Masons-Stars Picnic At Spalding The annual Masonic-Eastern Star picnic was held Sunday in the Spalding Park. Thirty-seven members from the Bovill lodge joined the local group to make 70 present in all. It promised to be a beautiful day, but just as the group were ready to eat, a dark cloud spilled over, causing everyone to scamper for shelter. Too bad Mrs. John Johanson had the only umbrella, as it was far too small to cover all on the picnic.

The rain, however, was of short duration, and lunch was finally resumed with a pleasant afternoon spent drive to Thompson Falls, Mont., to visiting, horseshoe pitching and playing baseball.

FIVE KENDRICK BUSINESS HOUSES ROBBED TUESDAY

Five Kendrick places of business were entered Tuesday morning of this week, presumably about 3:15 o'clock, but very little was taken, as nearly as could be determined.

At Bob's Garage entry was gained by forcing a side door into the repair section, glass in the door between the office and repair department was then broken and the bolt slid back, giving access to the office. Sunday evening to enjoy the Bible Mr. Clemenhagen said that to his Schmidt, drove to Pend Oreille lake knowledge, nothing was taken, the thief or thieves evidently being only in search of money, and none had home of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Marvin, been left in the office. It is not known exactly how entry was gained into the Kendrick Equipment Co., as the front door was found standing open, but the bolt stood forward making it impossible young lady has been named Nina to close it. Here, too, nothing was apparently missing except some $2.50 or $3.00 in small coins left in the cash

At Gambles Western Auto Supply, operated by Oscar Medalen, entry was gained by breaking the catch and forcing open a small window at the rear of the warehouse. This gave access to the alley connecting the cold storage department and the store proper, which was entered by an unlocked side door. The robbers evidently were familiar with cash registers, as they had no trouble opening the one at the store, and even went so far as to release a hidden catch which permitted complete removal of the drawer. In the drawer was a few an undetermined amount of money which was excise tax due the gov-A typewriter had been moved, and a tape dispensor, but these were sitting on the floor, undamaged. There is no doubt but that at least one of the thieves is a small man or boy, as the tiny opening afforded by the forced windows at the Kendrick Garage and at Gambles give

Minority Rules

A minority (168 persons) have deprived the people of our school district (No. 283) of a modern school system of which our community could be proud. ## BEAT THE HEAT!

Trade At Home

How big is a dollar bill?

In terms of bubble gum, candy and peanuts - tremendous.

In terms of automobiles, TV sets and such — not so big, but still a factor.

Yet, before we belittle the dollar, consider the lowly ant. One ant, working alone, couldn't get much done. But a colony of ants, put to the same task — that's different. Things begin to get done.

That's how it is with our town and the dollar we earn, save or spend. Our ability to do things as a community, our standard of living, every step of progress is geared to the amount of money all of us make - and spend - in the community. It's Dollars and more Dollars, working together, that makes the community hum.

That's why we say "beat the heat" - Shop at Home! Put your dollars to work for economic progress that will help us all to earn more, live better and buy more, right here at home.

Trade at home for your own sake — both for comfort and community progress.

Your Handy Helpful Hardware Man suggests: HOW TO PAINT EXTERIOR CONCRETE

A lot of homeowners hesitate to take on the job of painting exterior brick or concrete. But this big, coarse job of painting can be made fairly easy by the use of a roof brush or a clean, long-handled floor brush. Alarge tub can serve as the paint container. Cement paint, which applies a thin layer of cement and pigment, can be used if the surface has never been painted before. But it can't be used over another coat of paint. In this case, use a good grade of exterior rubber-base paint.

Johnson's Story of Success Started About 65 Years Age

When Samuel Curtis Johnson be gan making parquet flooring in his Racine, Wis., workshop 65 years ago, he little dreamed of the turn his business would take. It was a small operation, with two men and two boys doing all the work, but they were thorough craftsmen. Their flooring can still be found in old American homes. Mr. Johnson, reading his mail by lamplight in the evening, noticed that more and more customers were turning to him for information on how to care for floors. Knowing that many floors in Europe had withstood the tread of centuries, thanks to wax, he recommended that his customers use the same substance.

Within a few years the Johnson company was manufacturing its own wax and wood finishing products. They subsequently found that the sideline was outstripping the main products in volume of sales. In 1916, with simple tastes in home decorating becoming more evident, the company abandoned its parquet business and concentrated on wax products.

Today, with the founder's grandson, H. F. Johnson, at the helm, the company ranks high in American industry. Its main office and laboratory in Racine, the plans for which were drawn by Frank Lloyd Wright, is a symbol of industrial growth. The company has offices and plants in Canada, England, France, Australia and other parts of the world. It has a refinery and plantation in Brazil where the world's supply of carnauba wax is obtained.

