JOINT DISTRICT P.-T. A. MET AT JULIAETTA MONDAY

The Joint District P.-T. A. met on Monday evening, April 21, at Juliaetta. The meeting opened with the singing of "America the Beautiful," led by Burke Sower.

Reversing the usual order, the program was held first, under the leadership of Mrs. Elsie Deobald on the subject, "Child's Place in the World."

Reinhard Otto from Weiden, Germany and Eric Seka from Graz, Austria (Exchange students at the U. of I.) took part, telling of life and customs in their native lands and thereby drawing a sharp comparison to that here in the United States.

Mr. Fricke told of the educational system of Germany. After attending grade school for four years they go to high school for nine years. There are two types of high school — the gymnasium, where languages are taught, and regular high school, which is more of the vocational type. In "gym" school they take Latin, Greek, English, French, and there is no choice of courses. In the grade schools boys and girls are separated, in "gym" it is co-educational. In the province of Bavaria, four-fifths are Catholic, and the Catholics have four grade schools to the Protestants' one. He added that there are more final examinations in Germany, but not many throughout the year.

In high school students go to school at 8:00 a. m., but there is no school in the afternoon. All over Europe the school systems are about the same, the first semester running from November to February 2nd; the second from February to July, and school is held six days per week. If a student does not attend high school, he must attend grade school for eight year. Discipline there is about the same as here.

Otto Seka said he "had too good a time over here," so suffered a broken leg. His first impressions of America were gained from Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn. His idea was that all Americans were very tall, chew gum, whistle at the girls and drive too fast. He also thought rattlesnakes were everywhere — but when he came he got a much better impression. Mr. Seka believes that Russia is fanatical, and will break treaties as they please. He added that they had caused much misery in Europe.

He thinks it most peculiar that when Americans go to Europe and are shown a beautiful old cathedral or castle they invariably ask "what is the money value?" He has observed that Americans do not appreciate the value of English monarchy. He believes that monarchies have a definite value. He added that Americans and Germans are very different and very similar, and that the Germans will want freedom. Their attitude toward the United Nations by the younger generation is very favorable and they look to it with a hope for peace. He believes that democracy will work in the European countries as well as in America. He added that he believed Gen. Eisenhower is perhaps the most popular man in Europe.

Miss Helen Mielke then gave a reading: "How Mrs. Jeen-Yotti Joins a Club," which proved very humorous and entertaining.

A vocal quartet, Mrs. Meyers, Mrs. Blankenship, Mrs. Parks and Mrs. Silflow, gave two numbers, accompanied by Mrs. Meske.

At the business session the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The treasurer's report showed a balance of $291.52 on hand. The Membership committee report showed 160 members.

Reporting for the Project committee Mrs. Nutting reported $25 to Gold Mill; $50 to Southwick; 75 to Juliaetta and $100 to Kendrick.

Mrs. Johnson reported for the "Historian Committee."

"Canning and School Lunches" were reported on by Mr. Nutting.

Ross Armitage, reporting on the Cub Scouts, stated there were 13 members in the organization, divided into two Dens. A Pack meeting of all is held each month. Their future project was a "Soap Box Derby." It was moved and carried that the P.-T. A. sponsor the Cubs for another year.

For the P.-T. A. Study Class Mrs. Gerald Ingle stated that four meetings had been held, all of which had proven very interesting.

Reporting for the Kindergarten, Mrs. Wm. Johnson said 15 children were attending, all six years old. This pre-school training will be held one month. The P.-T. A. voted to furnish the milk for kindergarten.

Gerald Ingle spoke on the school budget for the coming year. He said this district has 16 school units, and explained how the money from various sources was apportioned.

Ross Armitage, delegate to the State P.-T. A. convention in Twin Falls, Idaho, reported on his trip and the convention itself.

Installation of new officers was then held, with Mrs. Wm. Johnson acting as installing officer.

The white elephant was awarded to Keith Perryman.

The evening concluded with a delicious lunch served by the ladies from Cameron and Big Bear ridges.

MISS DOROTHY MEYER WRITES LETTER FROM INDIA

From Nayudupet, Nellore Dist., Madras Presidency, South India, under date of March 17, comes the following letter from Miss Dorothy Meyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Meyer, Cameron, who is a missionary of the Lutheran church, as follows:

Greetings, Everyone:

Just as He said, 'I will rise.'

