INTERESTING NEWS NOTES FROM THE SOUTHWICK AREA

Return From State Meeting
Mrs. Virginia Cantril, Mrs. Agatha Perkins and Mrs. Mary Lawrence returned Saturday evening from Twin Falls where they had gone Tuesday to attend the Idaho State Home Demonstration Council Convention.

They report a very successful and interesting convention, and that the convention for 1956 will be held at Lewiston in October.

The gathering was very fortunate in having Mrs. Raleigh Albright of Juliaetta as guest speaker at the "Chapeau Luncheon," Friday at noon in the "Turf Club."

Missionary Society Meeting
The Southwick Community Church Missionary Society will meet on Thursday, Nov. 10, at the home of Eula Davis. This is a very important meeting, as there are bandages to roll, pillow slips and slips to make and toy animals to stuff. Come and enjoy the fellowship of an all-day meeting.

Revival Meetings To Continue
Revival meetings at the Community Church will continue this week and next, with Rev. J. W. Partridge of Spokane as principal speaker. There will also be special speakers and plenty of good music. Come out and take part in a good old-fashioned revival.

Homemakers Club To Meet
The Southwick Homemakers Club will meet Thursday at the home of Marie Kachlemier, with Mrs. Kachlemier as hostess and Barbara Hepler co-hostess. Everyone interested in the club is urged to attend.

Hallowe'en In Southwick
Well last night (Monday) was "Trick or Treat" night in Southwick. The children were treated very nicely and received many goodies.

Of course, and as usual, there were a few little vandals out to cause work and trouble for folks next day — as evidenced by the condition of some windows. Soap isn't bad at all — but enamel paint is going just a bit too far.

Hunting Season?
It must be hunting season! Cars began going by as early as 3:30, and "early morning lights" flickered all about this community as sleepy wives prepared their "hunting-minded" husbands' pre-dawn breakfast.

We wish them all safe, successful hunts.

Entertain Visitors
Mr. and Mrs. Clay King had as guests in their home from Tuesday to Saturday Mrs. Floyd Russell of Lewiston and Mrs. Ray Southwick of Kellogg, sisters of Mr. King.

While here they also visited in the homes of their brothers, Mr. and Mrs. Ray King and Mr. and Mrs. Claude King of Cavendish.

General Short Items
Guests for the day Tuesday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clay King were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bollinger of Lewiston.

Sunday dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Cuddy were Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Wells.

Annie Longeteig returned this past week-end from Bandon, Oregon, where she had been visiting relatives and friends.

Miss Diane Cantril of Lewiston spent the week-end in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cantril.

Russell Perkins and daughter Hazel were Saturday evening dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. N. Kuykendall.

Dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clay King, Sunday, were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Meeker and daughter.

Mrs. Eula Davis and Mrs. Lois Thornton were called to Lewiston the past week by the serious illness of their father, William Dygert.

Guests for dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rollin Armitage Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Armitage and Mr. and Mrs. Arlie Armitage.

Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Partridge were Sunday dinner guests of Rev. and Mrs. Lloyd Laubaugh and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Perkins and daughter Hazel drove to Juliaetta on Sunday to spend the day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Marvin. Lesley Marvin, their daughter, is recuperating from a severe case of strep-throat.

Mr. and Mrs. Verlin Benjamin and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Benjamin were Sunday dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Fry.

Rev. and Mrs. Lloyd Laubaugh were business callers in Lewiston on Friday.

Mrs. Melvin Sutton was taken to the Tri-State Memorial Hospital in Clarkston, Saturday. To date your reporter has received no report on her condition.

Hob-Goblin Party
The "Hob-Goblin Party" sponsored by the Sunday School teachers of the Kendrick Community Church Monday evening turned out a little different than they had planned.
Due to the chill and wet evening (it rained) there was no parade. However, the usual fun with games and costumes prevailed, and the more than 20 children present were kept busy and happy.
Prizes and treats high-lighted the evening.

Buzz Saw Nicks Hand
Oral Craig escaped with minor injury Friday, when a buzz saw nipped one of his hands. He was buzzing up wood and started to move the saw before it had completely stopped. In so doing his hand came in contact with the moving blade, cutting it severely.

