Clifford Cook Writes
From Pvt. Clifford Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Asa Cook, Juliaetta, comes the following letter, written under date of Oct. 28, from Fort Ord, Calif.:
Dear Bill — I'm writing to let you know that I'm going to have a pretty frequent change of address within the next month or so, and it would probably be a good idea if you would hold off sending it until I get another real address.
I'm shipping to Europe (that's all I know now) and will be going through various processing stations, etc. It will probably be about a month before I get a permanent address.
I am to be attached to the Air Force as a cook. (The army furnishes all or most of the cooks for the Air Force).
I have been meaning to write and thank you for the paper before, but just kept putting it off. I have really enjoyed getting the paper every week and will be looking forward to receiving it again. Sincerely, Clifford Cook.

Hob-Goblins Make Merry
Saturday evening was the Hob-Goblin parade, and it easily captured the interest of most of the small fry in town, and the fun hour in the Community church basement following, also proved very popular.
First prize winners were as follows:

The spookiest costume, Elsie Baker.
The prettiest costume, Julian Wagner.
The craziest costume, Jon Bogar.
Ugliest costume, Ralph Lee.
Games and refreshments were enjoyed by a large crowd of children and mothers during the evening.

The groom-to-be is well known here, having been born and reared near Leland. He graduated from K. H. S., and served two years with the Armed Forces in Germany.

V. F. W. Auxiliary Meets
Oct. 28 — A joint meeting of Baker-Lind Auxiliary and All American Auxiliary, Lapwai, was held in the Fraternal Temple at 8:00 p. m. Blanche Loewen, Department President of the V. F. W. Auxiliary was making her official visit.
Following the regular business meeting Mrs. Loewen gave a very interesting talk. Some of the points brought out were: Of the 7,000 Auxiliaries in the country, only 38 were in Idaho. These Auxiliaries work on 16 different projects, among them Civil Defense, Community Service, hospital, cancer, National Home, youth activities, and two new ones — Cerebral Palsy and Aid to Education of Korean children. There is some project to interest any woman.
There are 150 children in the National Home at present, and room for more. The children live in houses, called "cottages," with a house mother and from five to eight children. The girls are trained to do all the usual household chores and the boys work on the farm, which provides a great variety of jobs. There are both dairy and beef cattle, small grains, orchards and like divisions.
Last year 36,452 women of the Auxiliary volunteered to work in the V. A. hospitals of this nation. They gave a total of hours equal to 71 years.
Community service projects are many and varied. The reasons we have so many projects was neatly summed up by our Past National Council member, Wally Taylor: "The service we do is the rent we pay for the space we occupy in this world."
Each auxiliary is urged to educate one Korean child this year. It sounds like a lot, and when multiplied by 7,000 it is. The cost, however, is but $4.00 per year, per child.
Following Mrs. Loewen's address the remainder of the evening was spent visiting over coffee and other refreshments.

Word From John (Mac) McDonald

Word was received last week by Rudy Nelson from John (Mac) McDonald, who disappeared from Kendrick some six weeks ago, from Seattle.
Mr. McDonald offered no reason for his abrupt disappearance, which left friends greatly worried, but simply asked that a pay check due him from the Lewis Mill, at Kendrick, be forwarded to him, at General Delivery, Seattle, Washington.
This letter, of course, brings to a halt the search instigated by friends, particularly Mr. Nelson and Dick Cuddy.
We understand Mr. McDonald said nothing about returning here, or future plans.

Latah County Remains Republican

Latah County remained traditionally Republican in Tuesday's election, with only two out of 12 county offices won by Democrats. However, Latah voters gave victories to three Democrats — Gracie Pfof, Ira H. Masters and Nell M. Robinson — in seven contested state offices.
The greatest upset, according to unofficial returns from all 26 precincts, was the victory of Democrat Orval M. Snow over long-time incumbent Rudolph E. Nordby for county commissioner in the second district. Snow won by only 39 votes, polling 3,415 to Nordby's 3,376. The office victorious Democrat for county commissioner was James Broyles, opposing E. B. Spencer for county commissioner.
William E. Swope, Democrat, defeated C. L. Woodward by a narrow margin of 100 votes for probate judge and Mrs. Pfof, incumbent, received only 160 more votes than her Republican opponent, Erwin Schwiebert, for First District congress seat.
Here is the unofficial tabulation of results in Latah County, with the Republicans listed first.

