Weather Has Been "Scorching"

The weather in this territory for the past week can be most aptly described as "scorching hot," for day after day the thermometer has read from 94 to 100 degrees, usually reaching its peak about 3:00 to 3:30 p. m.

Nights, however, have been very cool, dropping generally to about the mid-fiftys to 60 degrees, and this has made conditions a great deal more comfortable — for if you can sleep well at night, you can take the heat during the day.

Farmers have taken fullest advantage of these conditions to rush harvest work, for there has been no dew at night, and they have been able to start work at the break of dawn.

PARENTS — IT'S TIME TO PUT ON THE BRAKES

"Now that school has begun, and school parties will soon be in order, it's time to put on the brakes and make Safety and Quiet a part of the operation of every car," says E. M. (Bill) White, Kendrick village marshal.

"Evidently many, if not most parents, are unaware of the speeding, 'bang-piping' and general reckless driving that has been a part of the 'teen age operation of cars by their sons and daughters on and about the streets of Kendrick for the past several weeks — and the time has come that they should know it and that it must stop.

"We have the 'bang pipe crowd' who love to squall their tires on the corners, gun the car, and then take their foot off the gas, with resulting back-fire that annoys everyone who hears it. I feel that I have been most lenient in this matter, talking to many of the youngsters, and with some accomplished the desired results. With others I have gotten nowhere, so from now on the 'gun your motor and take your foot off the gas' test will be applied wherever these 'bang pipe' cars are seen on the streets of Kendrick. A warning ticket will then be issued — and the next time it will be 'tell it to the judge.'"

"For the benefit of parents, a legal muffler is the one with which that car came equipped from the factory or a duplicate and does not include the so-called 'smittys,' 'mellow tone,' 'deep tone' etc.

"School parties have for years formed the basis of a great deal of the 'hot rodding' and this year, in co-operation with the school authorities, it is intended this pastime shall stop before it begins.

"Furthermore, the school zone speed limit signs of 10 miles per hour are again in place — and they will be enforced regardless of who may be the violator, be he student or adult.

"It has always been a mystery to me why parents permitted their 'teen agers' to equip their cars with 'bang pipes' and all the other paraphernalia for noise making and then come to town to play hide-and-seek, tag and other like games on and about the streets — the most dangerous of places. The youngsters do not seem to realize that two tons of hurtling steel and sheet iron is a death weapon as surely as a gun — so wake up before it's too late.

"Also, parents would do well to investigate Idaho's new 'Responsibility Law', which is one of the most severe in the nation.

"So, parents, see to it that your youngster removes that noise making equipment from his car, and that he drives it in the manner prescribed by law — or he can tell it to the judge — even as far as the juvenile court if necessary."

He had been hit by a car driven by a drunken American soldier, who failed to stop, but was later apprehended by the Military Police. The soldier was driving a German Mercedes car and going at a speed estimated to be 60 miles per hour.

His address, for the benefit of friends who might care to write is: Cpl. Frank P. McCreary, US 56-122-984, 886th Med. Co. (Coll) (Sep) Wilson Barracks, APO 180 c/o P. M., New York, New York.

MISS JANICE CHRISTENSEN BRIDE OF JAMES H. GRIFFIN

A lovely fall wedding was solemnized at the Kendrick Community Church Sunday afternoon, Sept. 4, at 4:00 o'clock, when Miss Janice Christensen became the bride of James H. Griffin of Waterville, Wash., in a double ring ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. D. A. Christensen, and the groom a son of Ross Griffin of San Fernando, Calif.

The Rev. F. C. Schmidt read the marriage service in front of the altar, which was flanked with tall baskets of gladioli in colors of white, purple and lavender shades. White satin bows and spikes of white gladioli decorated the ends of the pews.

Escorted and given in marriage by her father the radiant and beautiful bride was dressed in a floor length gown of silver-threaded white brocade. Of princess style, it was fashioned with an empire waistline, a scalloped neckline and long pointed sleeves closed by tiny covered buttons.

The tiny button detail was repeated down the back. She wore silver brocade slippers and her finger-tip veil of illusion net was attached to a little crown set with seed pearls and accented with rhinestones. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift of the groom. A white orchid with a purple throat surrounded by purple carnations and stephanotis designed in a crescent shape, formed her bride's bouquet.

The bride's attendants were attired in taffeta frocks of ballerina length, identical in design to that of the bride, with the exception of the short sleeves and skirts.

