APRIL DESIGNATED AS CANCER CONTROL MONTH
The American Cancer Society has designated the month of April as "Cancer Crusade Month." Funds raised at this time will be used for education, research and service. Because of the staggering death toll each year from cancer, we, the people, are becoming more conscious of a need for united effort to fight this enemy.

The following editorial is quite appropriate, and we hope it will be read and heeded by everyone in this community.
Don't Emulate The Ostrich
Popular but undocumented legend, pictures the ostrich as burying its head in the sand when frightened.

But our message today has to do with people — Americans who act like the mythical bird by hiding from reality when for some reason they fear they have cancer. Such individuals fear it, yet delay in consulting a doctor, who might tell them that their apprehension is groundless, or, if they did show symptoms of the disease, would immediately do whatever was necessary to arrest its development.

Those who temporize with cancer tempt death. The only methods recognized as effective against it are radiation and surgery. And to have successful treatment, the disease must be attacked when it is in an early, localized stage and most susceptible to cure. Although American Cancer Society statisticians estimate that 50 percent of all cancers can be cured — if treated promptly — only one out of three potentially curable sufferers from this malady is being saved.

One of the Cancer Society's three main objectives is to enlighten the public about the whole subject. Its literature, now being circulated all over the country, describes seven common cancer danger signals that can readily be observed by anyone who knows what to look for. But certain deadly types of cancer — curable in a beginning stage — can be discovered only by an examination by a doctor.

Yet the A. C. S. is not content to wage a mere holding action against "the cancer's cruellest enemy." Striving for complete victory, it is support research which seeks to find new cures, conducted in 132 medical and scientific institutions, and by nearly 1,000 top-flight scientists.

The Society's third major activity is service to patients. Drugs, dressings, and household care are supplied, and thus distress is alleviated, and comfort given to countless men, women and children across the land.

That comprehensive program is entirely dependent on public contributions. This community can participate in the crucial fight against cancer by giving generously to the 1955 fund-raising campaign which runs through April.

Meanwhile, don't let unreasoning fear of cancer make you behave like the fabled ostrich. See your doctor for a physical check-up, and be on the safe side.

Volunteer workers for the Kendrick District of the Idaho Division of the American Cancer Society are the Mesdames Ed. Galloway, Frank Lyons, Harry Benschoter, Manning Onstott, R. L. Blewett, John Johanson and Elmo Eldridge. We plan to show a film strip early in the month of April — this will be for educational purposes only. — Adeline Galloway, chairman.

New Floor At Bakery
Frank Abrams and Dick Blewett completed the laying of a new plastic tile floor in the Kendrick Bakery and Lunch Monday morning, and the results are most attractive.
The tile are in soft shades of brown and beige, interspersed with plain red and laid in a block pattern.

MRS. LORA JEAN ALBRIGHT NAMED "MOTHER OF YEAR"

Mrs. Lora Jean Albright of Juliaetta was named "Idaho 1955 Mother of the Year" for her courage to act on her convictions, and with this happy faculty has created opportunity for herself and her family.

In acknowledging this honor, Mrs. Albright said with humility: "This award has come not only to me, but to my family — there are so many factors involved. First, I would like to say much credit goes to my husband, who has always been at my side. Whatever has been accomplished is due largely to our team work. Without the generous love and security he gave to his family things might have been different."

"And, secondly, our children have a place in this picture. For, if they had not turned out well there would have been no basis for this award. I, too, recognize that parents alone are not responsible for their children's success. Many influences outside the home leave their mark. Having reared our family in this wholesome community, with good neighbors, I am aware of the part our teachers in both the public and church schools play. All these factors have contributed much toward our children's growth."

"I realize I am representing all Idaho Mothers and will discharge my duties to the best of my ability."

In selecting Mrs. Albright for Idaho's Mother of 1955, three judging panels, headed from the U. of I., Southern Branch at Pocatello, and the Industrial School at Riggs, Idaho, made the choice. It is with great pride friends in this area salute Mrs. Albright.

The 56-year-old mother of four began homesteading in the Idaho range-land just north of Arrow shortly after she and Raleigh Albright were married in 1918. She helped her husband develop first a commercial gardening operation, then later operate a dairy business.

The couple sold their homestead several years ago and have since resided on a small ranch near Juliaetta where they raise turkeys.
"It's really a family business," Mrs. Albright said. Their two sons, James W. Albright and Roland T. Albright, have homes on the ranch and help raise the turkeys as well as manage the Albright Poultry Processing plant at Lewiston.

Mr. and Mrs. Albright also have two daughters, Mrs. George Stedman of Juliaetta and Mrs. Robert Hayton of New York City, and eight grandchildren. Another son died in infancy.

