INTERESTING NEWS NOTES FROM THE SOUTHWICK AREA

Ladies Entertain Husbands
Monday night, at the Southwick Ladies Aid hall, the Southwick Homemakers Club entertained their husbands at a dinner served to 34 people. The menu consisted of turkey and all the trimmings, and ended with apple pie a la mode. Several games were played and Aaron and Edith Wells showed pictures of happenings in Southwick; a trip through Yellowstone park; hunting this fall, and pictures taken of the plays the club gave last spring.

The 4-H Club girls waited on the tables and joined in the Christmas tree fun, the latter being ably presided over by Mr. and Mrs. Santa, parts taken by Alma Betts as Santa and Millie Harris as Mrs. Santa, both in costume.

The tables were beautifully decorated with evergreens, tinsel and candles, made by some of the ladies. The gifts, as well as the evening, was greatly enjoyed by all, and it was agreed upon as a lovely evening.

Library News
Among the new books to arrive will be found:

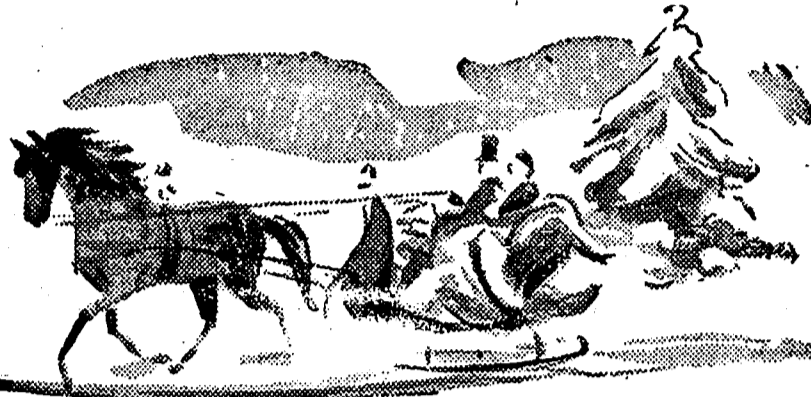

"Snips and Snails," another hilarious hit from Louise Baker. In this deft and witty book, she again finds herself "out on a limb" as the sole female teacher at a private boys' school way out west. Although never intending to become a teacher, Louise's future is clinched when one day she meets Peter Kensington Mathews III at a party. Dark, handsome and tall for his age (all of eight years), he responds to her friendliness by pasting her in the eye with a sandwich. Louise returns the favor, and Peter's mother, deeply impressed by her "way with children," gets her a job teaching at Peter's school in Arizona. Her teaching experiences, to put it mildly, are varied. She finds out that not only is she a teacher, but town marshal, zoo keeper, and substitute mother to boot. She discovers that while little boys may look like angels, they are as fiendishly clever as the devil himself.

They make her a present of a lovely snake, think up a miraculous cure for measles by injecting salt into oranges.

Louise bravely battles the boys' schemes and scholastic shortcomings. Through it all she finds a staunch ally in Joe Hargraves, one of the younger, more intelligent and kinder masters, whose love for the boys parallels her own. "Snips and Snails" makes delightful reading. To the hullobaloo and heartbreak of a desert ranch school Louise Baker has brought warm and great good humor.

"Mrs. Lorimer's Family" by Molly Claverling is our latest refreshing novel which combines humor and wisdom. With the straightforward warmth of a friendly hand clasp, this appealing novel drags you into the very heart of a delightful family circle. Here you will share with a wise, gentle mother, the conflicts and discoveries, the decisions and triumphs of her engaging and surprising brood.

SLOT MACHINE LEGALITY TEST NOW ON IN COURT

The Idaho Supreme Court was asked Monday for a "forthright answer" on the legality of slot machines in Idaho, as it heard two of three cases on the issue. The third was argued Tuesday.

The cases will determine whether Idaho's 3,600-odd slot machines continue operating legally after Jan. 1 or will be outlawed, leaving Nevada as the only state where they are legal.

The court heard arguments in the morning on the state's appeal from a Gooding County District Court decision that the 1947 local option law is unconstitutional, because slots are lotteries. The Garden City case, heard on Tuesday, is identical, except that the state is not involved.

The so-called "Journal Case" that could pave the way for a constitutional test of the slot repeal law, was heard Monday afternoon.