SHORT NEWS ITEMS FROM OUR LOCAL SCHOOLHOUSE

Kendrick Defeats Troy 22-19
A safety provided Kendrick most of its margin in a 22-19 victory over Troy Friday night under the lights, in Second District Eight-Man League prep football.
Troy was kicking from its own end zone in the third period and the ball landed behind the punter.
Troy moved out of a 13-13 half-time deadlock when Roy White scored from 20 yards out. The point try failed. Kendrick went ahead on a 70-yard kickoff return by Roger Christensen, and Jim Armitage went over for a decisive point.
Armitage had scored in the first period and Christensen passed 20 yards to Glen Wegner in the second. First-half Troy scores were on a ten-yard run by White and a 20-yard scoot by Kenny Brocke. Troy reached the Kendrick five in the fourth, but fumbled that chance away, and the game ended with Troy again threatening, this time from the three.
The win moved Kendrick into second place in standings.

Hold Halloween Dance
The High School Pep Club held a Halloween dance in the high school gymnasium last Saturday evening from 9:00 to 11:00. The gym was very appropriately decorated in the Halloween theme. About 100 students and a few alumni appeared to have a very enjoyable evening.
Southwick Parents' Night Postponed
Due to the remodeling work at the Southwick school this week, the originally scheduled "Parents' Night" will have to be postponed to some date to be announced in the future.
Examinations Given
Last week the Junior and Senior High School students were working overtime preparing for and taking nine-week examinations. This week the teachers are working overtime, correcting papers, running grade scales and getting grades on the brand new report cards. The cards are supposed to be ready to hand out this Friday.

Hot Lunch
According to the figures compiled for the month of September, the Hot Lunch program in the three schools served 5,749 meals at a cost of $1,765.39, or approximately 30.7c per meal.
The reports for October are not complete as yet, but the number of meals should show an increase and the cost per meal should be down.
Parents' Night
Parents' Night for the Junior and Senior High school will be Friday evening, Nov. 12, and for the Juliaetta Elementary, Nov. 8th.
Crowned Homecoming Queen
Karen Nelson, Kendrick High School sophomore, was crowned "Homecoming Queen" by Glen Wegner, student body president, at the Halloween party in the gym, Saturday night. She was also presented a bracelet.
Princesses were Sue Tacker, Paige Craig, Patsy Cuddy and Donna Plasting.

Halloween Very Quiet
Halloween this year was one of the quietest ever seen in Kendrick. True, there were some tipped-over wood piles, garbage cans carried away, meter box lids missing, and tin cans and paper strewn about the streets, but the Halloween children's parade given by the Community church Saturday evening, and the high school dance that same evening evidently took the desire for real pranks away — much to the relief of townspeople.
Of course there were "trick or treat" youngsters out both Saturday and Sunday evenings, but that is an expected part of Halloween.
The only true vandalism occurred at the Tom Long home in the west part of town, where the porch pillars of the house were painted with black paint, and obscene words lettered on their sidewalk in red paint. Paint remover, lye, and lots of elbow grease were required to remove the vandals' work. It is the first time in many years that anything of this kind has occurred in Kendrick, and the Long family is at a loss to account for it.

He Can Strum In Peace Again

Ex-senator Glen Taylor, who seems to claim Idaho as his home only when a campaign year looms — went down to resounding defeat at the polls last Tuesday — and now can take his banjo and go back to California or where ever it was he came from, and strum it to his hearts content — in peace and quiet.

It seems Mr. Taylor claims he was the victim of a "vicious smear campaign" at the hands of Mat Cevetic, Sen. Herman Welker, and others. Oh, well, "truth will out!"