Very Quiet Hallowe'en
Hallowe'en was Monday evening — and it was one of the quietest that we have ever seen in all our years in Kendrick. There were a few old tires strewn about the streets, plus a few old bricks and an occasional tin can.
Trick or treat problems were largely taken care of by parties, there being three given to entertain the youngsters, and this probably accounted in a large degree for the lack of wax on windows — as only an occasional one show the results of "young artists."
We have heard of no acts of vandalism in any form.

PETRA WESTENDAHL, KENDRICK PIONEER, DIES SUNDAY

Petra Louise Westendahl, 78, and a resident of the Kendrick area for the last 61 years, died at her home here at 5:20 Sunday afternoon.

She was born May 12, 1877, in Norway, and came to the United States with her parents, John and Louise Paulson, when she was four years old. Her parents settled near Kendrick in 1894, and Mrs. Westendahl had resided in the area since that time.

She was married Jan. 24, 1894, at Moscow, to Charles Westendahl. He passed away in 1947.

Survivors include two sons, Albert and Ben Westendahl of Kendrick; two daughters, Mrs. Harry Ross and Mrs. Jesse Oylear, both of Moscow; two brothers, Olaf Paulson, Mount Angel, Ore., and Gus Paulson, Silverton, Ore., two sisters, Mrs. Charles Kressing, Moscow, and Mrs. Carl Brown, Selah, Wash.; 15 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Westendahl had been in poor health for some months, and had spent most of her time in the homes of her daughters at Moscow. She returned to her Kendrick home some weeks ago.

Known affectionately as "Grandma" Westendahl she endeared herself to all by her friendliness, keen wit and love of "joshing." She will long be missed.

Funeral services will be held at 2:00 p. m., Thursday, Nov. 3 at the Kendrick Community Church, with the Rev. F. C. Schmidt bringing the message. Interment will be in the Kendrick Cemetery by the side of her husband.

Parks Re-elected Pomona Master
Hugh Parks, well known Juliaetta farmer, was re-elected Master of the Nez Perce County Pomona Grange at its bi-monthly meeting Saturday evening in the Lewiston Valley Grange hall, Lewiston Orchards.

Mr. and Mrs. Vern Law, Lapwai, were elected alternate delegates to the State Grange. Parks, as master, is automatically designated a delegate.

Grange members passed a resolution opposing land classification in Lewiston Orchards as suburban. The resolution will be sent to the State Grange for action. Members also voted to invite the State Grange to hold its 1956 annual meeting in Lewiston.

Hunters Numerous
Despite the snow and rain, which made every tree and bush a "wet trap," hunting parties are numerous in this area, trucks, cars and pickups having been streaming through town since early Sunday. Of course, many of these were headed toward the Bozwell-Elk River section. Those returning from that area report that some one was camped in almost every spot where possible, and that in some sections it looked like "Homecoming" at the University.

Some who went out were back, reporting "they had no duck blood in their systems," so gave it up until the storm was over.

M. Y. F. Enjoy Party
In connection with their regular Sunday night meeting the Kendrick M. Y. F. entertained their friends at a Hallowe'en party in the Firemen's Hall.

The room was decorated with appropriate Hallowe'en trimmings, and refreshments consisted of "Ho-Bo" foods, of which 40 young people partook. Games were enjoyed and the M. Y. F. closed the evening with their Worship Service. Mrs. Bob Nelson, leader, was assisted by Mrs. R. L. Blewett in directing the young people and their activities.

To Publish Offenders Names

At the request of the Idaho State Traffic Police the Gazette will begin the publication of all names of local offenders, the charge and the fine levied, if any.

We realize that this is a real departure from previous policies, but perhaps it will prove a deterrent to some who might otherwise violate the law — at least that is the contention of the State Traffic Safety Division.

Recent violators and fines levied are as follows:
James McGuire, 4540 lbs. over registration, $10.00; $3.50 costs.
David McEntere, 9 ft. 6 in. wide, fine $10.00; $3.50 costs.

SHORT NEWS ITEMS FROM OUR LOCAL SCHOOLHOUSE

Dramatic Artist Coming
William Dean Hamilton, noted dramatic artist, will entertain on Thursday, Nov. 3, at 8:45 a. m. Audiences that have shed a tear with Charles Loughton and laughed with Danny Kaye will weep and laugh with William Dean Hamilton. Alternating between dramatic works of some of the world's greatest writers and the many antics of a super comedian, Mr. Hamilton will provide a program that appeals to all of us and to all interests.

