They Say It Happened

A Hungarian farmer professing to be a wholehearted Communist was asked why he was an atheist. "Carl Marx," he replied, "was an atheist. Lenin was an atheist and Stalin was an atheist. . . and I am an atheist, Thank God!"

LINDEN ITEMS

W. M. A. will meet Thursday at 2:00 p. m. with Mrs. Gl. Erlewine. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

The Gideons will conduct services at the Gold Hill Church next Sunday, August 16, at 7:30 p. m. Everyone is welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Cuddy of Kendrick were Thursday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cuddy. The occasion being Dick's "39th" birthday anniversary.

Sunday dinner guests in the Al Pederson home were Rev. and Mrs. Norbo and family; Mrs. C. A. McAlister and children, Raymond Whybark, and Mr. and Mrs. Verlin Benjamin, the latter of Southwick.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Garner of Figgins, Idaho, were Saturday night and Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arley Allen. Mr. and Mrs. Marion Souders and daughter Diana were also Sunday dinner guests.

On Monday Mr. and Mrs. Arley Allen drove to Moscow on business. They then drove on up to Moscow Mountain to enjoy dinner with Mrs. C. H. Fry, who is employed as cook for a brush crew who is stationed there. Later they went on up to the lookout and had a good look at all the country visible from that point — and there is a lot of it. They report it a most enjoyable day.

Sunday a family reunion and potluck dinner was held at the Bill Zimmerman home in honor of Mrs. Ed. Perry and son of Phoenix, Ariz. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Torgeson and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Zimmerman and daughters of Lewiston; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zimmerman, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Zimmerman and family and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jean of Juliaetta; Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Swenson and Dorothy Foster of Kendrick; Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Wilson, Wilma and Jerry and the host and hostess. Mrs. Perry will be remembered here as Rose Zimmerman.

Mr. and Mrs. Gil Erlewine returned home Monday evening from Yakima, where they had been visiting his aunt from Nebraska, and his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Erlewine and family. They also stopped at Kennewick to visit her sisters, Mrs. June Birge and family.

Carol Jean Zimmerman spent last week with her sister, Mrs. Vernon Snyder at Lewiston.

Mrs. Rollin Armitage and children spent Tuesday and Wednesday at the John Cuddy home.

Sunday evening callers in the Bill Zimmerman home were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Alexander.

Karen Loudon of Kendrick visited with Judy Craig last week.

Thursday night of last week quite a crew from this area joined to fight fire on Tamarac Mountain, and were successful in putting it out. We understand damage was small, but without prompt and efficient action it could have been very serious.

Cow Goes On A Jamboree
It all began Tuesday morning about 5:00 o'clock when a breachy cow belonging to John Platt escaped her pasture at her home and decided to take a look at city life.

It first visited the Ben P. Cook and W. L. McCreary homes — and urged by the McCreary "pooch" departed for the "brighter lights" district.

After spending most of the day wandering about the lawns and gardens of homes on the schoolhouse hill it decided that the McCreary front lawn, where a sprinkler was running, was just the spot, so about 5:00 p. m. planted itself over the sprinkler to cool off — the water being "just the thing for a hot day."

Again chased from that spot it visited the McCreary garden — driven out again, it sauntered onto the Dave Clayton lawn; then down the hill to the Marvin Long residence, where it enjoyed a "merchants" lunch of carrots and other succulent vegetables — then to the Lester Crocker front lawn — etc., finally making its reappearance on the McCreary lawn about 9:00 p. m.

At this latter spot, Arthur Foster, village marshal, was called, and he, with one expert cast of a rope, proving himself a good "drugstore cowboy" lassoed the "wild beast" and led it away "to durance vile."

Bossy had lots of fun working over lawns and gardens while her jamboree lasted — but, like all good things — it had to end.

Mrs. Souders In Charge
Mrs. Burton Souders, Jr. is now in charge of the Area Memorial Swimming Pool at Kendrick, during the absence of Parker McCreary, who is working in the harvest fields at the Andy Cox ranch on American ridge.

Mrs. Souders is a registered life guard, so parents need feel no qualms about allowing their children to go to the pool as usual.

Remove Fire Hazard
Wednesday evening of last week the Kendrick Volunteer Firemen removed a considerable fire hazard in the west part of town, when they burned off the tall grass and dry brush on the city property at the rear of the Manning Onstot, C. H. Fry and Elmer Anderson homes.