Enjoy Hallowe'en Party

Frances Rowden and Diane Bencoter entertained twelve friends at a Hallowe'en party Wednesday evening of last week in the Rowden home. Dancing, fortune telling and games furnished the entertainment, and cider and doughnuts the refreshments.

Those present were Doris Wilson, Sandra Peters, Patty Corkill, Janice Foster, Diane Bencoter, Frances Rowden, Gene Foster, Monte Andrews, Wesley Andrews, Gary Browning, Rayner Havens, Jerry Armitage and Raymond Lockett.

Local Boy Weds

Teddy Fey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Fey, Kendrick, took Jean Ingerson of Redmond, Wash., for his bride, Saturday evening at 8:00 o'clock in the home of his sister, Mrs. Neal Talbet and family, Lewiston.

The simple but impressive service was witnessed also by Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Fey of Lewiston.

Further details are lacking at this time.

Idaho Blood Drive Success

U. of I. — The University of Idaho's annual blood drive was termed a success by Dale Carlisle of Walla Walla, publicity chairman, who estimates that about 65 or 70 percent of the eligible students contributed during the four-day campaign.

The 1,334 pints given by the students failed to meet their goal of 2,000 pints. "But we're pleased with the result, and we hope to break our own national record next year," Carlisle said.

The publicity chairman said that Idaho holds the national collegiate record of 1,608 pints given by students two years ago. "We'll probably challenge a few schools to beat our 1,334 pints this year," he added.

Some men are well-to-do because others found them hard to do.

After their study of "Returned Deaconesses Pension Fund, U. S. A." "Need of Schools," "Missionary Residences," "A Mobile Dispensary and Equipment for Health Centers in India and Pakistan," the Society took a self-denial offering, and they voted to make up enough out of the general treasury to make it a contribution of $100.00 to go to these various places as needed for this type of missionary work.

At this same meeting the Society went on record as being 100 percent in favor of Initiative 194, that will come up at the Nov. 2 election in Washington State. This initiative will restrict the advertising of alcoholic beverages over television.

Quonset-Type Huts Meet Storage Needs

'Little Business' Answers Challenge in Grain Belt

Called upon by the department of agriculture to perform a modern miracle, "little business" in 10 midwestern states is tackling one of the biggest jobs of its kind ever undertaken anywhere in peacetime. Its Herculean assignment is the site preparation and erection of 2,300 steel buildings—each 32x96 feet or larger—at 670 widely separated locations.

The task arose with the grain belt's acute need for space in which to store the record-breaking carry-over of 1948's corn crop. In line with the trend toward economical "horizontal" grain storage, the department ordered Quonset buildings for a large part of the necessary new facilities. These arched steel units now are mushrooming up beside highways and railroads near farm centers through the efforts of local businesses and labor, rather than the work of transient crews employed by a few big and distant contracting firms.

Within two weeks time more than 1,100 concrete foundations had been laid, and erection of steel was under way on them in every state. The concrete work alone was roughly equivalent to laying 25 miles of highway in a time that an average road-making crew would require to put down one.

Sweat Down Costs

Sweat down your production costs if you want to maintain profits in these days of declining farm prices.

One way to sweat down those costs is to increase your crop yields per acre. More bushels of corn and grain per acre, more pounds of meat, milk, dairy products and poultry mean lower production costs per unit. On such a basis you can make a profit even if prices slacken further.

You can get those higher yields and lower costs with good soil management. Good soil management means giving your soil a fair deal. It means supplying the soil a well-balanced ration of plant foods, so crops will be well nourished. It means building up instead of breaking down soil structure and tilth. It means "recharging" the land with soil-enriching crops at regular intervals, instead of growing soil-draining row crops year after year on the same land.

Dangers of Butchering At Home are Outlined

Home butchering is profitable on the farm and many rural families are replenishing their lockers, jars and pantries.

But, unless undue caution is used, home butchering can be dangerous.

Equipment, too, should be used with care. All knives should be kept in a suitable place when not in use. Hoisting equipment should be checked. A tamper should be used to force meat into the grinder.

Attention to Details Pays Off for Hog Farms

Attention to details is the biggest reason why some hog farms earned $2,000 more than some others during the past year.