Mrs. Douglas Christensen, a sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor, and her dress was purple. Mrs. Charles Christensen, also a sister-in-law of the bride, and Maria Nelson, a school roommate were bridesmaids and their dresses were of a lilac shade. Little Nerea Garrett, a cousin of the groom, was flower girl, and she was dressed in an orchid shade of taffeta which was fashioned with puff sleeves and scalloped yoke and hem line edged in net. She carried a little basket of roses and petals. The attendants all carried colonial bouquets of pink roses circled with lavender carnations, and wore white necklaces. Their head bands were of crushed white tulle and flowers to compliment their dress.

The groom wore the conventional dark suit with white boutonniere. He had for his best man a school chum, Patrick McManus of Pullman. Ushers were Don Griffin, a brother from Spokane, and Douglas Christensen, a brother-in-law.

Mrs. H. C. Schupfer, organist, played background music and the traditional wedding marches, and also accompanied Miss Donna Kanikkeberg and Mrs. Burton Souders, Jr., who sang "Through the Years," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the church parlors. The bride's table laid with lace cloth was centered with a square four-tiered wedding cake, topped with a bell and miniature bride and groom. The cake was encircled with a necklace of cedar sprigs and lavender gladioli flowerlets, and flanked by silver candelabra and white tapers.

After the young couple had cut the first piece of cake Mrs. Marvin Long, assisted by Mrs. Howard Hoffman, finished cutting and serving.

Mrs. W. A. Watts served punch and Mrs. A. O. Kanikkeberg poured coffee. Norma Dagefoerde had charge of the guest book, and Joyce Armitage and Unis Westendahl presided at the gift table.

The bride's mother was dressed in a navy silk afternoon dress which was complimented by pink accessories and a pink rosebud corsage.

Mrs. Vanira Gimlin, the groom's foster mother, was dressed in a dark blue silk summer suit with white accessories, and her corsage was of white carnations.

The new Mrs. Griffin chose for her going-away, a boxy suit in olive green with matching accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet. They left immediately following the reception for Yellowstone park, and will return in time to enter the fall term at W. S. C., both as students.

The groom is a senior in Agricultural Engineering, and she a sophomore in Police Science.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding included: Mrs. Vanira Gimlin, Mrs. Blanch Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Viebrock and son David, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Viebrock and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Viebrock, all of Waterville, Wash.; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Horning of Colfax; Mr. and Mrs. Don Griffin and daughter of Spokane; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Garrett and daughter of Waterville; Charles Snowling of Salt Lake City; Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McManus of Pullman, Wash.; Miss Norman Nelson, Olympia, Wash.; Miss Norma Dagefoerde, Spokane, Wash.; and Terry Downey, Spokane, Wash.

Swim Pool Closes For Season

The Area Living War Memorial Swimming Pool at Kendrick closed for the season Monday evening (Labor Day) and while attendance figures are not yet available, the season was felt to be a very successful one.

Mrs. Wm. Johnson, lifeguard and swimming instructor this season, said that attendance had been dropping off steadily the past couple of weeks, despite the hot weather — due to the chilliness of the water, the cool, in fact almost cold nights, chilling the water too much for comfort.

This pool has provided the children of the area with a gathering place, as well as furnishing them instruction and sport under the best of circumstances — and now that school has begun, other sports will take its place.

Gets Bear, But Has Narrow Escape

Wm. Riley bagged the first big game of which we have heard Sunday, when he got a two-year-old black bear on the canyon side about a mile above his home — but in doing so he had a very narrow escape.

Bill and his son were hunting the animal, and Bill spotted it and fired. It fell, and he took out on a run for the spot. As he jumped a rock he landed almost on top of a big coiled rattler. Realizing he had to do something — and quick — Bill kicked the reptile, but did not strike squarely. However, he threw it off balance, and was able to get in another kick before the snake could again coil. By that time he saw his way clear to get away, and did so, but by the time he had recovered his balance and had picked up a rock the snake had gotten away — but not the bear.

Bill says that in his life he has seen and killed lots of rattlers — but he hopes never again to be put into such a position with one.

Show Greatly Enjoyed

The "Stars of Tomorrow" show presented at the High School gym Saturday evening was greeted with pleasure. Sponsored by the American Ridge 4-H Club, the show featured dancing by children ranging in ages from four through High school, and included tap, ballet, Hawaiian and gymnastic. Musical numbers were also included.

