4-Hers And Food Production
Some 10,300 4-H Club members in Idaho will emphasize three major food producing projects this year.
They hope to top 1950 production in field crops, garden and poultry. Nearly 2,000,000 youth throughout the nation will be doing their part in the mobilization program by participating in 4-H club activities.

In these projects 4-H boys and girls, ranging from 10 to 21 years, learn scientific agricultural techniques and approved forming niques and approved farming practices. They also have an opportunity to demonstrate phases in which they have become particularly skillful. Learning to judge crops, garden produce, poultry and eggs is another part of their 4-H training.

Awards will be made next fall to club members who have done the best job. Medals will be presented to county winners; a trip to the 1951 National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago to state winners, and a $300 college scholarship to the national champions.

Swanky New Piano

U. of I., Moscow - Believed to MANY VARITIES OF THE FOLLOWING be the first new Steinway, 9-foot concert grand piano ever delivered in the Inland Empire, is the instrument received recently by the University of Idaho music department.

"The piano was purchased especially for the recital hall in the new music building," said Hall Macklin, head of the music department. Still under construction, the building will not be ready for occupancy until fall, so the huge piano now dwarfs a studio in an old music cottage.

The piano contains the longest string — 9 feet — made for such a musical instrument. Musicians state the ideal string would be 16 feet long, but to date no way has been found to set such a string to vibrating through finger control. The keyboard of the big instrument is 14 percent faster than that of the average piano.

Cultivator Needed In Control of Weeds

Chemical sprays are not yet ready to replace the cultivator in controlling weeds, according to Dr. J. C. Willard, agronomist in the college of agriculture at Ohio Uni-

"No chemicals so far available for use in crops will kill all weeds," Dr. Willard said. "If we use chemicals without cultivation to remove the weeds left after spraying, it will be only a short time before we have fields which are as weedy as before, but the weeds will be different and of kinds harder to kill."

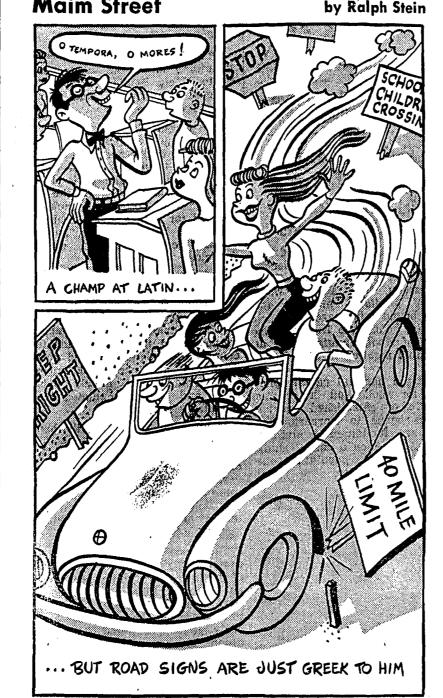

Introduction of new chemicals every year makes spraying more of a specialist's job, he pointed out, cautioning farmers to beware of the fly-by-night operator.

Youths To Raise Pheasants

Idaho's youth will turn pheasant raisers again this year after good Idaho Crop Improvement association are advised to select carefully success was enjoyed during 1950 by for applications to grow certified adapted to Idaho climatic and soil more than 200 young people who grass and legume seed. more than 200 young people who participated in the Young Pheasant

The sum of $10,000 was set aside by the game commission at their January meeting to continue the program which last year resulted in the release of 7,423 ten-week-old chicks.

The principle objectives of the program are to provide Idaho boys and girls a better appreciation of an interesting form of wildlife and an understanding of the problems in producing pheasants for liberation on Idaho farm land. It is felt that actual experience with the problems of rearing birds and releasing them in natural environment will contribute to the education of the youth organization members involved, and if the training arouses interest in the need for wildlife conservation, the purpose of the project will have been fulfilled. The program, as set up by the Idaho fish and game commission, calls for the payment of $1.00 per bird raised to maturity (ten weeks) by the young cooperators. The birds must be in good condition to bring the full $1.00 to the raiser. Youths desiring to participate in the program should obtain application forms from local conservation officers, sportsmen's groups or by writing to the fish and game department at Boise. Applications should be sub-mitted by April 1.

Participants must be sponsored by adult leadership in 4-H FFA, Boy or Girl Scouts or sportsmen's organi-

A limit of 50 chicks per participant has been set as the maximum, except in those rare instances where equipment and past experience guarantees success on a larger scale. This limit was set because the greatest losses during 1950 resulted from operations of cooperators who' did not have enough room for their chicks. It is also felt that this limit will allow more to participate in the program. The project has been assigned 15,000 chicks from the game

Game department personnel will inspect premises and equipment of applicants upon receipt of application. Chicks will not be supplied unless the person making the inspection gives approval. Participants will be notified in advance of delivery date of the chicks. First deiveries will be made shortly after June 1, and throughout June, until distribution is complete.

