INTERESTING NEWS NOTES FROM THE SOUTHWICK AREA

Homemakers Club

The Southwick Homemakers Club met last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Ruth Geidi, with Ruth Armitage as co-hostess, in the absence of Christina Cuddy. The lovely dinner, served family style at noon, honored Italy. In the afternoon the business session was taken up mainly in a demonstration by Alma Betts, assisted by Viola Martin and Rose Betts on "Aluminum Etching," and plans were made to do etching work at the next meeting, with several members making traps.

The next meeting will be at the Lois Thornton home, with Alma Betts as co-hostess.

Plans are going forward for the "Husbands' Dinner," which will be served Dec. 17, at the Ladies Aid hall.

Christmas Programs

The Southwick School will present their annual Christmas program on Dec. 21, at the school house.

The Southwick Community Church children are already practicing on their Christmas program, which promises to be a very interesting one.

Parents' Night

Parents' Night was held last Tuesday evening, with but a small group of parents present — much to the loss of those who failed to attend. This was a very interesting and informative meeting, and showed that our children are really getting the best of instruction, regardless of the lack of many facilities which would make it much more convenient and easy for both pupils and teachers. We owe a vote of thanks to the teachers for the great interest they are taking in some one else's children — and realize it is a dedicated life — and most times very poorly paid.

Town Team Basketball

Town team basketball practice began tentatively last Tuesday evening — but full-time practice is scheduled for Monday, November 29, at 7:30 p. m., and will take place on a steady basis thereafter, says Ross Armitage, manager.

Prospects are excellent this year for a powerful team, what with returning service men, plus local regulars and recent graduates from the High school team.

All who are interested are asked to remember the above date and turn out.

Mr. Ware was born in Kendrick, attended school here and later engaged in logging operations in this area. In 1951 he entered the army, spending two years in Alaska, and received his discharge early this past spring. He has since been engaged in logging operations, and is now at Grangeville.

Lions Club Enjoys Meeting

Thirty-three were counted present for the semi-monthly dinner meeting of the Kendrick Community Lions Club held Wednesday evening of last week in the Fraternal Temple, with the V. F. W. Auxiliary serving the 6:45 dinner.

Following the dinner hour Herb Millard showed a series of pictures he had taken while serving with the army of occupation in Germany.

The pictures covered a wide range of subjects — from war memorials in the Russian zone of Berlin, to scenes in Paris, parades, world-famous church, art galleries, gardens, castles, etc., and the whole was very thoroughly enjoyed.

It is to be regretted that more Lions were not present to see these pictures, and hear Mr. Millard's explanations. He also answered questions about the pictures and situations in the foreign countries with which he was familiar.

An observance of two events will be held next Wednesday evening, Dec. 1 — Ladies' Night and Charter Night — at 6:30 p. m. in the Kendrick Community Church basement, with the W. S. C. S. of that organization serving the banquet. All Lions are urged to be present — with their ladies.

THANKSGIVING

Hail, Thanksgiving, that American institution for taking stock of our blessings. Hail noble bird, brown and crusty, that will be carved on our groaning tables. Hail, family dinner, followed by mutual stupefaction and good will that make all relatives kin. Hail, pie, native to us — the tangy mince and cinnamon pumpkin. Hail, small fry, sitting on the dictionary, coping with the wishbone and drumstick. Hail, grandma and grandpa, to whose house we love to go. Hail, Thanksgiving Thursday, a day looked forward to out of the long year for rest, relaxation and good fellowship. And, Hail to you gentle reader, for whom we are profoundly thankful.

— The McCrearys.

WILMA CLAUDIA MCGAHAN IS BRIDE OF LEON WOLFF

Miss Wilma Claudia McGahan and Leon Wolff were married by candlelight Friday evening at 8:00 in a ceremony of beauty and distinction at the Troy Lutheran Church in Troy, Idaho. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude McGahan of Troy, and the groom a son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wolff, Leland.

The Rev. H. C. Alden officiated at the impressive double ring ceremony in the presence of some 125 friends and relatives.

Tall standards of mums in yellow, white and orchid stood by the altar with candelabra and tall white tapers in the background. White satin bows marked the pews.