Atty. General Robert E. Smylie argued in the latter that District Judge Charles E. Winstead invaded the jurisdiction of the House of Representatives when he granted a court order to Rep. Marvin Vandenburg (D. Boundary).

That order forbade Chief Clerk Pat Welker from changing the wording of the Daily Journal on passage of the slot repeal bill to make the permanent journal show the bill was read at length before the passage.

The lower court, Smylie said, has "trespassed beyond its judicial powers" and "edited the journal in a form pleasing to it."

He contended that the permanent journal, as filed by the speaker was the "true journal." It might have been different," he said, had the speaker been the defendant in the court action.

In the Gooding case, Smylie said he regards slot machines as "odious devices of no social, moral or economic merit," and he added the state filed its $7,300 suit against the city merely to get a constitutional test of the slot machine law.

Dist. Judge D. H. Stuphen has ruled that because the law is unconstitutional, Gooding does not have to pay the state the $7,300 in state slot licenses collected by a city clerk who misappropriated the money.

"We urged the court to examine the constitutionality of the slot machine statute, and to forthrightly answer the question," Smylie said.

Gooding City Attorney Branch Bird holds that except for Florida and Nevada, every state supreme court has found slot machines to be lotteries. He argued that the prohibition of lotteries "under any pretense whatsoever" was sweeping enough to include slots.

And as for Gooding being in no position to test the constitutionality because it profits from the law, Bird added, under such reasoning the law would be "free from attack from all sides. Where there is a wrong there must be a remedy," he said. — Lewiston Tribune.

Christmas Is At Hand

Yes, Christmas is really at hand — with just seven more shopping days remaining — plus some evenings, as some of the local firms have announced their intentions to remain open the evenings of Dec. 21, 22 and 23, to care for the last-minute rush.

Christmas goods are on display everywhere — and some sales are even being held at this time by local institutions — and all in the spirit of Christmas.

The strings of lights across the Main street, plus the lighted big tree in the Village park, which Santa will visit next Saturday afternoon at 2:00, warn all that "it's later than you think."

In line with the Christmas rush George Brocke & Sons, and crew have been pushing installation of the coaxial cable which will bring TV to Kendrick as rapidly as possible. This work has been hampered considerably, however, by the heavy rains of the past few days — but Mr. Brocke says they are going to bring TV to Kendrick in the near future — possibly in time for Christmas!

Harry Phelps, for the past several years owner and publisher of the Latah County Press at Troy, Idaho, and one of the better known newspapermen of this section, died very suddenly Sunday evening at his home in Troy, the immediate cause of death being attributed to heart failure.

Mr. Phelps had been working at his plant there, had gone home for something to eat, and sat down in his easy chair for a rest and nap. He passed away in his sleep.

It is with regret that all who knew him will learn of this untimely passing of a well-known publisher.

MARCH OF DIMES DRIVE WILL BEGIN JANUARY 2

Boise, Idaho (Special) — Idaho's 1954 March of Dimes, commencing on January 2, must of necessity become a "March of Dollars" if we are to keep pace with the stampede of polio, Donald S. Whitehead, state chairman for the January campaign, announced this week.

The state's incidence during the past seven years has far out-distanced funds available for patient care, professional education, and research. Year-after-year March of Dimes contributions have moved steadily ahead but the states unrelenting incidence continues to out-pace the funds of the March of Dimes," Mr. Whitehead emphasized, adding: "Since 1947 Idaho has experienced continuous attacks of the disease which have left their wakes over twice as many victims as had been stricken over the entire previous quarter of a century."

"Idaho county chapters of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis have been trying to do a 100 percent job with considerably less than 100 percent of the funds needed to do it."

Mr. Whitehead pointed out that the National Foundation has opened a "fourth front" — polio prevention. He went on to say that the vaccine, which has been developed by Dr. Salk with grants derived from March of Dimes funds, will be distributed in Idaho sometime prior to the 1954 polio season. To adequately carry out this polio prevention program, the people of Idaho are asked to contribute more than ever before in the 1954 March of Dimes drive.

He emphasized that maximum success is essential if we are to also continue the humanitarian services now made available to Idaho by the National Foundation. These services not only include financial assistance for patient care and professional education, but also include the necessary continuance of the extremely important polio research program. "It is here," he stated, "that the final battle will be won against the crippling — infantile paralysis."

