Mr. Kirkpatrick retained all land, the Appliance Center at Juliaetta, and his home at Juliaetta. He states that his plans for the future are indefinite, but for this summer and fall at least he will devote the time to completion of the family home now under construction at Hayden Lake, and to fishing and hunting.

In the latter category Mr. Kirkpatrick and Bruce Sherman have formed a partnership, are licensed, and will pack from a base camp at the Selway Falls this fall under the name Kirkpatrick & Sherman, Packers and Outfitters.

PARADE DAY SATURDAY PROVES VERY SUCCESSFUL

Kendrick's second annual Parade Day, but the first such event sponsored by the Kendrick Commercial Club, was held last Saturday, and proved highly successful. Everyone to whom we have talked, expressed themselves as finding it a most enjoyable event.

The Parade itself began almost on the dot at 10:30 a. m., led by the Kendrick Volunteer Fire department, and followed by Dr. D. A. Christensen, color bearer, mounted on his Apalooosa saddle horse. He was followed by the Kendrick High school band with their high-stepping majorettes and baton twirlers — and they in turn were followed by the '49ers Riding Club of Spalding, mounted on beautiful saddle horses, and carrying their golden '49er' banners.

Next came the floats competing for prizes. Girl and Boy Scouts, churches, Grange, Sewing Clubs, etc. Next in line came the Commercial section, with almost every type of entry imaginable — ranging from decorated loaded trucks, through new cars and farm machinery.

And then came the Pet Parade section, sponsored by N. E. Long & Sons — and this alone had 55 entries, ranging from Hampsters to dogs, cats, rabbits, chickens, lambs, ducks, etc.

In the float section, competing for prizes, first went to the Girl Scouts, their display carrying the theme "American Beauties Grow from Girl Scouting" — the award was $25.00.

Second prize went to the Kendrick Assembly of God Church, their theme being "Christ or Communism." As a part of the float there appeared a Chaplain in uniform, army, navy and Marine crossmen, also in uniform. Their award, $10.00.

Third place went to the Emmanuel Lutheran church, Cameron, with the float theme: "India," portraying the work the church is doing with the teeming masses of that country.

a circus wagon, which was loaded on a little cart with tin can wheels under festive bunting.

The pet parade, far larger than that of last year, was indeed a fine show. Most pets were co-operative and content to stay in line or ride — with the exception of "Susie," Julie Brocke's pet dog, who rebelled at being dressed up and pushed in a doll buggy, and charged from the scene, to hide until the excitement was over.

Then, too, Dianne Sweet's little bull dog was so enthralled with the gossings in the cage that she pulled the leash from her mistress' hands in an effort to get at them, but Dianne gave chase and retrieved the leash only after she had been pulled to the pavement — the only casualty being a few tears, a dusty dress and some scared gossings.

At the flower show in the Red Cross Pharmacy, privately sponsored by that store, first prize went to Mrs. Oscar Slind on a tulip display. Second place went to Mrs. Oral Craig for Columbines.

In the afternoon there was a brief band concert, by the Kendrick High school musicians.

At 2:00 o'clock the Kendrick Tigers tangled with the Orofino Maniacs on Armitage Field, defeating them — and the activities of the day wound up with a dance in the high school gym, beginning at 9:00 p. m.

The weather was beautiful, in fact perfect — everyone had a good time — so what more could anyone ask?

The Kendrick Commercial Club wishes to express its thanks to all who helped make the day a success, and particularly to the Spalding '49ers' Club.

Assembling of the parade itself was directed by Gerald Ingle, Walter Brocke, Floyd Millard, E. M. White and Henry Jones, with Marvin Long handling the Pet Parade section. Tom Keene was general chairman.

Local I. E. A. Meets
The local I. E. A. of Dist. No. 283, met in regular session at the school house last Thursday evening, Ben Cook, president, presiding.

P.-T. A. CANNING PROJECT HAS PAID BIG DIVIDENDS

As the school year nears its close we begin to make evaluations to ascertain whether or not the year has been successful. Always there are certain goals we have not entirely achieved and there are others that prove quite satisfactory. Corrections to strengthen the program are undertaken and activities which have proven successful continued, if possible.

