INTERESTING NEWS NOTES FROM THE SOUTHWICK AREA

Martin Family Reunion

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Martin entertained on Saturday for their Thanksgiving dinner, so that all their children could be present. Those enjoying the day were: Mr. and Mrs. Bill Elben and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Tarbet and children, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Martin and son and Mr. and Mrs. Ishmael Martin and daughter, all of Lewiston; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Martin and daughter of Seattle; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Pearson and children of Coeur d'Alene; Mr. and Mrs. Dewey McCallister and children of Spokane; Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Bashaw and children of Grangemont, and Loy Martin.

Missionary

The Southwick Community church Missionary will meet on Friday at the home of Mrs. Rollin Armitage. The business session will be held in the morning. There will be a gift exchange and each one is asked to bring a small gift. Everyone is asked to attend. The study lesson will be held on Wednesday evening, Dec. 8, at Prayer meeting.

The Christmas program for which the children are now practicing will be held on Thursday evening, Dec. 23. There will be a short program on Sunday morning, Dec. 19, but the real program will be the 23rd. The young people attending Bible College from this vicinity plan on being home for the program.

Homemakers Club

The Southwick Homemakers Club will meet Thursday at the home of Mrs. Lois Thornton, with Alma Betts as co-hostess.

Reception and Bridal Shower

Mrs. William Kachlemer and Mrs. Don Cantril entertained on Friday evening at the Ladies Aid hall at a bridal shower and reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne Wright (nee Marge Kazda).

The bride and groom opened and displayed their gifts, for all to admire, assisted by Mrs. Math Kazda, the bride's mother, and Mrs. Wayne Wright, the groom's mother.

The refreshment table was beautifully decorated with a centerpiece consisting of a lovely three-tiered wedding cake. After the bride and groom had cut the first piece, it was cut and served by Mrs. Rollin Armitage. Mrs. Ted Weaver had charge of the punch bowl and Mrs. Ernest Cowger poured coffee.

Best wishes were extended by all to the couple, who plan to make their home in Southwick. Mr. Wright is now employed by Lloyd Farrington. They are at home to their friends in the house recently occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Arlie Armitage.

Crazy Mixed-Up Sweet Peas

Sweet peas blooming in November? That's right! Just a little mixed up due to those warm and sunny days no doubt.

Well, just to prove it, Walton Morey brought in a bouquet picked Monday morning in the yard at the home of his brother, Clarence Morey, on Big Bear ridge. The flowers had fairly long stems, the colors were bright, and fragrance? — like a breath of June. Other vegetation had been nipped by the heavy frost of Sunday night — but not the sweet peas — which were picked by Michael Morey.

SHORT NEWS ITEMS FROM OUR LOCAL SCHOOLS

Listen To Insurance Plan

Monday, Nov. 29, the teachers of the Kendrick school district No. 283, met in the school library where Wayne Olin explained the need for more teachers to join an insurance plan. It is necessary for 75 percent of the teachers of District 283 to join this organization in order to get a cut rate for medical insurance. So far not many teachers belong to this organization.

To Drink More Milk

Due to the Federal Agricultural Act of 1954, students participating in the Hot Lunch program are now allowed all the milk they can drink on the premises. This program became nationwide on Wednesday.

The school district is now paying 4.793c a glass for milk. The district will be paid 4c a glass (1/2-pint) for each glass consumed over that consumed in the same period last year.

At the Juliaetta Grade school, the district officials are considering serving milk at the afternoon recess to all students who want it, whether or not they patronize the Hot Lunch.

In Idaho, $50,000 was appropriated to pay for the extra milk consumed in the state.

This program will help alleviate the milk surplus, and make for healthier students.

Sports

The Kendrick basketball team was hit hard by last spring's graduation, with only two main-squad veterans returning — Jim Armitage, center, and Glen Wegner, guard. Coach Racicot expects a fairly good season but says the boys will have to work very hard to equal last year's record.

There are about 15 boys out for ranking positions on the A squad, and competition for certain positions is going to be hot and heavy because the boys are very evenly matched. The basketball schedule is as follows:

- Dec. 7 — Orofino — there.
- Dec. 14 — Asotin — here.
- Dec. 18 — Grangeville — here.
- Dec. 21 — Troy — there.
- Jan. 4 — Troy — here.
- Jan. 7 — Genesee — there.
- Jan. 11 — Culesac — here.
- Jan. 14 — Nezperce — there.
- Jan. 18 — Orofino — here.
- Jan. 21 — Lapwai — there.
- Jan. 25 — Nezperce — here.
- Jan. 28 — Grangeville — there.
- Feb. 1 — Kamiah — there.
- Feb. 4 — Genesee — here.
- Feb. 8 — Culesac — there.
- Feb. 11 — Elk River — there.
- Feb. 15 — Lapwai — here.