Mr. Whitehead urged all county March of Dimes directors to develop well organized campaigns, pointing out that success depends entirely upon the effort of these key people and their volunteer assistants.

March of Dimes chairmen throughout the state include: Clearwater county, J. E. Oud; Latah County, Ellwood Widman; Nez Perce county, Dick Garlinghouse and John Shepard.

Injures Hand In Frank Accident
Donald Carhuun, Southwick, suffered severe bruises on his left and one day last week in a freak accident while returning to Southwick from Lewiston.

Don was between Spalding and Arrow on the main highway when he noticed a heavy vibration in the front assembly of the car. He stopped to investigate, and noticing the left front wheel at something of an angle, placed both hands under the fender and on top of the wheel, and gave it a shake. The jar dropped the car onto the top of the tire, pinning both Don's hands between tire and fender.

There was nothing he could do but wait until a car came along. When one hove into sight he kicked and hollered to attract attention. The driver stopped, but was unable to lift the car enough to free Don, and was afraid to use a jack, as it might slip sideways and really crush his hands. So both waited until another vehicle came along, and the drivers of the two passing cars lifted the car high enough that Don could get his hands free. The resulting bruises were painful, but not serious.

The cause of the accident was a broken spindle, and when Don jarred the wheel, the brake drum slipped from the brake lining, pinning him.

Bus And Logging Truck Collide

Last Wednesday morning the Cedar Ridge school bus, driven by Cleon McAllister, and loaded with children coming to Kendrick and Juliaetta to school, was engaged in an almost head-on collision with a logging truck on the Cedar Ridge grade.

The bus was descending, the truck going up. Both vehicles were moving slowly at the time of the impact, so no one was even shaken up. The bus, however, suffered front-end damage that made it necessary to call the stand-by bus to bring the children on to school. The logging truck was not damaged.

The school bus was taken to Lewiston Friday for repairs.

Weather Chill And "Raw"

Local weather this past week may well be classified as "damp and chill" or "chill and raw," take your choice.

At any rate, the thermometer has hardly dipped below the freezing mark, and plenty of rain has fallen — some of which was snow on top the hills, but which has thinned to little, if any, at this time.

Saturday was one of the most beautiful winter days anyone could wish — with the thermometer recording a high of 53 degrees slightly before 1:00 p. m. — and the brilliant sunshine could almost make one think "spring was just around the corner."

Parents Of Daughter
Mr. and Mrs. Norman Fry, Kendrick, are the proud parents of a baby girl, born to them Friday, December 11, at the Davidson Nursing Home, Kendrick — weight 4 pounds, 7 ounces.

Big Window Draws Interest

The big window in Dr. D. A. Christensen's office is attracting a great deal of attention since he has turned it into an aviary.

At present White Zebra Finches are on display. Their vivid stripes are accented by the beautiful setting of moss, bark and evergreens in the cage.

Dr. Christensen, no duobt, will change or add to the birds and display from time to time as he draws from the feathered flock he houses at the big aviary on their ranch.

No Winter Pruning Good

It's a good idea to postpone the pruning of most trees and shrubs until spring, Elbert McProud, county agent, said this week in a bit of advice that will be appreciated by most husbands, who wanted to let the job go anyway.

The county agent had it from Tony Horn, horticulturist of the University of Idaho Extension Service, that waiting until spring is a sensible practice. That goes for grapes, raspberries, peaches, etc., as well as ornamentals. Pruning now, he said, is likely to stimulate the plants enough that they would suffer from winter injury. The advice applies particularly to trees and shrubs planted late.

On the matter of the winter care of evergreens, he said it was desirable to make sure the soil around their bases is thoroughly soaked before it freezes tight. That makes them more resistant to winter. A tree or shrub, particularly an evergreen, that has enough moisture in the soil to supply the tops as they are dried by cold wind, will suffer less than one whose roots have little moisture to spare.

Another precaution the extension agent recommended is to shade the southwest edge of smooth-barked trees such as Norway maple, horse chestnut, European mountain ash, linden, cherry and plum. This can be done by placing boards nailed as close to the trunk as possible on the southwest side of the tree. The idea helps, he said, because winter sun develops cells in that part of the tree. They die when the sun sets. When this happens day after day, the bark gets dry and later falls off.

