What it takes to find oil for you

Not too long ago, within the memory of living men, exploration for new petroleum deposits here in the West was a matter of discovering oil seeps or drilling on "hunch." But even hunches had a reasonable chance of success. Although methods were primitive, the early Western fields were brought into production at a cost which nowadays would seem extremely low.

It's not so easy today. Most of the easily discoverable deposits have been found. But Standard geologists, using seismograph and the latest electronic methods, are combing every promising part of America, from Louisiana swamps to the Arctic Circle . . . and many foreign countries as well. I As oil has become more difficult and expensive to produce, your demand has become greater. More and more of the good things in your life depend on petroleum for fuel, or lubrication, or their actual ingredients.

To do its share in the great new search for oil. Standard alone has spent more than $230,000,000 in the last 5 years. Result: U.S. companies altogether have found enough untapped petroleum to give this country its highest oil reserve in historyfour times greater than that of 30 years ago. ¶ Geologists estimate that there are still 1500 billion barrels of undiscovered oil in the earth. Standard Oil Company of California does everything possible in large scale exploration to increase available reserves.

As an oil man, Mr. Holman can speak authoritatively about our petroleum reserves. He reports that for every barrel of crude oil or cubic foot of natural gas withdrawn from the ground in 1951, two new barrels of oil or cubic feet of gas were found or developed. As for the vital minerals, better means of extraction and refining are enabling us to unlock the iron, aluminum, magnesium and titanium which occur all over the earth. Aluminum now costs 18 cents

Low Cost Essential For Farm Building

Concrete Blocks Filling Farm Construction Needs

Concrete blocks are being used more and more in the construction of farm buildings, according to American Builder magazine.

They have been found very serviceable for dairy barn construction, low in first cost and in upkeep.

Attributes that contribute to concrete's value as a building material on the farm are its durability, cleanliness, and weather and insect

If a dairy barn is well-constructed and insulated, body heat of the cows would keep interior temperatures at 45 to 50 degrees in almost any kind of weather.

Lightweight aggregates in monolithic concrete or in masonry units, vermiculite floors and underlayers, hollow core walls, and masonry units with granular loose-filled cores all have qualities that can contribute to the efficiency of rural buildings.

Less Than Half of U.S. Farm Homes Have Baths

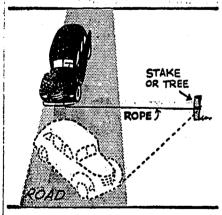

Less than one-half of the nation's more than 4,000,000 farm homes have baths and only half of the rooms are heated, a study of rural housing accommodations revealed

Excessive standardization to relieve early postwar housing shortages resulted in the building of mediocre farm homes of rectangular, box-like design with too small rooms, too little privacy and absence of adequate plumbing and heating facilities.

However, under impetus of a U.S. department of agriculture program, farm house plans have recently been developed that are expected to fulfill the fundamental requirements. The new plans call for space, equipment and storage facilities in proportion to the number of persons in the family.

Coupled with the benefits of a 10year electrification program that has brought electricity to 75 per cent of the farm homes, this new home designing will open an untapped market for manufacturers of automatic equipment and home appliances.

Pull Out the Car

Although most farmers these days live on a hard surfaced road, there may be an occasion when it would be necessary to pull a car or tractor out of a ditch. The above illustration shows how to get out of that ditch with the least amount of effort. A tow rope hitched to the front end of the car and tied to a stake or tree at right angle at the side of the road, will give you the leverage to get out of almost any place without help.

Crested-Wheatgrass Seed Production Reported Up

The 1950 production of crestedwheatgrass seed is estimated at 5,330,000 pounds of clean seed. This is 5 per cent larger than the 1949 production of 5,090,000 pounds. Larger crops than last year reported for North Dakota, South Dakota, and Montana, more than offset the smaller crops indicated for Nebraska, Colorado and Washington. The Colorado crop was near failure in 1950.

HELLO, THERE, FOLKS -

Yes, we know, it's been plenty warm the past several days and we also know that suggestions on how to beat the heat are always welcome. Ever watch how the kids do it?

First they take a cooling, refreshing dip in the Memorial Pool, then buy an ice cream cone. The latter cools and at the same time furnishes energy, as well as being highly satisfactory from the point of flavor, texture and purity — especially if it's "Potlatch Chief" ice cream. You may not desire the cooling dip in the pool, but a cold shower or bath will do the trick - and the "Potlatch Chief" ice cream is always on hand at the Creamery. Take home a generous quantity the next time you're down town.

She: "Paw's the best shot in these hills." Philandering Visitor: "What does that make me?" She: "My husband!"

Hot weather can damage cream. Care for it carefully by cooling it as soon as possible, then keep it cool in a clean place, and bring it to town often — bring it to us. We pay top market prices and return a steam-sterilized, ready-touse can. Bring or send us your