The blaze created quite a spectacular sight from the school house hill.

Lightning Hits Snag
Saturday's electrical storm rather by-passed the Kendrick area in so far as setting fires was concerned. The only incident reported here was a fire on the Bob Nelson ranch, started when a bolt of lightning hit a snag. The local Forestry Fire Department truck was dispatched to the scene and the snag was soon put out.

Complete Lifesaving Courses
Three young people, Gary Browning, Francis Dammarell and Janice Christensen completed courses in Junior Life Saving at the local pool last Saturday morning, and one, Mrs. Burton Souders, Jr., completed the Senior Life Saving course.

A group of beginners also completed their course, but the names are not available at this time.

Writes From Korea

Tuesday morning we received from S/N Clinton Smith, U. S. N., a letter telling of activities aboard his ship, the U. S. S. Whetstone, since the cease-fire agreement had been signed in Korea. We found it most interesting, and want to pass it on to all our readers:

Wonsong, Korea, July 31, 1953
Dear Bill — I finally found time to write you and thank you for sending the paper to me. I like to see what the folks back home are doing, and I really appreciate it.

I am sure glad that they (U. N. and Commies) have reached an agreement — it's about time, and I am sure that the folks at home think so, too.

We were sitting five miles outside of Wonsong harbor, waiting, and one hour after they stopped shooting, we were in the harbor, ready to evacuate the troops and equipment.

"I am sure glad they honored the truce and decided not to shoot at us, because we were sitting ducks — there was a full moon! There were five small islands that we were holding here, and we took about 75 tons of ammunition off the five of them."

"We have been working day and night trying to get all the equipment loaded before we have to pull out. We have to be below the 38th parallel before Saturday — so you see we're really working."

"We were supposed to leave for the States in October, but it will probably be in January now, as we will be hauling prisoners for another month or so."

"Well, Bill, I will have to close as we have a lot of work to do tomorrow and I need some sleep. We have only had about 10 hours sleep since they started this evacuation."

"Please tell everybody 'Hello' for me, and again, thanks for the Gazette. Please keep them coming. — Sincerely, Clinton."

Julietta Tomatoes Coming In

Julietta tomatoes are beginning to make their appearance on the local market. While they are later than usual, and not of as fine quality as in most years past, they are a most welcome item. It seems that this year, due to unusual weather conditions, they have deep top cracks and a hard top core, due to the extreme heat and dryness.

But nevertheless, the wonderful flavor seems to be there and housewives prefer the Julietta sun-ripened tomato.

Fresh local vegetables are noticeable by their absence this summer. Roasting ears appear now and then and some string beans — otherwise all green vegetables seem to have been shipped in.

The Julietta watermelons, famous for their superb flavor, are looked forward to by local residents, but we understand this year's crop won't be ripe before the last week in August.

Cantaloupes usually start appearing here in mid-August, but due to the wet spring, which necessitated the replanting of many patches, they will also be later than usual.

Blueberries Paying Off

When Mr. and Mrs. Claude Craig came over on business and pleasure Wednesday of last week from their Marysville, Wash., home, they brought with them a considerable number of hallacks of blueberries, which they grew on their place there. These they passed out as samples and we must say they were delicious.

The Craigs report they have been able to sell all they could raise for satisfactory prices, and are looking forward to an even better season next year, as the bushes will be larger and more productive.

The cultivated blueberry looks almost exactly like the deep purple large huckleberries often found in the woods semi-locally, but lacks the huckleberry smell. The flavor, too, is milder.

Dog Poisoner At Work Again

Sunday morning the little Brittany Spaniel pup belonging to Lynda McCall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick McCall, was poisoned and died shortly after.

The family heard someone pass early that morning, and the dog, which was tied inside a fenced yard, was heard to bark a couple of times. Later, when the family arose, they found the dog dead.

Aside from the loss of a playmate for little Lynda, the dog itself was a registered one, and worth money.

PUD PLANS TEST OF PROPERTY TAX LEVY IN STATE

The Northern Wasco PUD announced plans to bring a "friendly suit" against Wasco county to determine the legality of property taxes levied against the district.

This suit will be filed if the district cannot obtain an advisory opinion from the Oregon Supreme Court for settling the issue, announced Cecil Byers, PUD board president.

A friendly suit probably will be filed, according to legal authorities, because there is little or no precedent whereby the high state court would issue an advisory opinion.

