TAX FIGURES ARE OF REAL INTEREST TO EVERYONE

There has come to our desk, from the Western Tax Council, a copy of the proposed memorandum to Congress, limiting federal taxes in certain categories, and some very interesting tax figures. We quote:

Proposed joint resolution from Idaho memorializing the congress to propose an amendment to the constitution limiting the federal tax on incomes, gifts and inheritances to 25 percent. This proposal is based on the premises:

1. That our free enterprise system depends in a large measure upon the continued investment in savings — in short upon the abundant availability of what is called "risk capital," and rapid transfer from hand to hand of the dollar.

2. That income taxes are paid by the bulk of the income earners — namely the moderate and small income group.

3. That current income taxes, ranging from 20 percent to 92 percent are drying up the sources of "risk capital" by leaving too small a margin between earnings and tax payments to permit savings for investment in "risk enterprises" or for plowing back into existing business; in other words the excessive taxes are doing away with individual accumulations of savings, and slowing the transfer of money from hand to hand.

The widespread belief that this high income tax is a "soak the rich" scheme, of no importance to the average man is as absurd as it is false. Income taxes, regardless of rate or amount, are paid by the consumer, and every increase in income rates is an added consumer burden. The income tax exacted of great industries is paid, not by them, but by the purchasers of automobiles, hosiery, and every manufactured item. The slightest reflection will tell any thinking person that unless there is a profitable market for the products of industry — there is no revenue upon which taxes may be based.

To demonstrate this very easily, let us assume the existence of a 100 percent income tax rate, universally applied to all income after present exemptions and deductions. This country would face complete stagnation of employment and industry — and would quickly expire as a nation. We would all return to the forests and caves thousands of times faster than we emerged.

That is an extreme example — but only in degree. We are racing down the road of state socialism, giving no thought to the inevitable result of excessive taxation: The high tax advocates, either designedly, or through ignorance are compelling our country into unqualified adoption of two of the prime plans of communism — here they are as they appear in the original "Communist Manifesto" of Marx and Engels:

"A heavy progressive or graduated income tax."

"Abolition of all right of inheritance."

There are the tenets of the original prophets of the wonders of communism — now wholeheartedly supported by people who proclaim those principles in the name of patriotism.

Do high taxes affect the Idaho farmer? Here are the official figures on the total farm income in Idaho and total federal tax collections in Idaho for the last 12 years:

1939, total income, $98,521,000; total federal tax collection (Idaho) $4,230,012.
1940, $100,023,000; tax collection, $4,136,176.
1941, $133,308,000; tax collection, $4,917,177.
1942, $177,988,000; tax collection, $12,975,177.
1943, $235,280,000; tax $21,010,362.
1944, $284,770,000; tax $57,762,651.
1945, $258,788,000; tax $59,805,443.
1946, $310,027,000; tax $60,211,088.
1947, $368,727,000; tax $65,989,998.
1948, $386,280,000; tax $79,888,935.
1949, $343,059,000; tax $76,405,915.
1950, $338,946,000; tax $71,828,836.

While the Idaho farmer increased his total income from $98,521,000 in 1939 to $338,946,000 in 1950 — a gain of 244 percent — the federal tax collections in Idaho in the same period increased from $4,230,012 in 1939 to $71,828,836 in 1950 — or an increase of 1,675 percent! Whatever cheer there is for the Idaho farmer in finding his farm income more than doubled in this 12-year period, it becomes a sad story when he realizes that the federal government increased its taxes more than sixteen times!

Twenty-eight state legislatures have passed a resolution memorializing Congress to submit to the 48 states a proposal to amend the Federal Constitution by repealing the 16th Amendment and placing a limit of 25 percent on income, gift and inheritance taxes.

When two-thirds of the states (32) have adopted the resolution, Congress must act, and the states have seven years in which to consider and give approval.

The 16th Amendment gives Congress unlimited power to tax incomes up to 100 percent or more! Originally this power was restricted to the states. There was no Federal Income Tax prior to 1913, when the 16th Amendment became law. At that time the rate was less than 2 percent, and few people thought there was need of having any tax limit.

This year of 1952 has a Federal income tax rate of 22.2 percent in the lowest bracket — for the person with an income "not over $2,000." Between $2,000 and $4,000 the income tax rate is 24.7 percent; between $4,000 and $6,000 it is 29 percent; and the rate soars on up to 92 percent. Bear in mind that the treasury department says that 25 percent is the

Stolen Car Located

The car stolen last week from Tom Greene, Nez Perce, and which was apparently used in the robbery of Walk's Tavern, near Lewiston, was found Monday on the old American ridge grade, which runs from near the Sparber brothers home to the Assman ranch on top the hill.

