BEVERLY SCHUPFER WRITES OF AUSTRIAN HAPPENINGS

Graz, Austria, Oct. 7, 1951 Dear Folks:

We came to Graz by way of Salz-burg, and discovered that Munich was just a step across the border. We bought third-class tickets for about $4.50 apiece and went up in the morning and back in the evening. Third-class on these trains isn't classy by any means, but always clean.

Next came a discussion of the needs of the town for water, led by E. A. Deobald, Frank Abrams and A. O. Kanikkeberg. The problem being the increasing of reservoir capacity or the drilling of a new and bigger well, with the latter to carry a pump of about 300-gallon per minute capacity. Walter Brocke said that a 10-inch hole had been suggested. The club went on record unanimously as favoring the drilling of another well.

It was brought out in the discussion that a reservoir of 1,500,000 gallons would be required if the well were not drilled.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wolff and Mrs. A. G. Peters, as representatives a discussion on the formation of an "area cemetery dsitrict," embracing portions of Latah, Nez Perce and Clearwater counties. Gerald Ingle, who had spent considerable time in investigating the matter, stated that requirements would be: "15 property owners; 6,000 acres and $200,000 in assessed valuation." as a minimum. Fifteen property owners from each county must sign the petition, which shall carry the legal description of proposed boundaries. The commissions of the county involved (Latah, Nez Perce or Clearwater) as the case may be, will then hold a hearing in 30 to 40 days. If the sentiment appears favorable, an election is then called, with the commissioners of all three counties meeting.

Should election results be favorable, the governor would then appoint three cemetery district commissioners, one from each division of the district. #### Writes From Korea Pusan, Korea, Nov. 1, 1951

Just a few lines to give you my new address, so I can get caught up on my reading on what's been happening back there. After a month and a half of voyaging, waiting, train rides., etc., arrived here at Pusan, Oct. 31, by way of Yokahoma, Japan.

Puson: "The city of assorted aromas!" To take your first look at the city you would wonder how they exist. It is a dirty, narrow, stinking town, surrounded by hills on three sides and the Sea of Japan on the other. The hills are bare of any trees or bushes. You might be able to see a small green patch of grass if you looked real close, and wern't too particular about what you called

"green grass."

Korea is about the size of Minnesota, but there are over 30,000,000 people living here, and of these twothirds are below the 38th parallel. South of the 38th parallel lies the farming district, and the rest, above the parallel, forms the industrial section. Besides this occupational dirunning north and south through the

Watch Out For Infection

Only six cases of trichinosis infection have been reported to the state health department in the last three years, it was announced this week by C. E. Cotton, state milk and food sanitarian. Credit for this low figure was given to the good health practice of thoroughly cooking all pork before consuming.

With beef in short supply, and at a price many cannot afford to pay, it was pointed out that the per capita consumption of pork undoubtedly is on the upswing. It was emphasized that much of the hamburger now contains a considerable portion of pork, so should be thoroughly cooked. Consumers should be reminded, however, that all of it is po-tentially infected with "Trichinae," tiny parasites which are responsible the trichinosis infection which can kill humans.

When trictinae-infected meat is eaten by man these parasites invade muscles, causing severe pain. The trick-or-treat antics this year. Inbrain and other organs, causing serious illness. The fatality rate is estimated at about 5 to 6 for each 100 man come from infected hogs. Home cured hams and pork products in particular are listed as dangerous reservoirs of the parasites and should be thoroughly cooked under all circumstances, according to the health authorities.

Mr. Cotton urged that special care be taken in consuming cold meat products. The trichinae parasites may be killed by freezing to 16 degrees below zero for 36 hours, or 35 de-grees below zero for two minutes.

Return in Relation To Feed Cost Down Beef, Hogs, Sheep Show Highest Feed-Cost Gain

The nation's farmers are not making as much from each dollar spent for feed as they have in the past few years. In fact, the return for each dollar spent for feed in the production of eggs and milk is below the 1935-39 average.

For each dollar of feed the farmer spent in the production of hogs, cattle and sheep, however, return is higher than the 1935-39 average. In the production of eggs the farmers received $1.72 for each dollar spent on feed during 1935-39. But as of September, 1950, he was receiving only $1.56. The amount of return in the milk industry was three cents less than the $1.92 average of 1935-39.

For each dollar spent for feed for hogs, the farmer's return in 1950 was $1.80, a drop of 23 cents from the 1949 return. The 1935-39 average return, however was even lower, only $1.50.

In beef production the average return as of September, 1950, was $2.35 for each dollar spent for feed. The 1935-39 average was $1.39 and the 1949 average $2.01.

