Storm Disrupts Utilities

The high wind and heavy rain of Sunday played havoc with power and telephone lines in the local section, blowing trees across an REA power line, which caused a transformer to burn at the sub-station in Juliaetta and disrupted service in some areas for several hours.

The wind also blew down a number of telephone poles in the local system, putting some lines out of use until Monday afternoon.

Although the temperature was quite comfortable, the rain fell "in buckets" for some time, and the wind blew from a gentle breeze to a gale for several hours.

Lyons and son George, Miss Eva Smith and Aunt Carrie Allen visited school Wednesday afternoon and enjoyed the Valentine box with the pupils.

An "Almost Snow Storm"

— Weather prognosticators and sky gazers were in a quandry Monday morning trying to figure out whether we were actually going to have a snow storm or not, as a few flakes were seen falling in the canyon and quite a snow flurry was apparent on the ridges. However, it was merely a "flash in the pan" and ere the day was over people had again begun to think of planting gardens.

Walter Thomas Honored

— The following item, together with a picture of Walter Thomas, a former Kendrick resident, appeared in Sunday's Spokesman-Review: "Coming as a signal honor to Walter Thomas, director of the Lewis-Clark High School Band, is his appointment to the staff of the National High School Orchestra, which has its summer camp at Interlachen, Mich., annually. Mr. Thomas, whose appointment as counselor came from Dr. Joseph E. Maddy, in charge of the orchestra, will go east in June.

Mrs. Verne Dunham's many friends are happy over her speedy recovery from her recent goiter operation. She returned home from the Colfax hospital Monday afternoon.

Maxine Slind of Moscow spent the week-end at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Emmett were Ahsahka visitors Monday, at the home of her mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Long visited with friends here Monday afternoon.

Diane Emmett spent last week with her father, Roy Emmett.

Ole Kleth visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Kleth, in Lewiston, Friday.

Preaching services at the Lutheran Church Sunday evening at 7:00 o'clock by the Rev. Edwin Bausness of Potlatch. Everyone welcome!

Bridge Work Progressing

Steady progress, under favorable weather conditions, is being made on the construction of the new bridge across Bear creek, and not only on the bridge, but on the approaches as well. More of the north side of the school house hill has been blasted away to permit an easier turn on the approach, and culverts have been and are being placed for drainage on the west approach where it joins the oiled Main Street.

Grange Postponed

The regular meeting of the Kendrick Grange, scheduled for March 2, has been postponed until Monday evening, March 8, due to the basketball tournament at Lewiston. The meeting time will be announced in next week's issue — and that will be the evening that losers of the card party series will entertain the winners at supper.

Calling For Garage Bids

Joint School District No. 283, is advertising for bids on the construction of a school bus garage, approximately 40x100 feet. The building is to be erected on the former city lots now occupied by the Kendrick Shoe Shop and the Lindquist Plumbing warehouse.

The official call for bids will be found on page 5.

Public Auction Scheduled

In this week's issue of the Gazette will be found the auction sale ad. of Fred Heinje, Lenore, who resides near the "Four Corners" beyond Southwick.

The sale, entirely of farm machinery, is scheduled for Tuesday, March 2, beginning 1:00 p. m. sharp.

Roy Glenn is the auctioneer, and The Farmers Bank will be the clerk.

Shop at Biewett's Grocery Market, Kendrick, for all kinds of fresh and fresh-frozen fruits and vegetables, fish and fowl. Serve yourself and save.

As We See It

A great many thousand words have been written about "driver education," "courtesy and safety on the highway," and many other phases of safe highway travel, but it is our frank and honest opinion that the State of Washington has hit on the proper system of making highway travel safer for everyone — and that is strict enforcement of the traffic laws.

It is true that in the beginning of this safety campaign by that state, motorists cried "unfair," and "foul" and tacked many other designations on the use of speed traps, radar, unmarked cars, and all the other tricks the Washington State Patrolmen could think of to trap highway law violators. But the results speak for themselves — a 45 percent drop in traffic fatalities, and a 60 percent drop in highway accidents, and today those who "holered" the loudest at the "tricks" used to catch them have nothing but praise for all, for they now realize it has made travel much safer for them and for their families, even though it took them a half hour longer to go from "here to there."