Honors have come frequently — and deservedly — to Mrs. Albright. Gov. C. A. Robins appointed her Dec. 20, 1948, to fill the Nez Perce County state representative vacancy created by the death of Joe Rosenkrantz, Lewiston businessman. She served one term.

Mrs. Albright has long been active in Republican party affairs and is a Republican precinct chairman. She was a member of the Nez Perce County School Reorganization Board and resigned that post to become a member of the Legislature.

She was president last year of the Lewiston-Clarkston Sorority Club, which nominated her to the 1955 Mother of the Year competition, sponsored by the Idaho Committee of American Mothers. Her selection as Idaho mother makes her a candidate for national mother of the year.

Mrs. Albright is regent-elect of the Idaho Daughters of the American Revolution, is active in the Idaho Cancer Society, and a member of the Idaho Mayflower Association.

Despite her many activities she has been a devoted mother, keeping close contact with her children and grandchildren and maintaining a Christian home is the nucleus for wholesome growth. She has always taken an energetic part in church work, having served as district officer many terms in the Methodist W. S. C. S., and is currently a teacher for the Adult Sunday School class in the Kendrick Community church. She also served several years as a missionary to the Lapwai Mission, and still finds time to meet with their W. S. C. S. once a month, as secretary to that organization. The Indians look to her for leadership and she counsels with them whenever the need arises.

Generous with her time and talents, Mrs. Albright is never too busy to serve her family, her community, her church and her country. It might be said: "Service is her theme song."

This is the third time a mother in this area has won the state award. Mrs. Ruth S. Millay, Lewiston, won it in 1947, and Mrs. Anna Marie Osland, Troy, was Idaho mother of the year in 1948.

Birthday Dinner
Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Kanikkeberg entertained at dinner Saturday evening honoring their daughter Donna's birthday anniversary. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Ozzie Kanikkeberg and children of Troy; Mr. and Mrs. Jud Lee and son Ralph, and Mr. and Mrs. Burt Souder, Jr., and baby.

SHORT LOCAL ITEMS OF MORE THAN PASSING INTEREST

Operetta Greatly Enjoyed
The Junior High operetta, "Belle of the West," was presented to a very good crowd at the K. H. S. gym, last Wednesday evening, and all concerned are to be complimented for a very fine performance.

The cast of characters were Jerome Pederson, Sharon Lohman, Reinhardt Schroeder, Larry Blenkenship, Denny Abrams, Judy Craig, Gordon Garner, Linda Adams, Connie Howell, Marilyn ZumHofe, Pamela Potter, Karen Louden, Ila Johnson and Patty Corkill.

Girls' Chorus members were Diane Benschoter, Sandra Cantrill, Diane Johns, Lynne Koopp, Shirley McAllister, Sharon Mackey, Mary Ann Pavel, Frances Rowden, Jeanine Swanson, Vicki Tarbet, Marga Wilken, Doris Wilson, Carol Weyen, Beverly Bowen, Alice Cann, Jeanne Craig, Coral Dillman, Janice Foster, Bernice Frazer, Patricia Grayson, Diane King, Loeda Meyer, Patty Nelson, Sandra Peters, Carolyn Skaggs, Sonja Swanson and Mary Lee Westendahl.

Members of the Boys' Chorus were Larry Groseclose, Kim Spence, Jack Mabbott, Michael Reynolds, Duane Meske, Billy Thornton and Dick Ostman.
It was directed by George Poulos; accompanist was Janice Heimgartner; advisors were Jordon Kanikkeberg, Mrs. Claud Jones and George Merrick.

Purchase Lewis Sawmill
A deal was consummated last week whereby the Mead & Howard Lumber Co. of Juliaetta became the owners of the Lewis Sawmill at Kendrick. The purchase price was not made public. Included in the deal was the stock of logs, but not the lumber.

At the present time a crew is busy cleaning up about the mill, which was shut down for the winter, and putting it in shape for operation, which is expected to begin in about a week or ten days. The mill has a capacity of approximately 25,000 feet per shift and will employ about 15 men.

Lumber cut here will be yard stacked and air-dried, and later trucked to Juliaetta, where it will be planned and readied for market, including the making of molding, one of the specialties of the firm.

At present a bulldozer is working at the mill pushing away and burying old sawdust in order to give more yard room and eliminate fire hazards. Approximately 1,000 yards of gravel is to be spread about the yard and runways to give all-weather footage for the lumber carrier. Another improvement planned is the installation of a "hog," to convert all wastes into usable materials.

