The most notable and recent example was by the Jananese in World War II. It played an important part as a staging area and supporting base for the various Japanese invasion convoys. The supporting air forces of Japan's army and navy were based on fields situated along southern Formosa. From 1942 through 1944, Formosa was a munity, and also had many friends vital link in the transportation and communications chain which stretched from Japan through Okinawa and

School Election Saturday

This coming Saturday, May 12th, beginning at 1:00 p. m., will be held the annual school meeting and election for Kendrick Joint District No. 283, for the purpose of voting funds for the operation of schools within the district for the coming year.

Due to the recent legislative acts

re-distributing school loads, the tax that must be voted is 12 mills for current expenses for the school year

Actually, the cost of operating the schools in this district for the coming year are no higher than previous-ly, but the 12-mill total must be voted if the schools are to operate. We use the word "must," advised-ly, for A. O. Kanikkeberg, clerk of the district, states that this is the minimum sum on which the Kendrick listrict schools can be operated.

Helium Effect on Living Organism Reported at U.C.

Helium, argon and possibly other inert gases—gases which do not combine chemically with other elements—are far from inert in their effect on living organisms.

This is reported by Dr. S. F. Cook, professor of physiology in the University of California school for medicine.

Dr. Cook has completed experiments in which he studied the reactions of small animals living in an artificial atmosphere consisting of oxygen and helium or of oxygen and argon.

The artificial atmosphere contained the same amount of oxygen found in the normal earth's atmosphere—about 20 per cent. But nitrogen, which forms nearly all of the remaining 80 per cent of the earth's atmosphere, was removed and the inert gas substituted in this same proportion. The ordinary atmospheric pressure of sea level was maintained.

When helium was used in such an atmosphere, the physiological processes of mealworms, lizards and mice were markedly changed. Similar, but less marked, changes were observed when argon was used.

The principle effects of the two gases were retardation of growth in the animals and an increase in the metabolic rate—a stepping up of the pace of work done by the body in the living process in the living process.

The research indicates that it may be useful to substitute helium for nitrogen in air used by men working in some tunnels, underwater construction projects, and some other conditions of high pressure.

Hard Pad Ganine Disease Gives Dog Owners Scare

A serious distemper-like infection that leads to hardening of the foot pads and nose is being seen in American dogs, but there is no evidence that it is a new disease or that it is becoming more prevalent.

Alarming reports from England, where the so-called hard ned con

Alarming reports from England, where the so-called hard pad condition is reported to be widespread, have made many United States dog lovers overly fearful of the disease. Thickening, hardening, and peel-

Thickening, hardening, and peeling of the foot pads and nose sometimes occur in advanced stages of distemper or distemper-like illness, but this condition always is seen in company with other symptoms—never alone.

Among theories as to the cause are:

(1) The canine distemper virus may undergo a change, under certain conditions, that causes it to produce symptoms that differ from those seen in typical distemper cases. "Hard pad" may be one of the symptoms so produced.

(2) In some cases, the pure distemper virus—which causes fever, respiratory distress, and diarrhea—may be accompanied by a second virus that brings on the changes in foot pads and nose.

(3) The severe illness caused by distemper or complicated distemper can lead to a temporary nutritional deficiency and loss of body fliuds that may account for the thickening and hardening.

Immunization with biological products is the best means of preventing distemper and the hard pad condtion.

New Course in Science

A revolutionary approach to the teaching of science which combines all the sciences in a single course emphazing their relationship to man was described to the 118th national meeting of the American chemical society held in Chicago, by Dr. John Xan, head of the department of chemistry of Howard college, in Birmingham, Ala. Taught without a text, the course is designed to give students a broad acquaintance with the modern scientific world and an effort is made to stimulate their interest in scientific discoveries and periodicals by basing examinations mainly on knowledge acquired outside the classroom, Dr. Xan reported. Ninety to 95 per cent of students finishing the combined general science course have voted for it in preference to the conventional type of science course.

