PACIFIC NORTHWEST POWER ASKS LICENSE FOR TWO DAMS

The Pacific Northwest Power company last week asked the Federal Power Commission for permission to develop 1,446,000 kilowatts of new hydroelectric power at the Mountain Sheep and Pleasant Valley damsites on the middle Snake river.

The $210,000,000 projects will be financed entirely by private capital and the construction schedule calls for starts at the two sites in March, 1955, with the first power available early in 1959.

The major new dams have been located above the mouths of the Salmon and Imnaha rivers in order not to interfere with important fish migrations. The installations will cost $143,700,000, with another $66,300,000 required for transmission lines to load centers in the power-hungry Northwest.

The four private utilities, Washington Water Power, Pacific Power & Light, Montana Power, and Portland General Electric, that make up Pacific Northwest Power, serve over 800,000 customers, representing nearly half of all power users in Oregon, Washington, northern Idaho and Montana. The firms have spent $1,250,000 for exploration at the sites and engineering studies this year.

Kinsey M. Robinson, president of Pacific Northwest Power Company, said the Mountain Sheep and Pleasant Valley developments "constitute a closely interrelated project and provide a maximum effective operation and use of potential water resources in the public interest."

He said the project would be coordinated with operation of the Northwest Power Pool, "increasing its capability and resulting in benefits for customers of all pool members."

The company has provided funds and other facilities to Federal and State fisheries and wildlife agencies to investigate the effect of the project on fish and wildlife resources. It has also requested the cooperation of the responsible Federal and State agencies in studying the recreational aspects of the project.

FPC had granted the four-company group a preliminary permit for the Snake river project April 8. The Oregon hydroelectric commission had granted its preliminary permit Aug. 3, and earlier, the State of Idaho had allowed the company water use rights.

The P. N. P. license request calls for:

(1) A 225-foot high concrete gravity-type dam at Mountain Sheep, 18 miles northeast of Imnaha, Oregon, and a mile above the mouth of the Imnaha river. The top elevation of the reservoir would be 113 feet above river level, providing for a gross head of 163 feet. The reservoir area would cover 1,700 acres, backing Snake river water 20 miles up to the Pleasant Valley site.

The Mountain Sheep powerhouse, to be located at the toe of the dam, would have an initial installed capability of 333,000 kilowatts from three generating units. Addition of a fourth unit would raise maximum capability to 432,000 kilowatts at full gate opening. The plants turbines will be in physical size, the largest ever built.

(2) A 534-foot high concrete arch-type dam at Pleasant Valley, 10 miles southwest of Whitebird, Idaho, and two miles downstream from Pittsburg landing. Top elevation of the reservoir would be 1,490 feet above sea level. Its gross head for power production would be 377 feet. The dam, said to be one of the highest of its type in the world, would back water the 34.3 miles to the tailwater of the Hells Canyon site. The reservoir would cover 8,000 acres and have a total storage capacity of 928,000 acre feet with about 500,000 acre feet of useable storage.

Pleasant Valley will have two powerhouses just downstream from the dam — one on the Oregon side and the other on the Idaho side. Initial installed capacity is set at 850,000 kilowatts from five units. A sixth unit will bring maximum capability to 1,014,000 kilowatts.

The plant's big semi-outdoor type hydro generators will be the largest ever constructed. They are rated at 144,000 kilowatts with a capability of 170,000 kilowatts at full gate opening. A pair of 700-ton capacity gantry cranes at Pleasant Valley will be the largest of their kind.

Tangles With Chain Saw
Fletcher Goss had a terrifying minute last Monday when his right trouser leg became entangled in a chain saw, and he literally had his "pants leg chewed off." His leg also took some of the roughing — but the injury was too ragged to be sewn — so will just have to be given time to heal.

New Arrival

Members of the "B" League will not take part in this final playoff.

Enrollment Up
The enrollment in School District No. 283 is still climbing, as more students quit the harvest fields for the school room. Juliaetta now has 147 students enrolled as follows: 1st grade 24, 2nd grade 25, 3rd grade 26, 4th grade 26, 5th grade 25 and 6th grade 21.