The Mead & Howard firm will now also be in the market for logs and timber, as well as cut lumber.

Gymnastics Show Scheduled
Of great interest to both young and old is the next Band Mothers Club activity, for on Monday, April 4th, at 8:00 p. m., that group will sponsor a two-hour performance by the University of Idaho Gymnastics team.

The gymnastics squad, coached by Dick Smith, will feature performers on the parallel bars, the side horse, and trampoline, as well as various types of tumbling. Climax of the evening's entertainment will be living statuary in which the performers will be gilded with gold paint and posed on the stage.

Though gymnastics is a relative newcomer to the northwest sports scene, it is rapidly becoming more and more of a spectator sport in this area. The Idaho team has presented many programs during the last two years, traveling to different communities to assist them in fund raising campaigns and presenting an opportunity to view a different type of program.

For an evening of real entertainment in support of a worth-while project, be sure to attend the Gymnastic Show.

Ground Breaking Services Held
Ground breaking services for the new Kendrick Assembly of God Church were held Sunday afternoon at 2:30. The service was opened by Pastor Deweber, after which Rev. Ralph Phillips of Seattle read the Scripture, offered prayer and turned the first shovel of earth. The pastor and trustees of the local church each made a few remarks and turned a shovel of earth. Assembly of God Pastors from Pullman, Clarkston, Lewiston, Craigmont, Winchester, Lapwai and Troy also took part.

Plans call for a wood structure of rustic design. Facing the street will be a 30x45-foot auditorium, with a smaller over-flow section in the rear. A two-story educational department of thirty by fifty feet is to be located behind the auditorium, running parallel with the hill. The main entrance is to be located on the west side, in the midsection of the building at the rear of the sanctuary. The building is designed to care for a maximum of 218 Sunday School pupils, and have a total seating capacity of 200 adults.

Girls who know all the answers are those who have been out with questionable men.

A bridal shower was held March 14, at 2:00 p. m. in the home of Mrs. Paul Dagefoerde honoring Mrs. Charles Christensen (nee Leila Kallikea) who was married March 18, at the Kendrick Community church.

Mrs. J. M. Woodward presented a piano solo, followed by a Hawaiian number called the "Kaluia" dance presented by Mrs. Christensen, a native of Hawaii. She also played a recording of "Ke Kail Nei Au" (Waiting for Thee) and explained Hawaiian wedding customs.

After the numbers, games were played with honors going to Mrs. Wilbur Tarbet and Mrs. Emil Sillflow. Mrs. Christensen was assisted in opening her gifts by Mrs. D. A. Christensen, mother of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Paul Dagefoerde. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Jesse Heffel, Mrs. Lloyd Craig, Mrs. Gordon Peters and Mrs. Paul Dagefoerde.

Washing Local Streets
Wm. Bamberry, village custodian, has been busy this week with fire hose, broom and shovel, cleaning the oiled streets of the winter's deposit of mud and sand, the latter the result of sanding the streets for ice during the winter.

It was so bad that every passing vehicle raised a cloud of dust. Bill's efforts are therefore greatly appreciated.

wind, dust, sunshine — and, well, you name it — we've had it. Tuesday morning it was pouring rain, and this condition was believed due to the fact that a number of local residents washed their cars, took off their sawdust tires, put on their whitewalls, and fender skirts, and otherwise optimistically prepared for the coming of spring.

Red Cross Contributions Slow
From Paul A. Eke, Red Cross fund drive chairman for Latah County, says in a note dated March 29:

"Our Red Cross drive is proceeding, even if slowly. At 10:00 o'clock Tuesday, March 29th, the sum of $2,774.81 had been raised. Since workers in outlying towns and rural district have been delayed by weather conditions, a big jump is expected in gifts this coming week. We should approach the $5,000.00 mark. This will still be below the $7,235.00 quota asked."

Kendrick Grange To Meet
The Kendrick Grange will meet on Tuesday evening, April 5, with the Moscow Grange to be present, weather permitting. The visitors will open and close Grange and present the program — this being a "Visitation" night.

Following the meeting a pie social will be held with proceeds going to the building fund. Every lady Granger is asked to bring a pie.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wolff drove in Tuesday from a seven-week trip east which took them down to Texas, where they attended their son Howard's graduation and promotion to Lt. in the Air Force, and his wedding. The newlyweds drove them as far as Denver, and will follow in a few days, as he has a 28-day furlough.

Just What Do They Mean By Monopoly?

There is increasing evidence that some Democrats, in search of a political issue for next year's campaign, expect to set up a clamor over alleged monopolies, especially in the field of electric power.

