Famed Corregidor Now Philippine National Shrine

WASHINGTON-Corregidor, the war-scarred island in the Philippines, is becoming a mecca for

The one-time Gibraltar of the East, and the historic peninsula three miles north have been set aside by the Philippine Government as a national shrine.

Visitors are transported by ferryboats from Manila, 30 miles eastward. Roads have been cleared on the island which has become a tangle of tropical greenery since American paratroopers took it back from the Japanese in 1945.

Today the visitor sees rusty guns which bear the marks of tourists' initials as well as of war. The bombed-out ruins of an old light house is testimony to the historic fighting that took place here. The roofless remains of barracks and mess halls stand out on the elevated western portion of the island.

Corregidor's days of glory began soon after the first assault on the Philippines in December, 1941. The Japanese pushed through Bataan, their planes bombing Corregidor relentlessly, day and night. When Bataan fell, Corregidor was unquestionably doomed, but the island troops fought on.

One night sound locators picked up the ominous noise of landing barge motors. The enemy was heading toward the east end of the island. The landing was costly for the Japanese, but their numbers told the story. Lt. Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, facing a choice of surrender or the wholesale slaughter of his troops, chose to surrender. That was on May 6, 1942 and the surrender ended more than three months of direct

If You're Healthy, Coffee Not Harmful

CHICAGO - Drinking 20 to 30 cups of coffee a day probably wouldn't harm you - unless you were not completely healthy to begin with.

Two consultants gave this opinion recently in a prominent medical journal.

One consultant said caffeine in coffee may cause nervousness, tremor, flashes of light or hearing difficulty, insomnia, headaches and a variety of minor difficulties. But these "ordinarily are not serious and disappear promptly if the use of coffee is stopped." In persons with organic disease such as 'nart, nerve or intestinal disorders, he said the effect could be harmful and the excessive use of coffee should be avoided.

The second consultant said caffeine and other substances in coffee certainly could be harmful to a peptic ulcer patient, and may cause some heart-circulation difficulties and even loss of weight (from increases in work output under the influence of caffeine). But he said anyone who has to ask his physician whether 20 or 30 cups of coffee are hurting him must not be experiencing any ill-

Pilot Shortage In Agriculture Increased Aerial

Spraying Is Cause Though the Air Force, the Navy and the nation's airlines are still experiencing difficulty in recruiting enough good pilots, the real pilot shortage is developing in one of America's most important industries-agriculture. Today one of every 12 acres under cultivation in the United States is treated in some way from the air. In 1953, more than 80 million gallons of liquid sprays and 644 million pounds of dust type chemicals were dispensed on the nation's crops from the air-

Aerial pest and weed control and fertilizing now add $3 billion dollars to farm and ranch income each year. In Oregon, planes are used to spray hormones on fruit trees to keep the apples from falling until they are picked. In Texas, and other southwestern states aircraft are used to spray thousands of acres of cattle range blighted with mesquite (mesquite takes four times as much water per pound as range grass). In other sections of the south, aireraft spray thousands of the 22 of cotton fields killing insects which could destroy the growing crop. Pilot training programs for agriitself.

Pilots who have acquired their skills in other aviation activities are not necessarily good spray and dust pilots.

Today's military pilot cannot readily convert to this specialized work. Training in jet fighters and multi-engined bombers and transports doesn't make it easy for a pilot to handle light, but heavily loaded agricultural planes that skim just a few feet over the farms and ranches they work.

Farm Safety Program Saves Dollars, Time

If you are a farmer, no doubt you worry about farm profits. Here's a way you can save 20 days working time and $40 in hospital expenses: be more careful.

A survey made by the U.S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics shows that more than 20 days are lost per farm accident each year and that medical and hospital costs average over $40. You can take the first big step toward saving time and money for yourself by servicing machinery and adjusting it properly and replacing all broken or badly worn parts. Give your tractor a good going-over. It's the chief offender where farm accidents are concerned, being involved in nearly 75 per cent of all accidents with farm machinery. When you use your tractor, make sure to stop it before you get off and be sure it is out of gear before you crank it. Never let children ride on the tractor.

Work Made Easy

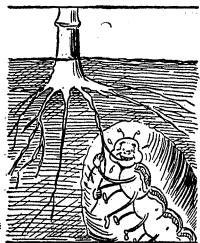

Hay bales shown above were stacked by only four men in a few hours using a conveyor powered by an electric motor to carry hay bales to proper loft areas. Electricity is doing more and more work on American farms.

Insects Share Farmer's Fortune But Soil Insecticide Use Is Increasing

Every farmer in the world is share-cropping with insects, but the average farmer has no idea how much the insects are getting, according to Dr. George C. Decker, well-known entomologist of the Illinois Agricultural Experiment Station. Dr. Decker says that the least understood and most insidious of these pests live below the surface and attack the roots of plants.