Southwick has 41 students: 1st grade 9, 2nd grade 9, 3rd grade 2, 4th grade 9, 5th grade 9, 6th grade 6. The Kendrick Jr. High has 28 students in the 7th grade and 38 students in the 8th. The Jr. High still remains departmentalized, with Mr. Merrick handling the Math and Science in both rooms. Mrs. Jones teaches the Language and Arts to both grades, with Mrs. Murray taking care of the Social Sciences. To equalize the load among the teachers in the building, Mrs. Murray teaches two classes in the Sr. High and Mr. Merrick takes care of one Sr. High study hall.

The Senior High lost a larger than usual number of students over the summer, due to quitting school for no reason, marriage, and moving out of the district — but still has a record number enrolled for this community, with 117 students entered to date. So far there are 40 in the 9th grade, 29 in the 10th grade, 23 in the 11th grade and 25 seniors, with pine more expected.

Bus Routes
The bus routes have continued practically the same as last year, and there was only one change in drivers. Jesse Heffel is driving the Sperry Grade run, formerly driven by Mr. McGeachy. A. A. Kremmin continues on the Juliaetta-Kendrick run and has a new (to this district) 54 passenger bus which has overcome the crowded conditions of last year on that run.

Save District Money
Aaron Wells and Darvin Tarry flew to Lima, Ohio, and drove out the two new buses that the district purchased this year. This arrangement saved the school district approximately $200, but more important, Mr. Wells was able to supervise and carefully check the first 2,000 miles on the buses.

Cabbage Pest Control

When it comes to insect trouble, cabbage catches more grief than Job. More than a dozen pests are listed in the University of Idaho's booklet on insect control, the county agent observed in response to requests from many home gardeners who want to know what to do about them. Sometimes one sort of bug makes an attack — frequently they come in bunches.

The cabbage looper adult is a moth with brown wings about an inch across. They are active at night. The larvae are green, about an inch long with two thin white stripes on the back and along the sides. When they crawl they loop their bodies — hence the name. They feed on leaves and heads of cabbage and lettuce.

Dusting with DDT when the plants are young, with further treatments at 10-day intervals, keeps them under control. The University of Idaho extension service recommends a 1 percent rotenone dust to kill them after cabbage heads begin to form.

The cabbage worm is light green and velvety, about three-quarters of an inch long. It is the larva of the cabbage butterfly, a white specimen. Control is the same as for the looper.

Cabbage aphids are dark green or bluish plant lice covered with a powdery secretion. They are sometimes abundant on leaves and stems of cabbage and turnips. The remedy is to dust as soon as they are observed. Use a four or five percent malathion dust at 30 pounds per acre or two pounds of 25 percent amalthion wettable powder to 100 gallons of water as a spray. Early control is essential.

Cabbage maggots are the product of gray flies smaller than the house fly. Hatching maggots infest the stems of cabbage and cauliflower and the fleshy roots of radishes and turnips. They are cream colored and legless. The way to get rid of them is to dust the soil surface around the base of plants with any of several chemicals such as chlordane, dieldrin or heptachlor. Sprays are good, too.

Homecoming Date Set

U. of I. — The University of Idaho's 1955 Homecoming will be staged in close cooperation with Lewiston's gigantic Sesquicentennial Lewis and Clark Celebration October 7-9, it was announced this week by Gale L. Mix, general manager of the Associated Students organization.

Parades in Lewiston, October 7, and in Moscow October 8, will feature floats depicting Lewis and Clark and the birth of the State of Idaho, Mix said. He pointed out that the feature attraction in Moscow Saturday afternoon, October 8, will be the Homecoming football game with College of Pacific.

Mix and Charles McDevitt of Pocatello, student body president, met with Lewiston officials to arrange plans for the celebration. A special Homecoming meeting was then called by McDevitt, who joined Kenneth Wright of Idaho Falls, chairman, and other members of the committee in formulating plans.

In announcing the joint celebration Mix said: "Homecoming at the University of Idaho promises to be the biggest and most gala in the history of the university. Working together, the cities of Lewiston and Moscow, and the Associated Students of the University will commemorate the birth of Idaho with a gigantic sesquicentennial Lewis and Clark celebration. All of the pagentry and the splendor of the Lewis and Clark days will be reborn, and the entire story of E-dah-hoe — 'The light upon the mountains' — will be retold."