Steps to Help Curb Swine Enteritis Are Outlined

The American Foundation for Animal Health outlines seven steps to help curb swine enteritis. 1. Isolate newly-purchased swine from the home herd for at least three weeks, until they are known to be free of disease. 2. Control internal and external parasites which weaken the animals' resistance.

3. Keep swine away from old hog lots, contaminated pastures, cow pastures, stagnant pools and other sources of infection.

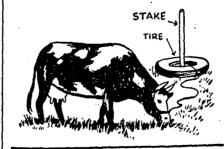

4. Keep feeding and watering equipment clean.

5. Check rations carefully, especially possible deficiency of B-complex vitamins. Prevent over-eating of rich concentrates.

6. Earmark sows and their litters to identify and weed out sow "car-

7. Watch for scouring, loss of weight, and failure to feed into gains. At the first sign of trouble, get a diagnosis and isolate the ailing animals from apparently healthy ones.

Tire Tether

Instead of tying a tether directly to the stake, fasten it to an old automobile tire casing and then drop in over the stake. The later, of course, should be much higher than ordinary so the animal will not pull the tire off the stake. This keeps cattle from winding the tether around the stake.

Chemical Blossom Thinning Raises Yield 15 Per Cent

Venezuelan Iron Adds New Chapter to Baltimore Port

The busy port of Baltimore where railroads and steel-using plants are expanding facilities for handling increased ore shipments expected from "iron mountain" discoveries in Venezuela, has an event-packed history that goes back to colonial days.

Baltimore was chartered in 1729 as a potential tobacco port. Situated at the head of the Patapsco river inlet of Chesapeake bay, it was handicapped at first by competition with the already numerous shore settlements catering to the shopping needs of near-by planters for their products.

The early traffic in tobacco was disappointing to Baltimore's founders. As late as 1748, the year's record shows only seven ships seeking cargo there. It was on wheat, however, rather than on tobacco that Baltimore was to lay the foundation for its future pros-

In 1750, the first shipment of flour was loaded at the port. A gamble at the time, it paid off handsomely on arrival in England, and started a boom in grain and flour exports which are important to this day. The first success led in turn to other traffic, to the expansion of harbor facilities, the establishment of infant industry, and the rapid growth of the young

Many factors played a part in Baltimore's development into one of Uncle Sam's top seaports. In the early days, the famous Baltimore Clipper, product of pioneer ship-building along Chesapeake shores, brought romance and speed to the port's overseas trade. The railways -initiated in 1827 by the Baltimore and Ohio to meet the challenge of the Erie canal—gave this city over-land links with the growing regions opened up by the American surge westward.

"Mountain Sickness" In Cattle Decreasing

A bane of early-day western tockmen, "mountain sickness," stockmen, which often struck cattle pastured on high altitude ranges, is be coming less common. Heredity is credited with lessening mortality from the disease.

Generations of mountain-raised cattle have built up resistance to the effects of high altitude, while those unable to adapt themselves have been eliminated. Studies reported by Dr. R. F. Bourne, a Fort Collins, Colo., veterinarian, show resistant cattle can survive and even thrive on summer ranges at altitudees of 9,000 to 11,000 feet.

When cattle were first brought into the mountain ranges from the lowlands, many died at altitudes of above 8,000 feet. A shortage of oxygen brought on "mountain sickness," which often terminated in heart failure.

Many attempts by early stockmen to improve their herds by bringing in high-quality bulls failed when the animals were unable to adapt themselves to the high ranges.

Today, however, some of the finest strains of beef cattle are do ing well at altitudes which formerly were considered too high for successful stock raising.

Blink Of An Eye

During the quarter of a second needed to blink your eye, some remarkable things take place. The lower lid comes up very slowly comparatively speaking. Main action occurs in the upper lid, which in the early part of the blink comes down like the visor of a helmet. But as the slit between the lids narrows a new movement occurs. The two lids begin to come together first at the outer corner of the eye, and the closure proceeds toward the nose as though the lids were being fastened by a zipper. Both eyes blink at the same time, but not always at the same speed. One eye, the weaker one, usually lags behind on the closure, remains shut for a shorter time, and opens sooner than the other.

Visual Communication

Lighthouses have been in use since the 1300s, smoke signals since before the discovery of America, and the "telegraph" since late in the 1700s. (The first "telegraph," invented by a Frenchman, was a machine consisting of an upright post with several pivoted arms which indicated different letters and numbers, depending on their arrangement.) Later there were signal rockets. Today man's eyes are relieved of the need for such visual communication — thanks to radio, telephone, and cable-but the demands on them are increased a hundredfold by the stresses of modern living.

vember. Their average grain ranges in the neighborhood of forty pounds per month.