Many Countries Represented

The University of Idaho campus has a cosmopolitan atmosphere this year with 53 students from foreign nations and United States territories. Canada leads the list with 19 students. Next in line are Norway with nine and India, five. Representing U. S. territories are Francisco Roberto and Juan Torres, both from Guam, and Tom Tagewa, Hawaii.

How To Get Colored Flames

Pine cones that burn red, green or blue are almost as easy to have as any other fuel for the winter fire in the fire place.

Vernon Burlison, extension forester for the University of Idaho, points to the three chemicals, boric acid, strontium nitrate and copper sulfate, as the right ones for bringing vivid flames to the family fire. Boric acid will cause the cones to burn green. The strontium nitrate will produce tongues of red, and the copper sulfate adds the blue.

Burlison says the treating of the cones is the simplest thing in the world. Add one pound of the chemical to one gallon of water. Dip the cones in, drain the excess solution back into the container, and let the cones dry. Never mix the chemicals in the same solution. Store them for the special occasions when the family is around the fire place or when you're having company in on a cold night.

In some towns Boy Scouts and other like organizations are treating the cones and selling them from house to house.

Cherokee Youth Smart Essayist

The article below was called to our attention by John DeHaven, who thought it very expressive of the simple things of life. And we agree with him.

A Cherokee Indian lad who entered an essay contest based upon two pictures — one of a dilapidated house and the other of a washed out field — won with these words:

"Both pictures show white man crazy. Make big tepee. Plow hills. Water wash, Wind, blow. Soil, grass all gone. House rots down. No hog. No corn. No hay. No potatoes. No cow. No pony. Squaw gone with papoose."

Indian no plow land. Keep grass. Cow eats grass. Indian drink health-giving milk. Buffalo eat grass. Indian eat buffalo. Hide make tepee. Moccasins too, Indian no make terrace. No build dam. No hunt job. No hitchhike. No shoot pig. Great Spirit makes water. Also sunshine. Indian no waste anything. Indian no go on relief. White man heap crazy."

"Bambie" Visits Kendrick

Bambie, the pet deer which makes its home at the Jesse Oylear ranch, visited town Friday, beginning its calls at the Kendrick Garage, and wandering down the street as far as the Kendrick Cafe, where it crossed into the city park, browsed a while and then went home.

During its trip down the street it accepted hand-outs of cigarettes, gum, candy, pastries, etc., as well as friendly "scratching" from local business folk and town visitors.

It ambled into the Blewett Grocery, inspected the interior thoroughly, and next into the Kendrick Bakery, where it consumed some "day old" pastries" out the door, and on down the street, to see how Christmas displays looked — thinking, no doubt, "I've never had it so good!"

Road Work Making Progress

Although slowed by the steady rains of the past few days, progress is still being made on bridge approaches and the bridges themselves at Juliaetta and Kendrick.

At Juliaetta progress is being made in grading the approaches from the Kendrick side, with considerable dirt having been moved by bulldozers from the hill adjoining the Phil Johns residence.

At Kendrick a portion of the bluff at the back of the schoolhouse hill was blown out by dynamite last week in preparation for sloping operations on the Kendrick side approach. Here the road makes its final curve before straightening out for the railroad and bridge crossing.

At Kendrick, also, one concrete approach remains to be poured.

Yes, You Bet!

When an accused man behind the Iron Curtain sees his "confessions" for the first time, the usual reaction is, "Well, I'll be hanged!"

Crusade For Freedom Drive
The President-elect of the United States, the president-elect and the defeated presidential candidates have joined in urging all-out support of the Crusade for Freedom which is now under way in Idaho, according to Bob Tracy, Latah county crusade chairman. President Truman has issued this call for action: "On the success of the 1952 Crusade rests the plans of the Crusade for Freedom to build more radio stations in Free Europe and Asia. If this can be done, and I believe that it will be done, the free world can more effectively get the truth behind the Iron Curtain.

President-elect Eisenhower paid tribute to the faith, foresight and energetic labor of General Lucius Clay in founding the Crusade in 1950, which carries on its truth-telling drive this year under the national chairmanship of Henry Ford II. "In this battle for truth," he said, "you and I have a definite part to play through the Crusade for Freedom."

Gov. Adlai Stevenson, Illinois state chairman of last year's Crusade, cited the independent citizenry support of the Freedom station operation as having special significance at home as well as behind the Iron Curtain. "The unique spirit of the Crusade for Freedom," he stated, "is its private and voluntary character."