Wool Outlook Bright, Bureau Head Reports Material Remains Quality Fabric for Human Needs

For the sheep ranchers and the farmers who maintain small flocks, W. F. Fitzgerald, president of the Wool bureau, had a good word-when he predicted markets for wool are bound to increase.

Speaking before the National Association of Wool Manufacturers at their annual meeting in New York, he said:

"Barring a national catastrophe, markets for wool, and indeed for all textiles of established service values, is bound to increase. The reasons are fundamental and are to be found in even a casual study of our increasing population, our expanding birth rate, the

FitzGerald went on to point out that an acceptable substitute for wool has not been developed. Wool is still the quality fiber which is best suited for a wide variety of human needs and we are convinced the public shares that opinion, he

Needs of Corr.

Corn needs plenty to eat and drink to produce high protein yields.

You can get extra pounds of protein and more bushels per acre, too, with a well-rounded bill of fare based on good soil management. University of Illinois research men proved that in tests on a number of experiment fields.

H. J. Snider of the agronomy staff reports that good soil management increased the corn's protein content by nearly a pound per bushel. Corn grown on well treated land averaged 5.6 pounds of protein per bushel, or about 10 per cent of the total weight. Corn on untreated soil averaged only 4.8 pounds of protein per bushel, or about 8.5 per cent.

The well managed land had the benefit of liming and rotation built around well-fed deep-rooted legumes. The organic matter added by the legumes built good soil structure and tilth, improved the drainage and increased the soil's water holding capacity. That made it easier for corn roots to get at plant nutrients, oxygen and mois-

The 'fertilizer treatment included phosphate and potash where needed. In soils requiring more nitrogen than the legume crops provided, nitrogen fertilizer helped increase the corn's protein content. Snider says good soil management not only improved the corn's feeding value, but improves yield.

121/2 Million Fewer Mules And Horses in 30 Years

Today there are 71/2 million head of horses and mules on farms in the United States, a decrease of 121/2 million in the last 30 years. Experts estimate that it took about 24 million acres of crop land to feed these 121/2 million animals. That amount of land, released to yield food, would provide for 11 million people. The horse population of the United States is expected to drop further.

Bit of Wyoming's Wild West Retained in National Parks

"Away out west" in Wyoming, something not yet old has been added to Uncle Sam's Jackson Hole national monument and Grand Teton national park.

The Rockefeller family's gift to the U.S. government — covering more than 33,000 acres of land lying within these two areas—is new by recent presentation. It is old becase it includes bait of the pioneers' "Wild West" to be held untouched for nature lovers amid the cultivated fields, ranches, and expanding communities of modern America.

In northwest Wyoming, just south of Yellowstone, the Jackson Hole and Teton regions recall scenes of natural grandeur which greeted the first explorers and fur trappers to push into the Rocky Mountain country of Indians and wild game. Then vast numbers of elk, moose, bison, black and grizzly bears, deer, and beaver populated these mountains and valleys.

Many wild animals still haunt the western Wyoming region. Visitors report that antelope race their cars along open-range roads; beavers often annoy farmers by damming irrigation ditches, and Jackson Hole ranchers have built high fences to protect their haystacks against marauding elk.

The first white man to see the majestic Teton Range rising west of the lush green valley now known as Jackson Hole is believed to have been John Colter. In 1807-8, this woodsman and trapper, previously on the Lewis and Clark expedition, crossed and recrossed the mountains. Traveling alone, with a 30-pound pack and gun, Colter also penetrated the northern wilderness on this trip, discovering Yellow-

Tastier Drinking Water. Promised by New Technique

City drinking water free from unpleasant odors and tastes has been made possible by a new technique which for the first time can isolate and analyze the water's minute organic contaminants.

The water supply of key cities along the Ohio river will be investigated by using the new test as the first step in removing the im-

In the course of a year the average adult will consume less than quarter teaspoonful of organic matter present as impurities in the water he drinks. Yet this small amount of organic matter can and frequently does impart a wide variety of unpleasant tastes and odors to a year's quota of wate for an adult.

Big strides forward are being made in successfully handling the taste and odor problem this minute quantity of organic material causes. However, the exact nature and chemical properties of the trace amounts of organic matter in the water have remained almost completely unknown. What has long been needed is a method for recovering the extremely dilute dissolved organic matter from the water so that its composition and properties might be investigated.

Enemies of Lemming

The most dangerous natural enemies 'of the lemming are the snowy owl, the arctic fox and ermine, who depend almost exclusively on the lemming as their winter fare. The snowy owl-white except for sharp, black bars across the body-is a born and trained hunter, equipped with ice-pick sharp claws for seizing a victim. Though the owl travels south during a season of lemming migration, he rarely breeds outside his home in the arctic circle. The ermine, thin and sinuous, is more successful than the fox in hunting down the lemming in the rodent's years of scarcity. The ermine can travel winter under a heavy blanket of snow-while the fox must smell and search and dig for his food.