Firemen On A Mission

Don't be alarmed when you see the Fire truck next Wednesday evening roaming about town — for it will be loaded with the Volunteer Firemen, on a mission, says George Brocke, Jr., fire chief.

They will be calling from door to door launching their annual money making event, "The Firemen's Ball," which takes place New Year's Eve.

It must be kept in mind that funds received from this event are used to keep up the fire equipment — and this past year new hose and nozzles had to be purchased. Plans for the coming year call for a kitchen in the Fire hall — plus necessary expenditures for fuel, etc.

The Firemen's hall has been turned into an attractive meeting place at the hands of the Volunteer Firemen — a beautiful tile floor laid, some tables made, and other improvements, to make it comfortable and pleasant. Along this same line of service, they have opened this meeting place to other organizations — the Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, Lions Club, Commercial Club, etc., as Kendrick is lacking a community building.

Soon you will have your chance to show appreciation and support of the group by helping to make their "Ball" a success.

Home Burns To Ground
The Wm. Babb home beyond Southwick, burned to the ground Saturday evening. The family was away at Walla Walla for the week-end and were not at home.

Neighbors noticing the glow in the sky made a dash for the blaze, but arrived too late to save anything but some canned fruit.

It is not known at this time if there was any insurance or not. A new deep freeze and many other valuable pieces of home furnishings were said to have been destroyed.

Cause of the conflagration is still a question — but faulty wiring is probably to blame.

Spray Cattle For Lice
It isn't too late to spray cattle for control of lice.
Even if the weather is wet and cold it is better to get after the lice than to take a chance on losing an animal, in the opinion of the University of Idaho extension service.
E. F. Rinehart, livestock specialist, and Roland Portman, entomologist, recommend thorough drenching with any one of several chemicals. A spray will kill both kinds of lice that attack cattle in Idaho. One type pierces the skin and sucks the blood. The other kind feeds on skin tissues. All lice spend their entire life on animals and are much more numerous in winter.

Progress has been made in reducing the pests, but specialists report a number of severe cases, particularly in the spring, when beef cattle take to the range.
Fall is the ideal time for treatment, the university people agreed, but they reassured stockmen that control measures need not be passed up for another season because of cold weather or housing conditions.
"The spray is no worse than a cold rain," said Rinehart. "Cattle have to put up with storms. They get through them all right. There is no reason why a spray for lice is any harder on them."
A couple of tips were offered. First: Stock can stand cold after a spray better if there is plenty of feed. Second: Let the cattle out into the air right after treatment so they can walk around and get dry. Don't put them in a barn or let them bunch up and get chilled.

Insect specialists suggest that if cattle are infested with sucking lice the spray needs to be applied on the underside and around the head as well as other parts of the body. Those infested with biting lice need to be sprayed only on the back, neck and head. If they have both kinds of lice, they need the full treatment. Rotenone does not kill eggs and has to be applied again in two weeks. Such chemicals as DDT, BHC, lindane, etc., remain active and will kill lice that hatch after a single spray.

Adrenal Gland Plays Role When One Suffers Injuries
Another step forward in better understanding the important role played by the adrenal gland in helping the body recover from injuries has been achieved, a University of Michigan doctor states.
Dr. Jerome W. Conn, an associate professor of internal medicine, reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science on research he has been conducting at the university.
His study has shown that the adrenal gland calls upon a substance in the blood known as cholesterol to help in producing the huge amounts of adrenal hormones needed in prolonged periods of stress which the body undergoes at the time of an injury.
Cholesterol, produced largely by the liver, is the basic compound of adrenal hormones, including cortisone, the hormone found to be beneficial in the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis, Dr. Conn says.
In his experiments, Dr. Conn found the cholesterol content of the adrenal gland could be reduced 70 per cent within three hours by artificial stimulation which produced conditions similar to those created within the body during periods of prolonged stress.
This artificial stimulation was achieved through use of ACTH, the pituitary gland hormone which causes the adrenal gland to produce its hormones.
The effect of this prolonged stimulation of the adrenal gland has important implications for future study of several diseases, including those of the heart, liver and kidney as well as hardening of the arteries, according to Dr. Conn. These diseases are all associated with an unusual production or use of cholesterol.

Strip Cropping Helps Hold Soil in Place
It's Only First Step In Conservation Plan

Strip cropping, an important part of soil conservation, is a good deal like putting a splint on a broken bone. The splint holds the bone in place, but it doesn't knit it. Strip cropping helps hold the soil in place, but it won't rebuild run-down fertility.