Hall Is To Be Named

Lewis-Clark Normal School, Lewiston — When students start occupying the new men's dormitory on the Lewis-Clark Normal school campus, they will be living in a home without a name — but not for long. The hall will be named and dedicated October 9 as part of Lewiston's big Sesquicentennial celebration honoring the pioneer trek of Explorers Lewis and Clark through the area.

Dr. D. R. Theophilus, president of both the University of Idaho and Lewis-Clark, has asked the Lewiston Chamber of Commerce to suggest a name for the building, which was completed four years ago, just when the institution was closed as the Northern Idaho College of Education.

Members of Lewis-Clark's first first class will walk into gleaming new rooms, for the building has never been used. The modern, well-lighted, three-story structure has 39 bedrooms to accommodate 79 men. A large living room with fireplace is to have new, specially designed furniture to blend with the interior architecture.

The kitchen, with its walk-in lockers and facilities in stainless steel, is rated as one of the most modern in the west. It will serve both the men in the dormitory and the women residing in Talkington hall.

Iowan Pioneered Early Weaning Salesman Now Owns Going Feed Business

With early weaning of pigs becoming widely adopted as one of the most significant developments in modern livestock management and production, an Iowan with 16 years' experience in pig weaning has compiled a handy list of hints for farmers and hog raisers planning to convert to this new method of increasing pork production and thereby insuring a higher cash return on their investment in hogs.

P. J. Geerlings, of Waterloo, first conceived the idea of early weaning—a dry feed instead of a liquid milk-substitute—in 1939, but he couldn't interest any of five companies for which he had worked as a feed salesman. In 1940 he opened his own feed firm and began to experiment with various dry feeds. For 10 years he met with failures, his early-weaned pigs weighing less than conventionally weaned pigs.

In 1950, he found the answer by adding aureomycin, to his dry weaning feed. His gains shot up to 30 pounds, substantially over the 8-week national average. After thoroughly testing his meal on Iowa farms, he put the product on the market in 1953.

Here's How To Start Early Weaning Plan

Interested in starting an early weaning program? Here are P. J. Geerling's recommendations, based upon 16 years experience and first-hand tips gleaned from 1,000 case histories of Iowa farmers:

At 10 days to 2 weeks creep feed the early weaning meal away from the sow.

Early weaning program success requires plentiful supply of clean, fresh water near the feeders.

At 3 weeks either take the pigs away from the sow or sow away from the pigs. Divide pigs according to size so smaller pigs can feed together. Use one 8-hole feeder for each 20 pigs, or one feeding space per 2 pigs. You may put the weaning meal in pans supplementing feeder for first few days as a practical aid.

With good supply of water available, pigs eat more feed and get the fullest benefit from vitamins and antibiotics scientifically built into the feed.

Heat lamps over bedding or near the feed are necessary to keep pigs warm in cold weather.

Weaned at 3 weeks, each pig should consume about 10 pounds of the weaning feed. At 6 weeks start self-feeding shelled corn and meal on the side in separate feeders.

At 6th or 7th week pigs should be wormed. Early vaccination is also recommended.

Barn Cleaning

Modern dairy farming is typified here as manure drops into spreader located in basement of barn. Push-button barn cleaner automatically drops refuse after it is collected and farmer simply opens the door and drives to the fields to distribute his load. Modern dairy barns such as this one can be cleaned as often as necessary, with little manpower.

in public monopoly than there is in private monopoly, for when the government goes into business it can always shift its losses to the taxpayers. If it goes into the power business it can pretend to sell cheap power and then cover up its losses.

"The government never really goes into business, for it never makes ends meet. And that is the first requisite of business. It just mixes a little business with a lot of politics and no one ever gets a chance to find out what is actually going on. I feel so strongly on the government keeping out of business that if I had my way . . . all the government should have is an efficient inspection bureau."