Idaho could well take a page from Washington's book and reduce the high accident and death toll. We have never favored Gov. Len Jordan's policy of cutting down on the already scanty and thinly spread Idaho State Police, and attempting to put more of this work on the county sheriff's. We have in this state the picture of speeding, illegal passing, defective equipment on cars and trucks, and countless other traffic violations — all committed without fear of arrest — for there is just nobody to arrest them!

In the Washington account if its traffic drive which comes in over the radio, entitled "Could This Be You" the State officers make arrests within towns and villages for traffic violations, something our Idaho State Police would undoubtedly like to do, but cannot, so few are their numbers — and violations to which local officers pay no attention.

Washington, too, works for the protection of their highways through rigid load and speed limitations on trucks. Here we have the spectacle of gross overloading, speeding, over-width equipment and like items, which can cost many thousands of dollars of road money on even short stretches of road for repairs. Again, the State officers are spread too thinly to hope to cope with this problem, and sheriff's offices "just can't be bothered."

We say it's time to "Wake Up Idaho," and cut down on traffic losses.

LINDEN ITEMS

The Friendly Neighbors Club will meet Wednesday, March 3, at the Dan Kechter home. Roll call will be answered with an Irish joke or poem.

Mrs. Arley Allen visited over night Wednesday with her sister, Mrs. Claude Pippingier at Orofino, and over night Thursday at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Ball and sons at Ahsahka.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Greenwood of Arcada, Calif., and Mrs. Grace Souders of Kendrick were Tuesday evening supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Souders.

Jerry Pederson spent the past week at the Verlin Benjamin home at Southwick. Sunday the Benjamins brought him home and spent the day with Mr. Pederson and Douglas.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lyons called on Mr. and Mrs. Arley Allen Sunday afternoon.

Sunday dinner guests in the Ray Cuddy home were Mr. and Mrs. Rollin Armitage and family of Southwick and Mr. and Mrs. James Holt and family.

W. E. Simms and Mrs. Gladys Goddard of Clarkston were week-end guests of their brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Grim.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Florence of Clarkston and Ramey Hunt of Weiser visited Wednesday in the Jim Holt home and with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Grim.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Grinolds and family attended a family birthday anniversary dinner in honor of Preston Hill of Spokane, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Asa Hill in Clarkston, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Emmett and daughters of Big Bear ridge were Saturday evening callers in the Dan Kechter home.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Parsley and son of Richland, Wash., spent the week-end in the Dick Parsley home.

Mrs. Al Pederson returned home from Spokane Monday, after visiting the Kenneth Pederson family the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Bahr were Tuesday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Grim.

Elmer Souders visited with Mr. and Mrs. Marion Souders Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Perryman and son Gene were Sunday evening supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Kechter and children. Mr. and Mrs. Alva Craig and family called later on in the evening.

Valley Couple Adopt Son

Announcement of the adoption of an Oriental child by Lt. and Mrs. Vincent J. LaVoie, former Clarkston and Lewiston residents, was made last week by Mr. and Mrs. Everett L. Crocker, 1042 Webster, parents of Mrs. LaVoie.

George Anthony LaVoie, the new foster son of Mr. and Mrs. LaVoie is 14, and is a mixture of Oriental and English parentage, being half east Indian, one fourth Chinese and one fourth English extraction. He speaks English, with an American accent, Chinese and Portuguese. — Lewiston Tribune.

Mrs. LaVoie will be remembered here as Connie Crocker.

How Much Does It Cost?

In past years the Idaho State Junior Chamber of Commerce, cooperating with other organizations, including the Forestry Service, has painted on the oiled highway surfaces many signs such as "Don't Be a Guberif — Keep Idaho Green," "Use Your Ash Tray," "Don't Be a Flipper," etc., and of these we heartily approve, and there is no doubt but what they are quite effective.

However, there is another which we believe should be added: "Don't Throw Your Beer Bottles On The Highway!" For in the past week we have seen two excellent and expensive tires ruined by hitting beer bottles thrown on the road from cars. To add that this is against the law is useless, all know that — but it goes on all the time.

We understand that in the recent session of the legislature a bill was introduced that would have required all beer leaving taverns, inns, stores, etc., for "go out consumption" would have had to be in cans — but somehow it "died" before action was taken.

While a can littering a highway is not a pretty sight — at least it doesn't break and puncture tires.