It's fun to watch children perform and this program was no exception. Little Sherry Bencoter, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Bencoter and a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frankie Bencoter, captured the hearts of everyone when she bounced through a "jitter-bug" dance, as well as many other song and dance numbers.

Many Birds Planted

Hale Ebling, Deary, State Game Conservation officer for Latah county was in Kendrick last Friday — and while here told us that he, assisted by fellow officers and farmer friends had planted quite a few Chinese pheasants in Latah county — on Aug. 31, 715 birds, and on Sept. 1, 667 birds.

These ranged in age from 8 to 10 weeks, and approximately two-thirds of them are cocks.

Mr. Ebling went on to say that the birds were planted in carefully selected spots where water and food were available, and well distributed all over the entire county. He added that they should provide pretty nice targets when the pheasant season opens.

When questioned as to how many of these he thought the coons and coyotes would get Mr. Ebling shrugged his shoulders and said he didn't know, but more in this area than in the Genesee section or about Moscow.

"Strike It Lucky"

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stedman celebrated their 28th wedding anniversary by taking a little trip to Joseph, Ore., over Labor Day, leaving here Sunday at noon. To their dismay they could find no over-night accommodations and were ready to drive back home when a kindly policeman learned of their plight and took them to his home to stay over night. Not only did he furnish them with a bed, but turned the house over to them, as his wife was away on vacation.

Every available room in motels and hotels was filled in the area, due to the big influx brought about by the filming of a movie at LeGrande, Ore.

Electors Really Voted

The School Directors election, held Tuesday of this week for the Cameron Leland Trustee district, for the election of a trustee to serve three years — really saw some "heavy" voting — just ten votes being cast. Three were from members of the election board — and just seven others "bothered."

Wilbur Tarbet, the only candidate, was unanimously elected!

Lake Information Available
Kendrick — Nobody needs to be "high and dry" without warning on Lake Coeur d'Alene this fall, the Washington Water Power Co. announced here this week.

H. C. Schupfer, local representative for the utility company said that now that the lake has reached elevation 2128, the control gates of the Post Falls dam have been closed and if at all possible the lake will be held at that level by balancing outflow at Post Falls with inflow to the lake.

Schupfer said that the company now plans to begin releasing waters from the lake early in September as part of a company program to assure a constant power supply for its many industrial and other power customers throughout its service area.

"We recognize the desire for information on lake elevations by people such as boat owners and operators, loggers, sportsmen and others who want to know what may be expected as the lake recedes during the fall and winter season. When low water supplies and heavy power demands require that we institute a steady draw-down of the lake level," Schupfer continued, "Kendrick people who fish or hunt along the lake shores can check with our division office at Kendrick for up-to-date information." Starting about Labor Day Schupfer said the elevation of the lake will recede at the rate of about 16 inches per month, until the first of the year. Then plans are subject to change if a heavy fall or winter rains create a greater inflow from the Coeur d'Alene and St. Joe Rivers, he added. Coeur d'Alene lake is used for the storage of water to increase power production during cold winter months. Release of water from the lake is coordinated with use of water from other river systems of the Pacific Northwest.

"A lot of things — steady payrolls in particular — depend on making the best use of Coeur d'Alene lake water during the heavy power load months," Mr. Schupfer commented. "Industries such as mining, pulp and paper making and lumbering, served by the Washington Water Power Co., use more than two-thirds of the company's total industrial sales. Jobs as well as comfort could be affected if power shortages resulted from inadequate water conservation practices."

Watch Those Milk Cans

Dull, rough milk cans may develop three times as many bacteria as shiny ones, G. C. Anderson, University of Idaho extension dairyman, says. He advises frequent inspection and treatment of rust spots. Cleaning all cans with heat, choline or other chemicals immediately before use is recommended.

Water Important To Production

Soils Should Utilize Available Rainfall

Water plays an important part in the production of any crop but it means most to "thirsty" crops such as corn.

Corn is indeed a thirsty crop. In fact, Midwest agronomists say that a 100-bushel corn yield will use up about 2,666 tons of water.

So it is important for farmers to keep their soils in shape to make use of every drop of rain available. Actually, many Corn Belt farms are only about 50 percent efficient in the use of water for producing crops.

Water is important to all crops, but is of vital importance to such "thirsty crops" as corn. Poor soils allow water to get away. Porous soils hold the water long enough to allow crops to get full benefit they need for higher yields.