The car, which evidently had been descending the grade, was hopelessly mired in mud, where the road crosses a small gully. We understand that Mr. and Mrs. Greene have had it pulled out and are enjoying its use once more.

SHORT NEWS ITEMS FROM OUR LOCAL SCHOOLHOUSE

In a recent issue of the Lewiston Tribune an article appeared which told of some of the decisions of the Idaho State Administrators' Ass'n. meeting, which was held at the University of Idaho June 26 and 27. This meeting is held each summer for the purpose of presenting, discussing and solving some of the pertinent problems which face the schools and school administration, particularly. This year the subject under discussion was "School Activities and Their Place in the Curriculum."

Approximately 100 administrators attended the meeting this summer, and music teachers, debate and declamation coaches, speech teachers and athletic coaches visited the meeting at various times and contributed to the discussion and planning. There were no scheduled speakers, but during the sessions most of those attending participated in the discussion at one time or another.

The problems existing in the minds of most of the school people is not whether the activities are worthwhile. It is the unanimous belief that these activities all have a definite place in the curriculum for the all-around development of the child. The main problem is just how far can the school encourage and support the various activities before the curriculum becomes over-balanced and the educational values of the activity begins to decrease — or the law of diminishing returns sets in. Many schools of the state have felt the effect of much pressure from various segments of their communities demanding more emphasis and stress be placed on various activities. For example: Football and basketball in some schools have been so much in the spotlight that some persons feel that the school lives and moves by these activities alone. Pressures placed upon coaches, referees and even on athletic teams have been felt greatly in some schools, and as a result, so much harm is done that the activities cease to be useful to develop youth rightly in teaching the fundamentals of sportsmanship and citizenship.

Loss of school time and over-use of the student's evenings have been felt greatly throughout the state until there has been a re-current feeling from many parents that some phases of the activity program has been stressed too much.

In an endeavor to attempt to overcome and partially relieve this situation, the Administrators recommended to the Idaho High School Athletic Association Board of Control that basketball tournaments be limited to the "Regional Level," football to the "District," as it now is, and that speech, dramatics, debate and declamation contests be held on Saturdays. These changes may not be the answer to our many problems. Maybe there is no answer. Each school has to solve most of its problems locally, and what might be good for one school might not fit another. But on a state-wide basis the trend of feeling is to keep our programs as well balanced as possible so the greatest value educationally, may be rendered to each child.

Fourth Very Quiet

Friday of last week — July 4th — was probably one of the quietest on record so far as Kendrick was concerned, with almost every place of business closed — and Saturday, too, undoubtedly set a record for lack of activity.

Fishing or staying at home proved one of the principal sources of amusement, although the swimming pool got an excellent play, and quite a number of picnickers were observed in the park.

Only one auto accident was reported, and that of a minor nature with no one injured.

Some of the fishermen reported excellent luck — some none, but the average might be classed as "fair."

Temperature Climbs Upward

The past few days of sunshine with the temperature climbing into the upper 80's and lower 90's has been welcome indeed to the farmers, for it has been almost ideal hay weather — and a goodly number of acres now lie on the ground awaiting the rake or baler.

The crop this year was unusually heavy, due to the rainfall, and the fact that farmers were afraid to cut when most desired. However, it is far better to have well-cured hay with coarser leaves and stems than to have none.

Boise, Idaho — Final March of Dimes reports now in from every county in the state indicate that the 1952 campaign was the most successful we have ever had," says R. S. Overstreet, chairman Idaho 1952 March of Dimes.

Representative Visits Kendrick

A representative of the Idaho Outdoor Association, Inc., was in Kendrick last Saturday, talking with local sportsmen, and we understand that several joined this group.

This is the organization that is leading the fight for a re-vamping of the Idaho State Fish and Game Commission, an idea that certainly appeals to many in this territory, who have long felt that the northern districts of Idaho are "on the short end of the horn" when it comes to distribution of fish, birds, etc., as well as expressing dissatisfaction with many other phases of the program.

Off To Hidden Valley

Rev. F. C. Schmidt left Monday for the Methodist Youth summer camp at Hidden Valley, talking Randy Wallace with him, who will join other intermediates for a week. They stopped at Lewiston to pick up a group of youngsters from the church there, to fill the car. Rev. Schmidt returned that night.