Don't Step On My Toes
When the students are packed in like sardines, it is rather hard not to step on someone's toes in the Physics room. Did you know that our physics class of 30 has only enough equipment and room for about three students? That is the report that H. Maine Shoun gave. He stated that our physics class is one of the largest in the state! Yet we have about the smallest amount of room.

Despite poor facilities, Mr. Cochran is doing a very good job of teaching this class. He has several good reasons for wanting his students to learn something in physics: So they won't be lost when they get into college — and so those who do not go on to college will have a little knowledge of every day scientific things. He wishes this subject to be as broad in its usefulness as possible.

Trojans Defeat Kendrick

Troy won the championship of the Second District 8-man Football Conference, defeating Kendrick High at Troy 21-6 Friday afternoon.

Ken Brocke carried the ball 50 yards for a touchdown on the game's first play from scrimmage. LeRoy Brocke plunged over for the extra point.

Jim Armitage scored a touchdown for Kendrick, but the try-for-point failed. The first quarter ended with Troy leading 7-6.

Troy settled matters in the second quarter. LeRoy Brocke plunged three yards for one touchdown. Ken Brocke passed to Raymond Soderstrom for another touchdown.

In the third quarter Soderstrom tackled Kendrick's Merrick in the end zone for a safety.

Curtis Bodine, Rudy Swanson and Wayne Smith got in most of the tackles as Troy held Kendrick scoreless for three quarters.

The victory concluded an unbeaten season for the Trojans under the tutelage of Coach Glen McKie.

Juliaetta School Sale

The auction sale at the Juliaetta School Friday evening was attended by a crowd that completely filled the gymnasium. The program opened with Rev. Meserve, supt., introducing the two new music instructors, Mrs. Margaret Racicot and Elmer Steitzlein. Mr. Steitzlein then demonstrated how he conducted a beginners' class in band, with some 18 grade school children playing a few notes. The children and audience alike were pleased when Mr. Steitzlein invited the parents of the band members to the stage to try their children's instruments.

Mr. Larson of Moscow and Mr. Williams of Lewiston were introduced, and displayed band instruments.

Under the direction of Mrs. Racicot, each of the six grade school rooms sang two or three numbers, Mrs. Cecil Gruell accompanying.

Roy Glenn as auctioneer proceeded to dispose of the donated articles in his usual jolly manner. The business houses of both Kendrick and Juliaetta were more than generous in supplying whole cartons of canned goods, groceries, clothing, fancy hardware, motor oil, etc., while families gave eggs, cakes, pies and dozens of other articles. Every article sold at a reasonable price.

When the clerks, Eugene Taylor and Cecil Gruell totaled the proceeds is amounted to $164.70. The teachers wish to express their appreciation to all concerned, and feel that it would be hard to find a greater example of fine cooperative school spirit than was shown in making this sale possible.

The school also appreciates the gift of a very nice upholstered chair for the office, given by Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Gruell.

More Hot Lunch Preparation
Five pounds of green peppers were donated and processed for freezing by Mrs. Burton Soucers, Sr., and added to the school's winter supply.

P. T. A. News
Parents' Night will be held at Kendrick, Nov. 7; Southwick, Nov. 9, and Juliaetta, Nov. 11, during National Education Week.

This is a good opportunity for all parents to attend school and get acquainted with our children's teachers and see the conditions — the good as well as the bad ones — that are affecting the child's life at school.

Surely as many hours as our children spend in the school rooms, we should be determined that they will be the very best we can provide for them.

These sessions promise to be interesting as well as educational.

First Snow Of Season Sunday

The first snow of the winter of 1955-56 fell in this area Sunday evening, in some areas falling to a depth of about two inches, most of which had disappeared by Monday afternoon.

However, Monday evening the snow fall began again, in a mixture of rain and snow, and again piled up to a depth of about two inches. Again, by Tuesday night, most of it had disappeared.

Here in the canyon, it came as a chill rain, at times approaching sleet.

It seems most peculiar to see the snow all about the canyon rim, while the leaves are still on the trees, for to date the frost has not been heavy enough to bring but a part of them down.

