W. A. Watts driving in to assist in bringing out meat and equipment. They had bagged two bull elk.

The hunters stated the hot weather and flies were almost too much — but the big fire in that area finally forced their withdrawal.

Grangers Have Supper

Tuesday evening of last week the Kendrick Grangers held a Booster night pot-luck supper, with 60 members and guests present.

Following the 6:30 meal an open meeting was held, with a short program and games, followed by dancing.

It was a most pleasant evening for all present.

Dry Weather Broken

The long-continued dry weather of this fall appears to have been broken, at least briefly, for rain began falling about 9:00 o'clock Tuesday morning, and continued intermittently throughout most of the day.

Beginning last Friday the canyon has been filled with smoke, said to be from the big forest fires raging in Oregon and Washington, plus the small amount generated by the burner at the Juliaetta Lumber Co.

There still is said to be a few fields of late beans awaiting threshing, but on the whole all crops are now under roof, and farmers would welcome a good, soaking rain, for dry-plowing is hard on equipment — and a great deal yet remains to be done.

J. WALLACE EMMETT DIES SUDDENLY AT HOME HERE

Local residents were shocked and saddened last Friday morning, Sept. 21, when they learned of the sudden passing of J. Wallace Emmett, a pioneer resident here, at his home. The immediate cause of death was heart failure, although he had been confined to his home for some time with that trouble.

J. Wallace Emmett was born on March 25, 1890, at Tma, Missouri, a son of Mr. and Mrs. James Emmett. When a lad of four years he moved with his parents to a ranch near Kendrick, where he grew to young manhood.

On January 1, 1911 he was united in marriage to Mary Agnes Gilkey at Kendrick, and to this union two sons were born Roy and Homer, both of whom survive.

Mr. Emmett spent his entire life at farming, here and at Coburg, Montana, moving there with his family in 1913, but returning to this section six years later, continuing on Big Bear ridge until his retirement about eight years ago. He, with his wife, moving first to Spokane, later returning to Kendrick, where they had since made their home. Mr. Emmett spending his time in carpentry and allied work.

He was a member of the Kendrick Assembly of God Church.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, with the Rev. Lester W. Damron, assisted by Rev. K. L. Hardin of the Kendrick Assembly of God Church bringing the message. "The Old Rugged Cross" and "Heaven Holds All To Me" were sung by Mrs. Wanda Hoskins, Mrs. Joy Swan and Mrs. Mary Bartlett, who also accompanied.

Palbearers were John Galloway, Leonard Fairfield, Clarence Morey, William Hecht, Ole Kleth and Robert Clemenzen, all old-time Big Bear ridge friends of the deceased. Interment was in Mountain Gem Abbey, Lewiston.

During the war Mr. Emmett was a member of the local rationing board and gave unstintingly of his time and money in that work. He was a man whose "word was his bond," and highly respected by all who knew him. The packed church and many floral offerings gave mute testimony of his regard.

Survivors are his wife, Mary Agnes, at the family home, two sons, Roy and Homer, and five grandchildren, all of Kendrick, one sister, Mybel Porter of Moscow, Idaho; one uncle, Robert Emmett, Genesee, Idaho, and a number of nieces and nephews.

Out of town relatives present for the services were Mrs. Mabel Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Comstock and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Comstock of Moscow; Emmett Porter of Vancouver, Wash.; Mrs. Evelyn Thayer and Joyce VanMouken of Spokane, Wn.; Mrs. Mildred Thompson of Tekoa; Mrs. Delphia Hickman of Farmington; Mrs. Fay Gilkey of Greer, Ida.; Mrs. Ruth Hill of Ahsahka; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Blenden of Weippe; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Benjamin and Mr. and Mrs. Gunder Relserson of Troy, Ida.; and Robert Emmett of Genesee, Idaho.

