Rain Brings Chilly Weather

Rain, which began falling late Friday evening, and continued intermittently through Saturday and Sunday, brought much needed moisture, but it also brought with it a chill that caused jackets to become a popular item again — not to mention stoves and furnaces, many of the latter having been inactive for some time.

Forestry Warehouse Burglarized

Tuesday night thieves broke into the local state Forestry warehouse, opening the padlock on the door. They also attempted to gain entry into the office by jimmying a window, but failed to gain entrance.

Hebby Jones, deputy state forester, states that so far nothing has turned up missing, but the bar used by the culprits was found, and fingerprints obtained. These prints are now being processed, and as soon as returns are received the sheriff's office expects to make arrests.

Commercial Club Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Kendrick Commercial Club will be held next Monday evening, May 9, with the 6:30 dinner to be served at Burt's Confectionery, with the business session to follow at 7:30 in the city hall.

Chief items of business will be the plans for the coming "Parade Day" which is scheduled for May 19, and a discussion of the ever-current mail problem — therefore all members and friends of the organization are urged to be present.

Remember, it doesn't matter in the least whether or not you are a member — come out to the dinner and meeting — you are welcome.

TAXPAYERS DEMAND END NON-MILITARY SPENDING

The Associated Taxpayers of Idaho joined 36 other state taxpayer organizations last week in a demand that congress defer all new non-military spending programs and effect a reduction of $9 billion in non-essential spending in the $71.6 billion federal budget for the fiscal year 1952.

"Such a saving would amount to $28 million for the people of Idaho," said Max Yost, executive director of the taxpayer group. "The size of that sum we would not have to pay in federal taxes becomes clear when we remember that total state tax collections in fiscal 1950 were $34 millions.

"The tax problem gets worse every day," Yost said. "If the president's current tax proposals become law, it will mean that the total federal tax burden has risen by $18 billion since Korea. That means an increased tax burden of $478 for the average American family in less than a year, making the total federal tax load almost $1,800 on the average family. Even this huge burden is not enough to put the federal budget on a pay-as-you-go basis next year.

"No one argues about taxes for defense. The trouble is, about $30 billion of the proposed $71.6 billion budget is for non-military purposes. And it remains true that the best way to keep taxes down is to hack away at the cause of taxation — government expenditures. That's why the taxpayer groups are making these important recommendations:

1. That congress effect a $9 billion reduction in non-essential spending in the federal budget for the fiscal year 1952.
2. That all new non-military spending programs be deferred.
3. That after these reductions in non-essential spending are made, the federal budget for fiscal 1952 be balanced on an anti-inflationary pay-as-we-go basis.
4. That the remaining recommendations of the Hoover Commission be enacted, and that recommendations already approved by congress be fully implemented by the executive branch.
5. That congress exercise firm, annual control of federal spending, and create any necessary fiscal facilities to accomplish this end.
6. That belt-tightening required of citizens be demanded of federal, state and local government as well.
7. That the federal government repeal its secrecy requirements with respect to public assistance records under the social security program, and that states initiate immediately a general tightening-up of public assistance regulations to prevent fraud and waste.

Idaho's Direct Taxes Lower

The latest Idaho Tax Bulletin, just issued by the Associated Taxpayers of Idaho, reports that the state's direct taxes were lower than the preceding year. State level taxes in 1950 were somewhat lower than 1949, the Bulletin also reported.

Taxes took less out of Idaho taxpayers' pockets in 1950 than in 1949. But the outlook for 1951 is not all the same. "Federal income taxes and the increase in maximum salaries for Social Security contributions will boost the tax take this year," the report points out.

The tabulation of the report shows that the federal government took the largest slice of the Idaho tax money last year — $77,270,476, down $4,000,000 from the previous year. State and local taxes were $64,303,900 to bring the total tax load to $141,574,376.00 for 1950.

While the taxes were lower last year than in 1949, they were up 45.8 percent over 1945, the comparison showed.