New Tricks For "Old Doggie"

Try as you may, it's pretty hard to teach an "old dog new tricks."

And so it is with Saturday night trade. We guess Kendrick is "just a Saturday night town," where friends meet and chat, and sometime before 9:00 p. m. decide it's time to get those last minute groceries.

That's the pattern that has prevailed for years, and it will take a little time before folks realize the local stores are supposed to close at 7:30 during the winter months, on Saturday nights.

The local merchants would appreciate it greatly if you would "tie a string on your finger" or "write yourself a note" if that will help — but try to get that shopping done before 7:30 this week — please?

Hallowe'en Party

AS WE SEE IT

It is no military secret that the Chinese pheasant hunting is very poor in this area — in fact, we would go so far as to say it is "rotten" and birds almost non-existent — a condition to which the Lewiston Sportsmen's Club heartily subscribes. They, as an organization, have requested an investigation on the part of the State Fish and Game Department as to what has become of the birds — at least the ones planted.

The Lewiston sportsmen seem to be at a loss for a reason, as are all who love to hunt the big, gaudily colored fellows.

In our opinion there are many contributing factors: Predatory animals, chiefly coon and coyote, loss of cover due to farmers plowing out fence rows and small gully patches of brush; use of Seresan on wheat seeded; cold, wet springs, etc.

However, this fall we visited several areas in which the cover, feed and water could be described as "perfect," and yet we found no birds. Why? That is the $64,000 question. However, our guess is that the grouse season in Latah county is one of the largest contributing factors — if not the largest. Local residents know that there are "not enough grouse in this area to shake a stick at," yet our local sporting goods stores sell large quantities of ammunition at the opening of the so-called "season."

We believe that at least 95 percent of those shells are shot at Chinese pheasants. Now, you may ask, "Why doesn't the State Conservation Officer arrest them? Arrest them for what? He may well know that they are hunting Chinks, yet they say "Grouse" and unless he finds a hunter with a Chinese pheasant in his possession, no arrest can be made — for the grouse season is legally open and who can say there are no grouse where that particular hunter may be trying his luck? — Yes, there is no doubt but that hundreds of pheasants are killed as "grouse."

Then, to get to the matter of predatory animals. For many years the state protected coon, declaring them a fur-bearing animal, and stating that they could be taken only at certain seasons of the year and then only by a licensed trapper. With a prime coon hide bringing only $1.00, and Mr. Coon one of the toughest animals from which to remove the hide, what trapper would bother? The result — coons in this area by the hundreds. They have to eat something, and it's well known that they love eggs and flesh, as well as corn, fruit, etc. On Wednesday evening of last week while returning from the Cameron supper and sale this writer, in company with Ben P. Cook and R. L. Blewett, literally saw a "coon convention" on the rock bluff between the Roy Glenn home and the Deary-Southwick road Y. Mr. Cook counted 20 coon in one pack. How many birds could they account for? You figure it out.

Turning to cover: There is no doubt but what the loss has been severe, but in many areas, particularly the Potlatch canyon, there is less ground in cultivation today and more cover than there was 25 years ago — when we really had bird hunting.

We don't pretend to know the answers, and we're not "blasting at anyone," but it is our honest opinion that a co-ordinated drive against coon, coyotes and magpies by the State Game department and sportsmen, and a lot more co-operation between those two parties and the farmers, plus cancelling of all the so-called grouse hunts would go a long way toward bringing back the "good old days of Chinese pheasant hunting." — Bill McCreary.

Asks For Information
"Salmon River Slim," newly appointed "Tourist Ambassador" for the State of Idaho, asked for full co-operation from all Idaho citizens in gathering information on Idaho's scenic attractions throughout the state this week.

"Salmon River Slim" explained that Idaho people have long known that our state abounds in a treasureland of scenic wonders, and it is not fair for us to deprive all the people of the United States of this information.

He asked all Idahoans to send him information on their favorite trip and most scenic spot in Idaho. This information will be invaluable in telling America about Idaho, he said.

All mail should be addressed to: "Salmon River Slim," State House, Boise, Idaho.