To Receive Bronze Star

Cpl. Jack E. Holmes, with the second battalion of the Eighth Cavalry regiment, First Cavalry division has been cited for heroism in action against the enemy. The action occurred August 9 near Mago-ri, Korea. His citation reads: "After a battle with the enemy, a friendly patrol was designated to take the wounded to safety. After a short time, word was received that the patrol had encountered heavy enemy resistance and was suffering many casualties. The battalion commander immediately organized a litter party, which he personally led to the retarded patrol. Cpl. Holmes, the commander's driver, drove his vehicle as far forward as possible until stopped by high water. He then voluntarily went forward on foot through the extremely heavy concentrations of enemy mortar and artillery fire, carrying a radio in order that the officer could remain in constant contact with his officers and patrol. Amidst this hostile fire Cpl. Holmes also assisted in carrying the wounded to a place of comparative safety. His superior devotion to duty was instrumental in keeping the casualties to a minimum. Cpl. Holmes' heroism reflects credit on himself and on the military service." — The Post-Record, Camas, Wash., Thurs., Sept. 20, 1951.

Note: We might add that Cpl. Holmes also has the Purple Heart. His many friends in this area will be glad to hear of these honors.

Now In New Home

Word has been received from Mr. and Mrs. Harry Langdon, former residents here, that they are now settled at home to their friends in their new home at 833 Bryden, Lewiston.

Farmers are asked to please bring in all items as early as possible to permit their listing with Ed. Long.

The reception held in the Community church basement last Wednesday evening honoring the teachers was attended by some 50.

A short program was enjoyed, in which F. C. Schmidt, pastor, welcomed the teachers and their families into the community and church fellowship. Mr. Nutting gave a short response, which was followed by some musical selections.

A vocal trio by Mrs. Dennis Racicot and daughter Jane and Mrs. Jud Lee, who sang "I Ain't a'goin' To Grieve My Lord No More" and "I'm Working on the Railroad."

Mrs. Bob Magnuson played an accordion solo and Mrs. John Johanson and Mrs. H. C. Schupfer played a piano duet.

Refreshments were served from a lace-covered table, at which Mrs. Manning Onstott poured.

The evening was spent in visiting.

All Churches To Clinic

Delegates from at least 15 communities will learn new skills and techniques, by dividing their time between the laboratory sessions and the clinic meetings dotted throughout the two-day Council of Church Women's Leadership Clinic, opening Sept. 28 at 11:00 a. m., with headquarters at the Lewiston Christian church.

"I extend a special invitation to all women of all churches of Lewiston and surrounding communities to attend the Leadership Clinic," Mrs. D. G. Hogaboom, president of the Lewiston Council, said today. "Our district is proud to be sponsoring this clinic, and we want as many women as possible to meet and benefit from the experience of the trained experts who are devoting effort to this event."

C. C. Y. To Attend Rally

The Kendrick C. C. Y. will attend a Youth Rally Sunday, Sept. 30, at Colfax. All will meet at the Community church at 1:00 p. m.

The group met at the church Sunday. Mrs. Schmidt reviewed a chapter "Happy Pagans," from the book "Gods of the Campus," by Robert Hamill. She pointed out various temptations that students meet and showed that the church points the way to resist those temptations.

Following the lesson, games were played. The next meeting will be held on October 7, at the church.

Circle Meeting

Circle Meeting for the Kendrick W. S. C. S. will be held Thursday, Sept. 27 in the home of Mrs. Marvin Long, with Mrs. Tom Long as assistant hostess.

Members are asked to bring articles for the grab box which will be wrapped in the afternoon. Also items for the Rummage sale and plant sale can be brought and will be picked up by the committee.

Attending Cancer School

Dr. D. A. Christensen left Sunday for Portland, where he will attend a Cancer school for physicians of the Pacific Northwest.

The American Cancer Society has sponsored this week of schooling for some years, and Dr. Christensen was one of 29 chosen from Idaho to attend this year.

Fall Breaks Arm

Word was received here last week that Mrs. James Emmett of Carrollton, Mo., had fallen and broken her right arm a couple of weeks ago. She suffered a similar accident to her left arm a year ago, and is now unable to write — but would be so happy to hear from her many friends here.