Next Monday another camp group will arrive, and will include the Juniors from here, who are Robin Magnuson, Jerry Armitage, James Albright, Patty Nelson, Arla Johnson, Karen Loudon and Denny Abrams.

Rev. Schmidt will transport a car load, but since each child must have his bed roll and bag, there will not be room for all. Hence another car is needed. Anyone willing to help get this group to Hidden Valley is asked to please contact Rev. Schmidt.

Many Game Law Violations

Fish and game law violations resulted in 104 arrests during the month of May, the game department announced this week.

About 80 percent of the cases involved violations of fishing regulations, although fifteen persons were arrested for carrying uncased rifles in the field with licenses, the department said. One person was arrested for illegal possession of a grouse during the month, and another case was concerned with possession of a calf elk. Two arrests were trapping violations.

Twenty fishermen failed to secure fishing licenses, while 55 were apprehended on closed waters. Five fishermen purchased the wrong class of license, while two were arrested for illegal use of gill nets.

Total of arrests revealed an increase of 35 percent of number of violations over the corresponding period in 1951, but the total for the five months of the current year is approximately the same as the number of arrests for fish and game law violations apprehended during this period last year.

He Understood Baseball

A Marine staff sergeant, home on leave, was unexpectedly left in charge of his three-month-old niece for an afternoon. All went well at first; then a crisis arose and the sergeant put in a frantic call to his uncle, who took care of the problem in man-to-man fashion.

"First," he said, "place the diaper in position of a baseball diamond, with you at bat. Fold second base over home plate. Place baby on the pitcher's mound. Then pin first base and third base to home plate."

It worked. — Reader's Digest.

American Inventions Make For Better Living Standard

During the period prior to World War II, when Adolph Hitler was building up an arsenal of weapons with which he hoped to conquer the world, a nuclear physicist at the University of Berlin had an idea for a death-ray gun.

The only thing wrong with the idea was that the inventor intended to use the death rays to kill microorganisms that spoil food. Hitler wasn't interested.

America thrives on inventions that promote health and make for better living. It provides a Patent System as an incentive for such inventions. Dr. Arno Brasch, the nuclear physicist with the death-ray idea, and his associate, Dr. Wolfgang Huber, left Berlin for New York 12 years ago.

Food is an important item of trade, here, and financial interests backed the two physicists in developing their electronic gun to the extent of a half-million dollars. They rented an icehouse on Long Island and scrounged the area for hard-to-get parts required for their electrical apparatus. The pilot model, resembling somewhat the steel skeleton of a skyscraper, began to tower toward the third-story ceiling. Near this was a cylindrical structure, tapering in sections to the top.

Out of this combination of transformers, insulators, and giant electronic tubes there protruded something similar to the muzzle of a gun, aimed straight down to hit the target directly underneath. A 220-volt house current was thus stepped up to shoot 3,000,000 volts.

It was five years ago that this amazing gun began its operation of shooting electron bullets into specimens of food.

Poison Deaths of Children Caused by Careless Parents

Parental carelessness plays a big part in the more than 600 deaths of children each year due to the accidental swallowing of poison, according to Dr. Jay M. Arena of Durham, N. C.

Dr. Arena is associate professor in the department of pediatrics, Duke University School of Medicine and Duke Hospital.

"Children who survive the ingestion of poison may be left with permanent disabilities," he added.

"Poisons contained in household agents are responsible for most of the deaths and disabilities. If all drugs and household agents that contain poison were made inaccessible to children, such poisonings could be almost entirely prevented."

Lye, he explained, is one of the most common causes of poisoning in childhood. During the first 18 years of the Duke Hospital, more than 136 children were treated for stricture of the esophagus caused by swallowing lye. Many of these cases were due to sodium hydroxide in washing powders, drainpipe cleaners or certain paint removers.

Among other causes of childhood poisonings listed by Dr. Arena are the following: strong acid, kerosene, iodine, strychnine, phenolphthalein, barbiturate, salicylate, aniline dye, lead, and mercury.

Farm Land Boom

Farm land prices on an over-all basis may have experienced a record rise over the last decade, but the increases varied widely as between one section of the country and another, according to figures compiled by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The boom was led by eight states, headed by Kentucky, which enjoyed increases of more than 200 per cent between the 1935-39 average of dollar farm land valuations and July of this year. More than half these states are in the South. Thirteen others, mostly in the South and Middle West, showed rises of between 150 and 200 per cent, and fourteen more between 100 and 150 per cent. The remaining thirteen showed gains of less than 100 per cent.