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, the bride was beautiful in a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace. The bodice was designed with an allusion of many petticoats. Her and the sleeves were long and tapered. The bouffant skirt was fashioned with three flounces over satin and gave an illusion of many petticoats. Her illusion finger-tip veil was fastened to a head band studded with pearls. She carried a white prayer book topped with a lavender orchid and cascading streamers tied with stephanotis and red baby roses.

The bridal attendants were dressed alike in full skirted frocks of taffeta with over skirts of net, in ballerina length and colors of amber, violet and flame. They carried irregular bouquets of fugli mums in colors complementing their dresses. All wore little matching hats.

Mrs. Kathryn McGahan, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Joyce McGahan, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Erlene Drake of Yakima, who was a classmate of the bride.

Candlelighters, both classmates of the bride, were Peggy Brink of Moscow and Bette Lounsbury of Yakima, and wore identical gowns of green taffeta. Little Janet Smith, in a pale green taffeta dress, was flower girl, and wee Marshall McGahan, a nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

The groom was attended by his brother Walter Wolff as best man, and groomsmen were Gerald Halseh and Ernie Heimgartner. Ushers were Dale McGahan, a brother of the bride, and Cecil Erammer. All wore tuxedos with white boutonnières.

Bob Lind, soloist, sang "Oh Promise Me" and "The Lord's Prayer," and was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Hazel Boyd who also played incidental music and the wedding marches.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the church parlors.

The bride's table was centered with a group of small wedding cakes baked in the shape of bells by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Walter Johnson of Moscow, and were decorated with yellow roses and a wreath of simalix. The cake, assisted by Mrs. Albin Berglund, also of Moscow, a great aunt of the bride, who served ice cream. Mrs. Clyde Bohman, another aunt of the bride poured coffee and Mrs. Alfred Severson served the punch. All wore red rose bud corsages.

Mrs. Elaine Campbell and Mrs. Nola Johnson had charge of the gift table, and Mrs. Marilyn Johnson took care of the guest book. All were classmates of the bride.

The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding an embossed maroon taffeta afternoon dress which was complimented with biege accessories.

The groom's mother wore a navy blue lace dress with pink accessories. Both had corsages of pink rose buds.

Mrs. John Bohman, grandmother of the bride was attired in a navy blue dress and her corsage was of white carnations.

The young couple left on a short honeymoon immediately following the reception, and plan to live on a ranch near Leland.

The bride is a graduate of the Troy High school and more recently of the Deaconess School of Nursing in Spokane.

The groom is well known here, having been born and reared near Leland. He graduated from the Kendrick High school and served two years in Germany with the army of occupation, and has lately been associated with his father in farming.

Wonderful Fall Weather

This section has certainly been enjoying the finest of fall weather the past week.

Following what might be termed a "good rain" the sun broke through and several beautiful days followed.

Sunday, here in the canyon, local residents could be seen in shirt sleeves washing cars, cleaning up lawns, and otherwise taking fullest advantage of the warm temperature. It was even dry enough that leaves raked from lawns would burn.

It may be that "winter is on its way," but every warm day cuts down the number of winter ones that may follow.

Auction Sale Is Success

The Juliaetta School Auction sale Friday evening was attended by a crowd that completely filled the gymnasium. The singing of a number by each school grade, under the direction of George Poulos, was very much enjoyed by the audience.

The business houses of Kendrick and Juliaetta, and the people of the community, donated many valuable and useful articles for the sale. Roy Glenn, as auctioneer, kept the audience interested throughout the evening. Sometimes his face appeared to take on the color of the fancy things he had to sell — but he disposed of everything at a good price. Cecil Gruell, assisted by Nora Callison and Nolan Weeks, served as clerks.

The proceeds, to be used for school activities, amounted to $215.00, with practically no overhead. The school officials extend their hearty thanks to all the community for their cooperation in making this a most successful evening.

Christmas Seal Sale Now On

The 48th Annual Christmas Seal Sale opened on Nov. 22nd, and will continue through the month of December. Rev. J. Wesley Miller, Gooding, president of the Idaho Tuberculosis Assn., states:

"Local Tuberculosis Associations throughout the state of Idaho will again conduct independent Seal Sales to raise funds to support their programs for the coming year. Our Associations do not employ professional fund raisers to solicit money," Dr. Miller stated, "so it is not necessary to pay any fees or commissions out of the contributions we receive. Of every dollar that is raised in Idaho, 95c stays in Idaho, and is used to support case-finding activities such as the Mobile Chest X-Ray unit, educational programs and re-habilitation services for the ex-patient. The remaining five cents goes to the National Association for research projects and the production of educational materials."