F. J. Reiss, farm management specialist in the Illinois college of agriculture, said that 128 high-income hog farms averaged $10,200 earnings from swine last year, while 161 less-efficient farms took in only $8,000. Extra care at farrowing, control of parasites, helped.

Trees Die in Winter, Too, Without the Proper Care

Trees die in winter just as they do in spring and summer.

They can be killed by drought and storms, by insects and diseases, by man's indifference and neglect, says Dr. Rush P. Marshall, director of the Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories.

Death may not be sudden. Next spring the trees may try to leaf out, then collapse and die within a matter of weeks.

Deciduous trees which appear to "sleep" in winter must take up a certain amount of soil water to replenish that lost by evaporation under high drying winds. Evergreens and pines which do not shed their leaves need an even greater amount. Unless trees go into winter with sufficient water around their roots before the ground freezes, injury or even death by drought may result.

Wind, ice and snow storms take a toll of trees in winter, toppling them over, or breaking branches and limbs. If a tree is conditioned properly by pruning out dead and dying wood, by cabling and bracing weak crotches and limbs, storm damage can be held to a minimum.

Not all insects are dormant in winter. Bark beetles often crawl from the thick bark to the cambium layer on mild winter days and girdle a tree as they feed. Elm bark beetles that carry Dutch elm disease present double trouble. For the fungus they carry builds up in the sap stream, and even in winter there is a certain pulsating of the sap that will send the disease further into a tree.

It is just as harmful to disturb a tree's roots in the winter as in summer. Trees are frequently killed in winter by a careless bulldozer used in construction or by roots mangled when a water main is laid or a sidewalk and driveway put in. Trucks and autos that bash into trees in winter can loosen or scrape off the bark as effectively as in the summer.

Death even for trees takes no holiday. Yet your tree needn't die any time of the year if you give it proper care.

Early Iron Men Served Country in Many Fields

The brothers Curtis and Peter Grubb, owners of Pennsylvania's historic Cornwall blast furnace during the Revolutionary War, not only made cannon but also test fired them and probably used them against the enemy while serving actively as colonels in the field. In addition, they manufactured stoves and supplied the equipment to support a war emergency salt industry, doing all these things with a furnace which produced 24 tons of iron a week.

The outbreak of hostilities cut off the salt supply of the United States and seriously affected the salting of meat and curing of fish for both military and civilian use. Colonel Curtis Grubb told the Council of Safety that he was prepared to cast the iron salt pans for making salt from sea water on the Jersey coast, but asked the army to release his manager, founder, carpenter and colliers from military service so that he could do it. The men were released to him immediately.

Cannon manufacture was a necessary innovation in this country; so much so that Generals Washington and La Fayette visited Cornwall furnace to watch the casting of the first 24 cannons ordered for the Continental Army. Early guns made at Cornwall showed lack of experience, for an official letter complained that they were too heavy and costly.

Cornwall furnace was built in 1742, and for many years thereafter was called "the hub of the iron trade." The famous Cornwall iron ores have been mined continuously for more than 200 years, the longest record of operations in the country.

Seeing Babies

For the first four months of life an infant has no effective vision but sees the world as more or less of a blur. Then eyesight starts its development at an incredibly low level which an ophthalmic specialist would rate as 20/2400. This means that the baby can only see at a distance of 20 feet objects which normal mature eyes can see at 2400 feet, or nearly half a mile. By the end of the first year the child's vision has improved to 20/130, which would indicate extremely bad acuity in an adult. Not until the fifth or sixth year is a level of 20/40 attained. During all this time the child is learning not only how to see clearly, but how to see single instead of double. Some time between the sixth month and the end of the second year binocular single vision develops, whereby the separate images formed in the two eyes are fused into one in the brain.

Revealing Facts

Publication of the newest Army history book, "Washington Command Post: The Operations Division," brings to light the complicated task of the military staff that planned and directed the first worldwide military operations. The book, seventh to be published in the "U. S. Army in World War II" series, is a part of nearly 100 contemplated volumes covering all aspects of the war.