Since Calumet is not equipped to fatten cattle for the market, man-ager J. P. Ebelhardt has keyed his cattle program to the eightmonth grazing period.

"We find," he says, "our net profit amounts to as much in this shorter period of time as if we had carried them on a feeding program for 12

Ebelhardt and his staff of helpers also prefer herefords "because they seem a quieter type of cattle and handle well in moving from pasture to pasture."

Farmers Use Larger Part Of Income for Fertilizer

Farmers spend a larger proportion of their income for fertilizer than they did before the war, a recent survey revealed. The average amount used, however, may still be no more than half the amount that could be used economically.

A fairly general standard is that a farm should be using the equivalent of 100 to 200 pounds of single strength fertilizer per year for each tillable acre in the farm. A farm of 160 tillable acres using 150 pounds per tillable acre per year would require 12 tons of fertilizer per year. For most economical operation it seems certain that crop expense is not an item to reduce but one that the average farmer needs to increase. For example, good seed is high priced, but generally the in-crease in yield offsets the added

Heifers Should be Bred By Weight — Not Age

Many dairymen have calving troubles in heifers even though they don't breed them until they are 15 to 16 months old, specialists report. These calving difficulties are usualup due to small heifers that have not been grown out properly, the specialists said. Feeding of proper growing ration will mature heifers quicker and start them on the road to produc-

Fur Coated Plants Studied By Smithsonian Botanists

The state of the s

A group of "fur-coated" plants is being studied by Smithsonian institution botanists. These plants have a dense, thickly matted, wool-like covering of long, tangled hairs on their leaves and inflorescences. In their native habitat—the northern Andes-they are known as "frailejones," because of the resemblance of their covering to the cloaks worn by some orders of priests.

The frailejones belong to the botanical genus Espeletia, a member of the daisy family. More than 60 species are known, according to the latest tabulation of Dr. Albert C. Smith, of the Smithsonian staff, who has specialized in them.

These strange plants range in the Andes from the State of Miranda in Venezuela westward and southward into the cordilleras of Colombia and into the northern part of Ecuador. In altitude they occur from an elevation of about 9,000 feet upward to more than 21/2 miles, only one species being found as low as 5,000 feet. Different species are found on each complex of paramos, as the extensive areas of alpine meadows above timber line are called in the Andes. Some of the habitats are quite cold, but says Dr. Smith, the strange "fur coats" can hardly be considered an adaptation to cold. Many other plants of colder climates do not have such an adapta-

The espeletias often grow very densely, in some places constituting the predominant feature of the vegetation. Some are simple-stemmed shrubs, twice as high as a man, with trunks a foot in diameter, while others are small herbs. Many have vivid yellow flower heads an inch or more in diameter.

Study of Unicorn Désigns Dismisses Fable Theory

The unicorn—fabulous beast of medieval art-was not entirely a product of the imagination. In the Muslim world, stretching from Moorish Spain to the famed cities of Bukhara and Samarkand in central Asia, its prototype almost unquestionably was the one-horned rhinoceros of India whose form became weirdly distorted in reports of travelers filtered through popular legend.

This is the conclusion of Dr. Richard Ettinghausen after an intensive study of unicorn designs on medieval luster tiles, silver-inlaid bronze vessels, Persian miniatures, and Indian carpets in both America and

The unicorn is pictured variously as a one-horned cow, lion, antelope, and horse. Sometimes it is repre sented with wings. Representations in both Muslim and Christian medieval art often roughly resemble each other, but Dr. Ettinghausen confines his study to the former, which are much less known than the western variety often found on tapestries and illuminated manuscripts.

The one-horned rhino was, of course, well known in India, and it was natural that various accounts of it should have been brought back to the near east and Europe. Few of the travelers who made the reports, however, actually ever saw one of the animals and they gave their imaginations free play.

German Traffic Point

Helmstedt, Germany, check point for the Russians' off-again, on-again "slowdown" of Berlin-bound highway traffic, has seen European history made for more than a thousand years. Situated in what is now the British zone at its eastern boundary with the Soviet-held territory in north central Germany, Helmstedt is believed to have been founded about 900, notes the National Geographic Society. By the late 11th century, it was recognized as a settlement with civic rights. That Helmstedt's location was a strategic one on early European routes is shown by the fact that it became a member, around the middle 1400's, of the far-reaching alliance of trade centers called the Hanseatic League.