Locust Trees Nipped

It is a puzzle just what is happening to the big locust trees which line most of Kendrick's Main street and many of the residential areas — for they were just starting to leaf out when the cold of Friday night, April 20, hit, and froze the tender new leaf growth.

To all outward appearance most of the trees appear completely dead or dormant, only here and there does a tiny green leaf show. The question is: "Will they completely leaf out, or has the tree been permanently injured?"

Maples show no signs whatever of frost damage and are in almost full leaf. Apple trees are blooming, and other trees appear unharmed. It is said that "you can't kill a locust tree with a hammer," so only time will tell just what is happening.

Dick Coulter Honored

U. of I. Moscow — Two University of Idaho student honoraries — Kappa Delta Pi, national education group, and Phi Mu Alpha, national men's music group — tapped more than 50 new members this week.

Among those honored by Phi Mu Alpha was Richard Coulter, Glenns Ferry.

PLANE "SPOTTER GROUP" IS NEEDED ON POTLATCH RIDGE

From the State of Idaho, Civil Defense Agency, Boise, comes the following letter addressed to Marvin R. Vincent, as follows:

"This office has been advised that you have been designated Supervisor for the Ground Observation Post to be located at Southwick. Your post is a unit in a national observation screen for the protection of the United States, employing about 160,000 volunteer observers.

"When this office has listed the names of the Supervisors for the 275 Observation Posts in Idaho this list will be forwarded to the U. S. Air Force, after which time you will receive an identification card, training material and complete instructions for the operation of your post.

In the meantime I trust you will complete the recruitment of your observers. If I can be of any assistance to you in this matter please feel at liberty to write me. — Philip Doodridge, Col."

In line with this matter Mr. Vincent has asked that all who are interested or willing to help from the Cameron-Leland-Southwick area to please meet at the Leland school house at 1:30 Sunday afternoon, May 6th, to complete the formation of the organization. Tentative plans call for the post's location at the Gerald Schmidt home.

Further information on the subject, which applies to the Kendrick as well as Potlatch ridge area, follows:

The air warning service is an important part of the Civil Defense programs of the state and nation. On its efficient operation will depend greatly the safety and well-being of the citizens, towns and rural areas throughout the United States. Every person and community has a responsibility in the Civil Defense program.

Remoteness from places considered probable air targets does not exempt any person or community from playing its part in the overall program.

The Civil Defense program of this state must be ready to swing into immediate and efficient action.

For the first time in the history of the United States an enemy has the ability to attack in strong force our interior cities and rural areas. That attack may come with little or no warning. Hence, the necessity for establishing without delay Ground Observation posts throughout the state to see or hear and report the approach of enemy aircraft.

The purpose of establishing the Ground observation posts for reporting enemy aircraft is to augment the U. S. Air Force radar detector screen, thereby completing the system of air surveillance.

Intervening mountain ranges between the radar screen and approaching airplanes reduce to varying degrees the effectiveness of the radar screen. Mountain ranges in Idaho and "hose in Canada" to the north will emphasize this interference. The radar screen will not record an attack action such as dropping paratroopers or bombs of any type. Consequently, the immediate establishment of a network of ground observation posts, operated by chosen citizens of Idaho, to spot and report to the proper authorities the approach of airplanes that pass through the radar detector screen.

The task assigned to the State of Idaho, is to establish a screen of observers, distributed at intervals of five to ten miles, who will be thoroughly trained in their duties, and, when alerted, will prevent an enemy airplane passing over the state undetected.

Women are as acceptable for this duty as men.

Depot Broken Into

Monday night someone tried to enter the N. P. depot here by prying the window open, but failing there they managed to force the outer door open, and then gained entry to the office by prying that door open with a jimmy.

As yet nothing has been found missing or disturbed. A N. P. railway detective was in town Tuesday investigating.

It was noted in the Lewiston Tribune that the Lapwal depot was broken into Sunday evening, and two trunks in Lewiston the same night.