Rummage Sale

The Kendrick W. S. C. S. will hold a Rummage Sale, Saturday, Sept. 29 — Sales Day, in the room next to the Jewelry store. There will be a large assortment of clothing and incidentals at real sale prices.

There will also be a plant sale. — Adv.

How to Make Home Piano Appear Less Conspicuous

How to make your piano as decorative as it is musical is often a problem in home decorations, points out Mrs. Kate C. Archer, extension specialist in home furnishings, Kansas State college, Manhattan. With the introduction of the new spinet-type pianos much better arrangements are possible, as well as novel ways of placing the old upright models.

"If your upright piano has a beautiful finish and a nice grace of line it is most pleasing with no decorative articles on it," says Mrs. Archer. "If any articles are placed on top of it, they should be low ones. The horizontal picture is best above a piano.

"However, if your upright is quite undistinguished you might consider painting it the same hue as walls, or picking up the background color of the wallpaper. Pianos can be used as space dividers between living and dining rooms or may be placed in an alcove in a bedroom."

Sometimes it is satisfactory to build in a space that fits the piano with wall space on either side given over to radio or record player or book cases. Such a musical group, with chairs placed for easy listening, is a nice solution.

A piano always appears larger when it is against a narrow wall space, particularly between two doors or two windows; when the end is close to an entrance; when it is against the best-lighted or most prominent wall when it is across, or when it stands alone against a long wall without other furniture near it.

'Big Top' Grows Bigger, Circuses Become Scarcer

Are new dangers looming for the high wire walkers of the circus, the daring bareback riders, and death-defying trapeze artists? Yes, say the "big tops' friends, but not in the form of the ever-present risks to individual performers. The fear is that a slow process of attrition may be menacing the circus itself.

A half dozen circuses have closed during the current season. Only 10 are left of the scores which once flourished in the U.S.

America's spangled show of feats and freaks, of wild animals and wistful clowns, has had many ups and downs since it first took to railway wheels more than three quarters of a century ago. Today the paradox of the "Greatest Show on Earth" is that, while numbers dwindle and costs mount, the remaining outfits grow bigger and more spectacular.

Last year the largest of the rolling shows travelled some 19,000 miles, used 32 railroads, and gave 415 performances before nearly 3,500,000 people. It carried motorized caravans of set-up seats, and spread the world's biggest piece of canvas—30,000 square yards of it—in a tent that can now be raised by mechanical stake drivers and tractor power.

Early Railroads

The earliest railroads in the United States were built of wooden rails capped with thin strips, or "straps," of iron to provide a running surface for the wheels. These were called "straprails." Iron rails 10 feet in length were imported from England as early as 1831. The first iron rails of American design were rolled in the United States in 1844. By 1850 most railroads were being built of iron rails. The first Bessemer steel rails manufactured in the United States were rolled at the North Chicago Rolling Mills on May 25, 1865, and by 1880 about 30 per cent of all tracks in the United States were laid with steel rails. At the end of another ten years, 80 per cent of the country's mileage was equipped with steel rails, and by the late 1890's steel had almost completely replaced iron.

It's in the Finish

Simulated pearls are no longer thought of as imitations, but as fashion accessories, acceptable in themselves. The impression of depth and softness in a pearl is the result of light reflections from a multitude of paints within the pearly film, making it impossible to focus on any single layer. In simulated pearls, this effect is conveyed by layers of crystals incorporated in the finish which is applied to plastic and glass beads. The crystals used are guanine or pearl essence crystals. They are obtained from fish scales and are only 40 millionths of an inch in thickness.

Gregorian Calendar

In 1582, Pope Gregory VIII ordained a simple reform. Astronomers showed him that the sun-year is some 11 minutes less than 365 1/4 days. In the course of a dozen Julian centuries, spring's first day had moved forward from March 21 to March 11.

To correct this, Gregory directed that October 4, 1582, be followed by October 15, and that leap-year days be omitted in the last year of each century except years divisible by 400 (as 1600). His reform reduced the annual error to 26 seconds, which will add up to one day by about 4900 A.D.