During the past year we feel that the three hot lunch programs have gone quite satisfactorily. We have had excellent cooks, food has been prepared well, and the children have had a sufficient amount to maintain good health and growth and have for the most part, done well in school. Best of all we are coming out quite well financially, due in a very large measure to the canning projects of our local Parent-Teacher Association. Last summer the mothers canned large quantities of fruits and vegetables which, if purchased "over the board" would cost about $1,900.00. This is a large task but the work was well organized and many people contributed to the success of the program by giving generously of their time, fruits and vegetables. The more people who cooperate in the canning program, the easier it is for each one who contributes.

Again this year our P.-T. A. is organizing for a summer of canning for next winter's use. We hope each person who is called upon will assist these ladies to make a fine success of canning this summer — as they have during the past two years.

The students and teachers of our district take this opportunity to thank all the ladies, and all others who helped so generously in the past to make our fine hot lunches possible. While our appreciation will not go so very far to reward those who helped your real pay-off comes from the satisfaction of observing children maintain good health and grow normally, so they can better attain the education they are seeking at school. — Jasper L. Nutting, Supt. of Schools.

Big Bear 4-H Club Meeting

The Big Bear Ridge 4-H Club met at the Henry Kortemeier home on May 14, with 11 members and 10 visitors present.

All members gave reports on the projects they are feeding for the Latah County Fair this fall.

Roger Jones gave a report on the Spokane Junior Livestock Show and the Pre-Showing at Moscow. Roger's entry, a steer, weighed 865 pounds, graded Choice, and sold for $38.50 per 100 in the sale Friday.

The float for the Parade Day at Kendrick was also decided upon.

Donald Ingle and Roger Jones were on the five-man Latah county judging team which competed at Spokane Thursday against others from Washington and Idaho.

The tractor maintenance members studied Lesson one and talked about "Safe and Clean Tractors."

Other members of this club attending the Spokane show Thursday were Marjorie Ingle and Robert Dunham.

To Clamp Down On Trucks

It would seem that Kendrick is not the only spot that has been having some difficulty with over-loading and fast driving on the part of logging trucks, for Good Roads District No. 1 is this week placing bridge load limit signs and grade speed limit signs in their district.

The Commissioners say they have been forced to take this step following the receipt of many complaints from residents on the high speed at which the loaded logging trucks are driven on the narrow, steep grade.

Help Is Needed

Ross Armitage is issuing a call for volunteer labor for next Friday evening, May 25 — at the local ball diamond. He asks that everyone show up about 6:00 o'clock, equipped with a garden rake for the removal of rocks from the field — and to help set up bleacher seats.

The Kendrick town team meets Culesac on the local field next Sunday afternoon — and the field should be put in shape before that time.

Assist In Papering House

Moving Logging Camp

Louis Porter, who has been engaged in logging operations for Potlatch Forests, Inc. in this district for the past several years, has completed operations here, and is now engaged in construction of a new camp and moving equipment to the new location on Deer Creek, some eight miles out of Orofino.

We understand some of the buildings of his present camp, located near the mouth of Cedar creek, are to be torn down and moved. He is taking, as far as possible, a local crew with him.

Brush Crew Begins Work

Henry Jones, local state forester, began brush piling operations on Monday of this week, using three graduating seniors — and states that real operations will begin next week after school is out — since this job largely employs older youth.

Mr. Jones states that there is a great deal of brush to be piled — and burned, when possible, as the delicate fire situation of last season, prevented much burning.

Bridge Club

The Afternoon Bridge club met Monday at the home of Mrs. D. A. Christensen.

Bridge was played at two tables with high score going to Mrs. E. A. Deobald.

Industry Expects Near Record Production in '51

The meat industry—from farmer to consumer—is an important part of this country's economy. Of every dollar exchanging hands in the industry, 78 cents goes to the country's farmers.

Profits in 1949, as reported by companies producing the bulk of the nation's meat supply, averaged 7/10 cents out of each dollar of sales, or about 1/3 of a cent per pound of meat sold.

As shown by the above chart, payrolls go next to the largest share of

Of every packers' sales dollar, 78 cents goes to the country's farmers.

The packers' dollar—10.7 cents; other expenses totaled 9.4 cents and taxes got 1 cent of the dollar.

Profits included those made on the sale of meat and all other products, including by-products and non-meat items, such as soap, cleansers, medicinal glands, and dairy and poultry products.