Just the other day a senate judiciary subcommittee issued a report urging congress to conduct a sweeping investigation of "monopoly run wild." The judiciary committee, formerly headed by Senator William Langer, North Dakota Republican, is now chairmanned by Democratic Senator Harley Kilgore who is known to have monopoly obsessions similar to those of Mr. Langer.

Before the senate report came out—a minority report is scheduled to come soon—Mr. Langer said he hoped to conduct hearings in the Northwest on the activities of private power companies in this area. If such hearings are held they will doubtless show the absence of any power monopoly for this region.

Individual localities are customarily served by only one public utility, whether it be a private power company or a public utility district. The private companies are, and have been, under rigid supervision and regulation by federal and state agencies. The PUDs are not subjected to the same sort of accounting to regulatory bodies.

The monopoly charges now gaining currency in some parts of the country are leveled usually for their propaganda and political effect. Yet many of those who make such charges often ignore the fact that the greatest tendency toward monopoly has existed within the federal government itself.

Should the senate committee, under the urging of Mr. Kilgore and Mr. Langer, conduct its monopoly investigation, it should be reminded of the difference between a real monopoly and an imaginary conspiracy dreamed up by some politician in search of an issue with which he hopes to fool the voters.

Questionnaires Going Out
Questionnaires are now being mailed to fishermen in the second of two harvest surveys being conducted by the Idaho Fish and Game department this winter, Ross Leonard, director, said today. The first, covering the 1954 big game and bird harvest, began early in January, and is still in progress. Leonard said the fishing questionnaire is being sent to 14,500 of the 235,000 people who bought Idaho fishing licenses of various types last year. It is designed to gather information on fishing intensity and success in relation to five Idaho fish groups. The survey provides for separate listing of the take in trout, bluebacks, warm-water species, chinook salmon, steelhead and sturgeon. "If you receive a fishing questionnaire, your answer is important, even if it is negative," Leonard said. "In a statistical survey of this type, it is important to have proper representation from all segments of the participating public in order to assure correct proportion in the results." The director appealed to all recipients of fishing questionnaires to fill out and return the forms as soon as possible to enable the department to complete tabulation of the survey before the pressure of field activities begins again. Leonard also requested completion and return of about 2,000 hunter questionnaires which are needed to complete that survey.

Milk Consumption Higher in Nation Dairy Council Helps To Widen Markets

Today's average American drinks more milk and eats more of certain dairy foods because he knows more about nutritional benefits of milk and its products. A share of the credit must go to the National Dairy Council which this year celebrates 40 years of serving the dairyman through research and education on milk and its products. The Dairy Council program, which aims to better the nation's health along with widening markets for the dairyman, began shortly after the discovery of vitamin A by Dr. E. V. McCollum in 1913. The discovery sparked other research which since has proved the all-around nutritional value of milk. National Dairy Council has sponsored research projects that have shown, for example, that dairy foods are important in reducing diets, that more milk is needed by older adults. Financed by farmers and other segments of the dairy industry,

Dairy Council materials being put to work on the consumer level are shown in this photo as executive director of local Dairy Council unit teaches milk facts before a Red Cross class in nutrition.

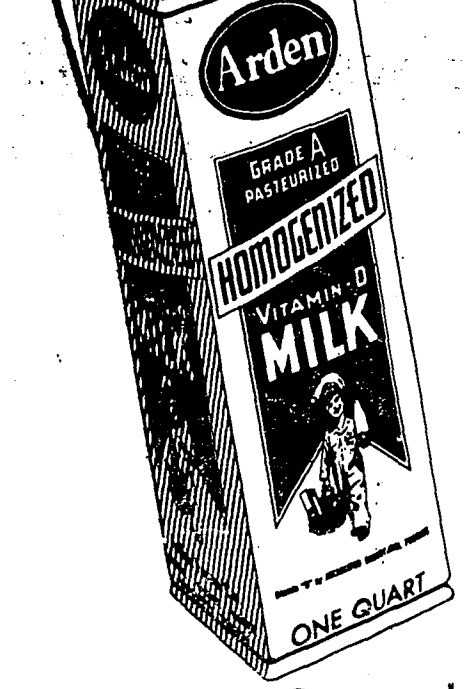

The NDC program is believed to beam over a billion sales messages a year. Farm support for the program comes through the American Dairy Association and locally financed affiliated units. Today, per capita milk consumption among non-farm people (city consumers) is 9 per cent greater than in 1924. USDA figures also show individuals last year ate 21 per cent more cheese and 59 per cent more ice cream than immediately before World War II.