Lo! He is risen.

He is victorious o'er the grave."

The above words of a ragam (Indian type hymn), which we sang many times out in the villages last week, seems like an invocation to the season of Easter. What a great privilege is ours to make known the glorious message of Easter, for we know that only a risen Christ can save us from our sins, make like worthwhile and give us a living hope.

Now I have much to tell you about this camping village trip for it was my first and naturally left many impressions with me. It was really my initiation into touring evangelistic Bible Women's work. Will you give way to your imagination and come along?

We set out about 8:00 in the morning complete with Bible pictures, flannelgraph board, Gospels, tracts, and supplies enough to last us for four days. Two of our Indian Bible Women, our Indian driver-mechanic, our cook, Lillian Lange (my senior Bible Woman) and I made up the party. We travel over a fairly reasonable road for several miles, but it is not long before we have to turn off down a cart track and we keep wondering how long it will be before we will get stuck in the deep, sandy ruts the bullock carts have made. However, the car doesn't let us down and soon we enter the village of Mut-salagunta. Can you picture the village children running out to meet us as we drive in? They all make a mad scramble to touch the car as it stops, and as we get out of the car the children greet us with a chorus of "Namascarams" the main Indian greeting. The catechist, who is an evangelist in this area, comes out to greet us and shows us the place which is to be our home during our days of camp. The place is not other than the village church. We unpack our things and set out to hold meetings in the main village nearby. We are joined by the catechist, who is our guide during our stay, and we certainly need one for the villages are so scattered and all the roads and tracks look alike.

We go to some central place in the village and while we sing some lyrics the people gather about us. Our audience is made up of men and women plus a good number of children who always turn out in full force. We often teach the children new songs while we are waiting for others to join us. When the people have assembled one of our Indian Bible Women tells a Bible story with the use of flannelgraph. The flannelgraph and pictures are wonderful aids in helping the people to understand the stories. It is inspiring to watch the faces of the listeners as they hear the stories of Jesus and how eager they seem to know more about Him. Then the people are told that they can learn more about Jesus in the little Gospels we show them. So many people look sad when they hear these words, for, alas, they cannot read. The folks who can read eagerly buy the Gospels and gladly receive the free tracts we distribute. Those who can read are rather proud of their ability and are eager to get their hands on available reading material. We encourage those who know how to read to teach the illiterate. In connection with this we have some adult literacy material by which method people can learn to read in about two months.

Each day we walk to the surrounding villages and hold meetings in the central places. Sometimes we meet in the middle of the village where the grindstone or the village well is located. A huge banyan tree often provides a shade spot. We also visit in many of the homes and have prayer with them. Taking a personal interest in each family draws us close to them and gives us an opportunity to talk with them about their spiritual life.

Here let us stop a moment and go inside a typical village home. These humble little abodes are only mud huts with grass roofs, but each hut means home to them. The hut doorways are only about three feet high so we must bend low in order to get inside. The people are always afraid that I'm going to bump my head and begin to warn me about it before I even get close to the doorway. Once inside there is room enough to stand erect for the roof is rather high and pointed. However, there is only one small room for sleeping, eating and living purposes. As small as it is it is not uncommon to find a little calf lying on some straw in one corner and some little chicks in another. Black cooking pots are lined up on one side of the wall next to an open fire place on which the family food is cooked. The dirt floor is always swept clean, and if this work has not been completed we must wait outside while the floor is being swept. Because there are no windows the huts are dark and stuffy and to us these huts seem very dreary places in which to live. Since the people usually have to go some distance to a well to draw water and also since the well must be shared by a large number of families, they use water sparingly. In many places there is a real water

Band Receives Invitation

Receive Tests

Last summer a committee composed of the five district superintendents in Latah county, Mrs. Nell La Follette, county superintendent, and Dr. Giles of the psychology department at the U. of I., worked out a testing program for the county schools, which is being sponsored by the County Board of Education.

This plan calls for testing grades 2, 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12 each year in each school. Grades 2, 4, 6 and 8 will take both the achievement and intelligence tests, while the High school will take aptitude and intelligence tests.

