Local Clubs Winners
The Southwick community extends their best wishes and congratulations to the members of the Girls' and Boys' 4-H Clubs for their outstanding achievements at the Nez Perce County Fair held in Lewiston last week, and also to the 4-H girls eligible for the Moscow finals, held Monday, Oct. 1st.

Our thanks go to the leaders of both groups for their patience and time spent coaching and guiding our young people.

The Southwick Homemakers Club members wish to thank Mazie Kuykendall, Alma Betts and Christina Cuddy for setting up the Club's display — making it a Blue Ribbon winner.

Era Comes To End

A college era — as marked in its way as that of the coonskin coat and the wisecrack-dormed jargon — ended officially at the University of Idaho, Oct. 3, 1951. The era was that of the trailers, and the end came quietly with a call for bids on the university's last 49 trailers.

When the GI's descended on the campus in large numbers in 1946, that was only half of the problem. There was the better-half to be considered, too. Also, in many cases, children.

University officials hustled to supply family dwelling units. Almost overnight, war surplus barracks converted to apartments, mushroomed on the campus. But that wasn't enough. The university imported about 100 surplus trailers.

The trailers, especially when they contained teaching babies, were not exactly conducive to study, but somehow the GI's in them got good grades. They were a serious crew, and used to operating under handicaps. Give a little credit to the wives, too.

Now most of the married couples are gone from the campus. There are still enough to keep the former barracks buildings well-occupied, but the trailers have been standing collectively like a deserted village serving only as a drag on maintenance costs. In August the university sold 46 of them to the highest bidders. The remaining 49 were held until after fall registration — just in case. But the new crop of students numbered mostly single men and women. — So ended an era.

Men — Take Heart

Idaho home owners can soon put their lawnmowers in storage for another season. No more pushing the old machine around the yard for this year in spite of the fact that the grass may be a bit higher than the "little woman" may like to have it when company comes. And here's authority if you happen to be one of those who need something to back up this argument.

Earl H. New, the man who grows flowers and does landscaping for the University of Idaho, says the grass will be better off during the winter season if owners leave enough of it now to put a good food supply into the roots, and you'll have a better start next spring, too. That means, says New, that three inches of grass blades will be about right.

And here's another pointer if you should have to mow the lawn one more time. New says to set the mower high enough so that you don't cut lower than two inches. Leave the grass long. A sudden cold snap could stop growth in a short time, and that might leave the roots with insufficient food for the winter. Wait regularly through the fall months until rains start. Dry grass is likely to come through the winter in poorer condition than the grass that went into dormant stage with plenty of water.

HELLO, THERE, FOLKS —

Have you picked out that locker box yet? You know the hunting season is getting further and further along — and you should know exactly where you're going to put that meat when you bring it home. We have a locker for every need and purse. See them.

"Dad," asked the small boy, "why is a man not allowed to have more than one wife?" "My son," replied the father, "when you are older you will realize that the laws protect those who are incapable of protecting themselves."

Yes, the winter season with its attendant colds is approaching — and one way of helping to prevent a cold is correct diet. Correct diet, for young and old, begins with drinking lots of milk — children should have at least a quart a day, and adults a pint — but be sure it's "Potlatch Chief" milk. It's pure, it's pasteurized.

It is said that people will gamble on anything. Now they're even beginning to save money, on the chance that it may again be valuable some day.

Ice cream? Sure it makes a swell dessert, even in cool weather — that is, if it's Potlatch Chief Ice Cream. And it's nutritious, too. Always have from a quart to a gallon in your refrigerator or deep freeze.

A farmer put up this sign at the entrance to his pasture: "Hunters, please don't shoot anything on my place that isn't moving. It might be my hired man."

For tops in snack refreshment and dessert, serve "Potlatch Chief Ice Cream." Fresh, smooth, flavorful, nutritious. All the popular flavors — plus specials.

AN EDITORIAL

It is very seldom that we of the Kendrick Gazette write an editorial, preferring to leave that to the big daily papers, and confine ourselves to the strict recording of local news items, but in this case, we feel that we have something to say.

During this past summer, and perhaps for other summers, we of Kendrick have borne with tolerance a great deal of abuse from the operators of logging trucks. There has been flagrant violations of all rules and laws regarding speed, over-loading, load binders, etc., plus the deafening roar of big motors with "straight pipes" or no pipes at all.

We have seen trucks loaded to the limit with logs, with unlawful safety binders, come tearing through the school zone at the foot of the school house hill and have even followed these trucks at 40 miles per hour when they "leveled off" in the west part of town.

But it is not so much of this that we speak, as of the violations of the rules of common courtesy. During the weeks of Sept. 9 through Sept. 29, three funerals were held at the Community church. We were present — and during every one of these services at least one logging truck with roaring motor and whining gears interrupted that service! In one case there were two such incidents! Now the logging season is over—and on January 1st new and strict laws governing truck operation on Idaho roads, particularly logging trucks, go into force. We suggest that our local village trustees also present — and during every one of "put on the lid" regarding mufflers, speed, etc.

Bird's Eye Fresh Frozen Foods of many varieties are obtainable at Blewett's Grocery-Market in Kendrick — and they're good. 1-adv.