Wide-Open Market For New Machinery

Progress Has Passed Up Small Operators

A farm labor study recently completed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Research Service points up a need for new equipment and handling methods especially adapted for small numbers of livestock. The study shows that it takes almost as much labor now as it did 50 years ago to keep sideline livestock—a cow, a few chickens, or a few pigs. Progress seems to have bypassed this phase of farming. Most of the commercial-type equipment and better handling methods that have been developed for livestock production can be used economically only with large sized herds or flocks.

Progress has bypassed the farmer who keeps sideline livestock to the extent that it still takes as much labor as it did 50 years ago to keep small herds and flocks.

As might be expected, milk cows were found to be big labor users. A hand-milked cow requires 140 man-hours per year, on the average, while a machine-milked cow requires 111 hours. Feed and litter carriers, barn cleaners, stanchion drinking cups, pipeline and bulk handling of milk, and maintenance of large herds and high-producing cows, all make for less work per unit of milk produced.

In hog production, size of herd also makes a big difference in labor requirements. A large herd can use self-feeders, self-waterers, and good pastures economically, whereas small herds cannot. Labor ranges from 14 man-hours per $100 of pork products in the North Central states, where herds are largest, to about 25 hours in the South where herds are smallest.

In poultry raising, labor-saving and cost-saving equipment and management practices begin to be economical with a 200-bird flock, and become even more so as flock size increases.

The ARS concludes that the obvious need for whittling down labor time in small-scale livestock production is a great challenge to agricultural research.

Baby Pigs Prefer High Sugar Rations

Baby pigs have a sweet tooth. A green ration containing 20 per cent cane sugar is the most popular with baby pigs at the University of Illinois, says A. H. Jensen, livestock specialist.

The pigs were given a choice of rations containing dried skim milk, saccharin, and cane sugar. The sugar rations varied in amount from 5 to 20 per cent. The more sugar the ration contained, the better the pigs liked it.

The dried skim milk ration was heavily eaten but was not so well received as the high sugar ration.

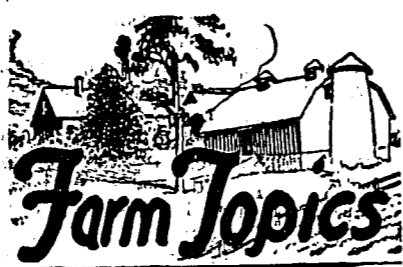

The reason for the interest in pig preferences is to increase consumption of creep-fed rations, explains Jensen. A good creep ration means heavier pigs at weaning time, and at lower costs.

Farmers don't usually have the facilities to mix sugar in the ration, Jensen says. But most of the commercial baby pig starters contain sugar in varying amounts.

Faulty Fencing

Faulty fencing can injure or kill both livestock and humans. Homemade or un-approved fence controllers result in the death of many persons each year. In most states, approved electric fencing bears the seal of Underwriters' Laboratories or state industrial commission.

More Pine Posts From 18-Year Stand

But Farmer's Needs Dictate Cutting Time

Your own needs will tell you when to start cutting in your pine plantation.

But foresters at the Dixon Springs, Illinois Experiment Station cut three times as many fence posts from the first thinning of an 18-year-old pine plantation as from a 13-year old stand.

F. W. McMillan, assistant in forest research at the station, says the greater returns from the 18-year-old plantation in terms of labor involved in thinning the stand. However, total wood production may not differ greatly between the two, he says. The 13-year-old has already been thinned a second time and will soon be ready for the third cutting.

Most profitable thinning method is the one which provides the best trees with ample growing space, despite fact that most farmer's needs dictate time of cutting.

These two shortleaf pine plantations were established at the station in 1937 on Grantsburg silt loam soil. The plantation thinned when it was 13 years old in 1950 yielded 150 posts an acre. This year the first thinning from the stand that is now 18 years old yielded nearly 500 posts an acre.

McMillan says the 13-year old stand yielded less because those trees produced only one 7-foot post per tree, while those cut five years later produced at least two posts. Post quality was better in the later thinning than in the earlier one.

New Perennial Forage Developed for South

Progress in the development of a new perennial forage plant for the South—a cross between sorghum and Johnson grass—is reported by cooperating scientists of the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Mississippi Agricultural Experiment Station. If this year's field tests demonstrate the value of one or more of the selected crosses, they will be considered for release to growers as soon as seed supplies can be built up.