The above picture is a beautiful example of strip cropping, but it was not accomplished by mere contour plowing. It was accomplished by sound soil conservation, based on use and treatment of land with all proven, appropriate measures that are needed to keep it permanently productive while in use.

Strip cropping on a field just north of Neillsville, Wis., is a beautiful example of one step toward soil conservation.

Sound conservation means terracing land that needs terracing; contouring, strip cropping, and stubble-mulching the land as needed; along with use of supporting measures of crop rotation, cover and green manure crops and the use of the right commercial fertilizers.

No farmer should undertake a conservation program without expert advice. He should first contact any one of his soil conservation district officers and apply for assistance from his district. If he doesn't know who his officers are, he can locate the address of his district office in the phone book, or he can call his county agent. Districts help only farmers who request their assistance.

Number of U. S. Farms Lowest Since the 1890s

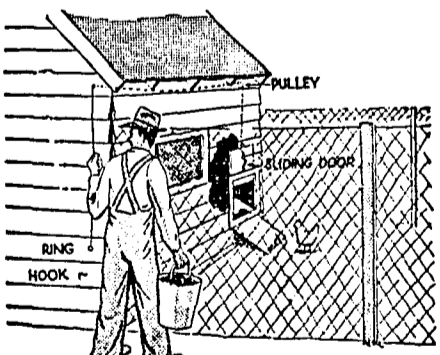

The number of farms in the United States has continued to decline since the end of World War II with the current total the lowest since before the turn of the century.

The department of agriculture reports there were fewer than 5.4 million farms in the country last year. This figure compares with approximately 5.9 million in 1945, and with the peak number of 6.8 million in 1935.

Thus the number of American farms has declined over 1.4 million, or more than a fifth, in the last decade and a half—a period in which land in farms has continued to increase and in which total agricultural production has likewise shown a spectacular increase in aggregate volume of products raised as well as in total market value.

In 1900 there were some 5.7 million farms in the U. S., approximately 350,000 more than at present. A decade before, in 1890, the number of farms was about 4.6 million.

Sliding Door

Poultry raisers can save many a step by a sliding door in poultry houses which can be operated from the outside. A small rope attached to the door by a screw eye runs to the ceiling or roof boards, along the wall, through the side of the chicken house and terminates in a ring. A hook can be attached to the side of the building and thus hold the door open.

Farm Exports Increase 14 Per Cent, Report

The agriculture department reported recently that farm exports increased 14 per cent over the preceding fiscal year. The total was placed at $3,409,245,000. Cotton exports led the group in 1950-51 with a total of $935,332,000, the second highest in 26 years. Wheat and wheat flour ranked second in value at $747,570,000, up 9 per cent over the $683,229,000 the preceding fiscal year.

Wool Scarce; Give Blankets Extra Care for Longer Life

Treat your wool blankets with the gentle care that precious possessions deserve. Textile scientists of the U. S. department of agriculture have pointed out that U. S. production of wool this year is one of the lowest on record.

Frequent airing of blankets in use not only is good sanitary practice but helps them last longer and hold their fluffy warmth and comfort. When a blanket is thrown back loosely so fresh air reaches both sides, the wool has a chance to get back its natural springiness which makes for warmth. But care should be taken not to throw a blanket over anything sharp, such as a peaked bedpost, which may pierce or pull it, or on anything that may stain it. Loose bed springs, sharp metal corners or even roughened wood may also catch and tear blankets or other bedding.

For best service and comfort blankets should be large enough to come up well over shoulders and still tuck firmly in the bottom of the bed. Short blankets often wear out early because they take so much pulling and strain.

A blanket stays clean longer if the bed is made so that the sheet turns back over the top of the blanket 8 to 12 inches. If the sheet is too short, a strip of cloth, basted over the top or the full length of the blanket, is good protection against soiling the wool. A covering over the blanket, or even a third sheet used on top, gives added warmth because it holds still air in the fluffy wool.

For Pig Protection

A pair of clean rubber boots is worth more than any medicine in protecting pigs from a fatal intestinal disease called transmissible gastroenteritis. Best means of controlling it is to move healthy pigs as far away as possible from the sick ones. Many farmers do this, a veterinary medical bulletin points out, but they overlook the fact that their shoes can spread the infection. Attendants who have walked through infected hog quarters should put on a pair of clean boots before entering healthy quarters, the bulletin cautions. The disease, believed to be caused by a virus, is marked by severe diarrhea, vomiting, and rapid loss of weight. Young pigs are hit hardest, with death losses sometimes running as high as 90 per cent.