The meat industry expects a near record production during 1951. Consumption will remain high due to defense buying and record employment, industry spokesmen believe.

Egg Production Depends On Well Balanced Ration

Poultry experts report it requires about one pound of balanced feed for every seven eggs produced. To make a well balanced ration the vocational agricultural service of the University of Illinois advises:

Use at least three feeds from the cereal grains and by-products to make up 75 to 90 per cent of the ration.

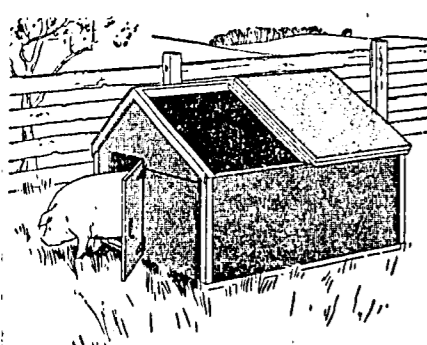

Five to 10 per cent of the ration should comprise an animal-protein feed.

Use one or more plant-protein feeds, if available at reasonable cost. Not more than 15 per cent of the ration should come from this group.

Include at least one legume roughage, to make up 5 to 10 per cent. Some carrier of calcium should be included if the ration contains no meat scrap, fishmeal or tankage.

One pound of common salt should be added for each 100 pounds of total ration.

Hog House

Scientific hog raising for highest profits calls for warm, dry, inexpensive housing. The sunlit hog house above is simply constructed. Its dimensions are 7 feet by 6 feet, and 4 feet 10 inches high. Built on skids, it has a one inch rough floor laid on 2 by 4-inch sills. Studding of 2 by three inch lumber supports the masonite quarter-inch tempered hardboard used for siding and roof. This material is durable and weather-resistant. Four-inch light strap hinges are used for turning back the roof door. Plans are available by writing Farm Service Bureau, Suite 2037, 111 West Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill. The plan number is AFB-196 and are free.

Plan Hog Pasture—Farmers planning next year's crops should include an alfalfa pasture for hogs to save grain and protein feeds.

U. S. Crop Production Up During Last Ten Years

Agriculture during the last decade has increased production from 10 to 14 per cent although its manpower had declined and the nation's population has increased, agriculture leaders point out.

The increase was due in great part to agricultural colleges with their branches of extension, research, and resident-teaching. Mechanization also played an important part in the increase.

New Chemicals Make Plants Insect-Proof

Federal Entomologists In Experimental Study

New chemicals that make plants toxic to insects for short periods are being tested by scientists of the U.S. department of agriculture. These chemicals kill insects that suck the juices of treated plants. They are known to the entomologists as "systemic poisons" and should not be used by the public until further tests have been made.

Studies now are in progress to determine if these insecticidal chemicals will break down into harmless compounds within a few days or weeks. If they do, a new approach will be available to American agriculture in the control of some of the most difficult insect pests, according to entomologists of the federal bureau of entomology and plant quarantine.

Beef Herd Decision Problem in Corn Belt

Whether or not to have a beef herd is a long-time decision for the corn belt farmer.

Under average corn belt conditions, a cow can be credited for a 450 pound calf at weaning time. For instance, if you had a 30-cow beef herd on a corn belt farm and a 90 per cent calf crop, you'd have 27 calves worth around $135 each. Or, at 30 cents per pound, a gross income of about $3,600. If four replacement heifers were kept back, there'd be 23 calves worth $3,100 and four cull cows, worth about $1,000, to sell.

There would be a gross income of $4,100 to cover the cost of maintaining a herd of 35 mature animals, including 30 cows, four heifers and one bull, or about $117 per animal per year. If you used the average value of cows and calves over the past 15 years as a yardstick, your gross income would be about half of $4,100.

Clothes From Sacks

With feed manufacturers vying with each other to create pleasing bag designs, rural America has the opportunity to turn these sacks into many glamorous garments. Here, Jackie Frehand, member of the Wanchese 4-H club on Roanoke Island, N. C., feeds chickens from one of the flowered feed bags, especially designed for re-use by customers.

Summer Eggs Must Always Be Kept Cool, Odor-Free

The poor quality of summer eggs is not the fault of the hen. "Hot-weather" eggs, with their thin whites and flat, weak yolks cause many people to stop buying them.