CANCER EDUCATION NOW BEGINNING TO BEAR FRUIT

Boise (Special) — The neighbor-talking-to-neighbor approach in cancer education is bearing fruit in the form of a fresh lease on life for many Idahoans. This is one of the findings of a high-ranking official of the American Cancer Society who recently visited Idaho.

Harry Blanchard of New York, national representative of the society, who made a survey of the work being carried forward in the northwest, said during his stay in Boise that he was "greatly impressed" with the intensive educational work being done by the Idaho division. He said it was definitely helping to "save lives by teaching people to use common sense in a personal fight against cancer."

"I find that the first aid of the Cancer Crusade in Idaho is to bring the patient and doctor together in time," he said. "Through the cooperation of the workers in the Crusade and Idaho doctors, this is being done.

"Doctors all over the nation are reporting they are finding more and more early cancer. This is particularly true in Idaho and is directly attributable to the increased awareness by patients as to how the disease shows itself. All this emphasizes the effectiveness of the cancer education program, which can be — and is being — accomplished through the thousands of trained workers who follow the neighbor-talking-to-neighbor approach."

Blanchard said the people of Idaho should be proud of the program undertaken in this state by cancer workers, in close liaison with doctors, to educate the public concerning the disease.

"It is," he said, "one of the most effective community projects undertaken anywhere."

Blanchard said that one out of four cancer patients is now being saved. He added that with present day knowledge, two out of every four could be saved by diagnosis in time.

Mrs. Grant Hess, Idaho state commander for the society, expressed appreciation for Blanchard's report, but pointed out that the credit rested wholly with the thousands of volunteer workers throughout the state, "whose only desire for reward is a life saved."

KENDRICK SCHOOL NOTES

Students Enjoy Festival
Last week 95 local high school students traveled to Lewiston for their annual Spring Music Festival. This festival has been held in Lewiston for many years and from all reports, is becoming more enjoyable every year. All students that participated from the Kendrick school reported a wonderful time, both in musical activities and in the extra periods that were allotted for visits with other students from surrounding schools.

Honors brought home by the Kendrick students in the form of ratings were: A No. 2 for the K. H. B. band; A No. 3 for the Senior Girls Glee Club; A No. 2 for the Junior Girls Glee Club, and a No. 2 for the K. H. S. Small Ensemble.

A word of congratulations should go to Mr. Sover and to each of the students in these musical groups — they have done a wonderful job.

Instructors Absent

The first part of this week was spent without the services of two Kendrick High school instructors, both being on the "sick list." Both teachers were out of school Monday and Tuesday, but were back at their regular activities on Wednesday morning — Mrs. Elsie Deobald and Ben P. Cook being the unfortunate ones. We are pleased to have them back, as spring activities are just reaching their peak.

Junior Prom

Work is well under way in decorating the local gymnasium and on Friday evening the students of "the Junior Class" will present "My Blue Heaven" as their theme for this year's Junior Prom.

The big building will be attractively decorated and it will be worth the price of a ticket just to see the splendid work done by this group. Tickets are on sale now and will be sold on the streets until Friday evening.

Suffers Injured Arm

Mrs. Eugene Taylor, Juliaetta, is suffering with a sprained arm, injured in a most unusual accident early Friday morning.

The telephone awakened her, and in the frantic effort to get out of bed and still its noisy ringing, she caught a foot in the bed clothes of her husband — and fell to the floor, spraining one arm.

P. S.: We understand Gene had to get up and answer the phone after all.

P. S. S.: Moral — give your wife the outside of the bed!

DID GEN. MACARTHUR SACRIFICE HIMSELF FOR CAUSE?

General MacArthur's return to the United States will undoubtedly force an early showdown on our military and diplomatic policies, particularly in the Far East, it was predicted by Idaho's Senior Senator Henry C. Dworshak in Washington, following the General's address to a joint session of Congress. "I believe the General planned deliberately to sacrifice himself in order to place before the American people some of the conflicting issues which jeopardize our military campaign in Korea," the senator said.