To fight these destructive pests, the use of soil insecticides on Iowa farms has risen from application to 25,000 acres in 1952 to 600,000 acres in 1954, said Dr. J. H. Lilly, Professor of Entomology at Iowa State College, who foresaw widespread of this new type insecticide in the near future. "Soil insecticides have been tested and proven for the control of rootworms," he said, "and some early tests indicate they may give control for two years."

Soil insecticides were also cited by Dr. Oscar N. Allen, Professor of Agricultural Entomology at the University of Wisconsin, for their "high degree of efficiency in controlling soil insect populations." Another top authority in his field, mology at Kansas State College, said that few farmers realize how much of their stored grain is destroyed by insects.

Self-Feeding Sheep Possible, Tests Show

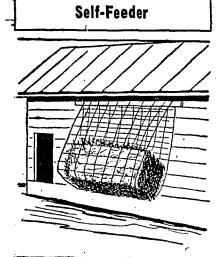

Work being done at the University of Illinois proves you can safely self-feed sheep. These same tests show that you can make feeding easier and better by self-feeding.

In the past sheep growers have not self-fed sheep because of high death losses when sheep overeat. Studies now indicate that you can control enterotoxemia, or overeating disease, by adding a high level of sale, ground corncobs or low-grade roughages to the concentrates.

Bred ewes should have about one pound of concentrate per head per day in addition to good-quality legume hay or silage. A mixture of 30 pounds of salt, 50 pounds of shelled corn, 15 pounds of soybean oil meal and 4 pounds of ground limestone makes a satisfactory grain ration that will keep ewes from eating more than a pound a day.

Or you can get the same results by using 75 pounds of ground corn or low-grade roughage with 15 pounds of shelled corn, 9 pounds of soybean oil meal and 1 pound of ground limestone.

C. E. Schoettle of the University's College of Veterinary Medicine reports that in addition to requiring less work, self-feeding did not cause any pregnancy disease. He warns, however, you'll need to supply more water and bedding when you feed a ration containing a high level of salt.

Here is a simple self-feeder made by wrapping a short piece of woven wire around the bale of hay and hanging it to the side of a barn. It works best when tightly bound bales are broken up for easier feeding.

Ethical-Religious Themes Dominant In Best Sellers

WASHINGTON — One hundred and three years ago "Uncle Tom's Cabin" came off the presses to set the pace for a long list of ethical-religious books ranking as American best-sellers.

The vast appeal of "Uncle Tom" (3,000,000 copies distributed in the United States) mirrors America's fondness for books of a religious or ethical nature.

For impact on the thinking of a nation, few novels equal the work of Harriet Beecher Stowe. a Maine clergyman's wife. Mrs. Stowe modeled Uncle Tom after a Negro freedom she met in Boston. While in church she conceived Uncle Tom's death and the same day she started writing. The story was serialized in a Washington weekly, but publishers at first refused it in book form. Finally one company offered the choice of two contracts: a 50-50 share of profits and costs, or a straight 10 per cent royalty. Mrs. Stowe chose the royalty and thereby passed up a fortune.

In the first year alone it took eight presses operating day and night to meet the demand.

Today's best seller list is loaded with books dealing with religious and ethical problems. Among the last hundred years' top best sellers (2,000,000 or more copies) books of a religious theme stand out: Lew Wallace's "Ben-Hur" (1880); Charles M. Sheldon's "In His Steps" (1897); Jesse Lyman Hurlbut's "The Story of the Bible" (1904) and Lloyd C. Douglas' "The Robe" (1942).

Among books estimated at over 2,500,000 copies are Shakespeare's "Plays," Scotts' "Ivanhoe"; Thomas Fleet's "Mother Goose," "Uncle Tom," "Ben-Hur," Dale Carnegie's "How to Win Friends and Influence People," and Margaret Mitchells "Gone With the Wind."

Silver Service Depicts Gold Rush

BERKELEY, Calif.—A priceless silver service fashioned by California silversmiths in the days of the gold-rush is on display on the Berkeley campus of the University of California.

Miners panning for gold, stage-coaches, bears, Stutter's mill and fort, and many other scenes reminiscent of early California are etched and carved on the 26 goblets, trays, soup tureens, gravy bowls and tea pots.

Sealed in an air-tight case, the silver pieces have remained sparkling since they were given to the University in 1935.

The silver service was once the property of James E. Birch, an early California settler who made a fortune running a stagecoach line that covered 1200 miles every day. Following his California success, Birch returned to his native New England and married.