Mulching Will Not Prevent Freezing Leaves, Grass, Straw Are Good Materials

Even though many gardeners have used mulches for years and are aware of its value, they are not sure of their reasons for mulching. It is not to prevent plants from freezing, as often thought, but to prevent quick freezing and thawing.

It prevents drying out of plant tissues, and freezing and thawing from heaving plants out of the ground. It also prevents plant development too early in the spring when buds might be harmed by late frost.

The gardener looking for mulching materials could try leaves when available in quantity. They are satisfactory for perennials borders and beds, rock gardens and around evergreens and shrubs.

Mulching is nature's way of providing plant protection. Leaves, grass, straw, peat moss and ground corn cobs are all good mulching material.

Straw is another good material, especially good for strawberry beds. Oat straw is preferred over wheat and others.

Peat Moss is often used and does an excellent job of preventing temperature fluctuations, but has a tendency to crust on top. Grass clippings are good, too, if available in large quantity.

Ground corn cobs have recently come into use as a mulch, especially for roses. This material is reported to also improve the soil by stimulating the growth of microorganisms.

200-240 Pound Hogs Will Bring the Best Price

According to livestock specialists, both underfinished and overfinished hogs are likely to sell at larger-than-usual discounts this fall.

The 1951 pig crop of about 105 million head is the second largest on record, and there no longer is the strong world demand for fats and oils of a year ago. So there will be more fats available and possibly a weaker lard market.

As a result this will mean more price differential for type in live hogs. Hogs that are too heavy or too fat will probably have to take a larger discount than last year.

Specialists believe farmers should feed out hogs now under 180 pounds. Discounts on lightweights are such that farmers can hardly afford not to feed them out.

With so many hogs starting to market, packers can be rather choosy about the type of hog for which they pay top prices. Both underfinished and overfinished animals will sell at a disadvantage. Try to sell as many as possible between 200 and 240 pounds.

Filling Up

Restored pens of the Kansas City stockyards begin to fill up as cattle flow in again after the great flood. More than 20 feet of flood water covered this area. The job of rehabilitation has been hailed as an outstanding feat by livestock men throughout the midwest.

Cattle Grubs Cause Big Meat and Hide Losses

Not less than 12 million pounds of the most valuable part of the beef carcass are trimmed out around grub holes from cattle slaughtered in the U. S., according to livestock specialists. The trimming detracts from the carcass' appearance, resulting in a lower price per pound. It has also been estimated that grubs cause $20 million damage to hides each year, enough to make a million shoes.

Oldest Living Thing in U. S. Has Rival in Olive Tree

Thousands of years from now California may boast of possessing two types of trees that were growing here in the 20th century. One of these is the Sequoia, or giant redwood, a few species of which already have grown in the Golden State for over 4,000 years. The other is the olive tree, a comparative newcomer to the U.S.

The olive tree, although estimated to have lived in Mediterranean countries for periods of time equal to that of the Sequoia, did not join this other ancient perennial in California until about 1769. It was in that year that Franciscan padres planted the first olive tree cuttings around their missions.

The modest efforts of these religious men to provide a little shade became the basis of an industry which, according to the California Olive Association, now nets some 2,200 growers in the U.S. about $10,000,000 annually.

It was not until the late 1890's that olives were available commercially in this country, even in a limited amount. Then improvements in canning processes and development of the modern type metal container by the American Can Company gave olives a new life in the new world. During the last 60 years the olive orchard "population" has grown steadily from less than 1,000 acres to about 26,000 acres last year. They now produce an annual crop of over 40,000 tons of olives. Of the 25,000 tons sold for canning, 98 per cent go into metal cans, the remainder in glass containers.

The ripe black olive of California, gathered when fully matured, has a rich oil content and is marketed in nine different grades, ranging in size from "standard" to "super-colossal." According to Professor M. E. Jaffa, nutrition specialist at the University of California, the ripe olive has about double the caloric value of the green olive.

Transfusions Through Arteries Said Life-Saving Measure

The rapid transfusion of blood through an artery, instead of through a vein as is usually done, has been described by two Washington surgeons.

