Watermelon Thieves Destroy Patch Stealing watermelons seems to be an exciting pastime for some thrill-seekers in this area.

Bill Carlton of Juliaetta, who owns a large melon patch has been plagued for some time with night raiders. Not only do they steal melons — but with destruction bordering on the vicious side they have gone through the patch, slicing big melons in halfif they are too green to eat, they place them carefully back together and leave them to rot — then go kendall of Kendrick were evening stomping on through the patch, tearing up vines, breaking smaller melons and otherwise destroying the crop he Sunday after spending two weeks in has labored all spring and summer to Detroit, Mich., visiting with his wife's reap — for watermelons are a crop

However, prices are still on the rise, and we can no longer afford to take the subscription loss. So, as much as we dislike to take the step we are forced to announce that after October 15, 1955, the price of the Kendrick Gazette will be $3.00 per year.

Poisonous Snake Claims Obstetrical Championship

WASHINGTON - A six-foot snake, one of the most venomous reptiles on earth, which gives birth to 30 to 60 offspring at a time-each a foot-long serpent at birth fully equipped with poison fangs-this is the fer-de-lance.

Lurking in the thick jungle of Barro Colorado Island, the Smithsonian Institution's biological station in the Canal Zone, the fer-delance is by far the most dangerous animal on the six-mile square densely wooded island in the middle of Gatun Lake. The snake remains most of the time in dark jungle depths penetrated only by occasional biologists, and none of the hundreds of visitors each year ever has been bitten ..

A visiting scientist, to whom the snake was not familiar, picked up a gravid female and carried it to the island's laboratory, according to James Zetek, resident manager of the station. The fer-delance did not bite the man although females about to bear young are supposed to be especially nervous and vicious. She began to produce her new family cially nervous and vicious. She arrived, and for the first time the birth process was carefully observed by scientists.

Monotonously, one by one, 60 babies came into the world, each one-sixth as long as its mother, although much thinner. Each had fully functioning poison fangs and sacs of venom. From the instant of birth, each could have killed a small mammal and would have been dangerous to man.

Science Develops Super-Pure Metals

PITTSBURGH - Scientists at Westinghouse Research Laboratories are purifying titanium and other hard-to-get metals by imprisoning the molten metal inside a cage of its own making.

The process, called cage zone refining, uses a unique method to melt a bar of metal while it acts as its own crucible, thus preventing contamination from any containing vessel. Object of the process is to prepare super-pure met-

When a bar of impure titanium, is melted progressively from end to end, the iron tends to concentrate in the liquid titanium and remain there as the solid metal "freezes out" behind it. Thus the iron is "swept" to one end bar as the molten zone moves along.

Each time the process is repeated, more iron is carried to the end of the bar. This end then is cut off and discarded, leaving the rest of the titanium bar more pure. The heating is done electromagnetically by passing the bar through a coil which carries high-frequency alternating cur-

Top Industry Wages To Aircraft Workers

NEW YORK-The average aircraft worker in the United States today earns $953 more per year than he did in July, 1950, when the Korean war started.

And he earns $726 more per year than the average U.S. manufacturing employee.

The aircraft worker's higher earnings resulting from wage increases granted by the industry in the past four years account for one-fifth of the industry's estimated $3.54-billion payroll for 1954. (These figures do not include) "fringe" benefits.)

The combination of increased wages and higher employment has resulted in a sharp rise in aircraft payroll dollars funneled into the national economy. With 264,400 persons employed at the outbreak of the Korean war, total: monthly payroll for U.S. plane builders amounted to approximately $76.5-million. Today with more than 803,000 employees, the industry's monthly payroll is approximately $295.5-million.

20/20 Vision Doesn't Indicate Perfect Eyesight

NEW YORK-It often comes as a shock to a middle-aged person when he finds he can no longer read small print at the ordinary reading distance. Oddly enough, he may still come up to the 20/20 standard even though he has to hold a book 18 inches or so away to read it.

The technical term for this difficulty of the 40-plus group is presbyopia. What happens is a perfectly normal development. The little lens within the eye loses its elasticity, while the ciliary muscle-whose job it is to change the shape of the lens for near or far vision - weakens. Consequently, the eye isn't so good at accommodating-or changing focus to see clearly at different distances.

But the 20/20 rating simply indicates the ability to perceive at a distance of 20 feet what normal vision sees at 20 feet. It's an inadequate standard, in that it tells nothing about the efficiency at near-point tasks. Many presbyopes still have 20/20 vision despite their waning power to distinguish details at close range. For when the eye is focused upon objects 20 feet or more away it is at rest and no accommodation is required.

Presbyopia usually begins around the age of 45, but the exact time varies within a few years. A delicate or nervous person generally experiences it sooner than a robust person. Race is a factor, too, for Indians and Africans succumb to it much younger than Americans or Europeans.