Quonset-Type Huts Meet Storage Needs

'Little Business' Answers Challenge in Grain Belt

Called upon by the department of agriculture to perform a modern miracle, "little business" in 10 midwestern states is tackling one of the biggest jobs of its kind ever undertaken anywhere in peacetime.

Its Herculean assignment is the site preparation and erection of 2,300 steel buildings—each 32x96 feet or larger—at 670 widely separated locations.

The task arose with the grain belt's acute need for space in which to store the record-breaking carry-over of 1948's corn crop. In line with the trend toward economical "horizontal" grain storage, the department ordered Quonset buildings for a large part of the necessary new facilities. These archroofed steel units now are mushrooming up beside highways and railroads near farm centers through the efforts of local businesses and labor, rather than the work of transient crews employed by a few big and distant contracting firms.

Within two weeks time more than 1,100 concrete foundations had been laid, and erection of steel was under way on them in every state. The concrete work alone was roughly equivalent to laying 25 miles of highway in a time that an average road-making crew would require to put down one.

Sweat Down Costs

Sweat down your production costs if you want to maintain profits in these days of declining farm prices.

One way to sweat down those costs is to increase your crop yields per acre. More bushels of corn and grain per acre, more pounds of meat, milk, dairy products and poultry mean lower production costs per unit. On such a basis you can make a profit even if prices slacken further.

You can get those higher yields and lower costs with good soil management. Good soil management means giving your soil a fair deal. It means supplying the soil a well-balanced ration of plant foods, so crops will be well nourished. It means building up instead of breaking down soil structure and tilth. It means "recharging" the land with soil-enriching crops at regular intervals, instead of growing soil-draining row crops year after year on the same land.

Dangers of Butchering At Home are Outlined

Home butchering is profitable on the farm and many rural families are replenishing their lockers, jars and pantries.

But, unless undue caution is used, home butchering can be dangerous. Equipment, too, should be used with care. All knives should be kept in a suitable place when not in use. Hoisting equipment should be checked. A tamper should be used to force meat into the grinder.

Attention to Details Pays Off for Hog Farms

Attention to details is the biggest reason why some hog farms earned $2,000 more than some others during the past year.

F. J. Reiss, farm management specialist in the Illinois college of agriculture, said that 128 high income hog farms averaged $10,200 earnings from swine last year, while 161 less-efficient farms took in only $8,000. Extra care at farrowing, control of parasites, helped

Controlled Storage Keeps Apples Prime

Regulated Atmosphere System Is Recommended

The answer to whether apples will taste as good in May as they do in September is "yes"—if they are apples from specially constructed controlled-atmosphere storage. That is the opinion of Prof. R.M. Smock, of Cornell university's agricultural experiment station.

More than 100,000 bushels of apples are in 15 such storages in New York state, the first of their kind in the country. "When they come out in April or May or June," Smock says, "the apples are expected to be of prime quality."

It sort of puts the apple to sleep and it never wakens until brought out into store temperature.

Results of 10 years of experiments show that controlled-atmosphere storage will double the ordinary storage life of McIntosh, provided the rooms are properly constructed and operated. Good results also were obtained with Delicious and Northern Spy when the varieties were stored separately.

Sweet Potatoes Make Valuable Farm Crop

Many North Carolina farmers who have never planted sweet potatoes for market should be able to increase their farm income this year through the cultivation and sale of this root crop, according to H. M. Covington, extension horticulture specialist for the state college extension service.

The U.S. department of agriculture has requested farmers to increase their production of sweet potatoes by 12 per cent. Even if such an increase is planted, production would still be about 10 per cent under the 1937-46 annual average.

Farmers who plan to increase their sweet potato acreage this year to have some for sale, should consider market outlets before planting, Covington states.

Automatic Defroster

A household device which automatically defrosts the refrigerator and is a fine electric clock has been put on the market.

The defroster, the company stated, eliminates the housewife's periodic, usually messy defrosting chores which are so often put off until she finds time and a thick, insulating coat of frost has accumulated on the freezing unit.