The little group that began the manufacture of parquet flooring in the back-street workshop 65 years ago could never have guessed they were sowing the seed of a business that was to make Racine the wax center of the world.

Nurse Braved Fever, Risked Life to Help Malaria Fight

Feeding disease-laden, killer mosquitoes once was the hobby of an elderly Baltimore nurse.

Miss Lena Townshend, now 78 years old, hoarded spare time from her nursing duties to provide life-sustaining sugar water for the caged mosquitoes used in yellow fever experiments by the late Army doctor and scientist, Major Walter

As a civilian nurse, Miss Townshend's 16-month affiliation with Dr. Reed and his important work was unofficial but she made a definite contribution to the project's success. Her experience with the menacing mosquitoes today are a, fond memory in her career, 38: years as a practicing nurse.

While the Army prepared to honor Major Reed by observing the centennial of his birth, September 13, the gray-haired nurse was proud but modest in a discussion of her work in the fever-ridden country that was Cuba in 1901.

Miss Townshend went to Cuba due to a post-war shortage of nurses and a personal desire for foreign duty at the turn of the century. As night superintendent of Havana Municipal Hospital No. 1, she had a role in the fight against another epidemic of that time. typhoid fever.

Her "spare time" work was done in Dr. Reed's laboratory, one part of the hospital, after she already had put in 12 hours of night ward duty. She worked on the yellow fever charts which Major Reed maintained for the benefit of government and private hospitals in this country in addition to feeding the mosquitoes.

Interested both in the capture and care of the man-killing insects, Miss Townshend paid little heed to the other laboratory animals, guinea pigs and rats. She said she wasn't afraid of them but "I just didn't like them."

Although she nursed both yellow and typhoid fever cases-so many that she is unable to count them-Miss Townshend escaped both dis-

Sunken Ore

About 100 years ago on the Marquette Range in Michigan, ore cars were sent down a long, descending grade to a Lake Superior dock. But sometimes the ore plunged to the bottom of the lake. In the 1850's, a strap iron railroad was built down the grade from the mines to the docks in Marquette harbor, 12 miles away. Strings of cars were loaded with ore and coasted by gravity down to the waterside. A brakeman rode each string of cars. The hand brakes of the period were far from efficient. Sometimes the cars continued off the end of the dock, and landed at the bottom of Marquette harbor. At intervals later cargoes of iron ore were dredged up where the old cars leaped to a watery grave.

Horns and Antlers

Horns, such as occur on cattle, sheep and Old World antelope, have a bony core. Over this is a layer of a material called keratin, which is similar to the calluses that occur on the palms of the hands or the soles of the feet. The antelers of the deer are different, as they consist of a growth of connective tissue which becomes hardened with the deposition of calcium. Antlers are shed annually and grown anew, as also are the horns of some animals, such as the prong horned antelope.

Strip Cropping Helps Hold Soil in Place It's Only First Step In Conservation Plan

Strip cropping, an important part est soil conservation, is a good deal like putting a splint on a broken hone. The splint holds the bone in place, but it doesn't knit it.
Strip cropping helps hold the soil in place, but it won't rebuild rundown fertility.

The above picture is a beautiful example of strip cropping, but it was not accomplished by mere contour plowing. It was accomplished by sound soil conservation, based on use and treatment of Hand with all proven, appropriate mmeasures that are needed to keep permanently productive while Strip cropping on a field fust north of Neillsville, Wis., is a beautiful example of one step toward soil conservation.

Sound conservation means terracing land that needs terracing; excutouring, strip cropping, and stubble-mulching the land as needed; along with use of supporting measures of crop rotation, cover and green manure crops and the wase of the right commercial fer-Wilizers.

No farmer should undertake a conservation program without expert advice. He should first contact any one of his soil conservation district officers and apply for assistance from his district. If he doesn't know who his officers are, the can locate the address of his district office in the phone book. or he can call his county agent. Districts help only farmers who request their assistance.

Number of U.S. Farms Lowest Since the 1890s

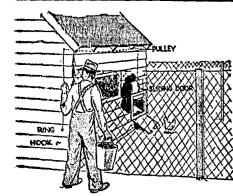

The number of farms in the United States has continued to decline spince the end of World War II with The current total the lowest since before the turn of the century.

The department of agriculture reports there were fewer than 5.4 mil-Nion farms in the country last year. This figure compares with approxizmately 5.9 million in 1945, and with the peak number of 6.8 million in

Thus the number of American Marms has declined over 1.4 million, or more than a fifth, in the last decade and a half-a period in which Hand in farms has continued to inerease and in which total agricultural production has likewise shown a spectacular increase in aggregate volume of products raised as well as in total market value.

In 1900 there were some 5.7 milhion farms in the U.S., approximately 350,000 more than at present. A decade before, in 1890, the numther of farms was about 4.6 million.