Units of Length

Probably the smallest unit of length in wide use, to which a special name is given, is the angstrom. It finds employment in expressing the wavelengths of light and the dimensions of atoms, and it is equal to one ten millionth of a millimeter. There are about 253,999,800 angstroms in an inch. The largest unit of length is the megaparsec, used by astronomers in connection with the distances of remote galaxies. It is a million times a parsec, which is the distance that a beam of light (moving at 186,000 miles per second) will travel in 3.26 years.

Electromagnetic Induction

Electromagnetic induction is usually demonstrated by a coil of wire connected to a sensitive meter for measuring electric current. If a magnet is pushed through the coil, the meter shows that a current is flowing. The effect is the same if the magnet is fixed, and the coil moved. This was discovered independently, about 1830, by Joseph Henry, in the United States, and Michael Faraday, in England. It was one of the basic discoveries in the history of science, and the principle is used today in all electrical generators.

Oil Situation Not Dangerous

Assurances that domestic oil producers need have no fear United States oil markets will be flooded by "cheap" Middle Eastern crude was voiced today by R. G. Follis, chairman of the board of directors of Standard Oil of California.

Follis, whose company is one of the major partners in Arabian American Oil Company, spoke before a group meeting at the 31st annual conference of the American Petroleum Institute in Chicago.

Although he stressed the importance of the Middle East oil to the security of the Western nations, Folpropaganda purposes. Speaking of the possibility of constructing pipe line capacity sufficient to move Iran's normal production, Follis said:

"By land, at least two 'big-inch' pipe lines would be needed, involving over 400,000 tons of steel and a right-of-way over mountain passes 10,000 feet high. This would be a tremendous undertaking, and pre-sumably Russia would do better to develop her own productive possibilities.

He added that while the United States and other Middle East oilproducing areas have been able to absorb most of the loss of Iran's prolific output by increasing production, petroleum prospects in the first quarter of 1952 are not so certain,

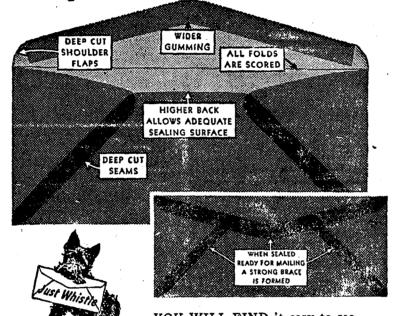

"Although production in Kuwait ly, there will probably be a shortage

Follis stated that he was hopeful Middle East countries to purchase for a satisfactory solution to the food and manufactured goods from Iranian problem, but said that it will take months to get Iran's oil Follis emphasized that the costs of fields and its huge refinery back to oil operations in the various Middle normal capacity. #### Break For The Taxpayers

Once in a coon's age a government electric power project makes some-thing that resembles a profit. That happens when private enterprise buys the power at wholesale and distributes it to the consumers.

An interesting example of this is provided by the government's big tax-exempt Central Valley project in California. In the seven years which ended last June 30, according to privileged government agencies sell hand injuries.

Bureau of Reclamation figures, the agencies, the price is much lower project's revenues — for irrigation water, municipal and industrial water, and power, have totaled $43,502,272, And $39,304,077 — or 90.3 percent - was paid by a highly taxed private light and power company for power purchased from the project's plants. The result was that revenues were sufficient to pay And the consumers — agricultural, the project's operation, maintenance domestic and industrial — get their and replacement costs for the 7- electricity at a price which is estab-

"What have I got to lose if they break you up?"

Aside from any question of fairness, people wonder how they'll be affected personally if the Antitrust lawyers succeed in cutting big companies into smaller ones. We hear such comments as "What have  $\underline{I}$  got to lose if they break you up?"

The answer depends on who you are. Most people gain in many ways by the fact that there are both large and small companies competing for your patronage, trying to get ahead. Here's what you stand to lose:

New products and improvements in old ones flow steadily from our laboratories-new gasolines and oils, raw materials for new fabrics, "soapless soaps"; many others. You may take such progress for granted. But Standard has put some 40 million dollars into research since 1940. We can't go on this way if they break us up.

You are assured of ample supplies of petroleum products at reasonable prices. Standard is constantly seeking out new crude oil reserves in this country and abroad. This sometimes costs millions before the first gallon is found. We can do jobs this big, which benefit you as well as the country, only by being integrated.

Motorists get the finest service at Western gas stations; Standard led the way. Our technical counsel helps many industries cut production costs of goods you buy. We've pioneered in taking needed petroleum products into undeveloped farm and frontier areas. We can't give these services if we're forced to be small.