Automatically, the defroster turns the refrigerator off at 1 a.m. each day, and then, again automatically, switches it back on after the thin skin of frost is removed from the unit.

During the shut-off periods, moisture created by the melting film is circulated through the box.

With the defroster, which is a precision timing instrument, any electric refrigerator, old or new, easily can be made self-defrosting.

Chlordane Is Effective Ant, Cockroach Killer

The newest and most effective insecticide against cockroaches and certain kinds of ants is "chlordane."

Two-per cent chlordane sprays, with oil or water base, now are for sale in many departments, drug and hardware stores.

These sprays leave an invisible, odorless film on surfaces to kill pests which come in contact with it.

Sit-Down Dentist's Career Is Longer, Professor Says

Several years of service will be added to the life of the average dentist if he sits down part of the time while he works.

This is the belief of Edgar W. Swanson, D.D.S., M.S.D., professor of operative dentistry at Northwestern university dental school, who recommends that dentists use operative stools at least 50 per cent of the time.

Dr. Swanson said students in the operative technique laboratory at the Northwestern dental school use operative stools about 60 per cent of the time. Students in the clinics use the stools from 10 to 90 per cent per operation.

Northwestern, convinced that operative stools will be used more widely by dentists to eliminate fatigue and extend their years of service, trains students in the use of the stools.

To obtain more accurate information on the reaction of students to the stools, the school recently sent a questionnaire to every member of its senior class.

The first question was: "Do you feel as tired at the end of the day when you have used an operating stool as you do when you have operated from the conventional standing position?" All but three answered "no." Two of those answering "yes" said it may have been due to their limited experience with the use of a stool.

The second question was: "Do you like the idea of sitting while operating?" All answered "yes."

To the question, "Would you do more operating from a sitting position if more stools were available?" All senior students answered "yes."

Dr. Swanson points out that the operative stool enables a dentist to change his position during the day, which is extremely important in preventing fatigue.

Sugar-Graving Animals Lured by Poison Plants

There may be danger ahead when livestock pass up lush pastures in favor of weeds and tough plants.

The attraction may be a poisonous spray or other chemical that gives ordinary unpalatable weeds and plants a special taste-appeal.

A bulletin issued by the American Veterinary medical association explains it this way: Certain chemicals used in farming, such as sodium chlorate, turn plant starches to sugar, and animals with a "sweet tooth" readily eat the sprayed plants.

Not all the chemicals used for spraying crops and treating soil are poisonous to animals, the AVMA emphasizes, but many of them are. The severity of poisoning varies directly with the kind of chemical and the amount of treated plants the animals consume.

Experiments are still being made to test the safety of various new chemicals on the market, and until all the facts are known, livestock farmers are advised to use only those proved to be safe and to follow manufacturers' instructions.

Resistant Plants

Plant diseases are no respecters of experimental plots. As a result scientists have sometimes acquired valuable information in the nick of time. So it was in the case of Victoria blight of oats, which invaded breeding plots and demonstrated to plant breeders of the U. S. department of agriculture and some of the middle west state experiment stations a type of disease resistance soon to be needed on a large scale. Clinton—and some of the other new varieties of oats derived from the Bond variety—in that way became known as resistant to a disease soon to be rampant in the Mississippi valley. This disease attacked the widely-grown oat varieties derived from the Victoria oat brought in from South America.

Vanishing Wildlife

Gone from the British Isles since World War II is the great bustard, Europe's largest land bird. Going or gone from haunts in Florida and vicinity is the ivory-billed woodpecker, largest of its clan. Deserting the Bahamas in alarming fashion is the tall, scarlet, hued flamingo, whose one United States haven is at Hialeah park, Miami, Florida. Whales, vital food source for many Europeans, long have been reduced to scarcity in northern hemisphere waters. Blue whales, biggest of all, currently show signs of sharp depletion in Antarctic whaling grounds. A new international treaty shortens the hunting season as a whale conservation measure.