Drs. Charles S. White and Donald Stubbs of the Research Foundation, Doctors Hospital, Washington, said the method has been found "safe, practical and life-saving."

Intra-arterial transfusion, they reported, has been found most effective in cases where the heart beat has stopped or has become almost imperceptible following a heavy loss of blood.

"It should be emphasized that this type of transfusion is not a proper substitute for intravenous transfusion except in those cases in which the blood pressure is very low, or cannot be recorded, or in arrest of the heart action from hemorrhage," they said.

"In the latter cases, blood introduced into the veins, even under pressure, has a long route and a slow one to reach the coronary arteries (supplying the heart), even if it could be forced or propelled in some manner through the right chambers of the heart and lung. The most direct route to the coronaries is the arterial highway."

The Washington surgeons said that with blood pressure at zero and no pulse to be felt, circulation was repeatedly restored "in an unbelievably short time." They added:

"It is accepted generally that resuscitation is futile if more than seven minutes elapses after the heart action is arrested, as irreparable damage to the cerebral cells ensues, and if life is maintained the facilities remain permanently damaged. Some remarkable exceptions to this statement have been reported, but usually not well authenticated.

Fire in the Desert

Abadan, an oil city of some 140,000 people, only 40 years ago was a desert island in the sun-baked delta below the junction of the Tigris and Euphrates Rivers. In a great geologic trough beneath the Mesopotamian river basin waited a hidden treasure. It remained for an Australian wildcatter named William Knox D'Arcy to drill 1,180 feet through Iranian limestone and bring in a gusher in 1908.

Wild tribesmen had ridden into Persia thousands of years before and found oozings of gummy black bitumen to fire their lamps and bind the materials of their buildings, tools and weapons. Alexander the Great marched through Persia, his horsemen collecting naphtha and pitch from evil-smelling pools to strike blazing terror among the war elephants of enemies he met later.

Habits

Habits are easily formed, but not nearly as easy to break. According to Professor William James, Harvard psychologist, it is not enough just to decide to break a habit—one must decide wholeheartedly and not let a single exception occur. Habits should be broken off abruptly, and not gradually. Taking sleeping pills in a dangerous habit as well as an unnecessary one. Good bedding is all that's needed for sound, restful sleep as long as there are no physical ailments.

Who Will Win?

Who will win the elections Nov. 2, in Idaho?

We hope it will be the citizens of Idaho who till our fields, mine our ores, run our banks and stores, log our timber — in short, the men and women upon whom the state depends for new wealth, growth and continued prosperity.

There is evidence that far too many people fail to realize that what happens on Nov. 2nd will vitally affect them the first week in January of next year, when the newly elected officials take office.

Unless these people inform themselves about the qualifications of the candidates and find out what they actually can do when they get into office, as opposed to what they are promising to do, the citizens of Idaho will lose the election and the successful candidates will be the only winners in the entire deal.

Ask yourself these questions before you put an "X" in front of a candidate's name on the ballot:

"Would I hire this person to hold a position in my private business? What is his past record which qualifies him to fill this office?"

"Will this candidate depend only on partisan political advisors to steer the course of state or federal government during his term of office? Would I hire such men to advise me on important policy matters?"

The business of government is big business. It is the taxpayer's business. The dollars government spends are your dollars.

The substantial men and women of Idaho must realize that their own personal interests — which they are entitled to protect, require that competent, responsible candidates are elected to office. Think of these facts before you vote, and remember that the only sure way to prevent a tragic miscarriage of representative government is to see that you, your employees and all other responsible citizens vote.

Bean Growth Not Restricted

Moscow, Idaho (Oct. 25) — Several farmers from the Kendrick locality have addressed inquiries recently to the Production and Marketing Administration Committee of Latah County, as to how many acres can be used for dry, edible beans, and according to the information we had at that time, they could grow only the average of 1952 and 1953 crops of dry edible beans. However, today, we received word from our state office in Boise, that dry edible beans have been removed from the list of limited acreage crops. The official word follows:

"The chairman of the Latah County ASC Committee advises that he has just received word from the State Office in Boise, that dry, edible beans have been removed from the list of limited acreage crops."