Farm Homes Need Ample Electrical Outlets

New farm homes — and older farm homes that are being modernized — need plenty of electrical outlets. Steel multi-outlet assemblies, such as Plungold 2000, provide electrical outlets quickly and easily without the need for channeling into walls and floors. Such a unit, which has a duplex or NEMA grounded outlets spaced every thirty inches, mounts directly to the surface. For this purpose, many wiring authorities recommend the "2000" system with NEMA grounded outlets which take the new, safe, three-prong grounding plugs as well as the standard two-prong plugs. Closer outlet spacings (six-inch to eighteen inch) are available for farm shops. For the farm home, there are duplex outlets of two types — (1) three-wire with one side of the outlet switched and the other side "hot" (so that lamps can all be turned on or off from a switch at the door, and appliances plugged into the constant side), and (2) two-wire with both sides of the outlet "hot." To take care of those appliances equipped with grounding plugs, one or two NEMA grounded outlets can be intermixed with the others.

"Pint-size" refineries help us keep gasoline prices low

Folks who like a bargain don't have to look any farther than the gas tanks of their cars. For despite a steady increase in quality, gasoline prices have remained low — and Standard Oil Company of California's table-top refineries are one good reason why. They are pint-size laboratory pilot plants that enable our scientists to develop cost-cutting manufacturing methods for each new gasoline before we put it into production. With the aid of these rubber and glass forerunners of multi-million gallon refineries, we've worked with car manufacturers to perfect balanced gasolines designed to bring out more efficiency and economy from today's higher compression engines.

We've learned how to squeeze more gasoline from crude oil and we've found ways to make increasingly better gas at consistently low prices. Today's gasoline, for example, is 50% better than motor fuels of 1925, yet costs just a few pennies more. The combination of research and competition has held gasoline prices down so effectively that they've advanced only 17% (ex-taxes) since 1925 while general living costs are up 52%. Even though our pint-size refineries make gasoline by the drop, they are one reason why Standard products give you a longer run for your money. Standard plans ahead to serve you better

The Golden Calf

The people of this region have seen all sorts of excesses engaged in, and excused, in the name of TVA and socialized public power. We have seen our politicians bow down as the TVA is held like a threatening sword above the heads of those in political life; we have seen (and perhaps there is more we have not seen) public money spent in TVA propagandizing; we have seen the local "non-political" Electric Power Board spend money gained from electric bills on its customers in a partisan campaign in behalf of a candidate for reappointment as chairman of the TVA; we have seen the state of Tennessee billed for more than $3,000 for a lawyer's fee for heckling Dixon-Yates in hearings before the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Now we have a new suggestion, one that is shocking despite the background of political action on the TVA question. State Sen. McAllen Fouch of Smithville has announced that he will propose legislation appropriating up to $100,000 in state fund (that's money the state gets in taxes from you and other Tennesseans) to finance a fight against the Dixon-Yates contract. Thus we have come to the point that a veteran lawmaker, a former speaker of the state house of representatives, thinks it politically wise to propose the appropriation of $100,000 of the people's tax money to fight free enterprise, and promote Socialism.

Whether you like TVA or not, whether you like Dixon-Yates or not, such a proposal and the precedent it would set should shock and distress Tennesseans. Outside the basic fault of TVA, that it is Socialism in a land made great by free enterprise, this growing tendency of TVA to dominate political thinking in this area to the point that opposition to it is political suicide and to the point that tax money is sought to engage in a political campaign for it is one of the most serious objections to the regional socialized electric system.

Freedom has difficulty existing when all are forced to bow down before any golden calf. Reprinted from Chattanooga, Tenn. News-Free Press as a public service by the Washington Water Power Company

Scrapie Disease Outlook Is Good

Last Known Source Removed, Says USDA

The slaughter in September of 117 Vinton County, Ohio sheep that were either infected or exposed to the deadly scrapie disease removed the last known source of this contagious disease in this country, the U. S. Department of Agriculture reported. Officials say it points up the effectiveness of the Department's new scrapie quarantine and eradication program.

However, positive eradication of the disease from the U. S. is not yet being claimed, say veterinary officials of USDA's Agricultural Research Service, who, in cooperation with State Livestock officials carry forward the quarantine and eradication effort. Recognizable sick and nervous symptoms of scrapie are slow to develop, taking as long as three years in some sheep. Thus, healthy appearing, but infected sheep can serve as scrapie carriers for months or even years.

Sheep are plentiful in this scene showing flock in California mountain range. Scrapie disease poses serious threat to herds such as this one, says Department of Agriculture.

Since quarantine regulations were modified in July to allow USDA greater participation in making indemnity payments for condemned sheep, four other scrapie-exposed flocks in Ohio, two in New York, one in Connecticut, and one in Oregon were destroyed.