The people of Idaho can rightfully be proud of the progress that has been made over the past years, he pointed out, but tuberculosis still causes more deaths in Idaho than all other infectious diseases combined.

"We can win over this dread disease if each individual accepts his responsibility," Rev. Miller said. "The Tuberculosis associations know the right steps to take to hasten the day when TB will be eradicated, but its program is necessarily limited by the funds that are available. I feel certain that the citizens of Idaho will give careful consideration to the Christmas Seal letters they'll soon be receiving or have received, and by the generous purchase of Christmas Seals enable us to intensify our efforts aimed at the defeat of tuberculosis."

TWENTY YEARS ADDED TO YOUR LIFE

When we were children, Man's average life span was 46 years. Death from diptheria, pneumonia, influenza, meningitis and small-pox frequently struck down family and friend. Scarlet fever and mastoid infections took their awful toll among the children.

Today, Man looks forward to an average life span of 70 years, and women to 72 years. Despite rising birth rates, children's wards in hospitals are seldom filled. Hospitalization for everyone is brief, and convalescence rapid. Most diseases are treated very effectively in the home with the "wonder drugs" which Pharmacy's research scientists have developed in recent years.

Now for a few dollars, your doctor's prescription brings to you more powerful and effective drugs, greater than were dreamed of a few decades ago. Truly, your prescription is the "biggest bargain" in your home today.

How to Make Home Piano Appear Less Conspicuous

How to make your piano as decorative as it is musical is often a problem in home decorations, points out Mrs. Kate C. Archer, extension specialist in home furnishings, Kansas State college, Manhattan. With the introduction of the new spinet-type pianos much better arrangements are possible, as well as novel ways of placing the old upright models.

"If your upright piano has a beautiful finish and a nice grace of line it is most pleasing with no decorative articles on it," says Mrs. Archer. "If any articles are placed on top of it, they should be low ones. The horizontal picture is best above a piano.

"However, if your upright is quite undistinguished you might consider painting it the same hue as walls, or picking up the background color of the wallpaper. Pianos can be used as space dividers between living and dining rooms or may be placed in an alcove in a bedroom."

Sometimes it is satisfactory to build in a space that fits the piano with wall space on either side given over to radio or record player or book cases. Such a musical group, with chairs placed for easy listening, is a nice solution.

A piano always appears larger when it is against a narrow wall space, particularly between two doors or two windows; when the end is close to an entrance; when it is against the best-lighted or most prominent wall when it is across, or when it stands alone against a long wall without other furniture near it.

'Big Top' Grows Bigger, Circuses Become Scarcer

Are new dangers looming for the high wire walkers of the circus, the daring bareback riders, and death-defying trapeze artists? Yes, say the "big top's" friends, but not in the form of the ever-present risks to individual performers. The fear is that a slow process of attrition may be menacing the circus itself.

A half dozen circuses have closed during the current season. Only 10 are left of the scores which once flourished in the U.S.

America's spangled show of feats and freaks, of wild animals and wistful clowns, has had many ups and downs since it first took to railway wheels more than three quarters of a century ago. Today the paradox of the "Greatest Show on Earth" is that, while numbers dwindle and costs mount, the remaining outfits grow bigger and more spectacular.

Last year the largest of the rolling shows travelled some 19,000 miles, used 32 railroads, and gave 415 performances before nearly 3,500,000 people. It carried motorized caravans of set-up seats, and spread the world's biggest piece of canvas—30,000 square yards of it—in a tent that can now be raised by mechanical stake drivers and tractor power.

Early Railroads

The earliest railroads in the United States were built of wooden rails capped with thin strips, or "straps," of iron to provide a running surface for the wheels. These were called "straprails." Iron rails 18 feet in length were imported from England as early as 1831. The first iron rails of American design were rolled in the United States in 1844. By 1850 most railroads were being built of iron rails. The first Bessemer steel rails manufactured in the United States were rolled at the North Chicago Rolling Mills on May 25, 1865, and by 1880 about 30 per cent of all tracks in the United States were laid with steel rails. At the end of another ten years, 80 per cent of the country's mileage was equipped with steel rails, and by the late 1890's steel had almost completely replaced iron.