America's military strength depends heavily on industry. Our fighting men are backed by the world's greatest production capacity. Should it now be limited by breaking up big companies? We are at work for the U.S. on atomic research, synthetic rubber, aviation gasolines, other jobs. We believe we perform them best by being big.

You have a lot to lose if they break us up. As a big, integrated company, Standard is able to operate more efficiently in serving you and helping to make America strong.

"During the first nine months of operation, the mobile x-ray unit took almost 60,000 chest x-rays. By October 19th, 29 active cases of unsuspected tuberculosis had been found that could be directly attributed to the mobile x-ray program. This represents only a portion of the total number of films taken as it takes time for the physician to make a definite diagnosis of the disease.

"This valuable program was made possible through your purchase of Christmas Seals, but it represents only a part of the total program of your tuberculosis association. The educational program conducted during the year is an important supplement to both case-finding and pre-

"Some of the finest accomplishments of Americans are those made possible by voluntary giving. The campaign against tuberculosis is such an accomplishment. Thousands of lives have been saved and much suffering avoided as a result of educational activities, case-finding programs, clinics for diagnosis, hospitalization aid and various other phases of a well-balanced tuberculosis program which is made possible through the sale of Christmas Seals, I urge every citizen of Idaho to buy seals as generously as possible and use them liberally on all Christmas as well as other mail."

Thanksgiving Meditation

Thanksgiving Day greets us again, the day that speaks to us of bountiful blessings and benefits. Every good and perfect gift cometh down from above. God sends the rain on the just and the unjust. What a gracious giver He is. Every day should be a day of thanksgiving, but it is good to have one day set aside as a national Thanksgiving

Day. With what attitude do we approach this blessed day? May our frowns, bitter feelings, doubts and despair, be absorbed in feelings of gratitude and blessing as we pause, meditate and count our blessings.

The Psalmist said: "What shall I render unto the Lord for all his benefits unto me?" Regardless of our difficulties, and things we might classify as reverses, unpleasantries, etc., most of us can enumerate many blessings and benefits.

The Psalmist said in answering his question: "I will offer the sacrifice of Thanksgiving." In modern checked out. This represents a 32 words, I will be grateful to God. Plays Roll Of Cupid Missoula — The big game season closed Oct. 31 on the Powell district on Idaho's upper Lochsa river. A total of 1,363 hunters entered the area, and 432 elk and 15 bear were checked out. This represents a 22 of congress, permitting Miss Evelyn Reichardt, of Coburg, Germany, to come to America to join her bridegreem-to-be, Cpl. Stanley H. Stater, Princeton, Idaho.

The two met while Cpl. Stater was serving in Germany with the Army of Occupation. They became engaged and planned to marry before Stater was transferred back to the United States. As the wife of an American citizen, the German girl would encounter no difficulty in gaining admittance to this country.

But, Cpl. Stater fell ill suddenly and was transferred on very short notice to a hospital in the United States, so the intended marriage had to be postponed. It appeared, too, that immigration restrictions would keep Miss Reichardt out of this country for an indefinite period of time, possibly for years. When it became clear that nothing short of an act of congress could sharpen the appetities of all.

A short skit was given by the Senoras Bob Nelson and Howard Hoffman which have the Locks accountry that will help ica without undue delay, Cpl. Stater and Mrs. Alec Bull, of Princeton, Idaho, appealed to Senator Dworshak for help. The Idaho Senator started the ball rolling last March by introducing a bill to permit Miss Reichardt to enter Almost every family will either this country notwithstanding immi-entertain Thanksgiving Day, or be gration quotas. A similar measure bill and with the President's signature, it became law.

Miss Reichardt lost no time in arranging transportation to this country. Shortly after her arrival in September, the grateful couple were wed.

Yes, it's Thanksgiving time again, and time to be thankful that we are all Americans, as well as for the bounty that will provide the feast all of us expect to enjoy Thanksgiving Day.

Now, thinking of good things to eat, be sure that table is centered with plates of "Potlatch Chief" brand butter. Your assurance of purity, flavor and sweetness, for it's made from pasteurized cream!

A revival service was being held and one of the partners in a butcher shop had joined the church. He tried to get his part-ner to do likewise.
"I can't do it, John," replied the partner when the insistence became irksome. "Who'll do the weighing if I join?"

Thinking about a dessert for Thanksgiving Day? If you are, don't let it worry you. Just step into the creamery and order a good supply of "Potlatch Chief" brand ice cream — it will make a fine dessert and fill the bill for a snack later in the evening. In all the popular flavors, plus specials. Take home at least a quart today — and a gallon would assure an adequate supply.