Last Wednesday and Thursday Dr. Giles and a corps of his psychology students came to Kendrick to give the tests, and at the present time are being machine scored.

The results are expected in the near future.

This is one of the few opportunities that may present themselves for pertinent reading help for your children.

SHORT NEWS ITEMS FROM OUR LOCAL SCHOOLHOUSE

Clarence Rieman has been ill the past week and unable to occupy his place in the classroom. Although he was hospitalized last week, he is recovered sufficiently to be up at the present time, but is under doctor's orders. Mrs. E. O. McAllister is substituting for him.

Explains Teacher Situation

At the last meeting of the P.-T. A. Monday evening our school board chairman, Gerald Ingle, explained the school budget for the coming year. It is plain to see that as a district we certainly can use more funds. However, we, the teachers of the district, appreciate very much one or two statements Mr. Ingle made concerning the budget as it affects the teachers. He said he realized the salaries were low in comparison with many neighboring schools, but that since it seems impossible to pay more, the people of the community could contribute to a better situation by helping make our community a more desirable place for the teachers and their teaching life a more pleasant one.

The teachers appreciate very deeply these kind remarks and may be quick to respond in stating that we feel the community is, in our estimation, one of the finest in Idaho, and most all the teachers who have left have regretted leaving so fine a community. If any of us, for any reason, feel that we must leave to better ourselves financially or for any other reason, I'm sure it will be with the deepest regret, for we do appreciate our community and also our school board, and the P.-T. A. for the fine support you have given the teachers, and the interest you have had in our welfare.

Leaves For Boise

Mr. Nutting left Wednesday afternoon for Boise, where he will attend the semi-annual meeting of the Idaho State School Administrators, the Delegate Assembly of the Idaho High School Interscholastic Association, and the Delegate Assembly of the Idaho Education Association. MORE MEYER LETTER shortage. No wonder that the children's bodies are covered with dust and that so many have the itch and other skin infections.

On the last day of camp we attended the village church service which is conducted by the catechist. This is the same church in which we have made our home for the past few days. We pack our things and put them in the car so that mats can be placed on the church floor in preparation for the service which is to begin at 9:00 o'clock but which finally begins about 10:00 — only an hour late. Before the service begins some of the folk bring their offerings to the front of the church. Some carry vegetables in baskets and others bring rice in little tin cans. With food and rice being so scarce these days these are truly generous offerings. Since the weather is so warm, it is hard for the men to stay awake. We smile when we notice that someone has been appointed or else feels it his duty to go around nudging different folks to keep them awake. When the service is over we come back home to Nayudupet, feeling tired and dusty but very happy. Pray with us and for us that we may continue to reach many people in these remote villages.

Nayudupet has been my home since last December. Effie Corniels, who is in charge of the Industrial school, and Lillian Lange, who heads Bible Women's work on this side of the field are my two housemates. We are a happy trio and call ourselves the "farmer's daughters," since we all hail from the farm.

The weather is very hot and almost unbearable at times, but the fairly cool nights still bring us relief. We look forward to our vacation in the beautiful hills of Kodakanal next month.

In closing I want to thank each and every one of you for all the Christmas cards, greetings and letters. Even though time does not permit me to write to all of you personally, it does mean a great deal to me to hear from each of you.

A very happy Easter to you all and may the blessings and peace of our risen Savior be with you always.

In His name — Dorothy Meyer.

Maribel Schupfer Wins Award

U. of I., Moscow — Maribel Schupfer, Juliaetta, senior journalism student at the University of Idaho, has been selected for the Idaho Press Women's award for 1952, according to Oscar J. Buttedahl, Meridian, president of the Idaho Press association.

"Miss Schupfer has shown great competency in handling a wide variety of feature story material and this, plus her skill in news photography, tips the scales in her favor to receive the award," said Buttedahl.

For judging, Miss Schupfer submitted articles and clip sheets from the Daily Idahonian, Moscow; Spokane Daily Chronicle and the Lewiston Morning Tribune, and a number of photographs of news value. In addition to working six hours weekly on the Moscow newspaper since September as the laboratory section of a university journalism course, Miss Schupfer has worked as a staff member of the Idaho Argonaut, student newspaper, and Gem of the Mountains, student yearbook, and handled publicity for campus blood drives.