The decision to determine the legality of taxes levied against the PUD was reached at a conference between the Wasco County Court and the PUD board.

The meeting was held in connection with the $19,967 listed as due from the district in property taxes and interest for the past three fiscal years.

Sheriff Ernest Mosier had placed the PUD on the tax-delinquent list as required by law, and District Attorney Donald Heisler said the county then could be forced to bring a foreclosure suit against the district.

PUD board members informed the County Court they had been advised by their council, Ray Keil of Portland, that it might not be legal to pay such taxes, even if funds were available for that purpose.

Kell said an opinion of the Oregon attorney general ruled that PUDs are not required to pay property taxes. This opinion was based on the principle that municipalities and other public bodies are not taxed by other public bodies.

Other PUDs in Oregon pay property taxes in accordance with the state PUD law, a board member informed the County Court.

At the conclusion of the meeting District Attorney Heisler and PUD Attorney Kell were directed to confer on possible means of resolving the issue.

Heisler said that the County Court or an elective officer of the county could be made the defendant in the suit that might be filed by the PUD.

The State Tax Commission presently is defendant in a suit filed by the PUD seeking to reduce the assessed valuation of the district.

Sheriff's office records show the PUD is listed as owing a total of $17,819.57 in property taxes for the years 1950 to 1953. — The Dalles (Ore.) Chronicle.

Soap Holes Found Value in Disguise

Produce Magic Mud With Multiple Uses

Ever since Belle Fourche, S. D., was a rip-snorting cattle town at the end of the old Chisholm trail its residents have been damning the "soap holes" that plagued the area.

Fast-riding cowboys often took a nasty tumble in this super-slippery mud and cattle were forever getting bogged down in them.

But now, like a man discovering his hives are really a blessing, Belle Fourche has found its soap holes are one of its biggest assets.

Every one of them is filled with a magic mud called bentonite. It's an odorless, tasteless, soapy mud with a thousand uses and scientists are thinking up new ones every day.

Most of us already are using it a half dozen times a day, but almost nobody has heard of it. Men use it in shoe polish and hand cleaners. Women use it in face powder, lotions, beauty cream. Bentonite also is found in many types of paint, plaster and cleaning agents. It's handy for filling holes in giant dams and for casting moulds for molten metal. Forced down thousands of feet into the earth this magic mud lubricates the drills in oil wells and sends the debris up to the drillers.

Bentonite is the most absorbent material found in nature. When moistened it swells to several times its normal size. This quality makes it useful in waterproofing housing foundations and many other industrial uses.

Its new uses and increasing popularity for its older uses all add up to a boom such as Belle Fourche hasn't seen since the gold rush.

In the past 10 years the population has practically doubled and bentonite now pours $600,000 a year into the town in the form of additional purchasing power.

Fifteen years ago Belle Fourche shipped out three carloads of bentonite. Last year its production was 6,187 carloads and this year they expect carloading to go considerably higher.

Scientists say that bentonite, a strange mixture made up mostly of dust from prehistoric volcanoes, is found almost nowhere in the world except in the Black Hills of Wyoming and South Dakota.

It is the most absorbent material nature ever has devised, they say, and a half dozen teaspoonsful will soak up a glass of water.

Elves and Leprechauns Took Blame for Everything

It may not be on the official unemployment records, but the fact is that there are hundreds of shees, leprechauns, and elves out of a job.

Since each one of them has a long history of diligent service to humanity, it seems a real shame they can't be put back to work. Each of us needs one to take the rap for the petty annoyances of daily living. These out of the way, we could devote ourselves to the big problems.

According to the Childcraft reference library, our ancestors used the little people to full advantage. They let them take the responsibility of sousing the milk, rattling the windows and creaking the stairs, and breaking Aunt Nellie's best china.

A nice feature of the little scamp, too, is their wide range of nationality.

Did your parents come from Scandinavia? Then you will want to select an elf. This pint-sized creature will live in your home and help keep the kitchen neat. If he occasionally cracks a dinner plate or burns the toast, you can't very well complain. That's what you want him for, to take the blame, isn't it.

Pixies are your choice if you have British ties, and there is a fine assortment of shees for you Scottish folks. If you are Irish you may select between the reverently loving shees and the rather dour leprechauns, who, incidentally, are apt to ignore you as they spend most of their time making shoes for the shees.

If you favor France you will have to get along with a goblin. But maybe he's better than a German poltergeist, who is downright rowdy. He will cause no end of commotion until someone bakes him a spice cake.