High Hat

The expression "to high hat" or be snobbish toward one of lower rank probably goes back before the days when the top hat became a symbol of wealth and social position. The rank of a Spanish lady in the latter days of the Roman Empire could almost be measured by the height of her head covering. The more important the lady, the higher her turban towered above her head.

Sea Food

The ocean contains enormous quantities of small plants and animals, many of them microscopic in size, which cannot swim but float with the tides and currents. These are called "plankton" and they form the principal food of various whales, as well as sharks and many other kinds of fishes. The animal plankton is said to have a nutritive value equal to the best meat, since they consist largely of protein, while the plant plankton equal rye flour. The main difficulty seems to be in harvesting. A biologist who studied the matter has said that to meet the normal food energy requirements of one person would require the animal plankton each day from a volume of ocean water equal to an area the size of a football field, and about five feet deep.

Chicago Feeder Sale Nets Over $1 Million

257 Carloads Feeder Calves Are Exhibited

A record 257 carloads of feeder calves sold for well over a million dollars at the 7th annual Chicago Feeder Cattle Show and Sale, held at the Chicago Stock Yards.

Largest feeder cattle event in the nation, the expanding show and sale entry list exceeded last year's record by over a hundred carloads. It also pointed up the expanding beef industry and the interest in improved breeding.

The grand champion carload of feeder calves in the show were exhibited by veteran cattleman Fred

Mr. and Mrs. Fred DeBerard pose with their blocky Hereford calves that were judged grand champion carload of the Chicago Feeder Cattle Show and Sale.

C. DeBerard of Kremmling, Col. A. Wanatah, Indiana, cattle feeder, bought DeBerard's blocky prize-winning Herefords for $85 per cwt. The grand champion calves averaged 428 pounds.

The auction brought an average of $42.11 per cwt. for 257 loads of cattle, $4.69 per cwt. higher than last year's average. The average weight was 485 pounds. Sales totaled $1,050,633.

Steer calves, numbering 132 loads, averaged $46.48 per cwt. while 50 carloads of heifer calves averaged $44.15 per cwt.

Americans May Eat More Meat in Next 12 Months

The average American may eat even more meat and poultry in 1952 than in 1951, if advance production figures are any indication.

According to a forecast of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, meat production this year may be large enough to provide an average of 144 pounds per person as compared with 141 pounds in 1951.

Most of the meat increase will be in beef and veal. Much of the step-up in beef will be in medium and lower grades, although some of it probably will be in the better grades of grain-fed cattle.

The amount of lamb and mutton eaten by the average American is expected to go up slightly. Last year consumption of lamb and mutton was the lowest on record—only slightly over 3 pounds per person.

A little more pork may be on the market in the first seven or eight months of 1952 than in 1951, but production for the last part of the year may be somewhat smaller.

Americans will also probably eat more chicken and turkey. Production of turkeys for 1952 may exceed the record-high 1951 level, but output of chicken is expected to be about the same.

Champion Barrow

Experts Forecast Greater Cattle Slaughter in 1952

In the outlook for meat animals, 1952 may be a pivotal year when new or modified trends in meat production take place, experts report. The present low slaughter rate and large farm inventories are setting the stage for a substantial increase in slaughter in future years. The big question is how soon and what its price effect will be? In all probability cattle slaughter will increase in 1952 for the first time in five years.

Aerial Crop-Control Is Booming Industry

25,000,000 Acres Were Treated in U.S. in '51

A midwest wheat tract was so overrun with weeds that the farmer was about to plow it under. He decided, however, to try treating it with 2,4-D and hired an aerial crop-control specialist to apply the chemical at a cost of $2 an acre. The result: a yield of 20 bushels of grain per acre.

Other instances: Aerial spraying of weed-killing chemicals enabled a southern cotton planter to cut hoeing costs from $14 to $6.50 an acre while a California citrus grower improved his lemon crop by spraying his orchards from the air.

Agricultural aviation is a booming new industry that is enabling the farmer to substantially increase crop acreage. I. J. Becnel, agricultural research director for the Freeport Sulphur Company, reports.

The above photograph shows aerial dusting of an orchard. This method of insect control is becoming more popular with farmers throughout the country.

Becnel pointed out that more than 25,000,000 acres of U.S. crop, range and forest land were treated last year with chemicals sprayed or dusted by airplane.