Fooling Flies Now Made Easier

BERKELEY, Calif.-Remember when fly killing was a simple procedure of hanging strips of fly paper to catch flies? Of course, you missed a lot of flies that way. and it didn't add much to the decor-but it was simple.

The fly paper method was a direct steal from Mother Nature. For instance, there's the carnivorous Sundew plant, which attracts flies, to its shiny surface, then pulls them toward the center of the plant. Here they are trapped and enmeshed in a pool of sticky

Now scientists come up with a variation of Mother Nature's "lure 'em to death" principle. It's simplicity itself. All you do is walk around an area where flies are a problem and shake a granular

fly-killing bait out of a cannister. What lures the flies to these innocent-looking granules is a new type of attractant far more enticing to flies than sugar-based formulas. The granules are the size that extensive fly-breeding studies show, flies like to pick up in their "fore-paws" and nibble. It's the nibbling that does it-for these granules are impregnated with malathion, a chemical that has a high rate of kill even for "resistant" flies.

Many Families Help Support Their Elders

MINNEAPOLIS - One middleclass American couple out of every seven partially or completely supports one or more aged relatives, according to a survey of 7,000 policyholder families.

Of the 7,000 families covered by the survey, 964 or 14 per cent reported that they were wholly or partially supporting older relatives, usually their parents.

Elderly mothers being so supported outnumber fathers by nearly four to one. The mothers' average age is 72; the fathers' is 74. Average age of the heads of the 7,000 households covered by the survey is 401/2 years. Average annual income of those supporting or helping support elderly relatives is $8,008. Average income of those not contributing to the support of any older relative is $6,-271, the survey shows.

Faralions, Bird Refuge, Now Closed to Civilians

California's Farallon is lands. whose 1950 U.S. census count of an even 30 inhabitants was reported complete before the April 1 official census started, found human traffic there far greater in the 19th century than it has been in the first half of the 20th.

Russian sealers occupied the bleak group, 26 miles west of San Francisco's Golden Gate, from 1812 to 1833, notes the National Geographic society. Drafting Indians and Aleuts as labor, they reduced seals from abundance to scarcity, taking close to 200,000 skins for the China trade. Sir Francis Drake had restocked his vessel with seal meat at the Farallons in 1579.

During the 1849 gold rush in California, food was scarce in San Francisco. Egg-gathering from the nests of gulls and murres on the Farallons became profitable and well organized, and the traffic continued for many years. Finally, bird lovers stepped in, and the islands are now a bird refuge, closed to civilians from April to August.

The Farrallons, known but little even to mainland Californians, consist of three pinpoint groups of rocky islets spreading over seven miles of the Pacific ocean on air and water lanes of trans-Pacific travel. Paradoxically, although they are officially part of the City of San Francisco, the mayor and other city officials may not set foot on them without special permission.

The permission must come from the 12th coast guard district based in San Francisco. It provides the personnel that maintains the powerful beacon 358 feet above sea level atop Southeast Farallon, the only inhabited island of the group.

The lighthouse - keeping families live in neat, white houses at the foot of the high beacon cliff. A radar station and an automatic fog-signal horn complete the island's important navigation aid equipment.

Human Regard for Criminal Modern Idea, Says Educator

The idea that the legal offender shares a common humanity with his nonoffender brother is a relatively novel conception and regards the criminal as a human being and not subhuman, specialhuman, superhuman, infrahuman, robothuman, or extrahuman, Dr. Robert Lindner clinical psychologist at Haarlem Lodge, Catonsville, Maryland, told the first session of the third annual institute on crime and delinquency which University of California extension held in Los Angeles re-

Declaring that "Offenders, too. are human," Dr. Lindner pointed out that the modern view of the criminal historically succeeds the primitive, theological, philosophical mechanical, and psychiatric views

"The modern view is based on a total approach to the offender, including the whole person and his history in the world; it is based upon scientific knowledge that is reaching a level of maturity; its sources are biological, anthropological, sociological, and psychological, Among these, the psychoanalytical appears to be the most fruitful and comprehensive."

Study Hydrogen Bonds

While other scientists the nation over concern themselves with hydrogen bombs, Dr. Joseph W. Eilis and Dr. Leonard Glatt of the physic ics department of the University of California are busy with hydrogen bonds—a study more closely related to everyday life. Hydrogen bonds are links which assist in holding together the long molecular chains found in many of the substances we use in our daily life. These links are formed by the sharing of a proton (hydrogen sucleus) between two units of the same or different molecules. Examples of substances they bind together are liquid water, proteins, and many plastics, including nylon.