Miss Schupfer will receive her degree from the University in June.

Pioneer Has Active Hobby

Carl Hartung of Richmond, Calif., spent part of last week here visiting in the home of his daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Walter McCall. He also visited friends around town, reminiscing over old times, as Mr. Hartung and family lived in this area over 50 years before going to California where he now lives with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Taylor.

Mr. Hartung, 80 years young, and a carpenter by trade, has retired from active work, and now enjoys life in a little home work shop, making small items and souvenirs as a hobby. While here he distributed a number of little gifts to friends, among which were miniature redwood buckets with brass handles, which he makes by hand. They are really decorative and to be used as planters. Mr. Hartung said he made over 200 last year, and gave them all away.

To talk to Mr. Hartung is proof-positive it's "fun to give something away."

Local Student Activities

Charivari

Mr. and Mrs. John Deobald, who returned from their honeymoon on Tuesday evening of last week, were welcomed back with the traditional "serenade" afforded newlyweds on Wednesday evening at the E. A. Deobald home.

Following the usual pranks and plenty of "music", treats and cigars were distributed to the well-wishers.

Juliaetta Goes "Over The Top" — Mrs. Albert W. Bailey, Red Cross Drive chairman for Juliaetta, announces that the Juliaetta community went "over the top" in their annual Red Cross Fund drive, and wishes to thank workers and donors alike.

Final figures are now being compiled, and will be released as soon as received from Moscow.

Synthetic Sow's Milk Is Used Successfully 3,000 Piglets Raised On Experiment Formula

The development of a synthetic sow's milk, made possible by the wonder drug terramycin was announced recently by Herbert G. Luther, research scientist associated with the Pfizer & Co., laboratories of Brooklyn, N.Y.

Piglets on test in the laboratory of Chas. Pfizer & Co. For this photograph the front of each of the top two cages has been removed. Bottom shows normal setup.

Without sows on several large pig farms which cooperated in the testing of Terralac.

Luther contends the formula may revolutionize the swine-raising industry. In the first place, his experiment reduced infant pig mortality to an astonishing 5 per cent, as contrasted with the national average of 21 to 33 per cent. It also largely solves the problem of the runt, long a bane to hog-raisers, by making growth-stimulating terramycin and milk equally available to all pigs in the litter.

Luther emphasized that good pig farm management is essential for the successful use of Terralac. Constant temperature must be maintained, either via the use of heat lamps or by blowing warm air. And it must be prepared properly and fed at regular intervals.

Average U.S. Farm Bigger As Number Falls

The Bureau of the Census reports a decided trend toward fewer but bigger and better equipped farms between 1940 and 1950.

The number decreased by 713,000 in the decade, the bureau reports, but the average size unit grew from 174 acres in 1940 to 210.5 acres in 1950. There were 5,384,000 farms in 1950, against 6,097,000 in 1940.

The sharpest decrease came in the five years between 1945 and 1950, when the number of farms dropped by 475,000.

Other statistics in the report included:

About 870,000 fewer persons were working on U.S. farms in 1950 than in 1940.

Less than one-third as many horses and mules were on farms in 1950 as in 1920.

In 1950 there were 59,764,000 cattle and calves more than 3 months old on farms as compared to 60,674,736 in April, 1940.

The number of chickens on farms was 2,500,000, or 0.7 per cent more than in 1940.

Plenty of Pull

One of the newest aids to farmers is the power curve tire developed by B. F. Goodrich engineers to provide maximum traction and prevent bogging down of heavy tractors and combines in the sticky mud or sandy soil of rice fields. The tire is reported to be the first suitable for use in all types of soil used for growing rice.

Veterinary Group Sets Up New Defense Committees

A nation-wide network of defense emergency committees has been set up by the veterinary medical profession to help safeguard this country's livestock health and food production in case of war, the AVMA reports. The committees will assist on defense measures in case of biological warfare, atomic warfare, atomic blasts, or other wartime emergencies concerned with the nation's animal population.