Some 6,000 pilots are engaged in the aerial battle against insect pests, weeds and plant diseases. And they are doing the job faster, more efficiently and in many instances at lower cost than ground distribution of insecticides, fungicides and herbicides.

Store Unused Tractors Under Shelter in Winter

If you want to ruin your tractor in a hurry, just let it sit outdoors, exposed to the weather, this winter.

Farm machinery specialists say no amount of tough use will wear out your tractor as fast as leaving it out in the rain and snow.

Tractors are fairly expensive and may be hard to get. So, if you're not going to use your machine this winter, it will pay you well to find storage space for it in some building. Clean the machine thoroughly, especially the motor, and then store it in a dry protected place.

Block up the tractor to take the weight off the tires. Then drain the radiator, block, gas tank, fuel lines and carburetor. Put fresh oil in the crankcase and add a rust inhibitor.

Most important of all, remove the spark plugs and pour one-fourth cup of light oil or kerosene in each cylinder. Then turn the crank a few times to work the oil around the rings and pistons, and replace plugs. Cover the exhaust pipe and crankcase breather pipe with old rags to keep out dirt and moisture.

Rodent Proof

If wire mesh is applied to joining sections of a poultry house, it will help keep the building free of rodents. The mesh is applied at the floor and ceiling line as shown in the above illustration and should be well nailed.

Farmers Are Advised To Store Fertilizer

Farmers are still being advised to buy and store sufficient chemical fertilizer to meet their needs during the next 12 months. The supply is expected to be somewhat limited. Be sure it is stored in a dry place where there is little temperature variation, don't pile it any higher than five or six bags, and never pile it on the ground or even a concrete floor—the ideal storage place is an elevated wooden platform.

Michigan Farmer Named 'Wheat King'

First U.S. Grower To Win in 23 Years

Harold A. Metcalf, 31-year-old Fairgrove, Michigan, farmer brought the world's wheat growing championship back to the United States for the first time in 23 years when his sample of Yorkwin, a soft winter wheat variety, was adjudged the best at the recent International Live Stock Exposition at Chicago.

At the same show Willard C. Kirk, 53, of Jeffersonville, O., won the title of corn king, the first Ohioan in history to win.

The new wheat king reports "good seed, good fertilizer and plenty of elbow grease" were the recipe for his success. His wheat weighed 60.5 pounds to the bushel. This was the first time he had even exhibited at the show.

Another Michigan farmer, Lee D. Ferden of Chesaning, near Saginaw, won the reserve championship.

Metcalf was the first U.S. farmer to be crowned wheat king since 1928. In all the years since, the championship has gone to Canadian wheat growers.

The corn king had been exhibiting at the show since 1922, but this was his first major prize. His prize-winning corn was an Indiana 944-D Hybrid.

Kirk limed his corn land at the rate of three tons per acre and added 300 pounds of 3-12-12 fertilizer per acre to the corn in the row at planting time.

Competing with entries from hundreds of growers in the United States and Canada, Kirk's corn had superior finish and luster.

The champion farms 335 acres, about 90 acres planted to corn. His

Willard C. Kirk

4-year-rotation includes corn, wheat or oats and two years of red clover and alfalfa. He feeds all the corn, wheat, oats and forage to hogs, sheep and beef cattle and returns all the manure to the land.

Champion Wether

Harold Barber, shepherd from the University of Kentucky, holds Kentucky Colonel, grand champion wether at the International Live Stock Exposition. This is the third consecutive wether title captured by the university.

Hardware Can Kill a Cow, Veterinarian Reports

A tiny piece of wire or a broken nail thrown in the wrong place can cost you a cow, Dr. R. D. Hatch, veterinarian at the University of Illinois, warns farmers. "Cattle often swallow nails, screws, pieces of wire, pins or other bits of metal that went into their feed," he says. Often these pieces of hardware cause death. Sometimes the animal can be saved by surgical operation, he reports.

FOREST RANGERS' WINTER TIME ACTIVITIES ARE MANY

Missoula, Mont. — People often ask, "What do forest rangers do in the winter time?" That question is most often asked by persons living in areas where high fire hazards have required most of the ranger's attention during the summer time. They probably haven't noticed that more and more of the ranger's time is being devoted to the sale of timber and other activities associated with the management of valuable natural resources that are continually becoming of more importance in the economy of the American people.

The flow of water from the mountains at the headwaters of the Columbia and Missouri rivers has become of so much importance for power production and irrigation within the past decade that accurate forecasting services are required. Advance information on flood potential is also needed. The forest rangers are strategically situated to keep an eye on the snow situation.