"Besides addressing congress, the General will appear before congressional committees to discuss his views. As a result there should be a clarification of foreign policy with resultant strengthening of our national defense. It was the general consensus of Republicans and Democrats alike that the General's speech to congress was a masterpiece. His appeal was more effective because he stated the issues are fundamental and 'reach beyond the realm of partisan consideration.' One of the most significant remarks of Gen. MacArthur was that 'you cannot appease or otherwise surrender to Communism in Asia without simultaneously undermining our effort to halt its advance in Europe.'

"It is fortunate that the General's appearance before Congress was not on a partisan basis. He previously stated that he had no political aspirations. Although he is being criticized by many persons because of his policy disagreement with the President, it is apparent the General will stimulate public thinking, which is likely to result in Congressional action of vital importance to our nation.

"While the President acted within his authority when he discharged MacArthur, it is wholesome and in the public interest to have a reappraisal of our foreign and military policies. There have been recent developments not only in Korea but likewise in Europe which emphasize the need of policies designed to safeguard our own national security. There has been too great a tendency on the part of our state department to accept the advice of European nations giving precedence to the welfare of our allies. It is recognized that under the United Nations and the North Atlantic Treaty, the United States has certain commitments. However, these commitments should not force us to accept greater burdens than we can carry without exhausting our manpower and material resources.

"This country is engaged in war in Korea. The General said: 'War's very objective is victory — not prolonged indecision.'

"That challenge should spotlight the need of greater realism in meeting issues which confuse our country today. Americans, through their congress, should demand consistent policies which will remove the confusion, indecision and uncertainty which are causing fear throughout the nation," the Senator concluded.

* We use the above article, because, like the General's speech, it is free of politics — but points out our country's needs.

Venezuelan Iron Adds New Chapter to Baltimore Port

The busy port of Baltimore where railroads and steel-using plants are expanding facilities for handling increased ore shipments—expected from "iron mountain" discoveries in Venezuela, has an event-packed history that goes back to colonial days.

Baltimore was chartered in 1729 as a potential tobacco port. Situated at the head of the Patapsco river inlet of Chesapeake bay, it was handicapped at first by competition with the already numerous shore settlements catering to the shopping needs of near-by planters for their products.

The early traffic in tobacco was disappointing to Baltimore's founders. As late as 1748, the year's record shows only seven ships seeking cargo there. It was on wheat, however, rather than on tobacco that Baltimore was to lay the foundation for its future prosperity.

In 1750, the first shipment of flour was loaded at the port. A gamble at the time, it paid off handsomely on arrival in England, and started a boom in grain and flour exports which are important to this day. The first success led in turn to other traffic, to the expansion of harbor facilities, the establishment of infant industry, and the rapid growth of the young town.

Many factors played a part in Baltimore's development into one of Uncle Sam's top seaports. In the early days, the famous Baltimore Clipper, product of pioneer ship-building along Chesapeake shores, brought romance and speed to the port's overseas trade. The railways—initiated in 1827 by the Baltimore and Ohio to meet the challenge of the Erie canal—gave this city overland links with the growing regions opened up by the American surge westward.

"Mountain Sickness" In Cattle Decreasing

A bane of early-day western stockmen, "mountain sickness," which often struck cattle pastured on high altitude ranges, is becoming less common. Heredity is credited with lessening mortality from the disease.

Generations of mountain-raised cattle have built up resistance to the effects of high altitude, while those unable to adapt themselves have been eliminated. Studies reported by Dr. R. F. Bourne, a Fort Collins, Colo., veterinarian, show, resistant cattle can survive and even thrive on summer ranges at altitudes of 9,000 to 11,000 feet.

When cattle were first brought into the mountain ranges from the lowlands, many died at altitudes of above 8,000 feet. A shortage of oxygen brought on "mountain sickness," which often terminated in heart failure.

Many attempts by early stockmen to improve their herds by bringing in high-quality bulls failed when the animals were unable to adapt themselves to the high ranges.

Today, however, some of the finest strains of beef cattle are doing well at altitudes which formerly were considered too high for successful stock raising.