Because there is no known cure for scrapie, veterinarians are concerned with the effectiveness of their control efforts. Strict quarantine and destruction of infected and exposed sheep have been—and are—weapons available in preventing this disease from becoming established in the United States.

New Salt Additive May Prevent Goiter

A new additive to salt may make it easier for farm animals to go through life without developing goiter.

The additive, cuprous iodide, has been suggested by scientists to replace potassium iodide in goiter-preventing salt.

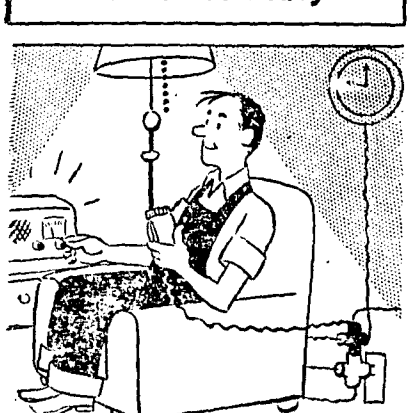

The salt investigations are being carried on at Armour Research Foundation of Illinois Institute of Technology, Chicago, under sponsorship of a leading salt company.

Because it is insoluble in water and more stable as a compound, cuprous iodide first was studied for use in salt licks for farm animals, and in mineral supplements fed to livestock. It was found that iodizing salt helps prevent goiter, but the iodine content was easily leached out of the salt additive now being used in animal feeds by exposure to moisture.

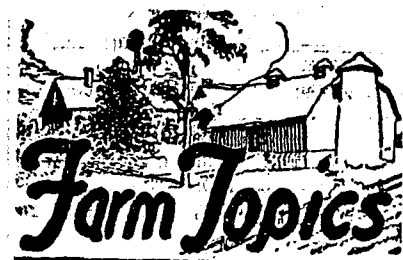

Cuprous iodide may also be used in table salt for human consumption because the present additive, potassium iodide, sometimes decomposes even without moisture. But changing the iodine additive in table salt would come only after exhaustive tests on animals.

Preliminary testing of the iodized salt on white rats and other laboratory animals has been conducted for about a year and a half as part of a trace elements study in nutrition.

Load's Too Heavy

Overloading of wires is one reason electricity is blamed in about one out of eight home fires. When overloaded wires blow fuses, they are a nuisance. When they heat through insulations and start fires—they are destroyers.

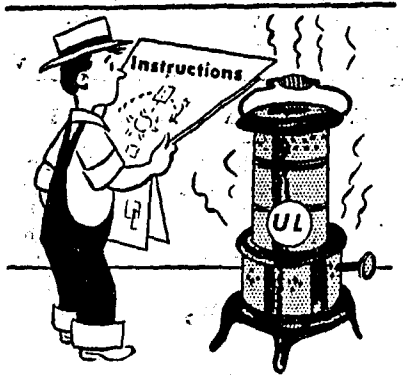

Kerosene Users Must Use Caution

Needless Deaths Each Year on U. S. Farms

The kerosene stove can be a killer. Every year, in all parts of the country, newspapers carry repeated stories about deaths caused by misuse of kerosene appliances.

In spite of the advances in the use of gas and electricity in home heating and in the use of coal and oil for fuel in furnaces, there is still a heavy and growing demand for kerosene cook stoves and portable heaters. These stoves have been perfected so that the country dweller to whom gas and

The National Safety Council, concerned over the needless deaths occurring each year in farm homes using kerosene appliances cautions users to use them safely and to avoid common dangers:

1. Follow manufacturers' operating instructions.
2. Burners should be clean at all times.
3. When wicks are burning low, they should be trimmed or replaced.
4. Use only recommended fuel.
5. All approved stoves should bear the label of the Underwriters Laboratories.
6. All cooking and heating devices should be in a level position.
7. Never leave your lighted stove unattended—if you leave, turn off the stove.
8. Stoves should be located so that curtains or drapes will not be blown into contact with heating surfaces or open flames.

Determining Egg Shell Quality Exact Science

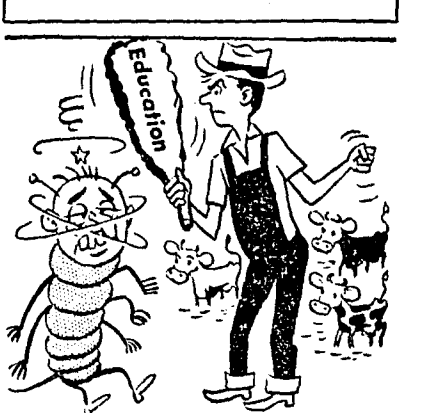

Research has developed methods for determining mechanically nine of the 11 major factors which comprise current concepts of quality in shell eggs.