Finishes Pre-Tested

The term "industrial-finishes" is applied to the finishes used by manufacturers to enhance their products. Before being applied, they are subjected to many special tests based upon the kind of usage to which the article may be subjected. For example, in addition to tests for adhesion, and hardness, finishes for refrigerators, stoves and kitchen cabinets are tested for their resistance to various foods, such as lemon juice, butter, lard and vinegar—as well as to various cleaning materials.

Wooden, Aluminum, Ladders

The rung of a wooden ladder will bend downward about one-sixth of an inch for a 150-pound person stepping on its center. An aluminum ladder is constructed so that the deflection is much less. If it were built like the wooden ladder, the deflection of the aluminum rung would be about a ninth as much as for the wooden rung under similar conditions. This is because aluminum is nine times as rigid as wood (white oak).

HOW TO MAKE MULTI-COLORED LOGS

Your Handy Helpful Hardware Man suggests:

Yule logs that burn with a beautiful, multi-colored flame add a novel touch to holiday gatherings around the fireplace. The logs are made by soaking tightly rolled newspapers in a strong solution of salt, blue vitriol (copper sulphate) and water. After the rolls have soaked for a week in a wooden barrel or large earthenware crock and dried thoroughly, they will burn for a time with flames of various colors. CAUTION: The solution is poisonous.

Man-Made Light Moves Ahead By New Inventions

There is nothing to show that our anthropoid ancestors used candles to find their way around among the trees after dark, but there is ample evidence that the hairy cave man used fire to scare away prowling beasts.

Man-made illumination has come a long way since those remote days. By far the greatest strides have come in the past 75 years—greater progress than through all the thousands of years before. From the cave man's torch to electric light, the flame was the only source of illumination.

Within recent weeks, a new source of artificial light has been announced wherein electricity appears to serve merely as a match to light a wick. Powdered phosphor on a sheet of glass emits a mellow glow of its own under electric impulse. Your house of tomorrow may have these panels installed in walls and ceilings. It is claimed the cost of maintenance will be so low that the only need for switches will be to turn lights off when you want darkness. Clockfaces, stair risers and other incidentals will be permanently connected.

With this revolutionary development in man-made light comes wonder as to how it all started. Archaeologists have concluded among the earliest to whom the cave man passed his flaming torch were the ancient dwellers of Mesopotamia where lamps, fashioned from terra cotta, were found to have been used during 7000-8000 B.C. Copper and bronze lamps were used by the Persians and Egyptians in 2700 B.C. Homer described a "Festival of Lamps" in 950 B.C. The Romans were using lanterns a century before Christ.

The candlesticks of Biblical times and the lamps of the vestal virgins used animal and vegetable oils. Pliny mentioned the use of a mineral oil for lamps in 50 A.D. The Phoenicians appear to have been the first to use wax for candles in 400 A.D.

Atom Disaster Would Demand Many Trained 'Mass Feeders'

"In case of enemy attack or atom bombing, the disaster would demand more trained persons for mass feeding than we can hope to have today," two Red Cross workers who conducted an emergency feeding program during the flood disaster in Kansas City last July, warn in an issue of the Journal of Home Economics.

"Disaster feeding at best is a hodgepodge affair because there are never enough experienced people and survivors to do an ideal job," Jane Griswold, assistant national director of the American Red Cross Food and Nutrition Service, and Kathleen Kienstra, director of the Midwestern Area division of that service, explain in an article pointing out that experience in the flood disaster indicates what the situation would be in event of enemy attack. While urging the home economists to be ready with their professional help, the authors pay great tribute to the work of the community organizations who carried out the feeding program during the Kansas flood.

"It is encouraging to see the common purpose that draws people together when disaster comes to a community. The simple, basic, practical things that people can do for each other helps to ease the impact of catastrophe and turn the mind from despair," the authors conclude in the article, "Red Cross Fights Flood Disaster."

Treating Addicts

Law enforcement, education of the public and treatment of the individual are the three most important factors in combating the alarmingly increasing dope addiction among teen-agers, according to an article in Today's Health, published by the American Medical Association. "Regardless of where the upsurge of addiction started, it has jumped racial, economic and social boundaries," said the author of the article, Dr. Victor H. Vogel, medical officer in charge of the U. S. Public Health Service Hospital at Lexington, Ky. The hospital is one of the two federally operated for the treatment of drug addicts. Dr. Vogel reported that admissions at the two federal hospitals for drug addicts rose from 2,700 in 1949 to 4,500 in 1950, with an estimated rate of 4,200 in 1951. "An alarming part of this increase was due to the admission of addicts under 21, which jumped from 22 in 1947 to 440 in 1950—an increase of 2,000 per cent," Dr. Vogel stressed.