The annual snow pack must be sampled throughout the winter and spring so that forecasts can be made of the water expected and when it will start its journey down the streams and rivers.

By means of cooperative arrangements with the Soil Conservation Service, Army Engineers and Weather Bureau, forest rangers of the U. S. Forest Service, who are experienced in mountain travel, take many of the snow course samples needed by these agencies for water and flood forecasting.

Regional Forester P. D. Hanson reports that 255 trips will be required this winter and into the late spring to sample the snow depths and water content on the snow courses in the national forests of Region One at the headwaters of the Columbia and Missouri rivers. Twenty individual samples will be required at each course on each trip. Bob Johnson's helicopter is being used to ease the trips in some cases but snowshoes and skis will be relied upon to make most of the trips to the high elevations where the snow courses are located.

For reasons of safety, two men travel together on these hazardous trips. Some snow courses require two or three days' travel and weather conditions may necessitate more. However, assuming an average of three man-days each time, a snow course is sampled, a total of 765 man-days of rangers' time will be utilized in doing this one job of serving the needs of the public.

Too, many days are spent in the late spring preparing the public camp grounds throughout the area. There are stoves to be built, garbage pits to be dug, trails to be brushed, rest room facilities provided, signs erected, and a host of other things that keep the rangers' time from "getting heavy on their hands."

Prepare For Polio Epidemics

Plans were completed this week to conduct a series of Polio Preparedness meetings throughout the state during mid-June, according to David F. Weeks, Idaho representative for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

In the interest of time and economy for volunteer delegates attending from Idaho's 44 county March of Dimes organizations, three meetings have been scheduled. The half-day sessions will be held in Lewiston for northern Idaho representatives on June 11; in Boise for south central and western Idaho, June 12; while delegates from counties in the southeastern portion of the state will meet in Pocatello on June 13.

"The conferences, the first of their kind ever held in Idaho, are designed to increase the effectiveness of our local volunteer chapter groups in the event of a polio emergency this summer," Weeks said, adding: "It is felt that a full and frank discussion of our mutual responsibilities, particularly in this period of increasing incidence and resulting financial strain, is necessary if we are to continue to achieve maximum success in our service program to the public."

Mrs. Beatrice Wright, a former polio victim herself and national assistant director of Women's activities for the foundation, will be the luncheon speaker with the major portion of the afternoon meetings turned over to the discussion of general organization and patient care problems.

Aside from providing financial assistance for polio patient care, March of Dimes funds also make available the necessary equipment and trained personnel to insure the patient's maximum recovery. Among its many other services to the public, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis also supports a vital professional education and polio research program.

Pig Crop To Be Down

A sharp reduction in the 1952 pig crop was predicted this week by Wade Wells, swine specialist of the University of Idaho extension service and secretary of the Idaho Swine Producers' association. In a summary of recent sales by the association, he said prices were low because of an unfavorable ration between feed prices and market hog prices. The average for three all-breed sales in the southwestern, south central and eastern Idaho districts was $82, compared with $159 a year ago.

"With reduced numbers in prospect," Wells said, "the bred sows sold in these sales could be far more profitable than those sold last year. The chief unknown is the feed supply. Producers who can produce their own feed can make money feeding hogs this year. They should store enough feed at harvest time to carry them through until next harvest. A good rule to follow is 1000 pounds of feed for each 200-pound hog to be marketed. This will furnish the market hogs and leave enough over to take care of the brood sows. This is a practice that hog producers should follow year after year. It would have meant the difference between profit and loss for many producers last year."

LINDEN ITEMS

(Delayed)

On Monday Pfc. Herbert Pederson, Douglas and Jerry Pederson called on Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Keeler. In the evening he and Billy Wilson called on Jerry Erlewine.

(This Week)

Wilma Wilson spent Tuesday with Marjorie and Dorothy Foster.

Art Foster and children, accompanied by Wilma Wilson, left Thursday morning to spend the Fourth of July holidays with Mrs. Foster, returning home on Sunday. They found Maxine greatly improved. This was an especially enjoyable time for the three younger children and their mother, as they had not seen each other since January. Mrs. Foster was released from the hospital to be with her family from Thursday until Saturday evening.

The Bill Zimmerman, Charlie Zimmerman and Phil Bahr families spent Friday and Friday night camping and fishing in the Elk River basin.

The Erlewine family picnicked in Spalding park with relatives on Friday.