It's in the Finish

Simulated pearls are no longer thought of as imitations, but as fashion accessories, acceptable in themselves. The impression of depth and softness in a pearl is the result of light reflections from a multitude of paints within the pearly film, making it impossible to focus on any single layer. In simulated pearls, this effect is conveyed by layers of crystals incorporated in the finish which is applied to plastic and glass beads. The crystals used are guanine or pearl essence crystals. They are obtained from fish scales and are only 40 millionths of an inch in thickness.

Gregorian Calendar

In 1582, Pope Gregory VIII ordained a simple reform. Astronomers showed him that the sun-year is some 11 minutes less than 365 1/4 days. In the course of a dozen Julian centuries, spring's first day had moved forward from March 21 to March 11.

To correct this, Gregory directed that October 4, 1582, be followed by October 15, and that leap-year days be omitted in the last year of each century except years divisible by 400 (as 1600). His reform reduced the annual error to 26 seconds, which will add up to one day by about 4900 A.D.

Fertilizing Important In Balanced Farm Plan

Lime, Fertilizer Pays Off in High Hay Yield

Farmers in every part of the nation are realizing more and more the importance of well-balanced fertilizing programs to build production and soil structure.

Ben Vossen, who farms near Watkins, Minn., believes his investments in lime and fertilizer have done more for his farm than anything in his career.

The results of one of his investments are shown in the above picture. At the right is a run-down field of bluegrass overgrown with buck grass. At the left is a field of oats after the buck grass was sprayed to kill it, grubbed and plowed under.

Farmer Vossen inspects his field of oats. At the right is the field of bluegrass overgrown with buck grass. Fertilizing has turned the oat field into a high producer.

Vossen limed and fertilized the oat field with plant food carrying nitrogen, phosphate and potash before he seeded it. He keeps the field in oats two years, then seeds down to an alfalfa crop. He takes hay and pasture off as long as the stand is productive. He helps lengthen its life by top-dressing regularly with manure.

The use of lime and fertilizer pays off in much bigger hay yields. Vossen reports. He harvested eight tons of hay on two acres that used to produce about one-half ton of timothy.

Total Feed Supply Will Be Higher Than Last Year

With the approach of the 1951-52 feeding season, livestock feeders will be interested to know that the expected total supply of feed grains and concentrates will be greater than last year, according to the bureau of agricultural economics.

The available supply of feed will permit livestock to be fed at about the same rate per unit as last season. The number of animals to be fed, however, is also expected to be greater. An estimated 174 million animals will be on hand as compared with last year's 168-million.

A large acreage and a fair carry-over is expected to provide a larger corn supply. About 4 billion bushels is expected to be available for the 1951-52 season.

The total supply of corn, oats, grain sorghums, and barley for the coming season is estimated to be 127.1 million tons. This compares with last season's total of 125 million tons of grain.

The department reported total crop production may be the second highest in history in 1951.

Tractor Drawbar

A heavy piece of angle iron bolted to the rear of a tractor and extending well beyond the wheels makes harrowing easier fastening the harrow with a long chain hitch, especially when making turns at ends of the field. Bolted to the drawbar it can be removed when not in use.

Iowa Tests Show Value Of Alfalfa for Swine

Everyone knows that alfalfa pasture is good for hogs. But just how good? The Iowa experiment station thought that one way to find out would be to feed one batch of hogs on dry lot; and another on alfalfa.

They found that the biggest value in alfalfa comes from a saving in high-cost protein and mineral supplement. Hogs gained faster on alfalfa.

Thank Practical Eskimos For 'Deep-Freeze' Invention

Thanks to practical Eskimos and a shrewd Yankee fur trader, we are now able to have seasonable fruits and vegetables "fresh" at any time of the year. The quick-freeze pack keeps them fresh.