Blink Of An Eye

During the quarter of a second needed to blink your eye, some remarkable things take place. The lower lid comes up very slowly comparatively speaking. Main action occurs in the upper lid, which in the early part of the blink comes down like the visor of a helmet. But as the slit between the lids narrows a new movement occurs. The two lids begin to come together first at the outer corner of the eye, and the closure proceeds toward the nose as though the lids were being fastened by a zipper. Both eyes blink at the same time, but not always at the same speed. One eye, the weaker one, usually lags behind on the closure, remains shut for a shorter time, and opens sooner than the other.

Visual Communication

Lighthouses have been in use since the 1300s, smoke signals since before the discovery of America, and the "telegraph" since late in the 1700s. (The first "telegraph," invented by a Frenchman, was a machine consisting of an upright post with several pivoted arms which indicated different letters and numbers, depending on their arrangement.) Later there were signal rockets. Today man's eyes are relieved of the need for such visual communication — thanks to radio, telephone, and cable—but the demands on them are increased a hundredfold by the stresses of modern living.

Boxes Storage Space

The cost of any piece of household equipment includes the box in which the manufacturer packs it. Before discarding that box, consider whether it is worth saving to keep equipment in when not in use. Equipment which is used only at certain seasons of the year needs a storage container which fits it conveniently, holds it in best shape, keeps out dust, and is sturdy and thick enough to protect against accidental knocks and jolts. The original box, therefore, may be ideal for storing such varied items as empty canning jars and jelly glasses, blankets, portable electric fans and heaters, and electric pads.

Quality Pasture Cuts Swine Feeding Costs

Feed Costs Reportedly Can Be Cut 30 Per Cent

Hog feeding costs can be cut down as much as 30 per cent with high quality legume pasture, reports the middle west soil improvement committee, in citing a recent statement by University of Wisconsin animal husbandry specialists.

These specialists point out that an acre of good pasture will save 1,500 pounds of grain and 500 to 700 pounds of protein in fattening hogs for market. They say that if you don't want to push your pigs they can eat enough pasture to save 30 per cent in feeding costs. And even if they are fed all the grain they will eat, pasture will save at least 15 per cent in feed.

Good pasture provides hogs with high quality, low cost protein. It gives them needed vitamins and minerals, particularly calcium.

Among high protein pastures are alfalfa, red clover, Ladino clover and rye for late fall and early spring.

How big a pasture yield you get depends on how well the legumes are fertilized. Agronomists recommend adding phosphate and potash to new legume seedings. They recommend top-dressing older established fields in summer or fall with phosphate and potash to help keep the growth thick and vigorous. Top-dressed fertilizer helps the legumes come through the winter in better condition. Moreover, the plant food is there in the soil ready to be used by the roots when spring growth starts.

Aberdeen-Angus Increase In Breeder's Popularity

An increase in the popularity of Aberdeen-Angus cattle among breeders throughout the United States was noted during the past year.

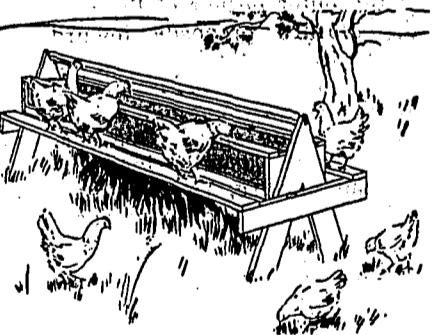

Cattlemen reported that registrations of purebred Angus moved upward 26 per cent this year as compared with 1949 and transfers advanced 32 per cent.

A total of 110,442 Angus were entered in the registry records during the fiscal year. This compares with 87,512 Angus recorded last year and only 38,737 a decade ago.

At public auction sales and by private treaty, 98,591 Angus went to new owners while 74,826 changed hands in 1949. A strong demand for breeding stock marked the 32 per cent upturn in ownership transfers of Angus cattle.