He Knew The "Tax Score"
States, other than Idaho, are overhauling their methods of assessment for real and personal property. The following story came out of Nebraska, addressed to E. Dan Pederson, Latah county assessor:
"Mr. Joe Stolinski, Douglas County Assessor, Dear Mr. Stolinski:

"Thank you, thank you, thank you. My personal tax schedule has reached me right on schedule. (You remember how upset I was last year when it was a day or two late. I was afraid the man had lost my address. He hadn't though).

"Well, Mr. Stolinski, I still don't own practically any of the many interesting articles listed in the schedule. No combines; Make, no Hay Balers; Make, no Corn Pickers; Make, in fact, not a single Make of any kind. Unless you intend to tax me on this Make believe world I've been living in to keep from going crazy.

"I still have the same old Grinders and Shredders I had last year, a little more worn down, a little looser in their sockets, a little less enamel on them. I can still shred a Shredded Wheat biscuit with the Shredders if I soften up its underbelly with a little skimmed milk first, but my dentist says bluntly that the grinding days of my Grinders are over.

"I'm still doing without a cow. And by the way, Mr. Stolinski, when are you going to stop spelling milk 'milch'? You don't spell regurgitate 'belk.' Which is what milk has been making me do here of late. (Now you see why I don't keep a cow).

"I have three Fur Bearing Animals on the premises, a rabbit, a pocket gopher and a singing mouse. But as for Furs and Fur Coats, who do I know in Washington? Or should I say whom? Or five per cent? Or just clean up and refuse to say anything on the grounds that I might incriminate myself?

"As for dishwashers (Line 56) I have a very lovely one indeed. Only flaw in her that I can see are her dishpan hands.

"But as for Watercraft (Line 66) well, just the dishpan.

Regarding Bees, Stands of (Line 27), all I know to tell you as a little story I once heard about a city girl who was visiting on a farm, and when she saw some honey on the table she said, 'I see you folks keep a bee.'

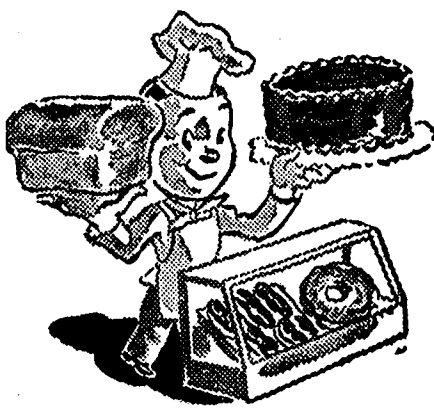

The only thing I own in the way of harness is the collar my dog, Bornie used to wear.

I'm keeping it to make a straight-jacket for myself out of in case my taxes go any higher." — Genesee News.

"The government seems determined to take care of me, despite anything I may do to prove myself undeserving." — Anon.

If everyone profited by their mistakes, many would be able to pay dividends — even after taxes.

63 Years of PROGRESS "Reddy-Made" for YOU!

March 13 marked the 63rd Anniversary of the founding of the Washington Water Power Co. In the 63 years of Company history, progress toward prosperity, security, and better living for all has been rapid and continuous in the area. Much of this progress has truly been "Reddy-made." For example—

W.W.P. "blazed the trails" which linked many small electric systems into the present area-wide public service organization, making today's low rates and dependable service possible.

Away back in 1906, W.W.P. extended its lines to farms in the Palouse and Medical Lake sections, and has since consistently pushed rural electrification. Today nearly 100% of the rural homes in Washington and Idaho are electrified.

A pioneer of the American private enterprise policy of "more service to more people at less cost," the Company has reduced rates many times. Today the average residential customer of W.W.P. enjoys using three times the national average amount of electricity—and pays less than half the average residential rate!

