All will admit that the hillside "looks pretty rough right now," but a good cleanup and a season or two of growth will change that picture. There are, of course, many who will condem the operation, saying that

"village property should not be disposed of without a vote of the people," and that "the beauty of the hillside was worth the fire risk involved now and later," and they, too, are entitled to their opinion.

Will Spring Ever Come?

The question: "Will spring ever come?" seems to be on the lips of everyone these days - for here it is May, with almost one week of the month gone, and trees not yet in full leaf, particularly the maples, which are always the first. The maximum daytime temperature has been around 55 degrees, with cloudiness the rule, and what sunshine there has been coming early in the morning. True, daffodils, narcissis and tulips are almost gone, and lawns are a brilliant green, and have had to be mowed.

Farmers, however, have been able to do but little, if any, farm work, as fields are still too wet and soggy. Fall wheat is a bright green, and seems to be growing, but sunshine is needed badly.

In past months local residents have been plagued with "bang-pipe" and "split-manifold" cars and pickups tearing up and down the streets at all hours of the night, often playing "tag" with their lights off — and Bill says this is going to stop as of "right now."

Entering Pipe Line Business St. Paul - The Northern Pacific Railway Co. is entering the crude oil pipe line transportation business in eastern Montana,

Robert S. Macfarlane, president, told stockholders at their annual meeting this week in St. Paul that the company had completed negotiations to secure a 10 percent interest in the recently announced $19 million Butte Pipe Line, to be built in the Montana portion of the Williston

The new line, scheduled for completion early next fall, will run approximately 450 miles from the Poplar field near Wolf Point, Mont., to Guernsey or Ft. Laramie, Wyo., where it will connect with either the Western or Platte Pipe Lines, or possibly both, These lines carry Wyoming crude oil to refineries in the Chicago-Wood River area in Illinois.

Little Known Facts

Since the day after Lincoln's death A calf should have colostrum milk the outpouring of words about him at first. This milk is essential because his never ceased. There are now some necessary to health. To be certain the calf gets them, it should remain with its mother for two days. After separating the calf from the dam it is far better to underfeed than to overfeed it. Withhold milk for 18 to 24 hours. Then begin feeding two and one-half to three pounds of milk twice daily to Guernsey and Jersey calves, and three to four pounds to calves of other dairy breeds. Measure the milk accurately at each feeding.

About Your Shade Trees

When soft-wooded shade trees the soft or silver maple, chinese elm, black locust, poplars, cottonwood, willows, tree-of-heaven and others become old and begin to break down in the larger branches, it's time to replace them with longer lived trees, declares Earl New, landscape man at the University of Idaho. Says New: 'Many, people inquire about the best methods of pruning these old trees to produce new growth and put them back in condition for good shade and contribution to the landscape effect of the home and surroundings. Any effort to do so is sure to result in disappointment

Like most landscape artists, New is emphatically opposed to "topping" trees for any reason. When a tree has to be topped, he declares, it is either the wrong kind of tree for the place, or it is in the wrong place. In either case, the remedy is the right tree planted where it will do the children. The officers also frequently talk to adult groups.

For the average Idaho lawn or parking, New says he would recommend several trees that will live longer than the soft ones planted in early days when fast growth was important. Among those desirable trees are the green ash, red oak, tulip tree, cucumber tree, Moraine honey locust, or one of the lindens. Idaho nurseries carry many of these in stock or can get them when orders are given in advance.

Mechanized Farms Call for Capital

Here Are Ways Small Operator May Benefit

Although the advantages of mechanized farming have been made available to many people during the last 20 years, these advantages have been denied to many more people because the economies of mechanized farming often require large operations for realization, says Dr. Rex Rehnberg, acting chief economist for the Colorado A and M Station.

Mechanization has greatly increased the capital required in order to operate efficiently, he says. There is the high initial cost of securing a complete line of farm machinery; then there is the additional cost of obtaining control of enough land to use the line of machinery efficiently. This high capital requirement is particularly burdensome to the small farmer and the young man just getting started on his own.

How can the operator with limited capital secure the advantages of large specialized machinery? Renting or borrowing equipment from a neighbor is one way. Joint or group ownership of specialized equipment is another. Hiring certain operations performed on a contract, or custom basis, is another. The recent expansion in the number of services offered on a contract basis deserves additional consideration.

In above photo, girls use teamwork to get in the hay. Teamwork in the use of machinery among small operators can also offset high equipment costs.

Studies of machinery costs have shown that the cost per acre, or ton of product, for operating a machine decreases as the amount of use increases.

Some types of machines are "naturals" for custom operations while others are not. While few farmers own their own heavy, land-leveling equipment, nearly all own a harrow.

Old Newspaper 'Soup' May Be Top Mulch Old newspapers are being put to good use in an experiment at Michigan State College that may provide farmers with a new mulch. Tests so far with a "paper pudding" made by stirring paper in water until it "soups up," show it will control weed growth if it is put on a quarter inch thick. The paper also seals the soil surface so that moisture can get in but will not dry out rapidly, report G. S. Rai and Charles L. Hamner, research horticulturists.