Funds raised in this year's campaign, Tracy said, will be quickly transplanted into four new 50-kilowatt transmitters needed in Portugal, where Radio Free Europe is laying down the sharpest and strongest short-wave signal, aimed at Soviet captive areas in eastern Europe. Additional funds are slated for Radio Free Asia to strengthen its broadcasts to captive Asia from Manila and Guam.

Some Comfort
The gang of counterfeiters was doing a thriving business, avoiding even the hint of detection. Otherwise, though, they were plagued with troubles. Every week one or the other of them was bedded down with illness; they lost heavily at the race tracks and poker games; their chief smashed up two Cadillacs in one week.

"Oh, well," one of them philosophized, "we don't have much fun, but we sure make a lot of money!"

Reasonable
A psychiatric board was testing the mentality of a negro soldier. "Do you ever hear voices without being able to tell who is speaking or where the sound comes from?" "Yes, sub," answered the negro. "And when does this occur?" "When I'm talking over de telephone."

WHAT BECOMES OF YOUR IDAHO HIGHWAY DOLLAR

"If the highway users in Idaho pay so many millions of dollars each year to the state, why don't we get more new highways?" Or, "What does the state highway department do with all the money we pay to the state?"

These are just two of the typical questions I hear from Idahoans, whenever highway financing is mentioned. They are good questions and deserve good answers.

Financing highways is much the same as running a farm or ranch. It takes so many bushels of grain to pay for the seed, the various operations leading up to the harvest, and for the overhead of the farm. If the crop is a good one and you get more bushels than are needed to pay your operating costs, you then have extra money for improvements and for your profit.

Last year the highway users paid slightly less than $13 millions in state gasoline tax and not quite $3 millions in motor vehicle licenses. That, with miscellaneous fees from ton-mile tax, caravan fees and special permits, brought the total paid into the gross Highway Users Fund to a little over 17 millions.

Notice I said "gross," because as far as the highway department and highway construction and maintenance is concerned it is "gross" and not "net" to the highway department.

First off, the state tax collector returns to the non-highway users a refund on the gasoline tax that is paid to the state. Last year this amounted to over a million and a half dollars, or better than 11 percent of the gas tax paid to the state. In some counties this amounted to over 100 gallons per person.

Next, 30 percent of the balance is paid by law to the counties and cities. Now we find that the balance remaining is something over $11 millions. However, that's still not the amount the state highway department receives, because of that amount over $100,000 was appropriated by the state legislature to the state tax department for the administration of the motor fuels and ton-mile taxes.

Starting this July 1, even more will be retained from the fund, the 1953 legislature having appropriated more than $400,000 per year to the Department of Law Enforcement.

After the previous deductions, the state highway department received, in 1952, just a little over $11 millions for its entire operation.

Then that amount must be allocated within the department. Maintenance takes about three and a quarter million dollars each year. The expense of preliminary engineering, administration, equipment, new maintenance buildings and miscellaneous items was a little over $2,600,000.

Now, we get down to what was left for new construction on the state highway system. Out of the original gross amount of $17 million plus, collected from the highway users, only a little over $5 million remained to be used on new construction.

New construction includes more than just building a new highway. It includes reconstruction of old highways, new surfacing, widening of shoulders, and many other things connected with the improvement of the highways, and costs of acquiring rights-of-way. In fact, it means any new work done on a highway.

To finance this new construction the Department of Highways has this $5 million, plus about four and three-quarter millions made available by the federal government under the Federal Aid Highway Act for construction on the Idaho State highway system.

The money made available by the Federal government must be applied to new construction, according to law and must be matched by state highway construction dollars. If the Federal aid money is not matched within a specified length of time, it lapses. Thus it is easy to see that if we are to reap the benefits of federal aid, nearly all our present highway construction revenues must be used for matching purposes.

Obviously, there just aren't enough highway construction dollars being paid to the state to do the kind of a job that should be done on 4,500 miles of highway, of which over one-third is quite inadequate.

Any additional money that is raised or paid to the state treasury for our highway users funds would mean just that much more for new construction. The expenditures for maintenance, for administration and for the other necessary outlays of money are relatively constant. It takes just so much money to operate a highway department.

One last thing in the way of finances, we can not emphasize too often that no ad valorem tax is paid to the state highway department. All of the highway funds are derived from the highway users. If you don't use the highways, you don't pay for them.