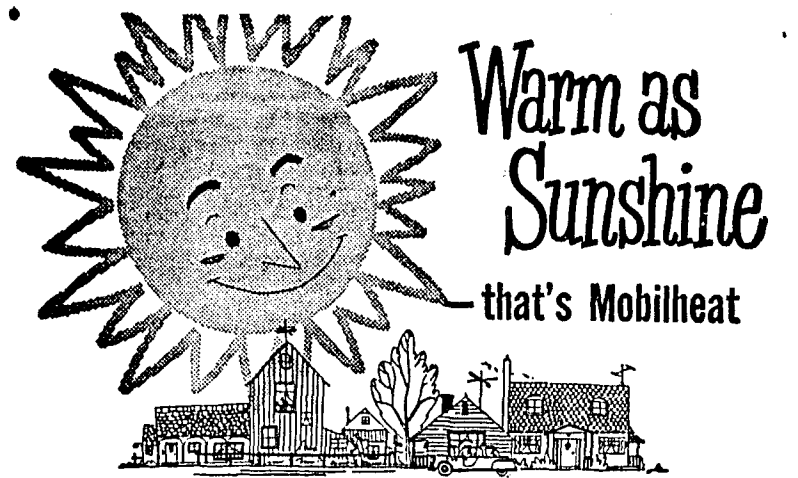

A "good neighbor and cooperative fellow citizen," the Company and its employees are confidently looked to for help in every community betterment movement.

Right Now W.W.P. is rushing to completion the great Cabinet Gorge hydroelectric project, which will add 200,000 "Reddy" kilowatts to the Northwest Power Pool, much needed for national defense and the Inland Empire's farms, homes, and industries.

and in the Future you know that you can count on the Washington Water Power Company to Blaze New Trails of Progress for YOU and YOUR CHILDREN to a Bright Tomorrow—and to do it the American Way of Free Enterprise for a Free People!

Duke Psychologist Offers Tips on Cigarette Control

Do you have trouble leading a sane cigarette life?

If so, here's a common sense recipe by Dr. Gelolo McHugh, Duke University psychologist, that may help you "use cigarettes instead of being used by them."

"People who have to have cigarettes need psychological help, not scare tactics such as threats of stomach ulcers or lung cancer," Dr. McHugh says. "Swearing off entirely is dangerous, because if you fail once, the next try will be that much harder. Limiting your cigarettes to eight or 10 a day is also risky, because it keeps the thought of smoking uppermost in your mind."

Here are Dr. McHugh's suggestions for cutting down:

1. Set aside an hour or two at the beginning of each day and don't smoke during that period no matter how much you want to. After that, smoke as much as you like for the rest of the day.

2. Don't make your daily no-smoking period longer than you can safely control. Over-ambition sometimes leads to failure.

3. Tell your friends what you're doing. Their interest will help you keep control over your no-smoking period.

"After following this plan for several weeks, smokers often find that their cigarette control is growing stronger," Dr. McHugh said. "Experiments show that smokers who set aside a no-smoking period do not have a tendency to smoke more than usual during the rest of the day to make up for lost time."

"Most important of all, after two or three weeks of controlling part of the day, the smoker begins to find himself smoking a little less during the free period. This means that he is on the way to mastering cigarettes instead of being mastered by them."

Dr. McHugh's suggestions are based on data collected over a period of five years and covering some 600 people.

Chubb Crater 1,325 Ft. Deep, Largest Meteorite Crater

A new champion's official measurements have been announced by the National Geographic Society.

The champion is Chubb Crater, established as the largest of all known meteorite craters in the world as the result of four weeks' research carried on last summer at the crater site in northern Quebec by Dr. Victor Ben Meen, Toronto geologist, and five scientist-associates.

The huge pockmark in the sub-arctic granite has a maximum depth of 1,325 feet, figured from the level of the highest point on its rim. The surface of the lake in the crater bowl is 500 feet below the rim's top level, and the maximum depth of the lake is 825 feet. Diameter of the rim averages 11,500 feet, and its circumference is 6.8 miles.

The depth is thus a few feet less and the rim diameter a few hundred feet more than indicated by preliminary figures dispatched from northern Quebec last August at the time field work was completed. Both dimensions, however, are more than twice the corresponding ones of Arizona's Meteor Crater, long officially recognized as the earth's largest scar known to be due to an earth-meteor collision.

The crater lake averages 9,100 feet in diameter. Its shoreline measures 5.4 miles around.

Dr. Meen, director of Toronto's Royal Ontario Museum of Geology, and Mineralogy, led an expedition to the crater site. With magnetometers, they defined a "magnetic anomaly"—a subsurface mass of iron outlined by its effect on the earth's magnetic force. Such an anomaly is attributed by scientists to meteorite fragments buried deep in the granite rim.

