them and forward them to the State Department of Education at Boise. Teachers attending the workshops will receive regular college credit. It will also be possible for teachers to take other needed courses in addition to this work during the regular summer term. Aim of the conservation workshop project is to stimulate a greater awareness among Idaho's citizens of the need for natural resources conservation and the schools offer the most logical avenue of approach to this goal.

I LIKE TO DEAL WITH THE FRIENDLY COURTEOUS EMPLOYEES OF THE WASHINGTON WATER POWER!

Recently I asked for help from my local Water Power office in solving a lighting problem in our home. It was a pleasant experience to discover how interested they were in assisting me without cost in planning the lighting for my home. Both at the Water Power office and from the Lighting Service Representative that promptly called at our home, I received friendly courtesy as well as competent assistance.

It is testimony such as this that pleases Water Power and its employes most . . . At the Washington Water Power Company, courtesy is as much a part of a tradition of fine service as are efficiency, dependability, and low rates.

I'd Like to Know...

You may have heard that a suit has been filed by the Antitrust Division in Washington to break up Standard of California as well as six other West Coast oil companies. Many people have written us protesting this action, have asked pertinent questions. We believe these questions should be answered for everyone. We take this way of doing so. If you have a question, write:

"I'D LIKE TO KNOW"
225 Bush Street,
San Francisco 20

"Why should you be in all parts of the oil business?"

Mrs. Henry Lincoln, housewife in Boise, Idaho, asks: "Do you have to be in all parts of the oil business? Why don't you just produce or refine, and give other companies a chance to do the transporting, selling, etc.?" Mrs. Henry Lincoln

Why all parts? Example: In Oregon, severe winters used to delay fuel oil deliveries. Here was a need.

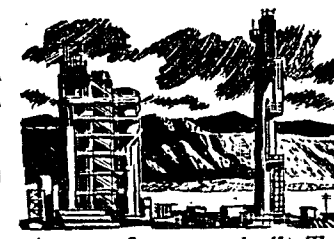

To meet the need, Standard looked to the undeveloped Rangely oil field, 600 miles away in Colorado.

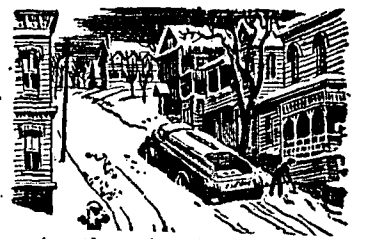

Getting crude out of new wells, refining it, delivering it to users—called for a fully integrated operation.

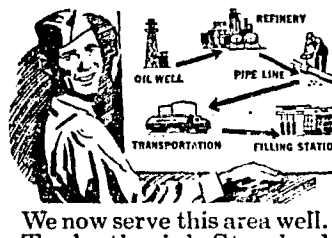

To move the oil, Standard laid a 182-mile line to Salt Lake City—crossing Uinta Mts. at 9,560 feet. Here—

A new refinery was built. To keep costs down, it had to run steadily . . . have constant flow of product. So—

Another pipe line was built into the Northwest to deliver refined products . . . plentiful in any weather.

We now serve this area well. To do the job Standard needed all its size, integrated skills and capital.

A certain minority in U. S. feels big companies should be broken up—though these companies have helped keep the nation strong. The U. S. was thankful for big companies in the last two world wars . . . and is now, in these critical times. This is a big country with big problems. To meet them it needs large and small companies. We'll continue doing a good big job for you and the nation.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY OF CALIFORNIA
• plans ahead to serve you better

Really Forced Diet

A large Detroit hotel was full. But the receptionist, after a number of telephone calls, finally found me a room in another hotel. Looking absently at my 235 pounds of bulges, she telephoned: "Reserve a room for Mr. P. E. Holmgren — P as in potatoes, B as in elephant. . ."

She didn't crack a smile nor did I. But now I am on a diet and have just shed my first ten pounds. — Reader's Digest.

April "Cancer Control" Month in this state was caused by cancer last year, and Boise (Special) — Gov. Len Jordan today gave official recognition to the Annual Cancer Crusade being conducted by the Idaho division of the American Cancer Society, by proclaiming April as "Cancer Control Month" in the Gem State. He asked Idaho's citizens to support the crusade.

Whereas, one-third of these were needless and could have been prevented with early enough diagnosis and proper treatment, and
Whereas, the lack of knowledge about the early signs of cancer was a primary cause of these many deaths, and
Whereas, the American Cancer Society is conducting its annual Cancer Crusade during April which will bring to our people some of the vital information as well as raise the necessary funds to continue programs of research, education and service to cancer patients,
Therefore, I, Len Jordan, Governor of the State of Idaho, do hereby proclaim April, 1951 as Cancer Control Month.

The governor's proclamation took note of the fact that April was designated as Cancer Control Month by an act of congress as well as by presidential proclamation. He asked that it be observed by all citizens by learning all they can about cancer and furthermore by supporting the 1951 Cancer Crusade of the American Cancer Society.

His proclamation follows:
Whereas, one of every seven deaths

Potlatch Chief Sez

Published by the Kendrick Creamery

HELLO, THERE, FOLKS —
Now that Easter has come and gone, there isn't another holiday worth mentioning until Memorial Day — and spring work is just around the corner — so let's talk about business.

As you are undoubtedly aware, those cows and chickens of yours are capable of bringing you in good money, provided you give them good care. So, why not give them that good care and cash in by selling us your cream and eggs?

If in doubt, try it for yourself.

She (to celebrity at banquet): "Have any of your childhood dreams been realized?"

Celebrity: "Yes, when my mother used to comb my hair I used to wish I had none."

Don't feel that with the coming of spring you no longer need milk. Doctors say every growing child needs at least a quart a day, and every adult a pint — for good health. So be sure you drink your quota, and be sure it's "Potlatch Chief" brand — it's pasteurized.

Judge: "What induced you to strike your wife?"

Husband: "Well, your honor she was bent over, had her back turned to me, the broom was handy and the back door wide open — so I thought I'd take a chance!"

You just can't beat "Potlatch Chief" brand butter for flavor, purity, sweetness and texture. Be sure you ask for "Potlatch Chief" by name the next time you buy butter. And remember: It's made from pasteurized cream!

She: "Which would you rather give up, wine or women?"

He: "It depends on the vintage."

Conscience gets a lot of credit that belongs to cold feet.