"Candling" Eggs

Candling is used on practically all eggs before they reach the stores. An electric light is placed inside a box with a hole about the size of an egg, in which the egg is placed. In a darkened room, with some practice, it is possible to detect cracks, blood spots, develop-ing germ and the size of the air cell. The latter is the most important criterion of freshness because it gets larger as moisture escapes and is replaced by air. By comparing a few eggs known to be fresh with others that are older, one may learn how to judge the size of the air cell and the age.

Changing "Hand-Me-Downs"

Giving "hand-me-downs" a new and different color via the dye-bath is one sure way of getting little sister or brother to wear them without resentment. Adding a hem, collar or belt will still further accentuate the "new look." Wash and thoroughly rinse all articles before dyeing, and also remove buttons, buckles and trimmings. Use color remover first, the bureau counsels, when the article is unevenly faded or spotted and when changing to a different color.

Adrenal Gland Plays Role When One Suffers Injuries

Another step forward in better understanding the important role played by the adrenal gland in helping the body recover from injuries has been achieved, a University of Michigan doctor states.

Dr. Jerome W. Conn, an associate professor of internal medicine, reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science on research he has been conducting at the university.

His study has shown that the adrenal gland calls upon a substance in the blood known as cholesterol to help in producing the huge amounts of adrenal hormones needed in prolonged periods of stress which the body undergoes at the time of an in-

Cholesterol, produced largely by the liver, is the basic compound of adrenal hormones, including cortisone, the hormone found to be beneficial in the treatment of rheumatoid arthitis, Dr. Conn says.

In his experiments, Dr. Conn found the cholesterol content of the adrenal gland could be reduced 70 per cent within three hours by artificial stimulation which produced conditions similar to those created within the body during periods of prolonged stress.

This artificial stimulation was achieved through use of ACTH, the pituitary gland hormone which causes the adrenal gland to produce its hormones.

The effect of this prolonged stimulation of the adrenal gland has important implications for future study of several diseases, including those of the heart, liver and kidney as well as hardening of the arteries, according to Dr. Conn. These diseases are all associated with an unusual production or use of cholesterol.

Wool Scarce; Give Blankets Extra Care for Longer Life

Treat your wool blankets with the gentle care that precious possessions deserve. Textile scientists of the U.S. department of agriculture have pointed out that U.S. production of wool this year is one of the lowest on record.

Frequent airing of blankets in use not only is good sanitary practice but helps them last longer and hold their fluffy warmth and comfort. When a blanket is thrown back loosely so fresh air reaches both sides, the wool has a chance to get back its natural springiness which makes for warmth. But care should be taken not to throw a blanket over anything sharp, such as a peaked bedpost, which may pierce er pull it, or on anything that may stain it. Loose bed springs, sharp metal corners or even roughened wood may also catch and tear blankets or other bedding.

For best service and comfort blankets should be large enough to come up well over shoulders and still tuck firmly in the bottom of the bed. Short blankets often wear out early because they take so much pulling and strain.

A blanket stays clean longer if the bed is made so that the sheet turns back over the top of the blanket 8 to 12 inches. If the sheet is too short, a strip of cloth, basted over the top or the full length of the blanket, is good protection against soiling the wool. A covering over the blanket, or even a third sheet used on top, gives added warmth because it holds still air in the fluffy wool.

For Pig Protection

A pair of clean rubber boots is worth more than any medicine in protecting pigs from a fatal intestinal disease called transmissible gastroenteritis. Best means of controlling it is to move healthy pigs as far away as possible from the sick ones. Many farmers do this, a veterinary medical bulletin points out, but they overlook the fact that their shoes can spread the infection. Attendants who have walked through infected hog quarters should put on a pair of clean boots before entering healthy quarters, the bulletin cautions. The disease, believed to be caused by a virus, is marked by severe diarrhea, vomiting, and rapid loss of weight. Young pigs are hit hardest, with death losses sometimes running as high as 90 per cent.