These crosses, some of which yield more than 30 tons of forage per acre, combine the valuable carbohydrates of sorghums and the perennial growth habit of Johnson grass.

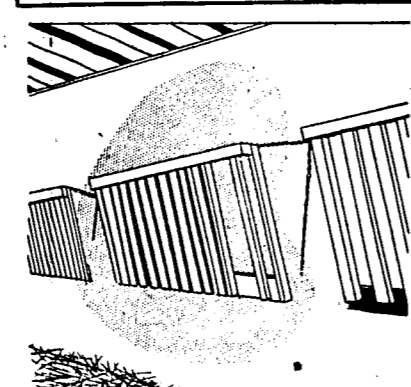

Especially important, they produce good forage during August and September, when most Southern pasture crops are on the wane.

According to H. W. Bennett, State-USDA agronomist at State College, Miss., who has directed this research, three important types of plants have resulted from thousands of crosses; plants resembling sorghum, plants resembling Johnson grass and intermediate plants.

Each has its advantages, Dr. Bennett explains. The sorghum types, growing as high as 18 feet and producing as much as 32 tons per acre, make excellent pasturage. Cows break over and eat nearly all of the above-ground portions of the plant. The intermediate and grassier types, which produce as much as 14 tons per acre, are suitable for grazing and for silage.

All crosses have been made by applying the pollen of Johnson grass to sorghum flowers. Plants were selected for compact rhizomes in contrast to the type of root growth of Johnson grass.

Cull Out Infected Birds In Flocks

Tuberculosis Problem Reported in Study

A survey reported at the annual convention of the American Veterinary Medical Association indicates that tuberculosis is a serious problem of poultry flocks.

Dr. C. D. Lee, Iowa State College, reported that in a survey of 468 flocks, 45.08 per cent had birds that were positive to tuberculosis tests. In pullet flocks, the number of positive flocks was slightly over 13 per cent but in flocks where pullets and hens were housed together, 63.34 per cent were infested with tuberculosis positive birds.

"The procedure of marketing all birds at the end of their production year has merit in eradicating avian tuberculosis but one must bear in mind that pullets also may have tuberculosis and be a source of dissemination of the disease to pen mates or to swine. The threat of tuberculosis remains as long as a single infested bird remains on the farm," Dr. Lee said.

It's wise to keep old birds away from chicks, say the experts, since one infected bird endangers the entire flock. Tuberculosis is reported a bigger problem than most farmers realize.

He outlined the following control program:

1. Cull birds daily, destroy and burn birds with possible symptoms of tuberculosis.
2. Abandon old buildings and equipment if disease is extremely prevalent.
3. Brood chicks in clean houses at least 400 yards from old birds.
4. Move to clean range far enough away to avoid contact with old birds and lots.
5. Sell old birds in late summer, or at the end of production year.

Yearly Livestock Losses Two Billion

An estimated total loss of over two billion dollars per year is caused due to mishandling, diseases and parasites of livestock, according to a report made to the Annual Convention of the American Veterinary Medical Association.

Reporting to the convention assembly, Dr. Harry E. Kingman, Jr., the AVMA's official representative to Livestock Conservation, Inc., said the annual loss amounts to about one-fifth of the nation's annual income from meat, milk, hides and wool.

Several research studies and action programs sponsored by Livestock Conservation, Inc. are now in progress. These include the National Bruise Survey; the U.S.D.A. survey on non-skid flooring; the internal ham bruise study at the University of Minnesota; research into liver condemnations by Colorado A&M College; an age of bruise study at Ohio State; a state wide campaign against cattle grubs in Oklahoma; 4-H demonstrations and the work of several standing committees of Livestock Conservation, Inc.

Dr. Kingman also reported that regional offices of Livestock Conservation, Inc. were active during the past year in helping reduce these serious livestock losses.

Big Businessmen

Strange as it seems, recent figures show industry has taken a back seat to agriculture in capital investment per worker. Average investment of $14,000 per worker in agriculture indicates that back of each of the 8.5 million farm operators, hired hands and family workers is a sizeable investment in equipment and materials.