First Tank Car

On November 1, 1865, about six years after the world's first oil well was opened at Titusville, Pennsylvania, the first tank car was loaded in that city. It was a flat car fitted with two wooden tanks shaped like inverted tubs. Many of these "rotary" oil cars, as they were called, were used for transporting oil from the Pennsylvania wells, until replaced by the present type of horizontal cylindrical tank, fitted with a dome which allows the oil to expand without injury to the tank. The first of this type was introduced in 1868.

U.S. Eyes Tasty Truffle, Europe's Ancient Delicacy

"Please pass the truffles" may eventually find a place in American table talk, if current projects should prove successful in developing low-cost U.S. mass production of this European delicacy.

The undertaking became known with the recent arrival at New York of a shipment of fresh truffles from Italy, a portion of which is to be used in agricultural experiments to determine the feasibility of truffle growing in American soil.

Truffles belong to the simple fungus group of plants. They are related to the mushrooms, and to the less appetizing family members, the molds, the mildews, and rusts, the yeasts and toadstools.

Like potatoes, truffles are tubers. They grow in clusters a few inches or more underground. Unlike potatoes, however, they have no apparent roots or upper parts showing.

Hence gathering truffles is more like mining than farming. Although cracks in the ground sometimes indicate their presence, "deposits" are usually located by trained pigs and dogs, whose sense of smell serves as a kind of Geiger counter.

The truffle odor is a distinctive one. It has been described as "fruity fragrance," when taken in small quantities, and more specifically as something like pimientos soaked in olive oil and sprinkled with garlic. The aromatic flavor long has made it popular in sauces, stuffings, and garnishes. One modern Italian recipe calls for baking potatoes and truffles in alternate layers, with grated cheese.

Caution Urged in the Use Of Urea for Cattle Feeding

Urea is a valuable protein substitute in rations for cattle and sheep, but poisoning may result when large amounts are fed for extended periods.

This is the verdict of Oklahoma livestock health investigators.

Steers force-fed very large amounts of urea developed muscular tremors, gasped, frothed at the mouth, and died in less than two hours. The investigators pointed out, however, that there is little likelihood cattle will willingly consume enough of the chemical to suffer fatal illness.

The animals don't object to small servings of this substitute feed—safe amounts such as are generally recommended—but they may shun feed heavily fortified with the chemical.

Urea acts as a protein-saver in rations by causing bacteria naturally present in the rumen to multiply and build their own protein, which is then digested by the animal. Ammonia is produced in the process of urea breakdown in the rumen.

Small amounts of ammonia are not harmful, but large amounts that accumulate from excessive urea feeding cause chronic or acute poisoning.

Determining Sea Levels

Sea level is not the same all along the coast. The U.S. coast and geodetic survey maintains along both east and west coasts of the country a number of tide-gage stations where the hourly heights of the tide over a period of several years are averaged. Leveling surveys over land between the stations have shown that there are variations in the average level of the ocean at different points of as much as a foot or more. Such deviations are ascribed to differences in prevailing winds, atmospheric pressure, saltiness of the water, oceanic currents and other factors. The "mean sea level," from which altitudes throughout the nation are measured, has been set by geographers after careful consideration of the levels actually observed at various points along both coasts.

Electric Lamp Life

Is the life of an electric lamp increased or decreased if it is turned on and off frequently, e. g., at one-second intervals? This would cause a decrease in the life of the lamp, for two reasons. First, the frequent changes in temperature of the filament would cause alternate expansion and contraction and it would deteriorate mechanically. Also, immediately after it is turned on, the cold filament has a lower electrical resistance than after it is glowing. Thus, in the first instant, the current that flows through it is relatively large, and this causes electrical deterioration of the filament supports and the leads to it.

King of Crustaceans

The succulent shrimp wears a popularity crown. He is king of the crustaceans that adorn dinner menus. By weight, the shrimp catch in American waters far exceeds that of any other shellfish variety. The postwar shrimp average—180 million pounds a year—is more than one-third of the shellfish total. Crabs, in second place, run two-thirds of the shrimp poundage. Oysters weigh less than half. Clams, lobsters, and scallops are lightweights, comparatively.