Aerial Crop-Control Is Booming Industry

25,000,000 Acres Were Treated in U.S.

A midwest wheat tract was so overrun with weeds that the farmer was about to plow it under. He decided, however, to try treating it with 2,4-D and hired an aerial crop-control specialist to apply the chemical at a cost of $2 an acre. The result: at yield of 20 bushels of grain per acre.

Other instances: Aerial spraying of weed-killing chemicals enabled a southern cotton planter to cut hoeing costs from $14 to $6.50 an acre while a California citrus grower improved his lemon crop by spraying his orchards from the air.

Agricultural aviation is a booming new industry that is enabling the farmer to substantially increase crop acreage, I. J. Bechel, agricultural research director for the Freeport Sulphur Company, reports.

The above photograph shows aerial dusting of an orchard. This method of insect control is becoming more popular with farmers throughout the country.

Bechel pointed out that more than 25,000,000 acres of U.S. crop, range and forest land were treated last year with chemicals sprayed or dusted by airplane.

Some 6,000 pilots are engaged in the aerial battle against insect pests, weeds and plant diseases. And they are doing the job faster, more efficiently and in many instances at lower cost than ground distribution of insecticides, fungicides and herbicides.

Store Unused Tractors Under Shelter in Winter

If you want to ruin your tractor in a hurry, just let it sit outdoors, exposed to the weather, this winter.

Farm machinery specialists say no amount of tough use will wear out your tractor as fast as leaving it out in the rain and snow.

Tractors are fairly expensive and may be hard to get. So, if you're not going to use your machine this winter, it will pay you well to find storage space for it in some building.

Clean the machine thoroughly, especially the motor, and then store it in a dry protected place.

Block up the tractor to take the weight off the tires. Then drain the radiator, block, gas tank, fuel lines and carburetor. Put fresh oil in the crankcase and add a rust inhibitor.

Most important of all, remove the spark plugs and pour one-fourth cut of light oil or kerosene in each cylinder. Then turn the crank a few times to work the oil around the rings and pistons, and replace plugs. Cover the exhaust pipe and crankcase breather pipe with old rags to keep out dirt and moisture.

Rodent Proof

If wire mesh is applied to joining sections of a poultry house, it will help keep the building free of rodents. The mesh is applied at the floor and ceiling line as shown in the above illustration and should be well nailed.

Farmers Are Advised To Store Fertilizer

Farmers are still being advised to buy and store sufficient chemical fertilizer to meet their needs during the next 12 months. The supply is expected to be somewhat limited. Be sure it is stored in a dry place where there is little temperature variation, don't pile it any higher than five or six bags, and never pile it on the ground or even a concrete floor—the ideal storage place is an elevated wooden platform.

Published Weekly by the Union Oil Service at Kendrick
W. L. "Bill" Rogers, Editor

HELLO, FOLKS:

Well, Hallowe'en has come and gone — and we got quite a bit of exercise out of repelling the old tires that we replaced with those wonderful U. S. Royals on cars, pickups, and trucks throughout this area; and rolling the empty barrels back into place — barrels that once contained those famous Union Lubricants — including "Royal Triton" Motor Oil.

Frankly, we didn't realize we had sold so many tires, or had that many empty barrels on hand. It reminded us to order more to be sure we could meet your winter demands.

City Soldier: "How many kinds of milk are there?"
Farmer Army Buddy: "Why there's raw milk, condensed milk, dried milk, and lots of others. What d'ya want to know for?"

City Soldier: "Well, I'm drawing a picture of a cow for my kid sis, and I want to know how many faucets you put on her!"

Is your car ready for winter? Are the hoses good, do you have anti-freeze in the radiator? Do you have the proper motor oil? If not, then bring it in to us. We specialize in "winterizing" your car, pickup, or truck.

Wife (on the phone): "Darling, I'm afraid your dinner will be a little burned tonight!"
Husband: "Don't tell me they had a fire at the delicatessen!"

Let us wash, grease, clean and service your car, truck, or pickup. We're specialists in that sort of work.