Finishes Pre-Tested

The term "industrial-finishes" is applied to the finishes used by manufacturers to enhance their products. Before being applied, they are subjected to many special tests based upon the kind of usage to which the article may be subjected. For example, in addition to tests for adhesion, and hardness, finishes for refrigerators, stoves and kitchen cabinets are tested for their resistance to various foods, such as lemon juice, butter, lard and vinegar-as well as to various cleaning materials.

Wooden, Aluminum, Ladders The rung of a wooden ladder will bend downward about one-sixth of an inch for a 150-pound person stepping on its center. An aluminum appointed a commission which reladder is constructed so that the deflection is much less. If it were built like the wooden ladder, the deflection of the aluminum rung would be about a ninth as much s for the wooden rung under similar conditions. This is because aluminum is nine times as rigid as weed (white oak).

Modern Dentistry Can Aid Youth with Cleft Palate

The role of modern dentistry in the total rehabilitation of young men and women with cleft lip or cleft palate so they can lead happy useful lives is revealed in the Journal of the American dental associa-

Asserting that more children are born with this condition than any other congenital deformity, Dr. Herbert K. Cooper, director of the Lancaster, Pa., cleft plate clinic, estimated that at least one out of every 700 children have this handi-

"The most frequently found condition has been getting the least amount of attention," he said. "The citizens of this country should be as well informed on the subject of cleft palate as they are on poliomyelities, cerebral palsy and rheumatic fever."

Citing cases of patients treated at the clinic, Dr. Cooper told of a youth, 17, born with a cleft lip and cleft palate. During infancy, surgery had been performed, leaving him with a flat upper lip and very poor speech.

"He shunned all social contacts," Dr. Cooper said. "He left high school and was driving a truck. His whole family was extremely upset."

Dr. Cooper said the youth was given a medical, dental, speech and psychological examination. An appliance was constructed to build out the upper lip and cheeks and thimble crowns were placed on his five remaining upper teeth. At the same time, he was given speech instruction.

The boy was persuaded to finish high school, Dr. Cooper said, and he then was admitted to college. He added:

"The first two years were quite difficult for him because of his social adjustment problem, which he gradually overcame. Then he was taken into a fraternity and was graduated on the dean's list. He is now attending law school in a large university."

U.S. Still Leads World In Production of Matches

It's pretty difficult to get something for nothing these days, but there's one item left that is used by the average person 14 times a day, and two out of five times he doesn't have to pay. That little item is the

The manufacture of matches is a $25 millon-a-year industry in the United States. Each year, more than 500 billion matches are produced, and of 200 billion book matches made in the United States every year, about 196 billion are given away with the sale of cigars, cigarettes, and tobacco.

Sweden had us topped for many years in the production of matches. The Swedish Match Company, formed in 1913 by Ivar Kruegar, had match factories in 43 countries, of the world and manufac-tured most of the world's matches. Kruegar is said to have invented the common superstition that "three on a match" is unlucky, in order to sell more matches. His match empire lasted until 1932, when it was discovered he'd been using the company's capital for his own speculations.

Sweden now ranks fourth down the line led by the United States. Great Britain ranks second and the Soviet Union third.

Spices in History

There are many references to spices and herbs in the pages of history. They play important parts in the development of our civiliza-tion. The ancients attributed strange powers and accomplishments to spices. Basil, for example, is venerated by the Hindus who plant it outside their temples and homes to insure happiness. The famed laurel wreaths which crowned Greek heroes of war and sport are the same bay leaves we use today in our cooking.

Freezing of Water Pipes

Freezing is most likely to occur in pipes which run along an outside wall. This hazard should be corercted by re-location of the pipes, if possible. If this is impractical, thorough insulation with from two and one-half to three inches of good pipe covering is the only safeguard. Should any of the piping freeze, the work of thawing it should not be entrusted to a handyman. It should be done under the supervision of an experienced master plumber. Blow torches or other methods involving open flames are extremely danger-ous. They not only involve fire hazards but also permit the generation of high pressures which may cause explosions.