I hope that this has helped to answer the questions and to explain the financial picture of building a new highway. It is a hard story to get across. If I haven't made it as your suggestions. — E. V. Miller,

Streamlined Pioneers

Among the hopeful signs for the future is the news that people are becoming more self-reliant. After a good many years of having too many things done for us, the do-it-yourself idea, which has been a feature of American farm life since the Pilgrims, is coming to the front.

These days, instead of hunting around for professional help, the householder (or householderess) who has a painting job, or a repair job, or needs new storage shelves, lawn furniture or a built-in bookcase is more likely than not to undertake the job himself (or herself).

A notable example is Mrs. P. V. Baldrige, a well-known dress designer, who inherited a big motel at Big Spring, Texas, when her father died. She tackled some needed repairs with hammer and saw, discovered a woman could handle such tools, and looked for bigger worlds to conquer. She bought some power tools and started a full-scale remodeling and expansion program, designing and building dressing tables, beds, lamps, chairs, desks, even doors. If you can use a sewing machine and measure accurately, she tells her women friends, you can be a power tool operator.

"The Gift of God" is the title of the Christmas program being presented Sunday evening, Dec. 20, at 7:30. The story takes its setting from a Christmas Eve scene on the Dakota prairies during a blizzard in 1882. A welcome is extended to this and all other services of Kendrick's little church.

Cat Enjoys "Bottle"

Marlene Siffow is the owner of a cat called "Henry", which loves its bottle — the non-alcoholic kind, of course — for despite the fact that "Henry" is almost grown he loves to take a doll nursing bottle in his front paws, roll over onto his back, and drain the bottle.

Some local residents rather doubted this story, so Vern Choate took a number of pictures of the cat "working over its bottle", and has them on display at the store.

The Juliaetta Lutheran Missionary Ladies will hold a baked food sale Saturday, Dec. 19th, at the Kendrick Table Supply.

The N. F. M. S. ladies met at the home of Mrs. Bennie Weatherby, Friday evening Dec. 11, for their business session and Christmas party—"Secret Pals" gift exchange and the drawing of new names. It is decided that instead of giving gifts to "Secret Pals" on their birthday anniversaries, they would send the money, instead, to the secretary of the Nazarene church, and it would go toward building funds. Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Nutting and son Jay and Mr. and Mrs. Burke Sower from Pomeroy were visitors. Lovely refreshments were served by Mrs. Weatherby.

The Juliaetta Lutheran Missionary Society met at the home of Mrs. Geo. F. Denner, Wednesday, Dec. 9, for their regular business session, and Christmas party. "Secret Pals" exchanged gifts and new names were drawn. During the business session an election of officers was held. Mrs. Geo. F. Denner was chosen president; Mrs. Gordon Penland, vice-president; Mrs. Dave Denner, secretary-treasurer. A pin was presented to the outgoing president, Mrs. Walter Denner. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

Potlatch Chief Sez

Published by the Kendrick Creamery

HELLO, THERE, FOLKS:

Well, Christmas draws ever nearer and nearer — and not only is it time to think about Christmas gifts — but Christmas food as well — if you are entertaining for your family or friends — and of course good food requires dairy products in its preparation. Milk, cream, butter, cottage cheese, etc., not to mention ice cream when the dessert time rolls around. And of course when we say "dairy products" we mean "Potlatch Chief" Brand — the brand that is your guarantee of purity and quality. Pick up your needs at the creamery next time you're down town — or at your favorite food store.

Age nine came into the room where his mother was entertaining her bridge club. "Mom, didn't you say that baby had your eyes and dad's nose?" "Yes," she beamed. "what of it?"

"Well, you better watch him. He's got grandma's teeth now!"

The other day one of our locker customers came out with a jar of huckleberries, stopped and purchased a half-gallon of "Potlatch Chief" Ice Cream, then remarked: "We're going to have our favorite sundae, Sunday, and it's sure good!"

Well, you, too, can enjoy just that sort of thing when you use one of our locker boxes and "Potlatch Chief" Ice Cream.

Ruth: "I hear Jim's studying to be a magician."

Bill: "Yeah, and he was doing pretty well until he went to the hospital."

Ruth: "What's he doing in the hospital?"

Bill: "He lost control of his car and it turned into a tree."

Sell us your cream!