Just a word of warning before you adopt one of these little chaps—they believe in people, and definitely expect people to believe in them.

Life Expectancy for Man Reaches 65-Year Average

Man once shared the life expectancy of a pack-donkey, but over a 2,000 year period has attained a 65-year average—almost rivaling the 70-year expectancy of the whale, the longest-lived mammal in the life chart.

But this increased age has drawbacks in the form of cancer, diabetes and heart disease.

The average Roman of about 50 B. C. lived only 25 years. Modern medicine and sanitation now give man at least 40 more years—and a greater chance of having one of the diseases usually associated with the aging of the human body.

Human progress up the life-expectancy ladder is something of a triumph for man, who is not too well endowed with protective equipment. He is the only mammal who is without some form of protective armor. For example, he ranks with the whale, 70; the elephant, 60; the hippopotamus, 40; and the alligator, 40 years.

Domesticated mammals range in life expectancy from the dog, 10 years, to the cow and horse, 20 years, and the burro, 25. Lowest mammal in the chart is the mouse, who lives from 2 to 6 years.

"Breaking Up" Water

Water, which consists of hydrogen and oxygen, can be broken up into these elements by electrolysis. If two wires, carrying a direct electrical current, are placed in water, bubbles of oxygen form around the one connected to the negative side of the battery or generator, while oxygen forms around the wire connected to the positive terminal. Usually a small amount of acid must be added to the water to make it conductive of electricity. Also, if water, in the form of steam, is heated to a very high temperature, around 3500 F, it separates into hydrogen and oxygen. These recombine to form water as the temperature is lowered again.

Longer Life for Sheets

To lengthen the life of sheets follow these suggestions. Reverse sheets every other time by putting a bottom hem at the top. Cover bare springs with heavy sheet or sheeting to avoid snagging bed linens. And check all beds for needed carpentry. Put a mattress pad between the sheet and the mattress to avoid the abrasive action of the rough ticking against the sheet. Loosen the edges of the sheet until all around before stripping the bed. Use mild solution of bleaches and rinse thoroughly, or better still, let the sunshine do your bleaching. Always rinse thoroughly to remove traces of soap and soap powders.

Study Premature Babies

An instrument corresponding to a miniature iron lung has been used by University of Michigan researchers in studying premature babies. Object of the studies was to find out why premature babies breath irregularly—in gasps or jerks. The research has shown that the cause of this irregular breathing is that oxygen is not reaching the tissue of the brain center which controls respiration.

Insect Killers Made By Synthetic Means

New pyrethrum-like chemicals that kill insects have been made synthetically for the first time in the laboratories of the bureau of entomology and plant quarantine, it has been announced by the U. S. department of agriculture.

The chemical makeup of the synthetic materials is almost identical with that of the insect-killing principle in pyrethrum, according to the chemists.

Oldest Living Thing in U. S. Has Rival in Olive Tree

Thousands of years from now California may boast of possessing two types of trees that were growing here in the 20th century. One of these is the Sequoia, or giant redwood, a few species of which already have grown in the Golden State for over 4,000 years.

The olive tree, although estimated to have lived in Mediterranean countries for periods of time equal to that of the Sequoia, did not join this other ancient perennial in California until about 1769.

It was in that year that Francis padres planted the first olive tree cuttings around their missions.

The modest efforts of these religious men to provide a little shade became the basis of an industry which, according to the California Olive Association, now nets some 2,200 growers in the U.S. about $10,000,000 annually.

It was not until the late 1890's that olives were available commercially in this country, even in a limited amount. Then improvements in canning processes and development of the modern type metal container by the American Can Company gave olives a new life in the new world.

During the last 60 years the olive orchard "population" has grown steadily from less than 1,000 acres to about 26,000 acres last year. They now produce an annual crop of over 40,000 tons of olives. Of the 25,000 tons sold for canning, 98 per cent go into metal cans, the remainder in glass containers.

The ripe black olive of California, gathered when fully matured, has a rich oil content and is marketed in nine different grades ranging in size from "standard" to "super-colossal." According to Professor M. E. Jaffa, nutrition specialist at the University of California, the ripe olive has about double the calorie value of the green olive.

Transfusions Through Arteries Said Life-Saving Measure

The rapid transfusion of blood through an artery, instead of through a vein as is usually done, has been described by two Washington surgeons.