Egg size is determined by weighing the eggs as they are moved on a conveyor. Egg shape determination requires only the application of known principles of electronic accepting or rejecting signals received from mechanical "feelers." Crack detection is accomplished through mechanical tapping and "listening."

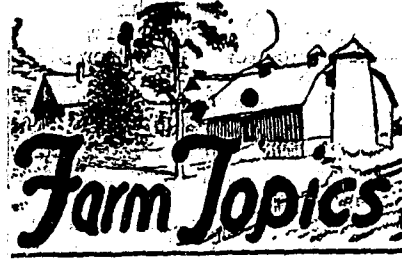

Shell strength can be determined by applying known stresses to shells and accepting those undamaged by the treatment. The worth of this principle lies in its ability to salvage weak-shelled eggs that would ordinarily crack during marketing and be lost. Air-cell size is reflected with a high degree of accuracy by measuring the absorption of radio-frequency energy.

Presence of blood, presence of Pseudomonas rots (commonly called green rots), shell color and yolk color can be detected—and classified when necessary—by appropriate use of light transmitting, reflecting or fluorescing properties of the egg.

Stomach Parasites

Veterinarians say prevention, not treatment is proper approach to blood-sucking parasites—only 10 of which per cow can cost farmers $2 per head per year in the cost of blood loss alone. Symptoms: anemia, scours, loss of appetite, emaciation, staggering. Recommended prophylaxis: mineral mixture in self-feeders consisting of three parts each of ground limestone, bone meal and salt and one part of phenothiazine by weight.

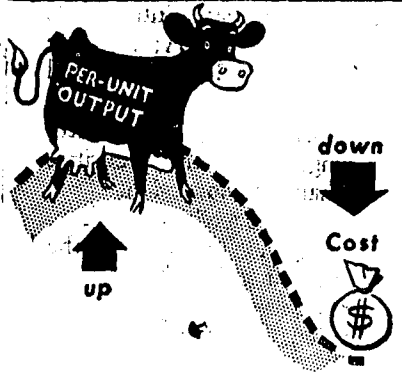

Per-Unit Output Key to Low Cost

Dairy Tests Show Ways to More Profit

The same economic "facts of life" apply in the dairy barn as in the manufacturing firm—as per-unit output rises, per-unit cost goes down, says Paul E. Newman, a New York milling specialist.

One cow, giving 5,000 pounds of 3.7 per cent butterfat milk a year, ate $88 worth of grain and $86 worth of roughage. Her per-unit "charge" for 100 pounds of milk was nearly $6.

But a 15,000-pound producer, eating $251 worth of grain and $97

Dairy tests show that when per-unit output goes up, costs readily come down. Balanced feeding makes top producers.

worth of roughage, "charged" slightly less than $4 per 100 pounds. Even a 10,000-pound producer cut per-unit costs tremendously. She ate $168 worth of grain and $85 worth of roughage. Her "charge"; $4.32 a 100 pounds—nearly a third less than the 5,000 pound producer.

The figures, based on eastern grain prices, are from a study by a former University of Minnesota dairy instructor, Newman said.

Newman added that a 300-pound butterfat producing cow is common now and 400 pounds soon will be average for good herds. A common goal, 500 pounds, is frequently reached and passed by efficient Minnesota dairymen, he said.

He pointed out that only carefully-balanced feeding will keep a high-producing cow at "top-notch"

No Known Cure for New-Found Cattle Disease

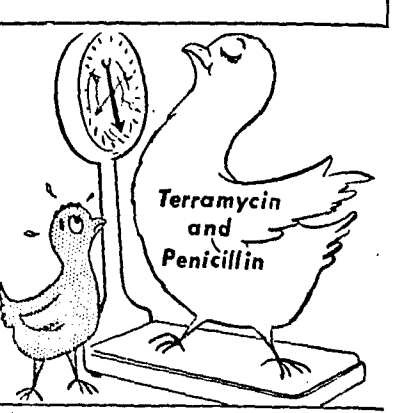

An entirely new disease threat which kills cattle and for which as yet no remedy has been found was reported recently by Dr. F. K. Ramsey of Iowa State College.

Known as "mucosal disease," it has already been identified in 72 herds of cattle in Iowa. Onset of the disease is greatest during winter and early spring, with February and March the periods of greatest danger. Among cattle contracting mucosal disease, the death rate was 90 per cent, the veterinary pathologist reported. Highlights in the description of symptoms: an initial sharp rise in temperatures to 108 degrees, then a rapid drop to normal; a watery scouring, emaciation; erosions and ulcers of the nostrils, muzzle, lips, gums, tongue and oral cavity.