The Weaver families picnicked in the Kendrick park the Fourth.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Grim and son and Bob Grim were Sunday guests in the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Grim.

The Dick Parsley family spent the Fourth of July holidays picnicking with friends at Wallowa Lake, Ore.

David Butler and Gwendolyn Abrams spent several days last week with the Erlewine family. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Abrams and children also were Sunday and Monday visitors.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Weaver, Lewiston, spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Lester Weaver and Mary Ellen, while Ted and Lou went fishing.

Mr. and Mrs. Toft and Paul Peterson from Halliday, N. D., arrived Friday for a visit in the Al Pederson home. Other week-end guests were Mrs. Edward Kurle and children of Lewiston and Edward Pederson of Spokane. A family gathering was held the Fourth at the Kurle home in Lewiston.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbie Millard and Mrs. Clarence Fry, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Alexander, Clarence and Ricky, Mrs. Lettie Israel and Mr. and Mrs. Clement Israel and daughter Rise drove through Park and over into Three Bear to picnic over the 4th.

Mrs. Lettie Israel visited from Wednesday through Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Clement Israel. On Sunday afternoon all called on Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Wilson and family.

Yerlin Benjamin was among the Sunday guests in the Al Pederson home.

Mr. Morgan and Mr. and Mrs. Altner, "Gideons" from Clarkston, held a meeting at the Gold Hill church Sunday evening.

STAY PUT, YOUNG MAN! SUCCESS LIES AT HOME!

Youth's urge to leave the home town and seek fame and fortune in the big city is a commendable one. Doubtless it could be demonstrated that this time-honored ambition of the young has helped to make this country great. Many a small-town youth has left home to carve a career for himself in business or the professions, using the opportunities the big city offers.

There is another side to the picture, however, ably presented by Arthur Gordon in the July Reader's Digest. At 19, Gordon left the home town that had produced him and several generations of ancestors, headed for New York and achieved considerable success as a writer and editor. But now, having returned home after years away, he admits that "maybe I made a gigantic mistake."

Gordon's native state, when he left it, was run down, decrepit, half paralyzed with poverty. He was energetic, ambitious, "sure that he could twist a couple of sky-scrappers around his little finger."

Upon his return he was astounded by what he saw. The apathy and inertia were gone. Towns that had been stagnant pools of unemployment were humming with new industries. The bank-failure rate was the lowest in the nation.

"While I had been chasing my gilded rainbows," he writes, "prosperity had come to the area I had so blithely left. More significant, I found myself feeling that I had missed something spiritually important."

At 19, young Gordon had mistaken the meaning of "opportunity." Now he sees that the real opportunities were the poverty and wasted human resources he ran away from. The people who had stayed, and accepted the challenge to better themselves and their surroundings, had earned a spiritual reward he had never known.

To the modern young men who yearn for "greener pastures," Gordon counsels: "Stay put." The frontier today is the average American town. It holds the best opportunities, perhaps not for making money but for making contributions to life itself. Young men go to big cities for what they can take out. But those who stay in the home town must think in terms of what they can put in. Living for generations in one community and sharing in its growth, people develop a family tradition of tradition of service that is the basis of true security and happiness.

"Stay where you've got some roots," Gordon advises. "For through those roots will come the strength to do a good job in the best of all surroundings for you — your own home town."

GOLDEN RULE

July 8 — Mrs. Oscar Lawrence has received word of a new grandson, born to Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Kazda, June 28, in Fomeroy. The little man has been named Steven Lewis. All concerned are doing nicely (including Dad!).

Little Doris Ann and Steven Christensen spent Wednesday with their grandmother, Mrs. Glen Betts, while their mother and Mrs. George Roskammer were Lewiston visitors.

Mrs. Oscar Lawrence enjoyed a surprise visit from her son-in-law, Cpl. Glen Spencer, Saturday. He had just returned from spending some time in Korea.

Most people in our neighborhood seemed to spend the 4th of July week-end in haying operations. Some found a little time to fish on the side, however.

Among the "comers and goers" at the Martin home over the 4th of July week-end were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Elben, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Art Elben, and brother Jim, and grandmother, Mrs. Nelson, all of Lewiston; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Pearson and family of Coeur d'Alene; Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Bashaw and daughters of Grangemont; Mr. and Mrs. Ishmael Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Martin and son and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Tarbert and children, all of Lewiston, and A 2/c and Mrs. Stanley Martin, Spokane.