Two factors responsible for this situation are:

1—Too much water is permitted to get away. It runs off because some soils are in such poor shape that the surface seals over and won't permit water to soak in.

2—When the soil's fertility level is low, more water is needed to take the nutrients into the growing plants, because the concentration of nutrients in the soil solution will be low.

Soils make most efficient use of water when they are porous, of good tilth and high in organic matter. When such soils get a well-balanced supply of nitrogen, phosphate and potash fertilizer, growing crops have the full benefit of all the nutrients and moisture they need for high yields.

Legume Catch Crop Brings Yield Increase

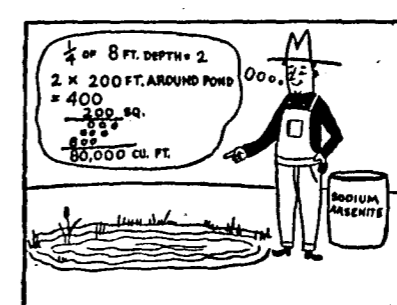

Seeding legume catch crops in oats, wheat or other grain fields has the same effect as putting protein in livestock feeds. The legumes help to balance the "ration" for corn and other non-legume crops.

L. B. Miller, soils specialist at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, reports on a three-year rotation of corn, oats and wheat at the Dixon Soil Experiment Field in Lee County. A legume catch crop seeded with each wheat crop there resulted in a 28-year average increase of 20 bushels of corn an acre, 8 bushels of oats and 4 bushels of wheat.

Miller reported the increases worth more than $50 an acre for the rotation. Cost of using the catch crop, a mixture of legumes, once in rotation is about $5 an acre. So the payoff has averaged about 10 to 1.

To make the most of catch crops, Miller suggests that you supply the soil with needed amounts of lime and other minerals and then use a systematic rotation that includes a catch crop every third or fourth year.

Pond Cleaning

Sodium Arsenite, which is potent as lye and must be handled with extreme care, will clear off pond weeds. A concentration of 4 to 8 lbs. per million (3 to 6 gallons for each 100,000 cubic feet of water) will kill weeds; it takes 12 parts to kill fish. About half the pond should be treated at a time. Here's a rule of the thumb; multiply one-fourth of the deepest footage by number of steps around the pond squared. Pond 8 feet deep and 200 steps around has 80,000 cubic feet and needs 2 1/2 to 4 1/2 gallons of sodium arsenite.

Study Backs Up Claim That Men Are Safer at Work

NEW YORK—"Safe as in your own home," is an old saying, but apparently one that is not completely accurate in view of the experience among males with industrial insurance.

Insurance statisticians say that American wage-earners have fewer accidents while on the job than they do out of working hours—at home, on the streets, and in recreational pursuits.

The proportion of accidental deaths occurring off the job varied with the occupation of the worker and in a number of occupational groups all or nearly all of the fatal injuries were sustained off the job.

Examples of such groups are workers in cotton or woolen mills and in furniture factories, barbers and operatives in shoe and clothing factories, among whom the non-occupational mishaps accounted for the entire accident death toll in the years 1951 through 1953, according to the records of one insurance company.

Other such groups are the white collar workers—clerks and other office workers, merchants and storekeepers, store clerks and salesmen—among whom fewer than one in ten of the accident fatalities arose in the course of their employment.

Even in occupations which involve appreciable accident hazards, off-the-job accident fatalities predominated in the insurance experience.

Cites Big Problem Of Today's Schools

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Adjustment of schools and colleges to meet individual differences in children and youth is one of the major problems of contemporary education, says Dean Willard C. Olson of the University of Michigan School of Education.

Dean Olson believes that the differences that exist among students is far greater than is believed by those who have not made an intensive scientific study of human characteristics.

Besides the obvious variances in physical measurements, in intellect, in achievement, and in personality, there are also differences that can not readily be measured, he said. "These are the differences in motivation, in drive for achievement, and in future goals," he explained.

Dean Olson said that the method currently in practice in selecting students for college on the basis of their general aptitude and rank in the senior class is working in the correct direction, but is insufficient to diagnose a student's promise. He says colleges are still missing large numbers of persons of talent and outstanding capacity who could profit by a more prolonged training.

Smithsonian Institute Adds Balanoglossus

WASHINGTON—You might be interested in knowing that the latest addition to the Smithsonian Institution's biological collection is a balanoglossus.