Making Good Soils

"Somehow the notion gets around," says Dr. Charles E. Kellogg of the U.S. department of agriculture, "that originally our farm soils were highly productive; that is, productive when first plowed. Many of them were, like the black lands in our Middle West and in central Eurasia, for example, and in some of the great deltas and alluvial valleys. But most soils are not It is through liming and fertilization, drainage, irrigation, the introduction of legumes, and a host of other practices, that farmers have made their soils productive,' explains Dr. Kellogg.

Helium Effect on Living Organism Reported at U.C.

Helium, argon and possibly other inert gases—gases which do not combine chemically with other elements-are far from inert in their effect on living organisms.

This is reported by Dr. S. F. Cook. professor of physiology in the University of California school for medicine.

Dr. Cook has completed experiments in which he studied the reactions of small animals living in an artificial atmosphere consisting of oxygen and helium or of oxygen and argon.

The artificial atmosphere contained the same amount of oxygen found in the normal earth's atmosphere-about 20 per cent. But nitrogen, which forms nearly all of the jury. remaining 80 per cent of the earth's atmosphere, was removed and the inert gas substituted in this same proportion. The ordinary atmospheric pressure of sea level was maintained.

When helium was used in such an atmosphere, the physiological processes of mealworms, lizards and mice were markedly changed. Similar, but less marked, changes were observed when argon was used.

The principle effects of the two gases were retardation of growth in the animals and an increase in the metabolic rate—a stepping up of the pace of work done by the body in the living process.

The research indicates that it may be useful to substitute helium for nitrogen in air used by men working in some tunnels, underwater construction projects, and some other conditions of high pres-

Hard Pad Canine Disease Gives Dog Owners Scare

A serious distemper-like infection that leads to hardening of the foot pads and nose is being seen in American dogs, but there is no evidence that it is a new disease or that it is becoming more prevalent.

Alarming reports from England, where the so-called hard pad condition is reported to be widespread. have made many United States dog lovers overly fearful of the disease.

Thickening, hardening, and peeling of the foot pads and nose sometimes occur in advanced stages of distemper or distemper-like illness, but this condition always is seen in company with other symptomsnever alone.

Among theories as to the cause

The canine distemper virus may undergo a change, under certain conditions, that causes it to produce symptoms that differ from those seen in typical distemper cases. "Hard pad" may be one of the symptoms so produced.

(2) In some cases, the pure distemper virus-which causes fever, respiratory distress, and diarrheamay be accompanied by a second virus that brings on the changes in foot pads and nose.

(3) The severe illness caused by distemper or complicated distemper can lead to a temporary nutritional deficiency and loss of body fliuds that may account for the thickening and hardening.

Immunization with biological products is the best means of preventing distemper and the hard pad condtion.

New Course in Science

A revolutionary approach to the teaching of science which combines all the sciences in a single course emphazing their relationship to man was described to the 118th national meeting of the American chemical society held in Chicago, by Dr. John Xan, head of the department of chemistry of Howard college, in Birmingham, Ala. Taught without a text, the course is designed to give students a broad acquaintance with the modern scientific world and an effort is made to stimulate their interest in scientific discoveries and periodicals by basing examinations mainly on knowledge acquired outside the classroom, Dr. Xan reported. Ninety to 95 per cent of students finishing the combined general science course have voted for it in preference to the conventional type of science course.

"Candling" Eggs

Candling is used on practically all eggs before they reach the stores. An electric light is placed inside a box with a hole about the size of an egg, in which the egg is placed. In a darkened room, with some practice, it is possible to detect cracks, blood spots, developing germ and the size of the air cell. The latter is the most important criterion of freshness because it gets larger as moisture escapes and is replaced by air. By compacing a few eggs known to be fresh with others that are older, one may learn how to judge the size of the air cell and the age.

Changing "Hand-Me-Downs"

Giving "hand-me-downs" a new and different color via the dye-bath is one sure way of getting little sister or brother to wear them without resentment. Adding a hem, collar or belt will still further accentuate the "new look." Wash and thoroughly rinse all articles before dveing, and also remove buttons, buckles and trimmings. Use color removel first, the bureau counsels, when the article is unevenly faded different color.

Adrenal Gland Plays Role When One Suffers Injuries

Another step forward in better understanding the important role played by the adrenal gland in helping the body recover from injuries has been achieved, a University of Michigan doctor states.

Dr. Jerome W. Conn, an associate professor of internal medicine, reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science on research he has been conducting at the university.

His study has shown that the adrenal gland calls upon a substance in the blood known as cholesterol to help in producing the huge amounts of adrenal hormones needed in prolonged periods of stress which the body undergoes at the time of an in-

Cholesterol, produced largely by the liver, is the basic compound of adrenal hormones, including cortisone, the hormone found to be beneficial in the treatment, of rheumatoid arthitis, Dr. Conn says. In his experiments, Dr. Conn found the cholesterol content of the adrenal gland could be reduced 70 per cent within three hours by artificial stimulation which produced conditions similar to those created within the body during periods of prolonged stress.