Drs. Charles S. White and Donald Stubbs of the Research Foundation, Doctors Hospital, Washington, said the method has been found "safe, practical and life-saving."

Intra-arterial transfusion, they reported, has been found most effective in cases where the heart beat has stopped or has become almost imperceptible following a heavy loss of blood.

"It should be emphasized that this type of transfusion is not a proper substitute for intravenous transfusion except in those cases in which the blood pressure is very low, or cannot be recorded, or in arrest of the heart action from hemorrhage," they said.

"In the latter cases, blood introduced into the veins, even under pressure, has a long route and a slow one to reach the coronary arteries (supplying the heart), even if it could be forced or propelled in some manner through the right chambers of the heart and lung. The most direct route to the coronaries is the arterial highway."

The Washington surgeons said that with blood pressure at zero and no pulse to be felt, circulation was repeatedly restored "in an unbelievably short time." They added:

"It is accepted generally that resuscitation is futile if more than seven minutes elapses after the heart action is arrested, as irreparable damage to the cerebral cells ensues, and if life is maintained the facilities remain permanently damaged. Some remarkable exceptions to this statement have been reported, but usually not well authenticated."

Abadan, an oil city of some 140,000 people, only 40 years ago was a desert island in the sun-baked delta below the junction of the Tigris and Euphrates Rivers. In a great geologic trough beneath the Mesopotamian river basin waited a hidden treasure. It remained for an Australian wildcatter named William Knox D'Arcy to drill 1,180 feet through Iranian limestone and bring in a gusher in 1908.

Wild tribesmen had ridden into Persia thousands of years before and found oozings of gummy black bitumen to fire their lamps and bind the materials of their buildings, tools and weapons. Alexander the Great marched through Persia, his horsemen collecting naptha and pitch from evil-smelling pools to strike blazing terror among the war elephants of enemies he met later.

Habits Habits are easily formed, but not nearly as easy to break. According to Professor William James, Harvard psychologist, it is not enough just to decide to break a habit—one must decide wholeheartedly and not let a single exception occur. Habits should be broken off abruptly, and not gradually. Taking sleeping pills in a dangerous habit as well as an unnecessary one. Good bedding is all that's needed for sound, restful sleep as long as there are no physical ailments.

Potlatch Chief Sez

Published by the Kendrick Creamery

HELLO, THERE, FOLKS —

Well, here we are, right at the beginning of harvest — and it's a very busy time for you, Mrs. Farmer's Wife. So let us here help you with that housework as well as canning.

How? Well, it's easy to prepare a highly satisfactory dessert for your family and helpers by going to the refrigerator and getting out the "Potlatch Chief" Ice Cream. It's cooling, too, for the hot, tired worker. Be sure you have enough on hand.

Told by an "honest" truck driver: "The food at the roadside cafe was good, but the music was so bad that when a waitress dropped a tray of dishes everybody got up and started dancing!"

Are you neglecting your vitamins and minerals? Many folk forget to drink milk during hot weather — but it's a sure way to stay healthy, for milk supplies many of the vitamins and minerals needed in our every day diet. Be sure to pick up your needs at the creamery the next time your in town.

"I would like some union-made hosiery for my wife," said the good union man to the lovely union clerk.

"Yes, sir," she replied, "Sheer?"

"Oh, my, no. She's at home!"

Are you canning the old-fashioned, hard, hot way — over a stove? If you are, why? Just come in and let us show you our selection of locker boxes — which form the modern, easy way — by freezing. It's a time saver, a labor saver; a flavor-saver! You just can't beat freezing.

There are said to be three kinds of marriage: "Trial, companionate and fight-to-the-finish!"

Work On New Service Station

Work on the new Union Oil Co. service station in the west part of town is making steady progress, with Dammarell & McKeever as the ground contractors.

Last week the former Myrtle Kuykendall house was moved across the street, and then a bulldozer went to work uprooting the big locust trees which surrounded the property. The storage tanks for the station proper have now been buried, and ground leveling is in progress.

The entire site will be leveled even with the adjoining roads, and the station itself erected to permit access from either side.

Plenty Of Game Violations

The State Fish and Game department reported this week that conservation officers made 195 arrests during July, accounting for $4,702 in fines.

Highest fine of $150 was assessed against a Shoup man for selling deer meat. Eight non-residents were fined $100 each for purchasing Idaho resident licenses.

Custer county led the state with 26 arrests; Fremont county was second with 25, and Kootenai third with a total of 18.