Postmortem examination of animals which died of the disease showed evidence of enteritis and cystic colitis plus great enlargement of the lymph nodes and fatty degeneration in the kidneys.

No bacteria have been found in connection with postmortem examinations and no successful treatments have been discovered. The report was presented recently to alert veterinarians throughout the country against the disease. It seems to occur only in or near Iowa, but if it follows the history of most other livestock diseases, it might be expected to spread to other states.

Chick Antibiotics

Series of experiments with 364 battery-reared, male crossbred chicks, with penicillin, streptomycin and terramycin tested singly, as substitutes each for the others or as a mixture; basic ration contained no animal protein. Cut-off point was 10 weeks: Birds on terramycin and penicillin achieved equal maximum weights, whether antibiotics given singly, mixed or substituted for the other at 3 weeks. Streptomycin produced lighter 10-week weights when fed singly or used as replacement at three weeks.

All Logical Men

Richard Neuberger is the new Democratic senator from Oregon, but he has arrived in Washington with some arguments on public power that have an old, familiar ring.

Mr. Neuberger simply says the Government should stay in the power business in order to make money. The partnership policy, he contends, is wrong because it would end a money-making arrangement for the Government. The Government would be "surrendering revenue" to let private companies run the power facilities.

Well, we will pass over for the moment the question of how much money the Government does make out of making electricity—a lot depends on the bookkeeping. What interests us is this idea that it is nefarious for the Government to "surrender revenue" by letting private companies run a business.

If that is to be the criterion (and if you assume a political agency can run business efficiently) then it would be equally true that the Government is "surrendering revenue" to allow General Electric to sell the dynamos that make the Government's electricity or the electric light bulbs that burn it.

The same would be true, of course, about the revenue the Government surrenders by not making automobiles or steel or by not running the railroads or the telephone system. And for that matter, the Government surrenders some by not owning your house or your farm and making you pay rent for it.

What deprives Senator Neuberger's idea of any newness is that it has been propounded by Socialists from Karl Marx to the British Labor Party; the Labor Party actually did apply it to Britain's steel business. It is the idea that the rewards of enterprise do not belong to the people who individually make them possible, but to the collective entity of "government" which will then dispose of them as it sees fit.

Senator Neuberger is here applying this argument only to the electric power business. But the premise that it is wrong for the Government to surrender revenue to private business is a broad one, and those who adopt it are, we feel sure, all logical men.

Progress?

All Tennesseans ought to be proud of their state and anxious to see it progress. That is why it is disturbing to note the low rating of Tennessee in Southern business progress.

The Kiplinger survey rates the states of the South in order of business progress during the past five years.

Florida, 28 per cent; Louisiana, 18 per cent; Georgia, 18 per cent; North Carolina, 16 per cent; Alabama, 15 per cent; South Carolina, 13 per cent; Arkansas, 12 per cent; Virginia, 8 per cent; Kentucky, 6 per cent; Tennessee, 3 per cent; Mississippi, 1 per cent.

Of course, the Tennessee Valley Authority has made a habit for two decades of claiming credit for everything good that has happened in Tennessee.

We hope progress isn't passing Tennessee because of the Socialism that has been established here.

HELLO, FOLKS:

Well, maybe "Spring has sprung" at last — at least we hope so. And to start the spring season everyone is reminded of the big gymnastic show at the K. H. S. gym. on Monday evening, April 4, at 8:00 o'clock. Be sure you don't miss this outstanding entertainment.

And before you go to the show, bring in your car for a wash and grease job. It'll purr with satisfaction at those fine Union Lubricants — and make you smile!

The lady of the house summoned a TV serviceman to fix the set. Spreading out his equipment the workman inquired: "And just what seems to be the trouble?"

Replied the little woman: "Well, for one thing, all the programs are lousy!"

Thinking about spring field work? Of course you are, and it's time to think about that diesel fuel, lubricating oil, track oil, pressure grease, etc. And when you do, think of us. Phone 1251 and we'll deliver those Union Oil products right to your farm. Try us!

Chorus Girl: "I got my fur coat on time."
Second Chorus Girl: "What kind of time?"

Looking for a "deal on tires for summer? If so, come in and look over the wonderful U. S. Royal Line. There's a tire for every need and every pocketbook.

Why drive a dirty car? Bring it to us for a wash job, or wash and polish. And, too, we vacuum the interior!