This artificial stimulation was achieved through use of ACTH, the pituitary gland hormone which causes the adrenal gland to produce its hormones.

The effect of this prolonged stimulation of the adrenal gland has important implications for future study of several diseases, including those of the heart, liver and kidney as well as hardening of the arteries, according to Dr. Conn. These diseases are all associated with an unusual production or use of choles-

Wool Scarce: Give Blankets Extra Care for Longer Life

Treat your wool blankets with the gentle care that precious possessions deserve. Textile scientists of the U.S. department of agriculture have pointed out that U.S. production of wool this year is one of the lowest on record.

Frequent airing of blankets in use not only is good sanitary practice but helps them last longer and hold their fluffy warmth and comfort. When a blanket is thrown back loosely so fresh air reaches both sides, the wool has a chance to get back its natural springiness which makes for warmth. But care should be taken not to throw a blanket over anything sharp, such as a peaked bedpost, which may pierce or pull it, or on anything that may stain it. Loose bed springs, sharp metal corners or even roughened wood may also catch and teat blankets or other bedding.

For best service and comfort blankets should be large enough to come up well over shoulders and still tuck firmly in the bottom of the bed. Short blankets often wear out early because they take so much pulling and strain.

A blanket stays clean longer if the bed is made so that the sheet turns back over the top of the blanket 8 to 12 inches. If the sheet is too short, a strip of cloth, basted over the top or the full length of the blanket, is good protection against soiling the wool. A covering over the blanket, or even a third sheet used on top, gives added warmth because it holds still air in the fluffy wool.

For Pig Protection

A pair of clean rubber boots is worth more than any medicine in protecting pigs from a fatal intestinal disease called transmissible gastroenteritis. Best means of controlling it is to move healthy pigs as far away as possible from the sick ones. Many farmers do this a veterinary medical bulletin points out, but they overlook the fact that their shoes can spread the infection. Attendants who have walked through infected hog quarters should put on a pair of clean boots before entering healthy quarters, the bulletin cautions. The disease, believed to be caused by a virus. is marked by severe diarrhea, vomiting, and rapid loss of weight. Young pigs are hit hardest, with death losses sometimes running as high as 90 per cent.

Finishes Pre-Tested

The term "industrial-finishes" is applied to the finishes used by manufacturers to enhance their products. Before being applied, they are subjected to many special tests based upon the kind of usage to which the article may be subjected. For example, in addition to tests for adhesion, and hardness, finishes for refrigerators, stoves and kitchen cabinets are tested for their resistance to various foods, such as lemon juice, butter, lard and vinegar-as well as to various cleaning materials.

Wooden, Aluminum, Ladders The rung of a wooden ladder will bend downward about one-sixth of an inch for a 150-pound person stepping on its center. An aluminum ladder is constructed so that the deflection is much less. If it were built like the wooden ladder, the deflection of the aluminum rung would be about a ninth as much as for the wooden rung under similar conditions. This is because or spotted and when changing to a aluminum is nine times as rigid as wood (white oak).

Deadline Has Passed Moscow (Special) - Monday, Aug. 15 was the deadline for reservations on the "Vandal Fans Special" train to the University of Idaho-University of Washington football game at Seattle, Sept. 17, it was announced this week by Wade Patterson, chairman of the "Vandal Fans Special" com-

Moscow Chamber of Commerce. Patterson said the August deadine was necessary for the chamber committee to complete the arrangements with the Northern Pacific railroad. At least 125 reservations were needed in order to secure the special mittee. The train, is sponsored by the Tentative schedule calls for the Vandal Special to leave Lewiston at 6:00 p. m., Friday, Sept. 16. Stops are planned at Moscow (7:35-7:45 p. m.) and Spokane (10:20-10:50 p. m.) to take on passengers before continuing the trip to Seattle.

Arrival time in Seattle is 9:00 a m. the day of the football game. Fans will have an opportunity to visit the coast city after the contest as the train will not leave for home until 1:30 a. m., Sunday, Sept. 18. Persons desiring additional information on the "Vandal Special" are urged to contact the Moscow Chamber of Commerce immediately. Patterson pointed out that in addition to train reservations the chamber also has tickets to the game-for those desiring them.

Harvest All But Over

Harvesting Operations in this section are all but complete, although some scattered fields still remain to be cut - due in the main to late seeding, brought on by the backward, cold spring.

Some beans and some clover and grass seed also remains on the "to be" list, but the greater portion of all 1955 crops are now in warehouses. The majority of farmers have been busy the past couple of weeks plowing, discing, harrowing and in a few cases seeding fall grain. The rain of Tuesday morning put a stop to logging operations but not enough fell to stop field work. In fact, some farmers said it was just right to lay the dust.