The Yankee fur trader is Clarence Birdseye of Gloucester, Mass., who still indulges his fancy for adventure in the Far North. While dealing with Arctic Eskimos up the Labrador coast during 1912, he was amazed at the excellent meat and fish they seemed always to have available. The secret was in the quick-freezing of game freshly caught. "Quick-Freeze!" That was the Big Idea he mulled over as he sailed home. Invent a special kind of freezing machine to freeze almost instantly, patent it, make fresh foods available to everyone!

Inspired by this thought, and stimulated by this hope of protection afforded by our patent system, he built his first crude machine, which he called the "Multiplate Quick Freeze." This consisted of a new garbage can of corrugated iron with layers of steel plates between which codfish and rabbit meat were placed. It was supplied with coils that contained salt brine as a refrigerant. Incredible, but true, this unpolished mechanism was the forerunner of our gigantic lockers of today. Encouraged by the success of his invention in food preservation, and the patent protection obtained thereon, Birdseye endeavored to promote his idea.

A skeptical America was not too eager to accept quick-frozen foods, and our inventor, in 1924, after making stabs in both Gloucester and New York, went broke. Unbeaten, his perseverance and ingenuity urged him to try again and, in 1927, after securing a $2,250 loan on his life-insurance policy, and obtaining $375,000 from backers, he again launched into the business. This time it took a year to interest the public sufficiently.

Cretaceous Geological Period Shale Collected in Fresno

More than a ton of shale and mud containing 100-million-year-old fossils, collected in Fresno County, Calif., last summer by Dr. Alfred R. Loeblich, Jr., Smithsonian Institution paleontologist, is being processed at the U.S. National Museum.

The Fresno County locality has one of the thickest known deposits—in some places as much as 25,000 feet—of sediments laid down in the ancient sea bottoms during the Cretaceous geological period, the heyday of the great dinosaurs on land and of the weird swimming reptiles, the plesiosaurs in the sea. The material collected by Dr. Loeblich, however, contains fossils far less conspicuous than these monsters, but in some ways they represent even stranger forms of life. They are minute Foraminifera, or shelled protozoans. Although constituting a very large branch of the Animal Kingdom, the Protozoa are one-celled animals and nearly all are microscopic; the best-known of the living forms are internal parasites which cause some of the most deadly diseases.

Foraminifera are a specialized group of Protozoa that build an external shell, and these shells may be preserved as fossils. During the Cretaceous period, represented by the material collected this summer, many of the more modern shell forms were first developed. These fossil shells are often used by the oil industry to determine the age of geologic strata and thus are of economic importance, as well as being of value to the scientist in showing evolutionary trends.

Although single-celled, such sea creatures may have many chambered shells. As they grow they form new chambers all connected by openings through which the protoplasm of the cell flows. But, however many chambers of this sort are produced, the protoplasm is continuous through all and the animal still remains a single cell.

Looking Back

Haile Selassie's 1,150-man, hand-picked battalion in Korea is a far cry from the desperate army he raised in 1935. Then, as Mussolini's men marched into his land, he issued this draft notice: (1) When this order is received, all men and boys able to carry a spear will go to Addis Ababa. (2) Every married man will bring his wife to cook and wash for him. (3) Every unmarried man will bring any unmarried woman he can find to cook and wash for him. (4) Women with babies, the blind and those too aged and infirm to carry a spear, are excused.

Ptolemaic System

The Ptolemaic System was the ancient concept of the universe, proposed by the Greek astronomer Hipparchus, who lived about 130 B. C. It is named after Claudius Ptolemy, a later astronomer, who popularized it in a famous book known as the Almagest. According to this system, the Earth was fixed at the center of the universe, and the Sun, Moon, planets and stars all revolved around it in varying periods. It has been superseded by the system proposed by Copernicus in 1543, which places the Sun at the center of the Solar System, and has the Earth as one of a number of planets revolving around the Sun.

Duke Psychologist Offers Tips on Cigarette Control

Do you have trouble leading a sane cigarette life? If so, here's a common sense recipe by Dr. Gelolo McHugh, Duke University psychologist, that may help you "use cigarettes instead of being used by them."

"People who have to have cigarettes need psychological help, not scare tactics such as threats of stomach ulcers or lung cancer," Dr. McHugh says. "Swearing off entirely is dangerous, because if you fall once, the next try will be that much harder. Limiting your cigarettes to eight or 10 a day is also risky, because it keeps the thought of smoking uppermost in your mind."