Birch came back to California to settle his affairs and ship his wealth, in the form of gold bars, back to his home in the East. He followed on the palatial steamer "Central America" for New York. It was that ship's last voyage, for she went down at sea, taking Birch and many others with her

Little Padlock Locks Electrical Plugs

MILWAUKEE—Safety of children in the 'nome has been given a good boost—this time by a small padlock.

The lock is not to bar the door of the kiddies' rooms. Instead, it is designed to help safeguard children from the dangers of electrical current. The paclock, no bigger than a man's thumbnail, can be used to "lock out" the electrical plugs of lamps, power tools, and appliances when they are not in use

Called the "Cub" the tiny padlock may be locked through the hole in either prong of electrical plugs to keep children from inserting them into outlets.

The padlocks can also be used for locking zippers, brief cases, golf bags, mail boxes, trunks, meters and telephones.

Personality Continues To Undergo Changes

LOS ANGELES—Personality is not rigid but can change as one encounters new experience of different environments, according to Dr. Julian Rotter, psychology professor of the University of California at Los Angeles.

Rotter explained that, contrary to popular conception that personality is molded by the time a child is 6, it may change after he enters school because of new experiences in the different surroundings.

Beginning Farmer Better As Renter Economists Cite

Unless a beginning farmer has large savings and much farming experience, he probably is better off starting as a renter, conclude two University of Minnesota agricultural economists, Truman R. Nodland and Donald S. Moore.

Minnesota Studies

They say the beginning experiences of 562 young southern Minnesota farmers studied from 1947 through 1951 show a beginner can reap greater profits by investing his limited funds in a large, productive rented farm—rather than buying a smaller, less productive one.

Farmers just beginning, on small capital, will probably be most successful if they follow the above formula, rather than spending all their savings in buying land, Minnesota tests they.

Most beginners who started with savings of less than $5,000 had higher earnings and greater financial progress under a livestock and crop share lease.

Nodland's and Moore's report also showed that over 90 per cent of the beginners moved ahead financially during the period. There seems little relation between net worth and financial progress. Although owners earned much less than tenants, they made about the same financial progress in net worth—evidently they spent less on living expenses. With larger savings—$8,000 to $12,000—and under favorable conditions, some made as much financial progress starting out as an owner as did others as a tenant. However, they made some temporary sacrifice such as a lower standard of living—at least at the beginning.

Corn Borer Destroyed 7 Per Cent 1954 Crop

Almost 192 million bushels of grain corn worth more than $261 million—about 7 per cent of the national crop—were destroyed by the European corn borer in 1954, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture. This is more than double 1953's estimated 3 per cent loss of 90 million bushels worth more than $125 million. Last year's losses have been topped only once, in 1949, when corn destroyed by the borer was estimated at almost 314 million bushels worth nearly $350 million.

These estimates were made from 958 counties in the 25 eastern and midwestern states which produce 90 per cent of the corn grown for grain. They include 60 per cent of all counties known to be infested by the corn borer in this country. They are based on actual 1954 fall surveys of corn borer populations made by State entomological survey teams, and on losses computed for an additional 350 infested but unsurveyed counties in these states.

Iowa, Illinois, Nebraska, and South Dakota suffered heaviest losses to the insect. Iowa lost almost 94 million bushels of her 1954 crop, Illinois more than 38 million bushels, Nebraska 22 million bushels and South Dakota more than 17 million bushels.

Published Weekly by the Union Oil Service at Kendrick W. L. "Bill" Rogers, Editor

HELLO, FOLKS:

Busy? Who isn't, these harvest days - days of sunshine and hard work. However, don't let your car, pickup or truck suffer just because you're busy. Bring it to us for that necessary servicing and perhaps a wash and polish job, too. For we specialize in taking better care of your equipment. We believe we can because of the exceedingly high quality of Union Lubricants — including that fa-mouse Royal Triton Motor Oil. So bring it in to, us - tell us what you want done - and we'll do it!

First Inmate: "I wrote myself a letter today." Second Inmate: "Nonesense. You can't do that."

First: "Certainly I can."
Second: "Well, then, what did you say?"

First: "I don't know. I won't get the letter until tomorrow!"

How are the tires on your equipment? Will they safely take you through harvest work? If not, then come in and let us "talk tires" to you. We handle the famous U.S. Royal — and they give service! The price is low, too. Ask us.

Jim: "Say, is it true that Old Flin't a miser?" Jack: "Sure is, He stops his clock every night to save wear and tear on it!" Phone 1251 for harvest supplies of Union Gasoline, Oils, Diesel Fuels and Stove Oils. We deliver.

In a few months it will be too darn cold to do that job that it was too hot to tackle this summer.