Life On Farms Getting Better

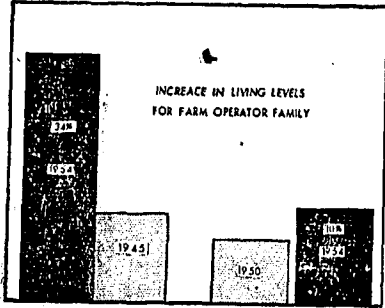

Level Of Living Still Going Upward

Families of farm operators have considerably improved their levels of living since 1945, according to a report by USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service.

Level-of-living indexes in the report are based on four key items—percentage of farms with electricity, with telephones, and with automobiles, and the value of products sold from these farms—(adjusted for changes in purchasing power of farmer's dollar).

In terms of this index, levels of living for farm operator families in 1954 were 34 per cent above the level of 1945.

Farm-operator levels of living since 1950 have continued the upward trend maintained since 1930, the first year for which the indexes are available. The index increased rapidly during 1940-50,

These two illustrations show how farmer's level of living has increased from 1945 to 1954 and from 1950 to 1954. Rates of increase have been slower since 1950, but is still continuing upward. Reports are based on what the farmer owns and the value of his products.

a period of marked changes in the country, as a whole. The rate of increase has slackened since 1950 but not at the same rate for all regions. For the country as a whole it rose 10 per cent from 1950 to 1954.

By regions, the Northeast and North Central States show the smallest percentage increase. The South continued to make the greatest gain, but still ranks lowest on the index. The West ranks highest but shows only moderate gains. New England and the Middle Atlantic States—the Northeast region—have identical ranking.

The indexes do not attempt to measure relative standards of living as between farm and nonfarm families. Despite substantial increases in the level of living of farm-operator families, the purchasing power of farm families on the average in 1954 was still considerably less than that of the nonfarm family.

Proper Treatment To Cure Mastitis

Advertising might lead some dairymen to believe all they need do to control mastitis is to inject something into the teat canal of cows giving abnormal milk, but it's not that easy.

Dr. H. S. Bryan of Illinois says that it is often necessary to treat infected quarters with the right drug to clear up mastitis. Permanent cures will depend upon combining the right treatment with proper steps to remove the cause, says the veterinarian.

Suggested methods to control mastitis:

Keep barns in sanitary condition and lots free from mud and trash or equipment that might cause injury to the udder.

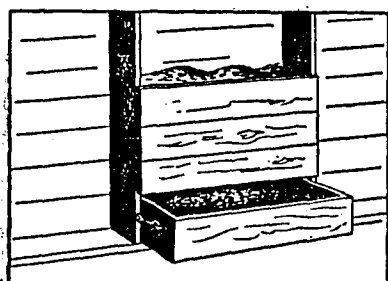

Make sure milker is operating at the proper speed and vacuum and that the teat inflations are in good condition.

Be sure the stall platform is long enough and cows are well bedded.

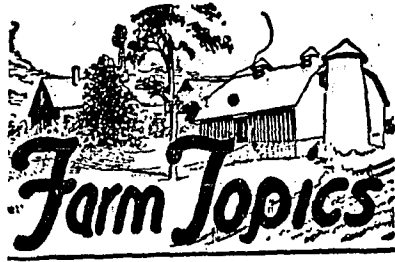

Get cows ready for milking by washing the udder and teats with a warm disinfectant solution. Between cows, dip the teat cups into a chlorine solution. Check each cow daily with a strip cup.

Have the milk from each cow checked periodically in the laboratory. Treat infected cows immediately.

Feed Hopper

Boxing in a pair of studs and fitting them with shallow boxes provides hoppers for grain, oyster shell or laying mash. If held in place with screen-door hooks, the boxes may be removed easily for cleaning and refilling.

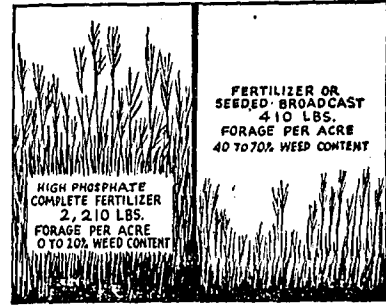

Grasslands Affect Our Farm Income

Poor Luck Pasture Costs Extra Money

Plenty of seed but too little lime and fertilizer sums up the "poor luck" many farmers have in establishing a good pasture, according to USDA forage crop specialists.