During the past year, 2,431 new breeders were recorded by the Angus breeders' association.

Durable Feeder

Recommended for its toughness and durability the above feeder can be constructed economically. Materials required: one piece of 1 by 6 lumber 7 1/4 feet long, a 1 by 4 of 8-foot length, another that is 6 feet long, and a 1 by 2 that is a half-inch longer than 4 feet; a half pound each of eight-penny and four-penny nails; one piece of masonite 1/8-inch tempered hardboard 4-feet long and 1 1/2 feet wide. Any farmer who is handy with tools can easily assemble the feeder.

Use Safe Rat Poison — Fortified red squill, either powder or liquid form, is the safest rat poison. Some other rat poisons are extremely dangerous to other animals and to humans, he warns.

Government Removes Eggs From Price Support List

Many agricultural workers throughout the midwest are anxiously awaiting the outcome of the removal of eggs from the list of government price supported agricultural commodities, scheduled for January 1.

Many poultrymen believe it is probable that egg prices will fluctuate considerably when supports are removed, but will steady in a short time.

"How much competition is there among major oil companies?"

Harry F. Wood, attorney of Olympia, Washington, writes: "What type of competition does actually exist among the major oil companies? Price? Service? Research? If it's research, we should find one oil company's brand of oil, for example, gives better engine protection."

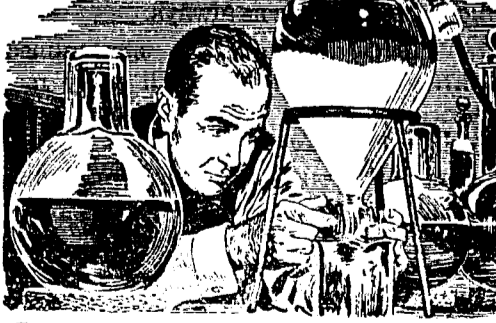

The answer to this question is much the same for the oil industry as for most others. Competition is intense in all operations. In oil, operations group under four broad headings...

Competition starts with crude. Oil companies explore, bid for rights to land where oil may exist. Then they must produce at costs low enough to meet market prices.

Competition continues in refining. Again each company must make the operation pay. If products are either not good enough or too expensive, we can't keep customers.

Competition in research exists indeed. A company must keep pace or lose out. Current pace-setter is our new motor oil. With tests using atomic energy, our scientists reveal it reduces engine wear as much as one-half, compared with conventional oils.

And competition shows up clearly where our products are sold. This is partly competition in service. "We take better care of your car." But it's competition in price, too. To get and hold business, every seller has to hold his prices down to meet others.

Alcoholism Can Be Checked By Nutritional Treatment

Alcoholism can often be traced to the diet and overcome by nutritional treatment, Professor Roger J. Williams, nationally known biochemist of the University of Texas, declared at the sixth southwest regional meeting of the American Chemical Society held at San Antonio, Texas.

Describing a recent series of experiments on rats, in which the animals were studied as individuals rather than as types, Professor Williams said that rats were found to differ widely in their tendencies to drink alcohol—some becoming drunkards, some moderate drinkers, and some remaining teetotalers.

"When on an ordinary stock diet," he reported, "some drank heavily from the first. Some started in easy and built up their liquor consumption during a period of weeks or months. Some drank spasmodically and some drank moderately over a long period of time. Some were teetotalers and would not drink at all in spite of the fact that they were forced to make a deliberate choice."

The investigators found that these differences "have a genetic basis, but that they also have a nutritional basis," according to Professor Williams, who said:

"Rats can be made to drink or be abstainers, depending on their diet."

Recommending that the same approach be applied to the study of human alcoholism, he said:

"Man doesn't become alcoholic—only certain individuals. The cause for the alcoholism has, as we believe, genetic roots and nutritional roots, and very fortunately we are convinced that in many cases it can be treated nutritionally so that the tremendous urge is abolished."

Suet Hung From A Branch Will Keep Birds All Winter

Use the shade trees in your yard as a cafeteria for birds this winter.