Gregorian Calendar

The form of our present calendar was set by Julius Caesar with some additional innovations by Augustus Caesar. However, in about 1500 years the length of year adopted by the Caesars proved incorrect. Therefore, Pope Gregory, in 1582, vised the calendar sufficiently to bring it back in step with the seasons. Now it takes 3000 years for the calendar to slip out of line one day. The Protestant countries did not accept the Gregorian calendar until 1732 and this is why certain dates in history sometimes appear to be confused.

ARE DOING THESE DAYS Ask for More Trained Men For Animal Disease Study

Solution to some of the nation's most costly animal disease is being slowed by lack of highly trained research men.

There is urgent need for giving promising young scientists an onportunity to learn the techniques of animal disease investigation.

The only way this can be done is by a long range fellowship pro-

Such a program has been sponsored by the AVMA for the past six years. Under this program, which will be expanded as funds permit, research-minded graduates of colleges of veterinary medicine get financial aid to engage in animal disease studies at leading scientific institutions. This gives them background and experience needed for unraveling highly complex dis-

Many livestock and pet owners who ask for "more research to solve disease problems" have given too little thought to how the job might Finding out what causes a perplexing animal disease isn't much different from tracking down a dangerous criminal, and neither is a job for anyone but a well-trained person.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation would not put a man on any of its cases without first training him in FBI methods. The same advantage should be given to people interested in disease investigation. Funds for expanding the fellow-ship project should come from private sources rather than the federal government "because the nation already has gone too far toward dependence on federal hand-outs."

Mastitis Germs Live 5 Days on Broomstick

Harmless though it may look, that broom in the corner of the barn might be the means of starting a new case of bovine mastitis. The germ responsible for most cases of bovine mastitis can stay alive for as long as 20 days on objects around the barn, and for as long as 26 days anywhere on a cow's skin. From these jumping - off places, the germ can eventually get into a cow's udder, where it starts the disease known as mas-

Survival time of the germ was observed after mastitis-infected milk was poured on manure, hair, wood, bricks, udder cloths, and other materials commonly found or used around dairy barns. The germ stayed alive for 4 days on rubber boots, 5 days on a broom handle, 7 days on an udder-washing cloth, 8 days on a bucket, 13 days on hair, and 20 days on hay. However, when some of these objects were treated with a disinfectant before being smeared with infected milk, the germ didn't do so well. Enough of the disinfectant lingered to cut down the survival time to day or less. This research emphasizes the need for clean barns, clean cows, clean attendants, and prompt disinfection of any object that gets splattered with milk.

Use of Columbium

John Winthrop, Jr., who supervised the construction of America's first successful blast furnace at Saugus, Massachusetts, in 1643, found an unidentified rock fragment near his home. About 150 years later, an English chemist. Charles Hackett, saw this fragment in the British museum, analyzed it. and thus discovered the element columbium. Today, this element is playing an increasingly important part in the manufacture of stainless and heat resistant steels for such uses as jet aircraft engines. Columbium is one of the most recent elements to find use in the steel industry. It was used commercially as an alloy in the 1930's, although experimental work had been done with it as early as 1920. Last year 632,000 pounds of columbium metal was consumed in the manufacture

Origin of Camouflage

The origin of the word camouflage has, it seems, been lost in the shuffle. One of the stories told in connection with it is that, during the Indian troubles in the Southwest, one Jacques Camou built a circular mud fort. This fort had large square openings at regular intervals around the walls. Through these, the garrison of the fort would fire. As the Indians' shots also found their mark through these openings, Camou painted the entire fort like a checkerboardwith large black squares on a white field. This confused the Indians so they were unable to determine at which dark squares to aim.

Thermal snow removal from sidewalks and driveways by means of embedded piping is a new and interesting development in the heating industry. The snow is removed automatically and without effort by the heat from pipe coils installed under the surface of the pavement. Hot water, circulated through the coils, transfers its heat to the pavement, thus melting the snow and keeping the surface dry. Automatic snow removal is economical. There is no ncressity for using snow shovels or chemicalz. All the owner does is to turn the switch to start the system in operation when the snow begins