Sliding Door

"Poultry raisers can save amany a step by a sliding door in poultry houses which can be operated from the outside. A small rope attached to the cloor by a screw eye runs to the ceiling or roof boards, along the wall, through the side of the chicken house and terminates in a ring. A hook can be attached to the side of the building and thus hold the door open.

Farm Exports Increase A4 Per Cent, Report

The agriculture appartment remorted recently that farm exports uncreased 14 per cent over the preceding fiscal year. The total was placed at $3,409,245,000. Cotton exports led the group in 1950-51 with a total of $935,332,000,000, the specond highest in 26 years. Wheat and wheat flour ranked second in value at $747,570,000, up 9 per cent ever the $683,229,000 the preceding ture than is used in one designed Escal year.

Medina Mosque Is Younger Building than White House

According to tradition, Mohammed journeyed north from Mecca to the region of Yathrib's casis, where he loosed his camel to wander unguided until it stopped and knelt. There the mosque was built. Disciples renamed Yathrib Madinatal-Nabi, meaning City of the Prophet, now varied to Medina.

The original house of worship has been rebuilt several times. No existing relics of previous structures bear proof of use earlier than 1306. The present Great Mosque is actually newer than the White House in Washington and replaces an earlier mosque which was destroyed by fire only a century ago.

Though somewhat crowded by other buildings on its south side, the mosque stands out gracefully from most angles of approach. Its minarets are shapely, its dome a restful, dull green. Dominant construction material is a locally quarried crystalline rock of pinkish hue, with occasional elaborate inlay and faience decoration.

Pilgrim trade is easily the chief business of Mecca, Medina, and Jidda, the Red Sea port by way of which nine-tenths of the worshiping tourists now travel. The two shrine cities each have sacred areas where unbelievers are not welcome and subject to trespassing fines or jail terms.

Date growing is the second industry around Medina's oasis, which is larger than Mecca's and can support more population. Under Turkish rule prior to World War I, Medina counted 80,000 people and was the southern terminus of a railroad from the cities of present Jordan, Syria, Turkey, and Iraq to the

Not until Mohammed moved from Mecca to Medina, did his creed begin the expansion that now encompasses 250,000,000 followers.

Drug Given By Mouth Said To Relieve Pain in Cancer

A chemical compound which can be given by mouth is reported by seven New York doctors to be useful in bringing temporary relief to patients suffering from fatal cancer-like diseases of the white blood cells and tissues.

The oral use of triethylene melamine on 58 patients is described by Drs. David A. Karnofsky, J. H. Burchenal, George C. Armistead, Jr., Chester M. Southam, J. L. Bernstein, L. F. Craver, and Cornelius ?. Rhoads. The doctors are all associated with the Memorial Center for Cancer and Allied Diseases, New York.

Triethylene melamine is a valuable addition to the small group of relieving pain in these types of disease, according to the doctors. This is due primarily to the fact that it can be given by mouth, releasing the patient from his dependence on a doctor for administration of the drug. All the other drugs, they point out, have to be injected intravenously, which almost always makes hospitalization necessary.

Clinical trials with the drug are now being widened to include a greater variety of tumerous conditions, they said.

Cleaning Up

In the Smithsonian Institution's laboratory of vertebrate paleontology, six tons of fossil bones belonging to the extinct gigantic ground sloth, Megatherium, are being cleaned and repaired. The skeletal remains of this grotesque animal were collected in western Panama by Dr. C. Lewis Gazin, curator of vertebrate paleontology of the U. S. National Museum, assisted by Dr. Theodore E. White, paleontologist of the Smithsonian's River Basin Surveys. The Smithsonian Institution paleontologists will attempt to reconstruct for exhibition in Washington a complete skeleton of the giant sloth. A large part of the collection will be returned to Panama for exhibition

Forming Pearls

Although some pearls are formed in fresh-water clams and oysters, the most valuable come from the marine pearl oysters of eastern Asia. They occur when some foreign object-perhaps a tiny grain of sand -gets between the shell and the body. The animal then secretes around the object successive layers of a material called nacre, which consists of calcium carbonate. This is the same material as the "mother of pearl" lining of the shell. The Japanese make "culture" pearls by deliberately introducing small particles of graphite into the oyster and keeping it for several years as the pearl is formed.

Intrared Rays

Infrared rays are similar to rays of visible light, except that the length of their waves is greater than those of red light, which are about 1/40,000th of an inch and are the longest that the eye can detect. The longest infrared waves are about 1/65th of an inch long. Any hot object-the Sun, an open fire, a red hot poker, a warm radiator, an electric lamp, etc. — sends out infrared radiation, often with visible rays as well. Special electric lamps to generate these rays, used for applying heat, have a filament which operates at a lower temperamainly for purposes of illumination.