This waste could be prevented, top poultrymen say, if farmers would gather eggs at least three times a day in hot weather.

All handlers of eggs need to keep them cool at all times, and away from odors.

About one-third of Idaho's farm acreage is now in soil-conserving crops, according to the University of Idaho extension service.

Things don't just happen — somebody makes them happen.

Distributing Polio Leaflet

Boise, Idaho — Distribution to Idaho school students of "Polio Pointers for 1951," an informative bulletin listing precautions against polio, is nearing completion, said David F. Weeks, Idaho Representative for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Prepared by the National Foundation, the bulletin listing the "Do's" and "Don'ts" if polio comes to any community is being distributed in public, private and parochial schools through the nation's school systems. "The cooperation of Idaho's school administrators has been excellent in this vital educational project being sponsored by local chapters throughout Idaho," Weeks stated.

By the time distribution is completed an estimated 120,000 copies will be in the hands of Idaho students and their parents.

The card, intended to combat fear and lessen the apprehension of anxious parents, will bring to Idaho homes the latest data on polio. Possible precautions and a description of symptoms are listed with infor-

Calumet Farm Makes Profit Grazing Cattle

Famous Horse Farm Handles 200 Yearly

Proud-faced titans of the turf world and white-faced hereford steers share the lush Kentucky blue grass carpeting the 1,200 acres of pastures at Calumet farm, Lexington, Ky.

Calumet is grazing some 200 head of hereford steers shipped in last April from the panhandle of Texas. They are bought as long yearlings and grazed through Noember. Their average grain ranges in the neighborhood of forty pounds per month.

Since Calumet is not equipped to fatten cattle for the market, manager J. P. Ebelhardt has keyed his cattle program to the eight-month grazing period.

"We find," he says, "our net profit amounts to as much in this shorter period of time as if we had carried them on a feeding program for 12 months."

Ebelhardt and his staff of helpers also prefer herefords "because they seem a quieter type of cattle and handle well in moving from pasture to pasture."

Farmers Use Larger Part Of Income for Fertilizer

Farmers spend a larger proportion of their income for fertilizer than they did before the war, a recent survey revealed. The average amount used, however, may still be no more than half the amount that could be used economically.

A fairly general standard is that a farm should be using the equivalent of 100 to 200 pounds of single strength fertilizer per year for each tillable acre in the farm. A farm of 160 tillable acres using 150 pounds per tillable acre per year would require 12 tons of fertilizer per year.

For most economical operation it seems certain that crop expense is not an item to reduce but one that the average farmer needs to increase. For example, good seed is high priced, but generally the increase in yield offsets the added cost.

Atomic Farmer

Aaron Ganz of Chicago, the "atomic farmer" who has grown radioactive tobacco plants, received his doctor of philosophy degree in pharmacology at the University of Chicago.

Ganz, working at the university's "atomic farm", grew tobacco plants in air containing radioactive carbon dioxide. Minute doses of nicotine extracted from the radioactive plants was injected into rats and mice for the purposes of studying the behavior of nicotine in the human body. Ganz's tests showed that the body quickly gets rid of nicotine. The liver was shown to pick up more of the nicotine than any other organ, the brain the least.

Heifers Should be Bred By Weight — Not Age

Many dairymen have calving troubles in heifers even though they don't breed them until they are 15 to 16 months old, specialists report. These calving difficulties are usually due to small heifers that have not been grown out properly, the specialists said.

Feeding of proper growing ration will mature heifers quicker and start them on the road to production.

Time To Check Your Car

"Spring has officially arrived, and the advent of warmer weather will bring out increasing traffic just as surely as it will bring forth the flowers and the leaves on the trees," said Ezra M. Hawkes, president of the Idaho Motor Transport Safety association. "It all adds up to increased chances of being involved in a traffic accident," he concluded.

Keynoting "Spring Check-up Time" Mr. Hawkes stated that help toward cutting down the ever-increasing traffic toll is for every driver to make sure that his vehicle is safe.

According to nation-wide statistics about 12 percent of the vehicles involved in fatal accidents had one or more defects, and about 8 percent of the vehicles in all accidents were defective. The records of the states having compulsory inspection indicates that one-third to one-half of all vehicles have defects which result in rejection on the first check.