Woods Destruction Terrific

A group of Soil Conservation employees and some from the Forestry department were in town Friday evening after completing an inspection tour of recent logging operations in this area, and said one: "Never have I seen such destruction as was seen today. Not only from the point of young timber, seed trees, and new tiny trees, but soil destruction as well — for those gouges will become raging stream beds with every heavy downpour of rain, and I shudder to think what might happen if a cloudburst should ever hit that area."

He added: "Some timber owners do not realize the future loss that can occur to them when they permit this type of logging — not to mention the terrible fire hazard."

This man, who declined to allow the use of his name, knew whereof he spoke, and it would certainly behoove timber owners in this area to have written agreements permitting rigid supervision of logging operations if such happenings are to be avoided in the future. For, even though that timber may be privately owned, it is a flood and erosion bulwark to every resident of the downstream area, and of vital importance to future generations.

Good Pasture Program Means More Profits

Over-Grazing Can Kill Out Pasture Growth

Now is the time to plan a "complete pasture program" that will give your dairy cattle an abundance of high quality, low cost feed at all times next year, says the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee. The Farmer who has an all-season supply of succulent forage, grass silage or hay is the farmer who will have bigger milk checks, lower feed costs and more overall profits, the committee points out.

ume-grass mixtures; (2) The use of lime and commercial fertilizer; (3) Good grazing management.

Jones recommends alfalfa, ladino clover and grass for summer grazing. Where alfalfa does not thrive, ladino clover and grass will do a good job. Timothy, brome grass or orchard grass may also be used.

He cautions farmers to avoid killing out pasture growth by over-grazing and to provide palatable and nutritious pasture by avoiding under grazing. Jones suggests dividing pasture areas into lots. Cattle are allowed to graze down growth in one lot and then are moved to another.

Along with good legume-grass mixtures and managed grazing, Jones emphasizes the benefits from adding lime and fertilizers carrying nitrogen, phosphate and potash.

Poultry Industry Expects To Boost Production

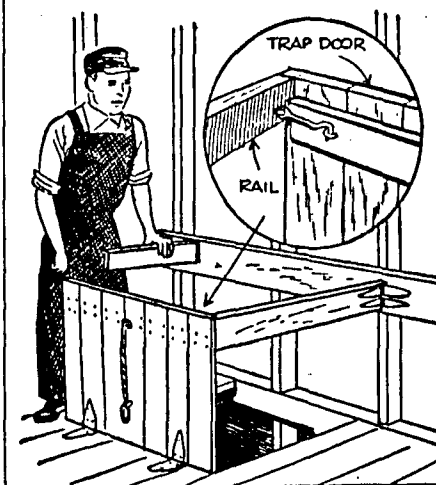

One of the nation's newest agricultural industries is expected to boost the value of poultry products beyond the four billion dollar mark this year.

This new industry—known as the broiler industry—is expected to account for almost half the chicken meat consumed in 1954, compared to an almost negligible amount 15 years ago. Poultry breeders have succeeded in developing chickens that eat less and still grow from two to three weeks faster to reach marketable size.

H. H. Alp, Director of Commodity Departments for the American Farm Bureau Federation, recently credited the success of the new industry to the nationwide Chicken-of-Tomorrow program sponsored since 1945 by A & P Food Stores.

Only a few years ago, according to U.S. Department of Agriculture reports, most of the chicken meat consumed in this country came from so-called "backyard flocks." Records of specialized broiler production in 1934 show that these chickens accounted for only 3 per cent of total consumption of 18.8 pounds of chicken per capita. In 1951 broilers are expected to account for 51 per cent of a per capita consumption of 29.7 pounds.

Hayloft Door

If you have a trap door in your barn loft, here is an idea that could possibly save you a dangerous fall. Fit it with guard-rails as shown above. The rails, which are hinged to the barn wall, swing outward and are hooked to the trap door when it is in the upright position. When the door is closed the rails are folded flush against the wall.

Frozen Foods Show Huge Gain During Past Year

A record percentage of farm produce is moving to consumers in frozen form. Figures compiled by A & P Food Stores, operator of 4,500 markets in 37 states with six million customers daily, show an overall increase in frozen food sales of 38.9 per cent. Leading this list of foods are citrus juice concentrates orange and grapefruit juice, a blend of the two, and lemon mix. Peas, and strawberries also increased.

Thank Practical Eskimos For 'Deep-Freeze' Invention

Thanks to practical Eskimos and a shrewd Yankee fur trader, we are now able to have seasonable fruits and vegetables "fresh" at any time of the year. The quick-freeze pack keeps them fresh.