Hang suet from a branch or erect a simple little feeding station beneath a tree. That will bring many winter birds to your door for breakfast, lunch and dinner. And they may remain until spring returns.

Nourishing food may mean the difference between life and death for a bird in the stormy cold. The birds will repay you in the joyous sight of watching them feed and cultivating their friendship. But more than that, they are beneficial to your trees and garden, eating overwintering insect eggs and, like the woodpeckers, devouring harmful bark insect pests.

Woodpeckers, nuthatches, chickadees, brown creepers and jays are meateaters. They like "meat" such as suet or any kind of fat in their diet. Peanut butter because of its oil is a good substitute.

The vegetable eaters are the finches, cardinals, song sparrows, tree sparrows, juncos, chickadees, jays and nuthatches like sunflower seeds.

A feeding shelf or station may be a flat board a foot or more square hung from a tree or held by a pole. If it is surrounded by a coping an inch or two high, there will be less likelihood of food being scratched away. The shelf may have a simple roof, but enclosures on the side will scare away birds.

Suede-Like Flock

The "wooly" lamb of the greeting card or in a child's book is made possible by a "flock" finish. This is produced by spraying or sifting fibers of such materials as rayon, cotton, silk or wool upon an undercoat of special finish while this finish is still wet and sticky. In addition to being employed for decorative and novelty use, these finishes are applied to the bottoms of lamps, ash trays, and other articles to prevent scratches on furniture. They are also utilized in lining boxes, drawers and jewelry cases. Still other uses include card tables, phonograph turntables, toys and backgrounds for advertising displays. Flock finishes resemble suede and are made in many colors.

Sugar Beet Tops

Feeding of sugar beet tops that have been exposed to frost, wilting, drying, and other damaging conditions has been responsible for cattle deaths, the American Veterinary Medical association reports. The poisonous factor is an accumulation of nitrate in the leaves. In one Canadian herd of 70 cattle, 41 sickened and 19 of them died from this cause last year. Under ordinary conditions, beet tops can be fed without harm to livestock, the AVMA points out. But caution is in order if wilting and drying have occurred, as these conditions favor the accumulation of nitrate.

Three Most Popular Birds

The American cardinal, the western meadowlark and the mockingbird are the most popular birds in the nation. They can cite the lawbooks to prove it. Of the 33 states that have adopted an official bird by legislation, seven have picked the cardinal. Virginia, acting early this year, made the latest addition to the cardinal camp which now includes Kentucky, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia and North Carolina. Kentucky, first state to vote an official bird, started the cardinal parade back in 1920.

Potlatch Chief Sez

Published by the Kendrick Creamery

HELLO, THERE, FOLKS —

Seems as if it just can't warm up, now that we've had the first installment of that long-awaited rain — but anyhow, pastures are doing well — and when then do well it's time to cash in on your cows. Give old bossy just a bit better care and a bit more feed — and see if your cream check from us won't repay the effort. You'll find that it will.

Gas station attendant (pointing to choke control): "You say your car uses too much gas? Know what this is for?"

Woman: "Oh, that — I never use it, so I keep it pulled out to hang my handbag on."

Like ice cream? Of course you do. So, try a cone or two of your favorite flavor at the creamery, and then take home from a quart to a gallon so that your family may enjoy it too. Remember: "Potlatch Chief" brand is your as-urance of purity and quality, and you should always have some in the refrigerator or deep freeze.

"So you have to run home as usual?" scoffed one of the group at the bar as a timid looking little man rose to leave. "What are you, a man or a mouse?"

"A man of course," replied the little fellow with dignity.

"What makes you so sure?" demanded the other.

"Because," explained the little man, "my wife is afraid of a mouse!"

Always drink plenty of pure, "Potlatch Chief" brand pasteurized milk daily. Adults should have at least a pint, and growing children at least a quart. Remember, you can depend on "Potlatch Chief" brand. It's pasteurized for your protection.

Need a locker box? We have them to rent. Ask to see them.