Here are Dr. McHugh's suggestions for cutting down:

1. Set aside an hour or two at the beginning of each day and don't smoke during that period no matter how much you want to. After that, smoke as much as you like for the rest of the day.

2. Don't make your daily no-smoking period longer than you can safely control. Over-ambition sometimes leads to failure.

3. Tell your friends what you're doing. Their interest will help you keep control over your no-smoking period.

"After following this plan for several weeks, smokers often find that their cigarette control is growing stronger," Dr. McHugh said. "Experiments show that smokers who set aside a no-smoking period do not have a tendency to smoke more than usual during the rest of the day to make up for lost time."

"Most important of all, after two or three weeks of controlling part of the day, the smoker begins to find himself smoking a little less during the free period. This means that he is on the way to mastering cigarettes instead of being mastered by them."

Dr. McHugh's suggestions are based on data collected over a period of five years and covering some 600 people.

Shubb Crater 1,325 Ft. Deep, Largest Meteorite Crater

A new champion's official measurements have been announced by the National Geographic Society.

The champion is Chubb Crater, established as the largest of all known meteorite craters in the world as the result of four weeks' research carried on last summer at the crater site in northern Quebec by Dr. Victor Ben Meen, Toronto geologist, and five scientist-associates.

The huge pockmark in the sub-arctic granite has a maximum depth of 1,325 feet, figured from the level of the highest point on its rim. The surface of the lake in the crater bowl is 500 feet below the rim's top level, and the maximum depth of the lake is 825 feet. Diameter of the rim averages 11,500 feet, and its circumference is 6.8 miles.

The depth is thus a few feet less and the rim diameter a few hundred feet more than indicated by preliminary figures dispatched from northern Quebec last August at the time field work was completed. Both dimensions, however, are more than twice the corresponding ones of Arizona's Meteor Crater, long officially recognized as the earth's largest scar known to be due to an earth-meteor collision.

The crater lake averages 9,100 feet in diameter. Its shoreline measures 5.4 miles around.

Dr. Meen, director of Toronto's Royal Ontario Museum of Geology, and Mineralogy, led an expedition to the crater site. With magnetometers, they defined a "magnetic anomaly"—a subsurface mass of iron outlined by its effect on the earth's magnetic force. Such an anomaly is attributed by scientists to meteorite fragments buried deep in the granite rim.

Kinds of Mines

Coal mines are of four kinds, three of them underground. If the mass of coal can be reached horizontally, say from the side of a hill on a level grade straight to the heart of the coal, it is called a Drift Mine. If you have to reach the coal at a perceptible angle, down or up, you have a Slope Mine. To get inside either of these mines, tunnels are made into the sides of the hills. The miners may go to the working areas by "man-trip" cars, which are trains of mine cars pulled by especially designed mine locomotives. If you must ride a cage (mining term for elevator) to reach the coal seam, you are in a Shaft Mine. If the coal lies near the surface of the earth and you can rip it out by huge electrically operated shovels and bulldozers, you have an Open Cut or Surface (sometimes called "Strip") Mine.

Indian Legend

Hiawatha, who is believed by many persons to have been a purely legendary character, really lived about 1450 A. D. The mighty Iroquois chieftain of the Onondago tribe of North American Indians was transformed by legend into a miraculous character with supernatural powers. About 400 years after his death, he was immortalized by Longfellow in "The Song of Hiawatha", an epic poem written after the style of the great Finnish Kalevala.

College Displays Wealth Of Prehistoric Illinoisian

Wealth buried by a prehistoric Illinois resident who may have lived several centuries before Christ now is at the University of Illinois. It consists of 55 pieces of flint, ranging from raw blocks to expertly-fashioned big spear points as finely-formed as any ever found.

The cache was uncovered last year at the Seimer farm near Batchtown in Calhoun county between the Mississippi and Illinois rivers northwest of St. Louis. In this area are many remains of the prehistoric Hopewell or "mound-builder" Indians, whose culture recent radiocarbon research has tentatively dated at 200 to 600 B.C.

The flint was obtained for the university's archeological collections from W. L. Wadlow, amateur archeologist of Dow, Ill., by the Illini Achievement Fund of the University of Illinois Foundation. Through his cooperation, the collection is being kept for research and teaching use in the state where it was found.