THE NEW WASHINGTON MONUMENT!

Sales Taxes Leave Idaho Island

A recently published map showing the states that now have sales taxes indicates that this is an active field of legislation. In the past year, according to Commerce Clearing House in its State Tax Review, 21 states have enacted or amended sales tax laws.

In the western area the current record is as follows: Idaho, Montana, Oregon and Nevada, no sales taxes. Washington, 3.25 percent; California, 3 percent; Wyoming, 2 percent; Colorado, 2 percent; Arizona, 2 percent and New Mexico, 2 percent.

Idaho has twice had a sales tax, and each time it was killed by vote of the people. Plainly, they do not want one. The absence of this sales tax means many thousands of additional dollars a year income to the merchants along the borderline areas, particularly from Washington, Wyoming, Utah and Arizona. Residents of these states shop "tax free in Idaho" and carry the goods across the line. Were Idaho to enact such a tax, this business would be lost, and thousands added to the Idaho merchants' cost of doing business through the expense of additional bookkeeping—no small item in itself.

Furthermore, examinations of the records of states having a sales tax shows that when such a tax is levied for "some specific purpose," that purpose is never fulfilled. Some other section of the governmental structure needs more money—so the "sales tax till is tapped"—and so it goes.

In our opinion it is far better for Idaho to stay with their income tax—then, he who makes the most pays the most—not the man with the largest family and the smallest income.

KENDRICK GAZETTE

It's Blewett's Grocery-Market For Bird's Eye Foods!

Indeed there are many farmer friends of Reddy Kilowatt who know that the Washington Water Power pioneered in rural electrification as early as 1906. Today, thanks to private enterprise and the REA, the States of Washington and Idaho stand at the head of the nation with 98% of farm dwellings electrified.

MEET ANOTHER Farmer Friend OF MINE!

A mighty versatile man is Ben Ziesmer, farmer, machinist and sawmill operator. And in all three operations he makes good use of Reddy Kilowatt's many services. Ben's farm is on the gentle south slope of Coeur d'Alene mountain 22 miles from town and "a bit isolated." But never-the-less, thanks to Ben's handiness and his friend Reddy Kilowatt, his farm has become known as "the community machine shop." When anything breaks down up that way the neighbors all advise: "Take it to Ben for repair." Says Ben:

"Electricity sure is the best hired man I have ever had on the place, in both the machine shop and the sawmill as well as around the house and farm. Sure glad the Water Power got electricity in to this section."

Potlatch Chief Sez

Published by the Kendrick Creamery.

HELLO, THERE, FOLKS —

Remember: Last week we reminded you to come in and pick out that locker box in preparation for hunting season — and now look at all the bear and elk beginning to come. When your time to go hunting comes, be sure you have that locker box all picked out. We have one to fit every need and purse.

Gas station attendant (pointing to choke control): "You say your car uses too much gas? Know what that is for?"
Woman: "Oh, that — I never use it, so I keep it pulled out to hang my handbag on."

Chilly mornings call for hot cakes for breakfast — and they're always taste better if dripping with melted "Potlatch Chief" Brand Butter. Its pure, sweet flavor adds just the right taste. One try will convince you.

Henry: "So you're back from your vacation? Feel any change?"
Sam: "Not a cent!"

Ice cream is good for you — and just the thing for that bedtime snack or to serve for dessert. But for the best in flavor make sure it's "Potlatch Chief" Ice Cream. Pure, sweet, delicious. All the standard flavors — plus specials. Take home at least a quart.

Kowan, the Eskimo, was sitting on a cake of ice telling a story. He finished and got up: "My tale is told," he said.

When in Kendrick Sales Day drop into the creamery for that cone of ice cream, that quart or that gallon before you go home.

Kitty: "Don't you think Susie has a magnetic personality?"
Kat: "She should have. Every stitch she has on is charged."