The Yankee fur trader is Clarence Birdseye of Gloucester, Mass., who still indulges his fancy for adventure in the Far North. While dealing with Arctic Eskimos up the Labrador coast during 1912, he was amazed at the excellent meat and fish they seemed always to have available. The secret was in the quick-freezing of game freshly caught. "Quick-Freeze!" That was the Big Idea he mullied over as he sailed home. Invent a special kind of freezing machine to freeze almost instantly, patent it, make fresh foods available to everyone!

Inspired by this thought, and stimulated by this hope of protection afforded by our patent system, he built his first crude machine which he called the "Multiple Quick Freeze." This consisted of a new garbage can of corrugated iron with layers of steel plates between which codfish and rabbit meat were placed. It was supplied with coils that contained salt brine as a refrigerant. Incredible, but true, this unpolished mechanism was the forerunner of our gigantic lockers of today. Encouraged by the success of his invention in food preservation, and the patent protection obtained thereon, Birdseye endeavored to promote his idea.

A skeptical America was not too eager to accept quick-frozen foods, and our inventor, in 1924, after making stabs in both Gloucester and New York, went broke. Unbeaten, his perseverance and ingenuity urged him to try again and, in 1927, after securing a $2,250 loan on his life-insurance policy, and obtaining $375,000 from backers, he again launched into the business. This time it took a year to interest the public sufficiently.

Cretaceous Geological Period Shale Collected in Fresno

More than a ton of shale and marl containing 100-million-year-old fossils, collected in Fresno County, Calif., last summer by Dr. Alfred R. Loeblich, Jr., Smithsonian Institution paleontologist, is being processed at the U.S. National Museum.

The Fresno County locality has one of the thickest known deposits—in some places as much as 25,000 feet—of sediments laid down in the ancient sea bottoms during the Cretaceous geological period, the heyday of the great dinosaurs on land and of the weird swimming reptiles, the plesiosaurs in the sea. The material collected by Dr. Loeblich, however, contains fossils far less conspicuous than these monsters, but in some ways they represent even stranger forms of life. They are minute Foraminifera, or shelled protozoans. Although constituting a very large branch of the Animal Kingdom, the Protozoa are one-celled animals and nearly all are microscopic; the best-known of the living forms are internal parasites which cause some of the most deadly diseases.

Foraminifera are a specialized group of Protozoa that build an external shell, and these shells may be preserved as fossils. During the Cretaceous period, represented by the material collected this summer, many of the more modern shell forms were first developed. These fossil shells are often used by the oil industry to determine the age of geologic strata and thus are of economic importance, as well as being of value to the scientist in showing evolutionary trends.

Although single-celled, such sea creatures may have many chambered shells. As they grow they form new chambers all connected by openings through which the protoplasm of the cell flows. But, however many chambers of this sort are produced, the protoplasm is continuous through all and the animal still remains a single cell.

Looking Back

Halle Selassie's 1,150-man, hand-picked battalion in Korea is a far cry from the desperate army he raised in 1935. Then, as Mussolini's men marched into his land, he issued this draft notice: (1) When this order is received, all men and boys able to carry a spear will go to Addis Ababa. (2) Every married man will bring his wife to cook and wash for him. (3) Every unmarried man will bring his wife to cook and wash for him. (4) Women with babies, the blind and those too aged and infirm to carry a spear, are excused.

Ptolemaic System

The Ptolemaic System was the ancient concept of the universe, proposed by the Greek astronomer Hipparchus, who lived about 130 B. C. It is named after Claudius Ptolemy, a later astronomer, who popularized it in a famous book known as the Almagest. According to this system, the Earth was fixed at the center of the universe, and the Sun, Moon, planets and stars all revolved around it in varying periods. It has been superseded by the system proposed by Copernicus in 1543, which places the Sun at the center of the Solar System, and has the Earth as one of a number of planets revolving around the Sun.

American Inventions Make For Better Living Standard

During the period prior to World War II, when Adolph Hitler was building up an arsenal of weapons with which he hoped to conquer the world, a nuclear physicist at the University of Berlin had an idea for a death-ray gun.

The only thing wrong with the idea was that the inventor intended to use the death rays to kill microorganisms that spoil food. Hitler wasn't interested.

America thrives on inventions that promote health and make for better living. It provides a Patent System as an incentive for such inventions. Dr. Arno Brasch, the nuclear physicist with the death-ray idea, and his associate, Dr. Wolfgang Huber, left Berlin for New York 12 years ago.