The balanoglossus, in case you didn't know, is sometimes considered a link of sorts between three major groups — worms, enchytraids or member of the general starfish family, and vertebrates. It (the balanoglossus) got stuck in the mud two or three hundred million years ago and remained most like a worm.

The Smithsonian's giant "worm" was dug out of the beach sand at Grand Isle, La., by Dr. Harry J. Bennett of Louisiana State University, a job that required half a day and the utmost care of six helpers, for if the animal had been disturbed in any way during the operations it would probably have been broken to bits. Similar animals as much as six feet long have been reported but have been recovered only in fragments.

Big Bray Over Phone Identifies Man

SAN ANTONIO—Texas Ranger Zeno Smith tells of a wealthy rancher picked up as a drunk in Fort Worth. To establish his identity, the man asked police to telephone the sheriff of his home county.

"Will you ask the subject to come to the phone and bray over it?" the sheriff requested. The rancher went to the telephone and brayed like a donkey.

"He's telling the truth," the sheriff said. "There ain't nobody in this county can go like a jack-ass like him."

Low Wheat Yields Keep Costs High

Good Soil Building Methods Approved

Like any other businessman, the farmer must receive a profit return on his investments, if he is to remain in operation. The wheat farmer who suffers low wheat yields is comparable to a landlord putting up with a boarder who refuses to pay for his keep. In the case of low wheat yields you get little or no return because costs of production eat up all the

You couldn't run a boarding-house if tenants failed to pay their rent—and the farmer can't make a living raising crops that fail to pay for themselves and return a profit. The farmer who tolerates poor yields is a bad businessman, to say the least.

profit. That is true of yields averaging less than 20 bushels per acre, Ohio State University agronomists say.

But low yields can be turned into high yields and higher profits where soil building methods are used, including the use of balanced fertilizer containing nitrogen, phosphate and potash.

As yields go up, costs of production naturally go down. This means a higher net return for the farmer, even though prices may decline.

F. W. Smith, Kansas State College agronomist says that for high yields and rapid growth, wheat needs plant nutrients in quickly available form from the soil. To get those high yields, Smith advises farmers to have their soils tested and then follow recommendations by their state colleges for the use of nitrogen, phosphate and potash fertilizer.

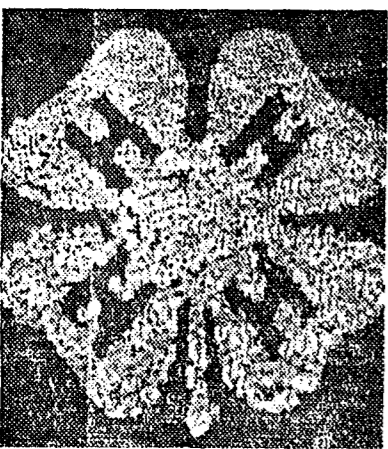

Increased Population Won't Up Farm Profits

By 1975, economists foresee the population in the United States increasing to more than 210 million people. On the surface this would appear to be far more than enough to eat up the surpluses of today's agriculture, and bring about higher prices for available farm products.

Yet the rise in the need for agricultural products isn't necessarily going to mean higher prices for America's farmers. New developments that increase farm production along with the need for farm products may indicate, say the experts, that controls will be needed for a long time to come. In fact, they conclude, farm prices will have the tendency to fluctuate even more widely than now as the economy grows. In the future, a small change in production will result in bigger farm price swings than now. Therefore production controls will be even more important than at the present time.

Developments that increase farm production will increase the downward trend in farm prices by adding to the supply of agricultural goods already placed on a limited market. The economists feel that new agricultural research should be directed toward developments which will reduce costs while boosting the output.

4-H Clover

This giant 4-H clover was photographed on the lawn of the administration building at Kansas State College. Most of the 1,300 Kansas 4-H club boys and girls attending the 31st annual 4-H Roundup posed for the picture. The college photographer processed enough pictures to give each delegate a print before the Roundup ended.

'Do-It-Yourself' Provides 6 Billion Dollar Industry

NEW YORK — Today's "do-it-yourself" industry provides a six-billion-dollar market for new tools and materials of all types and sizes.

Hundreds of exhibitors catering to the handy man displayed their wares at a recent show in Chicago and more than 83,000 avid hobbyists attended to gaze at the latest developments and try out the new machines and tools.