Dr. David F. Beard cites nearly a score of common reasons for poor stands and failures—including planting seed too deep or too shallow, lack of firmness of seed bed, use of poor quality or unadapted seed, and competition by weeds or grain companion crops—but believes that lack of plant nutrients is a major cause.

"Poor luck" doesn't just happen when trying to establish grasslands, as shown by this drawing. Seed alone won't do the trick, even if it is the best available.

Notwithstanding the fact that grasslands affect the income and profit made on at least 4 million of our nation's farms, pasture and range crops have long been relegated to the "second table," he says. The complacency shown by many growers in regard to regular and disastrous stand failures is costing them an extra $50 million a year for seed.

Reporting on experiments carried out at Beltsville, Md., by the USDA's Agricultural Research Service, Dr. Beard said that placing high-phosphate complete fertilizer near the seed at planting time resulted in first harvest yields averaging 2,210 pounds of weed-free forage per acre. Weed content ranged from a trace to 22 per cent. The poorest plots were those fertilized or seeded broadcast; these averaged only 410 pounds of forage, contained from 40 to 70 per cent weeds, and were considered failures.

Oats, Field Peas Make Top Winter Forage

Research at Mandan, N. Dak., shows that oats and field peas, grown together and ensiled, make a superior and convenient winter forage for dairy cattle in the northern plains area.

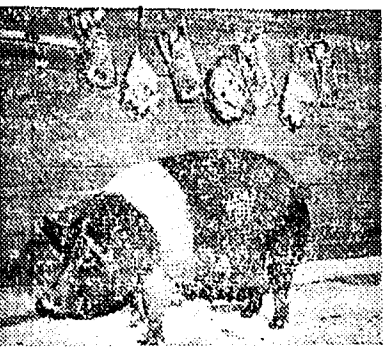

Scientists of USDA's Northern Great Plains Dairy Station compared silage from a mixed crop of Marion oats and Canada field peas with corn silage and wild-rye-sweetclover silage in yield and feeding tests. The oat-pea diet was supplemented in the feed trials with grass hay for heifers, and with grass hay plus a simple concentrate for cows.

Used with these supplements, oat-pea silage seemed better, able than the other feeds to provide all the nutrients needed by dairy cattle for milk production and body maintenance. In yield of forage per acre, the oat-pea crop was the equal of corn, now generally used in that area.

Each spring for 4 years, an experimental field was planted to a mixture of 40 pounds per acre of oats and 35 pounds of peas. Good stands were obtained each year. The crop was harvested when the oats were in the soft-dough stage and the peas were starting to form in small pods.

Unlike corn, the oat-pea mixture needed no cultivation. Weed control in this crop was as good as in corn fields, sometimes better.

Weight Saver

"Cheerle Bea," 650-pound purebred Hampshire of John Soorholtz, Melbourne, Iowa, poses with 70 pounds of hams and bacon representing approximate weight a sow loses nursing litter in conventional 8-week weaning. In early weaning, baby pigs are taken from sow at third week. Sow can then be rebred 5 weeks earlier, or go to market fatter.

OPENING THE WAY through lodgepole thickets and down timber in Chamberlain Basin, 11 new trails slated for completion by next fall will allow hunters to get into areas where elk concentrations have been building up. The new trails are planned to spread hunting pressure, equalize the harvest and reduce concentrations in specific areas where winter range is beginning to suffer from over-use. Cooperating in this trail program are the U. S. Forest Service and the Idaho Fish and Game department, with the use of their families from 13 towns attended, federal aid funds.

IN THE ARMED FORCES

Pvt. William Mitchell, who is stationed in Connecticut, was in town Saturday visiting with old friends. He had a 25-day furlough and was visiting with his mother at Moscow. Bill says his time will be up in February, and that he plans to enter the U. of I. taking a "pre-med" course at the beginning of the second semester. He is an X-ray technician in the army.

From Fort San Houston, Texas, Dave Crocker writes: "Dear Bill, just a few lines to thank you for the paper and to give you my new address."
Boy, I don't see where the Texans have anything to brag about in this state, at least as far as the weather goes. I didn't know for a while after I got here if I was going to live through the heat, or just melt — but the last week or so has been quite nice, so I can't kick now.