Food is an important item of trade, here, and financial interests backed the two physicists in developing their electronic gun to the extent of a half-million dollars. They rented an icehouse on Long Island and scrounged the area for hard-to-get parts required for their electrical apparatus. The pilot model, resembling somewhat the steel skeleton of a skyscraper, began to tower toward the third-story ceiling. Near this was a cylindrical structure, tapering in sections to the top.

Out of this combination of transformers, insulators, and giant electronic tubes there protruded something similar to the muzzle of a gun, aimed straight down to hit the target directly underneath. A 220-volt house current was thus stepped up to shoot 3,000,000 volts.

It was five years ago that this amazing gun began its operation of shooting electron bullets into specimens of food.

Farm Commodities Pose Big Problem Government Limited In Selling of Stocks

At the moment the government owns approximately $1,800,365,438 worth of farm commodities, purchased through the years to support farm prices, agricultural department officials report.

Products stored in government bins include 3.5 million bales of cotton, 145 million bushels of wheat, 187 million bushels of corn, 422 million pounds of linseed oil, 294 million pounds of dried milk, 79 million pounds of dried eggs, and quantities of various other items.

What's become of it all? It may be disposed of in various ways, but not dumped upon the open market to compete with commodities now in private ownership. To do so would flood the market and depress the commodities offered far below support prices. The government would then find itself buying the commodities placed upon the market.

The government today has 167 million bushels of America's finest corn stored under the price support plan. The question is, what to do with it?

These commodities, however, can be sold should the market prices strengthen considerably above support levels.

The government has two methods at present of moving commodities. They are:

(1) Persuading the consumer to increase their purchases through normal purchasing channels, thus reducing the supply and raising the price to where government stocks can be put on the market. Also, reducing supplies to a point where support prices would become unnecessary.

(2) Many of the commodities in government stockpiles are being distributed to school lunchrooms, charitable institutions, Indian affairs, and needy groups.

New Corn Spray

Until recently, the corn earworm has prevented profitable sweet corn growing, especially in the South. Sometimes every ear in a crop is infested. Such corn cannot be sold.

Now the department of agriculture has developed a spray, containing DDT, mineral oil, and water that may be applied to silks and husks of developing ears. When applied at right times it kills worms before they attack and ruin the corn.

The new spray, when applied at the right times, will eliminate earworm and pay in growth of healthy corn on the American farm.

R. A. Blanchard, bureau entomologist, developed the method. He tested it in the field during three growing seasons in Texas, Mississippi, Missouri, and Illinois. Earworms were controlled in every instance, he reports.

January Exports Pass $224 Million Mark

January agricultural exports totaled $224,300,000, the agricultural department reports. Cotton topped the total with $83,500,000.

Wheat and wheat flour were second to cotton, valued at $47,300,000, while corn was in third place with $14,700,000. Agricultural imports during the month were valued at $280,700,000, or approximately 66 million more than exports.

Poison Deaths of Children Caused by Careless Parents

Parental carelessness plays a big part in the more than 600 deaths of children each year due to the accidental swallowing of poison, according to Dr. Jay M. Arena of Durham, N. C.

Dr. Arena is associate professor in the department of pediatrics, Duke University School of Medicine and Duke Hospital.

"Children who survive the ingestion of poison may be left with permanent disabilities," he added.

"Poisons contained in household agents are responsible for most of the deaths and disabilities. If all drugs and household agents that contain poison were made inaccessible to children, such poisonings could be almost entirely prevented."

Lye, he explained, is one of the most common causes of poisoning in childhood. During the first 18 years of the Duke Hospital, more than 136 children were treated for stricture of the esophagus caused by swallowing lye. Many of these cases were due to sodium hydroxide in washing powders, drainpipe cleaners or certain paint removers.

Among other causes of childhood poisonings listed by Dr. Arena are the following: strong acid, kerosene, iodine, strychnine, phenolphthalein, barbiturate, salicylate, aniline dye, lead, and mercury.

Farm Land Boom

Farm land prices on an over-all basis may have experienced a record rise over the last decade, but the increases varied widely as between one section of the country and another, according to figures compiled by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The boom was led by eight states, headed by Kentucky, which enjoyed increases of more than 200 per cent between the 1935-39 average of dollar farm land valuations and July of this year. More than half these states are in the South. Thirteen others, mostly in the South and Middle West, showed rises of between 150 and 200 per cent, and fourteen more between 100 and 150 per cent. The remaining thirteen showed gains of less than 100 per cent.