Kinds of Mines

Coal mines are of four kinds, three of them underground. If the mass of coal can be reached horizontally, say from the side of a hill on a level grade straight to the heart of the coal, it is called a Drift Mine. If you have to reach the coal at a perceptible angle, down or up, you have a Slope Mine. To get inside either of these mines, tunnels are made into the sides of the hills. The miners may go to the working areas by "man-trip" cars, which are trains of mine cars pulled by especially designed mine locomotives. If you must ride a cage (mining term for elevator) to reach the coal seam, you are in a Shaft Mine. If the coal lies near the surface of the earth and you can rip it out by huge electrically operated shovels and bulldozers, you have an Open Cut or Surface (sometimes called "Strip") Mine.

Indian Legend

Hiawatha, who is believed by many persons to have been a purely legendary character, really lived about 1450 A. D. The mighty Iroquois chieftain of the Onondago tribe of North American Indians was transformed by legend into a miraculous character with supernatural powers. About 400 years after his death, he was immortalized by Longfellow in "The Song of Hiawatha", an epic poem written after the style of the great Finnish Kalevala.

Small Town Utility Serves Farm Folks Gas Made Available To Farms for First Time

The farm folks within 20 miles of Antigo, Wis., have gone in for gas in a big way. This new interest of farm folks in heating and cooking with gas started over a year ago with the reorganization of Antigo's City Gas company.

The Antigo utility which manufactured gas from oil, coke and steam converted its plant to "propane-air" gas and offered service to farm homes and rural firms within a radius of 20 miles.

Mrs. Dale Madison, a rural homemaker, has converted her kitchen to gas, and reports it gives her more freedom from kitchen duties.

The new rural customers have their own "backyard utility" in the form of storage tanks for large users and "bottled" installations for homes with smaller consumption.

Because they are a part of the Antigo utility system, country customers receive monthly fuel bill just like the town. Fuel consumption is recorded on a meter attached to their cylinders or tanks. Bad weather can't interrupt service, since a sufficient supply is stored on the premises in advance of use. Empty cylinders are periodically replaced by company service men.

Since the reorganization, rates have been reduced for town and farm users three times.

Contour Farming Cuts Soil Losses in Half

Iowa agronomists report that contour farming cuts soil losses in half, boosts corn yields as much as 7.4 bushels per acre and ups soybean production by 2.7 bushels.

Other advantages from contour farming include lower fuel and operating costs for tractors and other machinery and an increase in the length of corn rows.

The need for more contour cultivation will increase with the steadily expanding acreage of row crops to meet the nation's food needs.

While contouring is a vital step in keeping soil at home, other soil building measures are needed to keep farm land at high yielding levels. Every crop burns up organic matter and uses up plant nutrients. The organic matter can be replenished by growing well-fertilized deep-rooted legumes regularly in the rotation and by returning manure and crop residues to the soil.

Safety Plug

A new safety plug has been developed that should be of interest to most farmers. It has a tiny replaceable fuse. Electrical cords are connected to the plug exactly as they are connected to the wall socket itself. The fuse blows out should a short circuit develop in any connected cord. This prevents current from reaching the danger point, instantly cutting off the source of fire.

Nebraska Farmers Paid High Cost for Corn Crop

Nebraska farmers paid with two lives, 194 fingers, 18 hands, 10 arms, one leg, four toes and two feet in gathering approximately 225 million bushels of corn. That is last year's accident record. Failure to stop the compicker before trying to remove the stoppage of the machine accounted for almost every accident. Farmers should discuss safety problems with their harvest crews.

Trees Die in Winter, Too, Without the Proper Care

Trees die in winter just as they do in spring and summer.

They can be killed by drought and storms, by insects and diseases, by man's indifference and neglect, says Dr. Rush P. Marshall, director of the Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories.

Death may not be sudden. Next spring the trees may try to leaf out, then collapse and die within a matter of weeks.

Deciduous trees which appear to "sleep" in winter must take up a certain amount of soil water to replenish that lost by evaporation under high drying winds. Evergreens and pines which do not shed their leaves need an even greater amount. Unless trees go into winter with sufficient water around their roots before the ground freezes, injury or even death by drought may result.