Prof John C. McGregor, University of Illinois archeologist, says that the find undoubtedly represents the wealth of an individual. He explains that the blade spear points, several inches long, are far too finely-made to have used for hunting or war, and were more likely a medium of exchange—the "money" of their day.

He suggests that the cache was the treasure of one of the prehistoric Illinois residents of the highly-civilized Hopewells, who left their important dead buried in mounds from the Great Lakes to the Gulf, and from Ohio to Kansas, and of whom much is still to be learned.

Uses Sought for 'Freak' Liquid Metal Gallium

Anyone who wants to try to find a use for gallium, a metal which the average layman would classify as a "freak" because it is liquid at normal temperature, can buy it at a special "research" price, according to Dr. Ernest L. Bickerdike, associate professor of chemistry at Santa Barbara College of the University of California.

Despite its unusual characteristics, no specific use has been found for gallium, although its presence has been known since discovery by a Frenchman in 1875.

On a recent sabbatical leave at the University of Michigan, Dr. Bickerdike engaged in research on this metal under the direction of the eminent analytical chemist, Prof. H. H. Willard. Although he believed he was on the track of finding a new reagent for use in working with the contradictory metal, his research did not come up with an answer to that question: "What is gallium good for?"

Found in small quantities in some zinc ores and some aluminum ores, the Aluminum Co. of America (Alco) offers it for research purposes at $3.25 a gram, as compared to the normal price of $4.50 a gram. This would make an amount the size of a nickel come at the "bargain" price of $16.

Anemia in Pigs

Blood studies in horses, which revealed the cause of a fatal type of jaundice in foals, offer a new clue to the prevention of baby pig losses.

Horses belong to blood groups, much as people do, and the mare and the stallion to which she is mated may be of conflicting blood groups. When this happens, the two kinds of blood do not mix as they should during the fetal development of the foal. Anemia and jaundice develop after the newborn foal consumes its dam's milk, which contains the conflicting properties, and death often follows in a few days unless the foal is transferred to a nurse-mare.

It is highly probable that certain types of anemia seen in baby pigs are caused by blood factors which operate in a manner similar to those found in horses.

Where We Get Pepper

Pepper is native to the East Indies. We import most of ours from India and Indonesia, with lesser amounts from various ports all within a 1000-mile radius of Singapore. Pepper vines are trained to climb poles or other supports like a grape vine. Berries appear within two or three years of planting, although the vine does not attain maturity until the age of seven or eight years. When ready for harvesting, the berries look like clusters of red currants. While spread out for drying they change color and shrivel, finally becoming the black wrinkled berry with which we are familiar.

Cabbage Production

In the United States, New York leads in the production of cabbage for both fresh and sauerkraut markets. Texas and Florida, with winter crops are close competitors in the fresh market. Wisconsin rates second in the output for sauerkraut. Cabbage—whose name is an Anglicized form of the French word "caboche" (head)—is a member of the Brassica family which includes such diversified types as Brussels sprouts, cauliflower, kale, broccoli, turnip and rutabaga. It is generally classified in terms of head shape and comes in three colors—green, white and red (magenta to purplish).

Where Will It All End?

As the new cars, one by one make their appearances for 1955 it will be found that, regardless of make or model, they all have one thing in common—higher horsepower!

In the three so-called low-priced popular lines will be found horsepower ratings of from 123 to 188—power previously found only in the upper and high-priced brackets!

This power naturally gives the new cars, regardless of price range, higher and ever higher speed possibilities. Not so many years ago a speed of 100 miles an hour was something found only on the race tracks or in a "souped up" police car. Today it is commonplace—and light pickups (half-ton models) have been clocked at 80 to 90 miles an hour!

Such a speed range may be nice—but where can you use it? Speed limits range from 40 to 60 miles per hour—and were higher speeds allowed, but few roads are capable of carrying such high-speed traffic, at least in the Pacific Northwest.

Automotive engineers argue that such high power and high speed possibilities add to safety, for when the driver of a modern vehicle starts to pass another, he has the power and speed to complete that passing with a margin of safety. But let's assume the other driver also has modern speed and power under his foot, and is moving at a high rate of speed—what then?