Among the Sunday visitors at the Glen Betts home were Mr. and Mrs. Orvel Skaggs and daughters of Ah-sahka; Mr. and Mrs. John Westgate of Clarkston; Mr. and Mrs. Don Christensen and children of Camp Y, Dent, and Mrs. Oscar Lawrence.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Holliday and son of Lewiston Orchards were Sunday visitors at the D. V. Kuykanal home.

New Equipment At University

Housed in the Science building at the University of Idaho is new equipment that is giving greatly added significance to the name of the building. Included are an electron microscope, 21-foot grating spectrograph, spectrophotometer and polarimeter.

Opening up entirely new fields of studies for various divisions at the university, from agriculture to mining, is the electron microscope. This highly intricate machine has been developed as a research instrument within the last twelve years, but already its contributions in many fields have been of tremendous significance.

Electron microscopy extends man's vision to objects 1,000 times smaller than those easily studied with the light microscope, thereby permitting the study of particles of molecular dimensions. Photographs developed from pictures taken with this machine show objects enlarged as much as 250,000 times.

In the mineral field for instance, the electron microscope is used to study the shape and size distribution of minute particles such as are found in clay dust and smoke; to evaluate the texture of metals, glass, porcelain and many other materials, and to aid in the basic problems relating to the structure, chemical character and origin of matter.

"The University of Idaho has been given this machine, costing about $20,000, by the Bunker Hill & Sullivan Mining and Concentrating Co., as an all-university aid to scientific progress," said President J. E. Buchanan. "The plaque over the machine tells the story. It reads: 'This electron microscope is a gift from the Bunker Hill & Sullivan Mining and Concentrating Co., and is dedicated to the advancement of science and its consequent benefit to mankind.'"

The huge spectrograph, also recently installed at the university, is giving scientists another big lift. Emission spectroscopy provides a powerful method of recognizing and measuring the chemical elements independent of the structure of the compound in which they exist. Accurate quantitative determinations to percentages as low as 0.000- for certain elements can be made by relating the intensities of their lines in the spectrum of the sample with those of standard patterns. For this reason, and because of the speed of the method once a procedure has been established, spectroscopy has been supplemented and, in specific instances, supplemented wet chemical analysis.

License Sales Show Increase

The state fish and game department reports that license sales have shown an increase, in four primary classes, over the same period in 1951.

Resident combination fishing and hunting licenses showed largest sales and greatest gain with a total of 70,953 issued by June 30. This was an increase of 5,957 over last year.

Resident fish license sales gained 367 over last year's sales with 17,171 sold to June 30. Non-resident season fish licenses ($10.00) reached 7,040 with an increase of 1,772 over the 1951 sales, and tourist five-day fishing permits moved up 1,223 above last year with a sale of 4,550.

Potlatch Chief Sez

Published by the Kendrick Creamery

HELLO, THERE, FOLKS —
Well, now that the Fourth of July is over, and the resultant headaches (in more ways than one) have subsided — let's talk about the cream your cows will produce the remainder of this summer.
For best income, don't depend on pastures alone — give them a bit of grain or hay, and see to it that they have salt and lots of good fresh water.
Secondly: Don't wait for your cream to accumulate. Bring or send it in often. We will promptly return your can, steam sterilized and ready to use. You'll like our service and our cash.

Two housewives, while waiting their turn at the grocer's, were overheard discussing the last depression.
"It came at such a bad time," said one, "just when everybody was out of work."

"Yes," agreed the second. "It did."

Like ice cream, don't you? Of course, everyone does! So to enjoy the finest in flavor, texture and quality, buy "Potlatch Chief" Ice Cream. Made in all the standard flavors, plus "specials." Take home at least a half gallon when you go.

Teacher: "If your mother gave you a large apple and a small one and told you to divide with your brother, which would you give him?"
Small Boy: "Do you mean my little brother or my big brother?"

For your health's sake drink plenty of milk. Every child should have at least a quart a day. And, if it's Potlatch Chief brand it's pure, it's pasteurized. Homogenized as well if you prefer.

Big Game Information Soon
Idaho big game hunting maps, special hunt information and application forms will be mailed to license vendors throughout the state about July 15. R. E. Hoffman, game department chief clerk, advised today.

Hoffman said that there would be 62 individual drawings for controlled hunt permits this year, starting with the antelope hunt, and ending with elk hunts in eastern Idaho.

Hunting regulations have been printed on the back of the big game map, and will not be available in pamphlet form this year, Hoffman said.

Upland game bird seasons and regulations will be set by the fish and game commission at their quarterly session in Boise the week of July 14 to 19.