Wind, ice and snow storms take a toll of trees in winter, toppling them over, or breaking branches and limbs. If a tree is conditioned properly by pruning out dead and dying wood, by cabling and bracing weak crotches and limbs, storm damage can be held to a minimum.

Not all insects are dormant in winter. Bark beetles often crawl from the thick bark to the cambium layer on mild winter days and girdle a tree as they feed. Elm bark beetles that carry Dutch elm disease present double trouble. For the fungus they carry builds up in the sap stream, and even in winter there is a certain pulsating of the sap that will send the disease further into a tree.

It is just as harmful to disturb a tree's roots in the winter as in summer. Trees are frequently killed in winter by a careless bulldozer used in construction or by roots mangled when a water main is laid or a sidewalk and driveway put in. Trucks and autos that bash into trees in winter can loosen or scrape off the bark as effectively as in the summer.

Death even for trees takes no holiday. Yet your tree needn't die any time of the year if you give it proper care.

Early Iron Men Served Country in Many Fields

The brothers Curtis and Peter Grubb, owners of Pennsylvania's historic Cornwall blast furnace during the Revolutionary War, not only made cannon but also test-fired them and probably used them against the enemy while serving actively as colonels in the field. In addition, they manufactured stoves and supplied the equipment to support a war emergency salt industry, doing all these things with a furnace which produced 24 tons of iron a week.

The outbreak of hostilities cut off the salt supply of the United States and seriously affected the salting of meat and curing of fish for both military and civilian use. Colonel Curtis Grubb told the Council of Safety that he was prepared to cast the iron salt pans for making salt from sea water on the Jersey coast, but asked the army to release his manager, founder, carpenter and colliers from military service so that he could do it. The men were released to him immediately.

Cannon manufacture was a necessary innovation in this country; so much so that Generals Washington and La Fayette visited Cornwall furnace to watch the casting of the first 24 cannons ordered for the Continental Army. Early guns made at Cornwall showed lack of experience, for an official letter complained that they were too heavy and costly.

Cornwall furnace was built in 1742, and for many years thereafter was called "the hub of the iron trade." The famous Cornwall iron ores have been mined continuously for more than 200 years, the longest record of operations in the country.

Seeing Babies

For the first four months of life an infant has no effective vision but sees the world as more or less of a blur. Then eyesight starts its development at an incredibly low level which an ophthalmic specialist would rate as 20/2400. This means that the baby can only see at a distance of 20 feet objects which normal mature eyes can see at 2400 feet, or nearly half a mile. By the end of the first year the child's vision has improved to 20/130, which would indicate extremely bad acuity in an adult. Not until the fifth or sixth year is a level of 20/40 attained. During all this time the child is learning not only how to see clearly, but how to see single instead of double. Some time between the sixth month and the end of the second year binocular single vision develops, whereby the separate images formed in the two eyes are fused into one in the brain.

Trees, particularly maple, are now almost in full leaf, and lilacs are showing heavy buds. Nights have been cool, however, even to the extent of a white frost.

Potlatch Chief Sez

Published by the Kendrick Creamery

HELLO, THERE, FOLKS —

Have you tried our new Homogenized Milk? It costs no more per quart, and yet possesses a richness of flavor and wholesome goodness that is bound to please the most fastidious milk drinker. If you haven't tried "Potlatch Chief" Homogenized Milk you are missing a real treat. Try some, won't you?

And you know, spring is the time of year when more milk than ordinary is required to help ward off the "sniffles."

In a final effort to discipline her bad and wayward chick, mother hen said to him: "If your father could see you now, he'd turn over in his grave."

Yes, you bet, as the weather warms up, you'll enjoy ice cream more and more. Keep it on hand all the time for between-meal snacks and for that quick dessert when unexpected company comes, or for just pure enjoyment. But, at any rate, be sure it's Potlatch Chief brand. Put up in all the popular flavors, plus specials. Buy and take home at least a gallon.

Son: "Pa, what's a necessary evil?"

Dad: "One we like so much we don't care about abolishing it, my son."

Doctor: "Did the medicine I prescribed for your wife straighten her out?"

Husband: "I'll say it did. I buried her yesterday."

Sign in a Colorado truck stop: "If our steak is too tough for you, get out; this is no place for weaklings."

And don't forget — we want to buy your cream!