They built the idea on work done for many years with strips of kraft paper between pineapple rows in Hawaii. But they, wanted to find something cheaper—and easy to apply-so they hit upon the "paper pudding" idea. It can be sprayed on and it works with many different crops. They have run tests with tomatoes, corn, beans, even evergreen trees.

They suggest an old washing machine, or similar equipment, for mixing up the "soup" and then it can be sprayed on with a sprinkling can if folks want to try it on a small scale.

All Is Not Lost

Prominent among the casualties of the twentieth century battle for wo-men's rights is that faithful and in-destructible comforter of the male chassis, the Morris chair. He is a lucky man who still possesses one.
But he doubtless bears the scars of battle, and knows too that sooner or later the little woman will win, and his mid-Victorian pride-and-joy will be relegated to the attic or the alley.

Today, however, to those who have lost the fight—and to those who will—it should be comporting news that the Morris chair has a successor. It's so comforting, in fact, that when Poppa comes wearily home from his bread-winning, he'll probably find Momma in it!

This modern (not moderne) solace for weary bones has the beguiling name of "Barcalounger", no doubt because it is the creation of a Good Samaritan named Barcalo-who has gone to a lot of pains to ease those of his fellow man. For one thing, it will fool the wife. It looks like any other well-designed lounge-chair, and you can let her pick out the covering-to match the wall paper, the other furniture, or the color of your eyes! But when you sit down in it— and lean back—things begin to hap-

The back lets down just as long as you keep pushing, and stops when-ever you have found the most restful angle. Meanwhile the seat moves forward to accomodate your shifting position, and a padded panel lifts up to support your feet and legs in sybaritic ease. From the back of your head to your heels, every tired inch of you is supported as if you were floating in a king-sized bowl of custard.

Still, nothing in this life is quite perfect. We think Mr. Baraclo should include, as standard equipment, a mirror for the ceiling so we could watch television.

Elson R. Fischer, newly appointed Scout Executive of the Lewis-Clark Council, Lewiston, effective May 1, has been associated with the Scout movement for more than 20 years. He was a Boy Scout during his youth, attaining the rank of Eagle, with three silver Palms. As a volunteer he served as Scoutmaster, District Commissioner and as a member of the summer camp staff at his home in Marshall, Mo. In 1945 he moved to the Inland Empire Council, Spokane, as assistant Scout executive in charge of the council camping program. He also served in three other districts during this period.

Mr. Fischer will report for his new assignment about May 1st.

There's not enough food for you and the bugs

As any backyard gardener knows, you have a fight on your hands from the moment you have been chemicals to kill aphis, mites, turn over your first spadeful of earth. At every step, fungus growths, weeds and insects wait to destroy your lawns, trees, plants, flowers. A disheartening struggle for Greenthumbers . . . a round-the-clock fight for commercial farmers.

But, there's a growing list of weapons you can wield against bugs. Some of the most effective have been developed by Standard's subsidiary, California Spray-Chemical Corporation. In 1907, we brought out the first basic lead arsenate to stop the codling moth, a fruit crop destroyer; later, new-type summer and dormant oil sprays that safely checked scale and other insects.

Other Standard research achievements thrips, and similar sucking insects ... dusts to destroy fungus diseases like rust, blight, mildew . . . sprays and dusts custom-made to knock out such enemies as the grasshopper, boll weevil, hornworm. Other pestkillers boost milk production from our dairy herds, help beef cattle fatten faster.

One good reason you live in the world's best-fed nation is because insect invaders have been held back on our farms, ranches, and orchards, thanks in part to Standard's constant hunt for new ways to make petroleum do more things for you.

HELLO, FOLKS:

Come in and see the wonderful new U.S. Royal Masters — with a deep, sharp tread that is silent and yet means safety. A tire that lets you drive in relaxed comfort. And the price is modest!

A little boy, caught in mischief, was asked by his mother: "How do you expect to get into heaven?"

He thought a minute and then said: "Well, I'll run in and out, in and out, and keep slamming the door, till they say, 'For goodness sake, come in or stay out,' then I'll go in."

Let us lubricate your car, and refill the crankcase with that wonderful Royal Triton Motor Oil. It'll purr like a kitten!

Inebriated Customer: "Shay, and wax it before summer comes!

how mush are your ten dollar shoes? Smart Salesman: "Five dollars a foot.'

Have you tried the new Royal 76 and the new 7600 Gasolines? You'll say they are the finest you ever used. They give smooth antiknock power, and mileage economy. You just can't buy a better gasoline. Try them!

The boxer was sitting at home with a bruised head after being badly beaten, while his son was doing his homework.

"Tommy," said the boxer's wife, "don't count up to ten any moreit makes Daddy's head ache."