I am going to Dental Specialist School here at the Medical Field Service School. I was really lucky to get a school, for it seems they pick just a few for such training. It takes quite a little studying, but I guess it's worth it.

Please say "hello" to everyone back home for me. I'm looking forward to seeing them myself — but that will be some time away.

My new address is: Pvt. David F. Crocker, US 56-240-643, Co. A, 2nd Bn. M. F. S. S., Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter McCall received a long distance call from their son Pvt. E/2 Bob McCall Sunday evening saying that he was leaving Tuesday morning with part of his unit for Europe, where he would be stationed. He added that he hoped to get to see Charles Parks, Parker McCreary and Jack Hicks there before they were sent home, as the service time for all three is drawing to a close.

Bob added that he considered himself very lucky to be heading for Europe, as a large part of his unit was being sent to Japan, Korea and Islands. He has been stationed at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McCreary received word Monday on the condition of their son, Cpl. Frank P. McCreary, injured Aug. 31, when struck by a car driven by a drunken American soldier, near Landstuhl, Germany.

He has a compound fracture of the left ankle, a deep cut on his left knee cap which required seven stitches to close, and multiple bruises and scratches.

He was told by the doctor in charge that he would be in the hospital for at least two months.

He is doing as well as could be expected.

The toughest problem that some kids face is that of learning good manners without seeing any.

THIS 'AN THAT

With the swimming season over, the Village Trustees gave a "deed of gift" to the water on the Memorial Swimming Pool to the school district, and Coach Denny Raciocot and Jim Armitage borrowed a 600-gallon water tank, put it on a truck and began dumping out the pool and hauling it to wet down the football field. After laboring all day Saturday they seemed to have made no "appreciable dent" in the contents, so taking pencil and paper they went to figuring — and came up with the fact that it would take 2,763 trips to empty the pool!
P. S.: We understand they are still working on the project!

The water situation in Kendrick remains "static," say those in charge — with a hose, distributing water, we but it has its bright side too.

During our "every-other-evening" have again gotten acquainted with our neighbors, visiting as we went about our chores.

P. S.: We used to see them only now and then.

With fall almost here, the "anvil chorus" of coyotes on the hillside just south and east of town has begun to interest members of the "Coyote Club" and we understand that Ed Deobald will soon undertake the project of organizing a group of fellow members to wipe out the varmints — as soon as harvest is over.

Jeanette Cridlebaugh Is Bride
At the First Methodist Church of Lewiston, Sept. 2, Jeanette Cridlebaugh, daughter of Mrs. G. F. Cridlebaugh and the late Mr. Cridlebaugh, and Richard Gruell, son of Albert Gruell, were united in marriage at 7:00 p. m. The Rev. Merritt W. Faulkner read the double ring service.

White gladioli were in tall baskets at each side of the altar with lighted candelabra forming the background.

Ann Faulkner sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Faulkner, who also played the prelude and the processional and recessional.

The bride graduated from the Lewiston High School with the class of 1955, and was employed at the Lewiston Drive-In Theater. The bridegroom graduated from the high school in 1952, and entered the service in April of 1953.

The young couple will make their home at Moses Lake, Wash., where the bridegroom is stationed. — Lewiston Tribune.

To Increase Omar Seed Stocks
U. of I., Moscow — Twenty-three northern Idaho farmers will cooperate with the University of Idaho agricultural experiment station and the Idaho crop improvement association in increasing seed stocks of Omar, the new smut-resistant red-chaff club wheat, according to Dr. K. H. Klages, head of the department of agronomy at the university. Approximately 260 bushels of the new winter wheat have been allotted to the Idaho experiment station under the tri state experiment station agreement covering release of new varieties.

Cooperating farmers will be expected to enter their Omar fields for seed certification, explains Dr. Klages.

To increase this seed rapidly, it is desirable that you not seed more than 30 pounds per acre," says Clarence J. Peterson, Jr., fieldman for the crop improvement association in a letter to the selected growers. Every northern Idaho wheat-growing district is represented in the list of growers.