New tools are designed for the use of the amateur. They are compact but powerfully built—versatile but simple in design and use. By using the new bench saw, lathe, power sander, electric drill, or portable power saw, the novice can turn out work with a professional touch. Patented developments in the power-tool industry have helped increase its annual sales to about $250,000,000—ten times the size of the market before the war.

Manufacturers of materials have kept pace by bringing out new easy-to-use-paints and wallpapers, rubber and plastic tiles, aluminum products, and home insulation. They have packaged lumber in convenient sizes, and concrete formulas ready to mix.

The shortages of labor and products during World War II convinced thousands of men and women that the only way they could obtain the "extras" they wanted was to contrive them. Some latent abilities among those amateur craftsmen enabled them to turn out finished products that inspired others to take up the hobby, and soon millions of people were designing and building in their own homes. New power tools and materials helped the spark grow and grow.

New Elephant Act For St. Louis Zoo

ST. LOUIS — Eight baby elephants imported from Siam are expected to become top headlines at the famous St. Louis Zoo.

The elephants, a gift from brewing company president August A. Busch, Jr., were purchased for $30,000 and imported from Siam last October. They were sent to "training school" at the Gobel Animal Farm near Los Angeles.

The elephants, all girls, range in age from 1½ to 3 years, stand about four feet high at the shoulders and weigh about 400 pounds.

section sampling of the city by the Survey Research Center and the Department of Journalism at the University of Michigan.

Among the smokers who changed their habits without quitting, about one out of five changed to filter tip cigarettes. The rest "cut down" their cigarette use, changed brands, or increased pipe smoking.

The survey shows that the reaction to news about smoking and cancer depends mainly on three factors: 1) whether an individual smokes, 2) how much education he's had and 3) what his parents thought about smoking.

Pounds of Pearls Found in First City

CARACAS, Venezuela — Pearls, pearls, nine pounds of them were discovered here recently.

Professor Jose Maria Cruixent, director of Caracas' Museum of Natural Sciences, said he found the treasure buried in the debris of South America's first city.

With the aid of Professor John Goggin of the University of Miami, Professor Cruixent had been excavating the site of Nueva Cadiz, a city founded on Cubaga Island in 1516 and completely destroyed by a hurricane in 1534.

The pearls, contained in a Spanish clay jug, were found in the earth under the ruins of a house and are estimated to have been worth about $300,000 when buried. However, it was pointed out, their value is considerably less now, as pearls lose their lustre over so long a period of interment.

Hoggish Sea Birds Irk African Senator

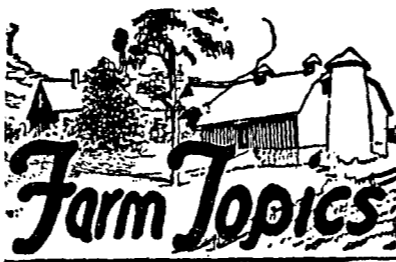

PRETORIA, S. Africa — Should sea birds be protected if they are harmful to a nation's food supplies? South African Senator S. M. Petterson doesn't think so. He recently told the Senate it was estimated back in 1935 that birds were eating 8,000,000 tons of fish a year off the South African coast.

Petterson said the birds' take has probably increased since to 15,000,000 tons a year—400 times the fishermen's catch.

Iowan Pioneered Early Weaning

Salesman Now Owns Going Feed Business

With early weaning of pigs becoming widely adopted as one of the most significant developments in modern livestock management and production, an Iowan with 16 years' experience in pig weaning has compiled a handy list of hints for farmers and hog raisers planning to convert to this new method of increasing pork production and thereby insuring a higher cash return on their investment in hogs.

P. J. Geerlings, of Waterloo, first conceived the idea of early weaning—a dry feed instead of a liquid milk-substitute—in 1939, but he couldn't interest any of five companies for which he had worked as a feed salesman. In 1940 he opened his own feed firm and began to experiment with various dry feeds. For 10 years he met with failures, his early-weaned pigs weighing less than conventionally weaned pigs.

In 1950, he found the answer by adding aureomycin, to his dry weaning feed. His gains shot up to 30 pounds, substantially over cent weeds, and were considered failures.

Oats, Field Peas Make Top Winter Forage

Research at Mandan, N. Dak., shows that oats and field peas, grown together and ensiled, make a superior and convenient winter forage for dairy cattle in the northern plains area.