The record shows that brakes, lights, tires and steering gear are the parts which are most commonly found to be defective.

"Before you answer the call of the open road this summer," Mr. Hawkes advised, "have these items checked. And don't forget to check the windshield wipers, rear view mirrors, wheel balance, and many other minor details about the car. All things in good order will add to the safety, comfort and pleasure of your motoring."

Fur Coated Plants Studied By Smithsonian Botanists

A group of "fur-coated" plants is being studied by Smithsonian institution botanists. These plants have a dense, thickly matted, wool-like covering of long, tangled hairs on their leaves and inflorescences. In their native habitat—the northern Andes—they are known as "frailejones," because of the resemblance of their covering to the cloaks worn by some orders of priests.

The frailejones belong to the botanical genus Espeletia, a member of the daisy family. More than 60 species are known, according to the latest tabulation of Dr. Albert C. Smith, of the Smithsonian staff, who has specialized in them.

These strange plants range in the Andes from the State of Miranda in Venezuela westward and southward into the cordilleras of Colombia and into the northern part of Ecuador. In altitude they occur from an elevation of about 9,000 feet upward to more than 2 1/2 miles, only one species being found as low as 5,000 feet. Different species are found on each complex of paramos, as the extensive areas of alpine meadows above timber line are called in the Andes. Some of the habitats are quite cold, but says Dr. Smith, the strange "fur coats" can hardly be considered an adaptation to cold. Many other plants of colder climates do not have such an adaptation.

The espeletias often grow very densely, in some places constituting the predominant feature of the vegetation. Some are simple-stemmed shrubs, twice as high as a man, with trunks a foot in diameter, while others are small herbs. Many have vivid yellow flower heads an inch or more in diameter.

Study of Unicorn Designs Dismisses Fable Theory

The unicorn—fabulous beast of medieval art—was not entirely a product of the imagination. In the Muslim world, stretching from Moorish Spain to the famed cities of Bukhara and Samarkand in central Asia, its prototype almost unquestionably was the one-horned rhinoceros of India whose form became weirdly distorted in reports of travelers filtered through popular legend.

This is the conclusion of Dr. Richard Ettinghausen after an intensive study of unicorn designs on medieval luster tiles, silver-inlaid bronze vessels, Persian miniatures, and Indian carpets in both America and Europe.

The unicorn is pictured variously as a one-horned cow, lion, antelope, and horse. Sometimes it is represented with wings. Representations in both Muslim and Christian medieval art often roughly resemble each other, but Dr. Ettinghausen confines his study to the former, which are much less known than the western variety often found on tapestries and illuminated manuscripts.

The one-horned rhino was, of course, well known in India, and it was natural that various accounts of it should have been brought back to the near east and Europe. Few of the travelers who made the reports, however, actually ever saw one of the animals and they gave their imaginations free play.

German Traffic Point

Helmstedt, Germany, check point for the Russians' off-again, on-again "slowdown" of Berlin-bound highway traffic, has seen European history made for more than a thousand years. Situated in what is now the British zone at its eastern boundary with the Soviet-held territory in north central Germany, Helmstedt is believed to have been founded about 900, notes the National Geographic Society. By the late 11th century, it was recognized as a settlement with civic rights. That Helmstedt's location was a strategic one on early European routes is shown by the fact that it became a member, around the middle 1400's, of the far-reaching alliance of trade centers called the Hanseatic League.

Units of Length

Probably the smallest unit of length in wide use, to which a special name is given, is the angstrom. It finds employment in expressing the wavelengths of light and the dimensions of atoms, and it is equal to one ten millionth of a millimeter. There are about 253,999,800 angstroms in an inch. The largest unit of length is the megaparsec, used by astronomers in connection with the distances of remote galaxies. It is a million times a parsec, which is the distance that a beam of light (moving at 186,000 miles per second) will travel in 3.26 years.

Electromagnetic Induction

Electromagnetic induction is usually demonstrated by a coil of wire connected to a sensitive meter for measuring electric current. If a magnet is pushed through the coil, the meter shows that a current is flowing. The effect is the same if the magnet is fixed, and the coil moved. This was discovered independently, about 1830, by Joseph Henry, in the United States, and Michael Faraday, in England. It was one of the basic discoveries in the history of science, and the principle is used today in all electrical generators.