High Hat

The expression "to high hat" or be snobbish toward one of lower rank probably goes back before the days when the top hat became a symbol of wealth and social position. The rank of a Spanish lady in the latter days of the Roman Empire could almost be measured by the height of her head covering. The more important the lady, the higher her turban towered above her head.

Sea Food

The ocean contains enormous quantities of small plants and animals, many of them microscopic in size, which cannot swim but float with the tides and currents. These are called "plankton" and they form the principal food of various whales, as well as sharks and many other kinds of fishes. The animal plankton is said to have a nutritive value equal to the best meat, since they consist largely of protein, while the plant plankton equal rye flour. The main difficulty seems to be in harvesting. A biologist who studied the matter has said that to meet the normal food energy requirements of one person would require the animal plankton each day from a volume of ocean water equal to an area the size of a football field, and about five feet deep.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ON LATATH BLOOD PROGRAM

Question — What is the Latah County Blood Program.

Answer: This program provides whole blood and plasma for citizens of our country without cost to the recipient. The blood is donated by the citizens of the county at certain blood drives. It is drawn and processed by the American Red Cross Blood Center at Boise.

Question — How do we get the blood here so we can use it?

Answer: It is shipped to Moscow in a refrigerator once a week. It is then kept in a refrigerator in the Gritman hospital until it is used. Any unused bottles of blood are returned to Boise weekly so that none of it will spoil.

Question — What do you mean by spoil?

Answer: Whole blood will not keep indefinitely. It is good for 21 days after which any unused bottles are processed into plasma and other blood derivatives.

Question — If this blood is given free, who finances it?

Answer: It is financed by the American Red Cross. The national organization contributes a certain percentage of the cost and the local chapter the balance.

Question — Are there any facilities at the hospital so that they can take blood, supposing I wanted to drop in and make a donation?

Answer: No. Outside of the regular blood drives, the only time the hospital draws any blood is in an emergency, when a patient may need a transfusion and they don't have the right type of blood on hand.

Question — Who is eligible to give blood?

Answer: All healthy people between the ages of 18 and 60. Those between 18 and 21 need the consent of their parents unless they are married. There are a few diseases which prevent people from giving blood. If in doubt, the best way to find out if you are eligible is to come to the next blood drive and talk with the nurses or the doctor.

Question — Suppose I go out of the county and need a transfusion, say in Spokane. Is there any way the blood can be furnished for me?

Answer: Yes. We have arrangements with the hospitals in Spokane and nearly everywhere else so that our county will replace the blood you use. If you have any questions about this, consult the local Red Cross officials.

Question — How much does it cost to run our county blood program?

Answer: Last year the cost to the local chapter was about $1,600. This is not the entire cost as the National Red Cross pays about 60 percent of the cost of operation. In the future the local chapter may be asked to pay a larger percentage of the cost. This is being discussed by top level Red Cross officials at the present time.

Question — If one had to buy blood from a private bank, what would it cost?

Answer: Different blood banks charge different amounts. Some charge as much as $50. Probably $25 a pint is sort of an average.

Question — Is the Red Cross able to provide it for less than that?

Answer: Yes. Because the Red Cross draws and processes blood on such a large scale its cost is much less. In this area it is not more than $5.00.

Question — Why doesn't the Red Cross charge for its blood like the private banks do?

Answer: It is against Red Cross policy to charge for things which the American public has given into its care. It is felt that the blood program is a vital part of the total health program of America and that it is desirable to provide free blood for hospital patients where possible.

Question — I have heard some people state that they paid for Red Cross blood in one of the hospitals. Is it possible that this could happen?

Answer: No. This is very unlikely under any circumstances. Some people get the idea they are being charged for blood because the hospital makes a charge for administration of the transfusion. But Red Cross blood is never sold.

Question — How does the Red Cross get people to make blood donations? Does it pay for them?

Answer: No. Red Cross does not pay people to make blood donations. It depends on the public spirited citizens of the community to give this freely. This is an opportunity for rich and poor alike to make a gift to society which is beyond price. Human blood cannot be manufactured. There is no known substitute. When you give a pint of your blood you may be giving the right to live to someone.

Oh, Brother!