Omar, developed in the Pacific Northwest wheat breeding program, has been tested at the university farm for the past three years. Average yields have been about the same as Elmar, the variety it is expected to replace.

Strong point for Omar, explains Dr. Klages, is its greater smut resistance. Seed from fields to be planted this fall on the cooperating farms will be available for commercial planting a year from now. This seed will be available through the crop improvement association.

To insure highest quality seed of the new wheat for 1956 use, the crop improvement association is urging that each cooperating farmer use his best and cleanest field for the Omar planting.

Clearwater County Fair
Orofino — The Clearwater County Fair and Lumberjack Days will begin in Orofino Friday, Sept. 16th, and last through the 17th and 18th. The world's champion birlers will put on an exhibition and high climbers and toppers will perform. There will be chopping, sawing, taildown and bucking contests with the world's greatest lumberjacks competing for championships, starting Sunday afternoon at 1:00. Alfred Casieri will make his delayed-action death defying parachute jump Sunday at noon.

Friday and Saturday will offer parades, log auction, dancing, the famous Trail B. C. Bag Pipe Band with their girl Highland dancers, a Lewis-Clark Susquecentennial pageant and many other attractions.

Waterfowl Season Is Set
Idaho's waterfowl season will run for 80 days straight — from October 13 through December 31 of this year. Shooting hours will be one-half hour before sunrise to sunset. The bag limit for ducks will be nine daily, and 15 may be in possession, with the same "bonus species" reitainment as last year.

The season and regulations were set by the Idaho Fish and Game Commission at a meeting held in connection with the departmental in-service training school at the Farragut Wildlife Management area in late August.

Complete and official regulations are now available.

Good Hay Is Important
A dairy heifer that gets plenty of quality alfalfa hay does not require as much grain, according to G. C. Anderson, dairy specialist of the Idaho University Extension service. It is often cheaper and better to feed good hay rather than quantities of concentrates during the development period.

HELLO, FOLKS:

Well, here 'tis the middle of September — and the harvest rush is still with us full tilt! But in that rush perhaps you are forgetting something — are you? For one of these mornings it's going to be downright chilly in the house — and when you go to light the stove or turn on the furnace you'll remember — no stove oil! So let us fill that tank now, when we deliver harvest fuels — and then you'll be set!

In a crowded bus one day Jones was surprised when the attractive young lady across the aisle smiled at him, and his face turned a bright red when, in a pleasant but loud voice, she asked: "Aren't you the father of two of my children?" "Why, well — that is, I'm not sure — I mean, I don't know," he managed to splutter.

"I'm quite sure you are," she insisted. "I teach fourth grade at the George Washington School."

Has the "old bus" had a rough summer? Does it need servicing, a wash and polish job? It probably does — so don't worry about it, bring it in to us. Let us wash, grease and polish it — and fill the crankcase with that famous Royal Triton Motor Oil. Makes 'em run "as slick as grease."

"How come your sister married a half-wit?"
"She's such an incurable bargain hunter that she couldn't resist taking anything that was 50% off!"

Let us wash, polish and care for your car. We vacuum the interior with every wash job!

Harvest Rolling Steadily Under almost cloudless skies, harvesting operations in the Potlatch area having been rolling full speed ahead this past week, with bean cutting and combining probably past its peak, particularly on Potlatch ridge and in the Fairview and Stony Point sections.

Some spring wheat yet remains to be cut, as well as some late barley, but on the whole, those operations are nearing completion, thus leaving beans the main item of labor.

Farmers have been greatly helped through harvest work by the absence of dew, so could begin work as soon as daylight permitted in the morning, and even run with lights at night.

Fall plowing in most sections is all but impossible, owing to the dryness and hardness of the ground. However, some areas and some fields, depending on the crop raised, can and are being plowed.

Many Attend Rodeo Many from here attended the annual Rodeo in Lewiston at least one day over the week-end. In fact, so many did just that, making it impossible to name them all — so we won't try.

Experience proves that if you leave too much to chance — you won't get ahead.

DON'T FORGET to "rummage" at the W. S. C. S. Rummage Sale on Sept. 24. You're sure to find a bargain!