Bandaging Dog's Tail

A long-time problem of veterinarians-how to keep bandages in place on monkeys' and dogs' tails-may be solved in the future by use of stainless steel tubes as surgical dressings for injured dogs. Dogs and monkeys are noted for tampering with bandages, often biting or pulling off dressings meant to protect wounds. Steel tubes promote healing by protecting the wounded tail from further injuries resulting from biting or scratching, allow free ventilation of the wound and make it easy for veterinarians to observe how healing is progressing.

Test New Cancer Method

Scientists in the University of California medical school are testing a method of treating cancer by injecting anticancer drugs directly into arteries serving tumor areas. They hope thereby to cause maximum damage to cancer tumors and minimize the toxic effects of drugs on the whole system. The research, supported in part by the American Cancer society, is being conducted under the direction of Dr. Michael B. Iowa Farm Earns $4.50 Per Acre Each Month

The average Iowa acre is earning between $4.50 and $5.00 a month, cash, the Iowa development commission reports. Which means that the average 160-acre farm, under good management, is bringing in $768, gross per month.

Last year Iowa farmers made $59.40 for each of the 3412 million acres in farms in the Hawkeve state. That figures out $4.95 per month, per acre, or $495 per month for each 100 acres of Iowa land being farmed.

In the first six months of 1950the leaner half of the farmer's year —Iowa farm income came to $27 per acre, or $4.50 per month, per acre. That still is $450 a month for every 100 acres of farm land.

The commission hastened to repeat that the figure is gross income. Out of it the farmer must pay for power and machinery, labor, feed, feeder stock and breeding stock, before he arrives at his own salary.

Slop Storage Tank

On a farm where there are many hogs to feed ideas that will save labor usually are appreciated. The storage tank for hog slop, shown in the above illustration, has been used on a number of farms successfully. Materials needed include two pieces of 3-inch pipe 6 inches long, one piece of 3-inch pipe 12 inches long and two 3-inch elbows and assemble them as shown in the illustration. Mount the barrel on a box 30 inches high, placed close to the fence so that the pipe may go through into the feeding trough. Make a plunger out of soft wood.

U.S. Consumer Demands Better Quality Meats

The national economic picure and the more nearly equalized meat production in relation to consumption are putting much greater emphasis on quality or grade of meat animals than was true in the last several years of meat scarcity,

Live stock producers are now attempting to produce animals which versity and the National Cancer nearly meet consumer demand for quality product.

Prepare Woodwork For Repaint Jobs

Proper Preliminaries Make Task Easier

Woodwork in farm homes can be repainted more effectively if proper steps are taken to prepare the surface beforehand.

This conclusion was announced after a study of the subject by the Eagle-Picher company of Cincinnati. Their survey, according to reports, showed that preparing the surface beforehand will always be valuable, whether the work is to be done by a professional, or by the farmer himself.

If the woodwork has been painted before and the paint is in good condition, it should be washed down with a few drops of benzine on a dry cloth. This is done to remove any grease. Care should be taken, however, as benzine is inflamma-

In removing this paint brush from a can of paint, it is always best to scrape off any excess fluid to prevent dripping or streaking.

Should the present paint on the woodwork be in poor condition, then it should be removed entirely, or at least in the bad spots, with a paint remover. This applies especially to areas with blisters, roughness, streaks or looseness. Any paint left on should be cleaned with benzine.

New Farm Wagon

Like modern cars which over the highways, "float" this new, all-steel farm wagon has just been offered the American farmer to help smooth out rough fields and roads. Front and rear axle tilt independently (as shown) to give maximum flexibility and stability, even under capacity loads of 8,000 pounds. Auto-type wheels and steering mechanism are used.

Spring Calving Permits Cheaper Winter Feeding

Spring calving permits use of cheaper lower-grade feed during winter. A cow that calves in the spring will get along nicely on a plain kind of ration. But the cow that calves in the fall must be fed a milk-producing ration during the winter to keep the calf growing rapidly. Such a ration is more expensive.

In a climate where the cow herd must be on a dry feed for five months, a total of about 1,300 to 1,500 pounds of digestible feed is needed in winter.

A 1,100-pound pregnant beef cow can be carried through the winter quite cheaply when fed 1,100 pounds of clover hay, 1,500 pounds of corn stover and 500 pounds of oats

Handling Tips Offered In Hatching Egg Work

Tips on handling hatching eggs have gone out to farmers from several extension service sources. In the main, farmers are urged to pack such eggs in cases with the small end down, and, if these eggs are marketed twice a week, it will 13-tf | not be necessary to turn them.

If hatching eggs are to be stopped for a short time, the advice continues, keep the room temperature 14-1x between 45 and 60 degrees.