Early Inventors

Among the early American inventors who founded great industries, few struggled against adversity more desperately than Gail Borden (1801-1875), who was the first to obtain a patent (August 19, 1856) on a process for condensing milk. His first invention was a meat biscuit for which he was granted a prize at the International Exposition of London in 1851. Returning from London he was anguished by the death of infants on the ship who had been fed milk from sick cows. As a result of this experience, he spent years of experimentation to invent a process that would preserve milk under white some conditions.

Don't Gamble With Speed

"Don't Gamble With Speed!" This is the advice given by the Traffic Safety division of the Department of Law Enforcement to motorists today. When motorists drive at excessive speeds they lose out in many ways, and make a very poor impression on friends and neighbors. Anyone can jam his foot down on the accelerator and roar down the street, twin pipes howling, but it requires good judgment to decide what is a safe speed under existing conditions. The driver who drives according to conditions and with respect for others, earns the respect of his community. The speeder, noise maker and show-off loses respect.

Very often speeders even fail in their immediate objective, to get there first. Traveling at a greater rate of speed than the traffic around them, cutting in and out, racing for stop lights, cutting in on corners — speeders gain little or no time over the driver who keeps a steady pace with the traffic stream. But, the Traffic Safety director warns, the speeder's greatest loss is in safety. As his speed increases, the driver's control of his car decreases. His chances of having an accident are greater, and an accident occurring at high speed is far more likely to cause a fatal injury than one occurring at a low speed.

Speeders lose out — very often to the extent of losing their lives — and sometimes taking others with them. It's good policy to travel at a safe speed always, and the only safe speed is one that's determined by conditions of weather, road, traffic, mechanical fitness of your car and your own mental and physical state.

Standard helps bring in the "big ones" from Pacific Northwest and Alaskan waters

Working with you in Washington, Alaska, Oregon, Idaho

- 3,039 Standard employees
- $14,959,055 annual payroll
- 4,840 Pacific Northwest and Alaska shareholders
- $91,038,236 investment in plant, refinery and distribution facilities
- $5,208,000 worth of goods and services bought from more than 1,150 Pacific Northwest and Alaska businesses in 1953
- 2,856 independent businessmen who support themselves and their 7,734 employees by selling Standard products

Since 1905, when we fueled the first gasoline-powered boat, at Seattle, Standard has planned ahead for Pacific Northwest and Alaskan fishermen's changing needs. We pioneered cold-weather starting fluid . . . developed fuels to extend cruising range, boost speed and power . . . lubricants for canned and frozen fish processing machines. Standard tankers range your shores to supply the fishing fleets, keep canneries humming. Today, Standard Marine Stations serve fishermen and pleasure craft owners along coastal and inland waterways alike.

. . . and we're still pioneering products to help cut your motor-ing costs. A recent result of Standard's automotive research is "RPM 10-30 Special" . . . the motor oil that can save up to 3/4 gallon of gas in every 5 . . . in all climates . . . all cars . . . all seasons. It's a change for the better when you change to RPM 10-30 Special Motor Oil—at Standard and Chevron Stations.

Published Weekly by the Union Oil Service at Kendrick
W. L. "Bill" Rogers, Editor

HELLO, FOLKS:

Well, now that the grunts, moans, and attacks of indigestion have passed following that gorging on Thanksgiving — and cold weather is here, it's time to think seriously about your car, pickup and truck in preparation for difficult winter driving.

Bring it in. Let us lubricate it completely, fill the crankcase with that wonderful Royal Triton Motor Oil — and the radiator with Prestone — and in general "winterize it." The cost is low — the returns high!

Judge: "What's the charge against this man, officer?"

Officer: "Vagrancy, your honor. He loafed around on a street corner all day."

Judge: "Ah, impersonating an officer; 30 days in jail."

Let us wash and wax your car. Protect that expensive finish during the winter months, too.

Gal: "Sometimes my father takes things apart just to see why they don't go."

Smart Guy: "So what?"

Gal: "So why don't you go!"

Phone 1251 — and say: "Fill my stove oil or diesel tank." That's all you need to do to be assured of efficient heat these cold days. And folks — we hurry!

Dad: "But you can't marry him, dear. He only earns $25.00 a week."

Daughter: "Yes, Dad, but when you're in love a week passes so quickly."

Let us wash and grease your car and wax it before winter comes!