A guard from a lunatic asylum rushed up to a farmer on the road and said: "I'm looking for an escaped lunatic. Did he pass this way?"

The farmer, puffed thoughtfully on his pipe: "What did he look like," he asked.

"He's short and thin," said the guard, "and he weighs about 400 pounds."

The farmer looked at him in amazement. "How can a man be short and thin and still weigh 400 pounds?"

"Don't be silly," retorted the guard testily, "I told you he was crazy!"

College Displays Wealth Of Prehistoric Illinoisan

Wealth buried by a prehistoric Illinois resident who may have lived several centuries before Christ now is at the University of Illinois.
It consists of 55 pieces of flint, ranging from raw blocks to expertly-fashioned big spear points as finely-formed as any ever found.

The cache was uncovered last year at the Seimer farm near Batchtown in Calhoun county between the Mississippi and Illinois rivers northwest of St. Louis. In this area are many remains of the prehistoric Hopewell or "mound-builder" Indians, whose culture recent radiocarbon research has tentatively dated at 200 to 600 B.C.

The flint was obtained for the university's archeological collections from W. L. Wadlow, amateur archeologist of Dow, Ill., by the Illini Achievement Fund of the University of Illinois Foundation.
Through his cooperation, the collection is being kept for research and teaching use in the state where it was found.

Prof John C. McGregor, University of Illinois archeologist, says that the find undoubtedly represents the wealth of an individual. He explains that the blade spear points, several inches long, are far too finely-made to have used for hunting or war, and were more likely a medium of exchange — the "money" of their day.

He suggests that the cache was the treasure of one of the prehistoric Illinois residents of the highly-civilized Hopewells, who left their important dead buried in mounds from the Great Lakes to the Gulf, and from Ohio to Kansas, and of whom much is still to be learned.

Uses Sought for 'Freak' Liquid Metal Gallium

Anyone who wants to try to find a use for gallium, a metal which the average layman would classify as a "freak" because it is liquid at normal temperature, can buy it at a special "research" price, according to Dr. Ernest L. Bickerdike, associate professor of chemistry at Santa Barbara College of the University of California.

Despite its unusual characteristics, no specific use has been found for gallium, although its presence has been known since discovery by a Frenchman in 1875.

On a recent sabbatical leave at the University of Michigan, Dr.
Bickerdike engaged in research on this metal under the direction of the eminent analytical chemist, Prof. H. H. Willard. Although he believed he was on the track of finding a new reagent for use in working with the contradictory metal, his research did not come up with an answer to that question:
"What is gallium good for?"

Found in small quantities in some zinc ores and some aluminum ores, the Aluminum Co. of America (Alco) offers it for research purposes at $3.25 a gram, as compared to the normal price of $4.50 a gram.
This would make an amount the size of a nickel come at the "bargain" price of $16.

Anemia in Pigs

Blood studies in horses, which revealed the cause of a fatal type of jaundice in foals, offer a new clue to the prevention of baby pig losses.

Horses belong to blood groups, much as people do, and the mare and the stallion to which she is mated may be of conflicting blood groups. When this happens, the two kinds of blood do not mix as they should during the fetal development of the foal. Anemia and jaundice develop after the newborn foal consumes its dam's milk, which contains the conflicting properties, and death often follows in a few days unless the foal is transferred to a nurse-mare.

It is highly probable that certain types of anemia seen in baby pigs are caused by blood factors which operate in a manner similar to those found in horses.

Where We Get Pepper

Pepper is native to the East Indies. We import most of ours from India and Indonesia, with lesser amounts from various parts all within a 1000-mile radius of Singapore. Pepper vines are trained to climb poles or other supports like a grape vine. Berries appear within two or three years of planting, although the vine does not attain maturity until the age of seven or eight years. When ready for harvesting, the berries look like clusters of red currants. While spread out for drying they change color and shrivel, finally becoming the black wrinkled berry with which we are familiar.

Cabbage Production

In the United States, New York leads in the production of cabbage for both fresh and sauerkraut markets. Texas and Florida, with winter crops are close competitors in the fresh market. Wisconsin rates second in the output for sauerkraut.
Cabbage—whose name is an Anglicized form of the French word
"caboche" (head)—is a member of the Brassica family which includes such diversified types as Brussels sprouts, cauliflower, kale, broccoli, turnip and rutabaga. It is generally classified in terms of head shape and comes in three colors—green, white and red (mag-enta to purplish).