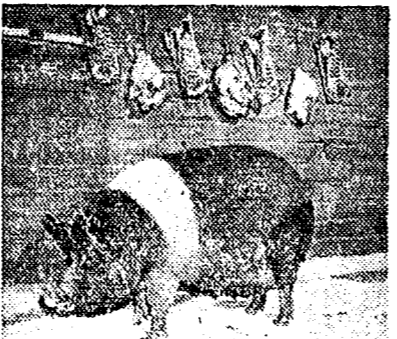

Scientists of USDA's Northern Great Plains Dairy Station compared silage from a mixed crop of Marion oats and Canada field peas with corn silage and wild-rye-sweetclover silage in yield and feeding tests. The oat-pea diet was supplemented in the feed trials with grass hay for heifers, and with grass hay plus a simple concentrate for cows.

Used with these supplements, oat-pea silage seemed better able than the other feeds to provide all the nutrients needed by dairy cattle for milk production and body maintenance. In yield of forage per acre, the oat-pea crop was the equal of corn, now generally used in that area.

Each spring for 4 years, an experimental field was planted to a mixture of 40 pounds per acre of oats and 35 pounds of peas. Good stands were obtained each year. The crop was harvested when the oats were in the soft-dough stage and the peas were starting to form in small pods.

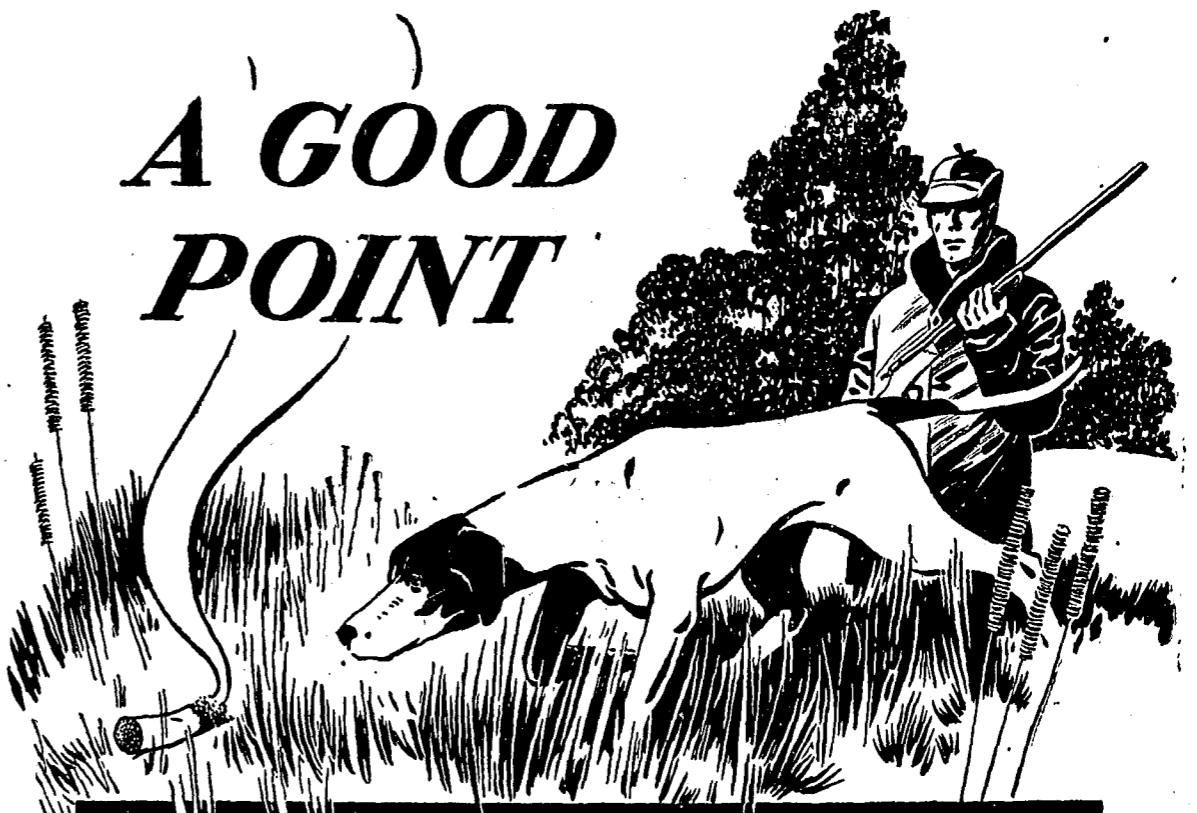

Unlike corn, the oat-pea mixture needed no cultivation. Weed control in this crop was as good as in corn fields, sometimes better.