And what of the teen-ager out with the family car—with perhaps 150 to 200 horses and 100-miles-and-up under his or her foot? Can they resist the temptation to "try her out just once?" Or can adults for that matter?

It has also always been our observation over the years, that it takes gasoline to feed horsepower. Wouldn't it have been better to have left car power about where it was, and concentrated on better carburation, better ignition, better valve action to give greater economy in cars already able to cruise at the speed limit day after day and hour after hour easily? We think so.

Whitefish Runs

The Idaho whitefish runs are on or about to begin. Fishermen should check the regulations again as to the waters open, as there are a number of areas that remain open to white fish taking though they are closed to other species. The limit is usually 25, though larger limits are set in some places. A weighted light-colored fly or the usual whitefish baits on an size 12 hook are recommended.

Steelhead Survey
Boise - Steelhead apparently are a lot more important in the Idaho fishing picture than was previously believed. Last season a few fishing questions were added to a rather comprehensive hunting questionnaire, and the answers indicated that 73 percent of Idaho's hunters also fish. Including 9 percent who fish for steelhead. The average seasonal catch for residents in this group was better than two steelhead each, and 43 percent of those who tried for steelhead took at least one. Assuming that the other fishermen are at least as expert as hunters, our statisticians projected these facts to cover the whole fishing population, and came up with a total of 34,278, the estimated steelhead catch for 1953.

Many Game Law Violations
Boise - Various big game counts made up the majority of the October fish and game arrests, as might be expected. Of a total of 191 arrests, 36 were for tagging infractions; 21 for killing big game in closed areas or closed seasons; 19 for wrong class of license; 16 for hunting in the wrong area or taking more than one of a species. A new regulation prohibiting the carrying of rifles on special hunts by anyone except permit holders accounted for 13 arrests, reflecting an unusual degree of public cooperation and acceptance of the regulation which was designed largely as a safety measure.

Logging Trucks Again Rolling
The dry weather of the past few days has permitted resumption of logging operations, at least on a limited scale, and a loaded truck may be seen every now and then heading down Kendrick's Main street.
We understand that most of the smaller mills in this area are rather short of logs, so every load that they get means just that much more employment during the winter months.

Bird Season Now Over
Bird hunting season ended in Idaho at sundown, Sunday, Oct. 21 - and local sportsmen, at least, are all agreed that this was one of the poorest bird seasons in many years.

It seemed, before the season opened, that birds were to be quite plentiful, as many were seen along roads and in the fields. Opening day hunting seemed to bear this out, as quite a number of local nimrods reported bagging the limit - and then the "bottom fell out," and a limit bag was something to brag about.

Chinese pheasant hens seemed to be rather plentiful - but the roosters the legal kill - where were they? Nobody seemed to have the answer. Hale Ebling, state conservation officer, was in the office here Monday morning, and said it was a question to which he and other local conservation officers were also seeking the answer. Mr. Ebling said that it was possible the pheasants, at least in some degree, had changed their habitat, and would later make their reappearance. We hope he is right.

It has long been the local belief that Chinese pheasant roosters are hatched with an automatic built-in calendar - and Roy Glenn swears that to this has been added radar!

HELLO, FOLKS:

Here it is "Turkey Time" and the traffic is heavy — folks going home — folks coming home — and perhaps you are one of them. However, if you had your car serviced here before you started, you know that you are safer for it. It's wonderful to know that your crankcase is full of that wonderful Royal Triton Motor Oil; that your car is lubricated with the proper greases at every point; that your tires carry the proper amount of air; that your radiator is full of Prestone — and all you need to do is drive safely.

The "big" businessman had died and gone to — well, not heaven. Hardly had he settled down for a nice long smoke when a hearty hand slapped him on the back and into his ear boomed the voice of a persistent salesman who had pestered him so much on earth. "Well, Mr. Smith," chortled the salesman. "I'm here for the appointment."

"What appointment?" "Don't you remember? Every time I entered your office on earth you told me you'd see me here!"

How are you fixed for tires? Are you skating on "banana peels?" Come in and see the wonderful new U. S. Royal Mud and Snow models or the world famous U. S. Royal 8. You need one or the other to take you through the winter.

Wife: "It says here that the average person speaks 10,000 words a day."
Long Suffering Hubby: "Yes, dear, but you're far above the average, you know."