Weight Saver

"Cheerle Bea," 650-pound purebred Hampshire of John Soorholtz, Melbourne, Iowa, poses with 70 pounds of hams and bacon representing approximate weight a sow loses nursing litter in conventional 8-week weaning. In early weaning, baby pigs are taken from sow at third week. Sow can then be rebred 5 weeks earlier, or go to market faster.

A GOOD POINT

This dog's point is well taken. One cigarette, dropped in dry grass, can start a fire that will destroy thousands of acres of valuable woodland. One fire may close a large area to hundreds of sportsmen. Fast spreading flames trap birds and animals, destroy their cover and burn their food supplies.

Fire kills young trees, too—trees needed for tomorrow's timber harvests. Please be careful with fire in the woods. Do your part to keep our state green.

Have Lots Of Scholarships

Lewis-Clark Normal School, Lewiston — A bigger percentage of students will be attending Lewis-Clark Normal School with scholarships when it opens September 22nd, than any other college in the nation.

Dr. D. R. Theophilus, who serves the dual role of president of the University of Idaho, and of Lewis-Clark, said this week that more than 100 scholarships had been made available by residents of Lewiston and other friends of the institution, for the first year of the school. The institution was closed four years ago as Northern Idaho College of Education, and every effort is being made to attract new students.

The scholarships are for $100.00. As Idaho students pay no tuition, the student with a scholarship has a good boost on his college costs.

"Many part-time jobs are also available on the campus and in Lewiston," said Dr. Theophilus. "The opportunities are good. It's up to youth to reach for them."

NO PICNIC

Getting out this paper is no picnic!
 If we print jokes people say we are silly — if we don't they say we are too serious.
 If we clip things from other papers, we are too lazy to write them ourselves — and if we don't we are "stuck on our own stuff."
 If we stick close to the job all day, we ought to be out hunting news — if we get out and try to hustle, we ought to be on the job in the office.
 If we don't print contributions — if we don't appreciate true genius — if we do print them the paper is filled with "junk."
 If we make a change in the other fellow's writup we are too critical — if we don't we are "a top."
 Now, like as not, some guy will say we swiped this from some other paper — we didn't! It was sent to us anonymous from Juliaetta.

HELLO, FOLKS:

Well, the hot weather — harvest weather — is still with us — and of course the harvest rush. You can't be bothered with worry about whether or not you have enough gasoline, diesel fuel or lubricants to meet your needs — so just step to the phone and call 1251 — say "fill 'em up" and we'll do the rest — with those famous Union Products, including Royal Triton Motor Oil — the oil that has no peer!

A well-heeled man was passing a cut-rate clothing store when a long arm reached out from a doorway and pulled him in.
"I don't need any clothes," he protested, "I've got ten suits at home."
"All the better," said the aggressive merchant, "bring them in."

I'll make you a partner."

Need tires for your truck or pickup? If so, come in and talk it over with us. We have a new line and a proposition that will interest you. They're low in price — yet guaranteed!

"Aren't you ashamed to have your wife doing such menial labor to support you?" asked the judge.
"Yes, I am, your Honor, but what can I do? She's not bright enough to do anything else!"

Have you tried Royal Triton Motor Oil? If not, why not? Come in and let us give you the facts on this wonderful all-year lubricant — it will save you money!

Juliaetta Tomatoes Scarce
The famous Juliaetta tomato is a very scarce item this year. No doubt due to the extreme heat and dryness, coupled with cold nights, they have been prevented from maturing properly.

Tomatoes need hot nights and lots of moisture to develop in color and flavor, and despite the blistering mid-day sun, the nights are cold. Growers in Juliaetta tell us the tomatoes are not "setting on" and those that do tend to be runty and lacking in that superb flavor and color that has made them famous for miles around.

Lucky is the housewife that has some canned tomatoes left from last year as there will be few, if any, locally for canning. The price, too, under these circumstances, has remained high.

Local melons are now in full swing and the cantaloupes seem to be measuring up to previous records of excellent flavor. However, they were late to appear on the local market, and watermelons still later — just now beginning to show.

Friendship Club To Meet
The Evergreen Friendship Club will meet at the L. D. Crocker home on Wednesday, Sept. 14, at 1:30 p. m., with Mrs. Jean Johnson as hostess. All are urged to attend.