President Praises Volunteers
"Our army of Cancer Crusaders is the heart and backbone of our entire organization," Leo J. Falk, president of the Idaho Division, said this week. "They are doing a tremendous job in saving the lives of Idaho residents. The financial drive is being completed now, but the educational work continues throughout the year. All money collected goes to support the American Cancer Society's three-fold program of research to discover new and more effective methods for curing cancer, service to patients, and professional and public education. Sixty percent of what is contributed remains in Idaho to finance state and community programs of cancer control."

"Volunteers taking part in the American Cancer Society's 1955 educational and fund raising crusades had two jobs to do—one to collect the money, but, more important, these volunteers are helping to carry out the society's year-round campaign of education about cancer control. Countless Idahoans are learning from our more than 6,000 volunteers that most early cancers are curable, and that thousands of men and women are alive who have been cured of it; that cancer must be treated early; that it does not cure itself, and that it must be treated properly by x-rays, radium or surgery. "The word cancer has been lifted from a position of blind dread by our volunteers using the neighbor-to-neighbor approach and is now being openly discussed. Cancer is not a disgrace and no one should be ashamed to seek help for it."

Establishes Seventh Tree Farm
The Northern Pacific railway has just established its seventh tree farm, a tract of 3,800 acres in northern Idaho, it was announced this week by P. D. Edgell, assistant vice president in charge of timber and western lands at Seattle.

This brings NP's total forest lands certified as tree farms to nearly 484,000 acres. The company previously had established two tree farms in Washington and four in Montana. Latest NP tract to be certified was one of 122 units formerly dedicated at the Palouse Valley Tree Farms during a celebration at Potlatch, Idaho, July 30 and 31. Average size of each unit is 100 acres. Largest unit is 37,000 acres owned by Potlatch Forests, Inc., of Lewiston, Idaho.

All tracts will be managed for perpetual forest crops under the principles of the American Tree Farm system. This means that the owners pledge to provide reasonable protection from fire, insects and disease; to prevent damage from excessive grazing, and to harvest forest crops in a manner which will assure future tree yields.

The Northern Pacific last year began a large scale aerial survey of its forest lands, supplemented by field sampling, to obtain an accurate inventory of its holdings. Based on this information the company will develop areas of sufficient size for sustained yield programs.

A large number saw pictures taken by Mr. and Mrs. Martin Mickey of Moscow in a tour of the Holy Land in 1953, at the Lutheran church Sunday evening, and to say that they were marvelous is almost an understatement. Mr. and Mrs. Grant Clemenhagen attended a birthday party at the Jerry Olson home in Moscow, honoring Mrs. Clemenhagen's mother, Mrs. Beret Olson of Deary on her 88th birthday anniversary. A Tribune photo shows Mrs. Olson holding her huge birthday cake, with 88 candles.
Mr. and Mrs. Verne Dunham of Enterprise, Oregon, spent last week here on business, and visiting in the Edwin Forest and Lloyd Shreffler homes.
Mr. and Mrs. Ingvald Aas and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Swanbeck, all of Clarkston, were Sunday visitors in the home of Mrs. Johanna Nelson.
Emret Lien spent last week in Spokane.

Millions Are Lost Each Year Through Careless Accidents

HANOVER, N. H.—It may sound astronomical, but a saving of $10,000,000,000 would be accomplished in one year if the people of the United States had "an overwhelming desire to be safe and to respect the safety of others."
This is the opinion of Dr. John V. Grimaldi, nationally prominent industrial accident prevention executive.
While firmly denying that the problem of accidents can not be solved, Dr. Grimaldi admits that the solution is not simple because "the problem is people."
Says Dr. Grimaldi: "It is probable that the average person of today is no more ready to work and live safely than his father was 40 years ago. The average human is a compound of contradictions. He is bored with safety. He is afraid to admit desire for caution because he is bold with bravado. Couple this with the mysterious psychological complex which Freud has identified in every human, urging each man to a varying degree to destroy himself, and it will be recognized that we as individuals are the principal and complex variable in the accident causation equation."

Ways to Remove Swallowed Objects

CHICAGO—Children seem to be born with the desire and ability to "introduce foreign bodies of all types into their ears, noses, and throats"; doctors are constantly developing new ways to get them out again.
New techniques plus antibiotics have reduced the need for surgical removal of pins, seeds and other items.
One of the first recorded cases of surgery of this kind was in 1620 when physicians removed nine coins swallowed by a 14-year-old boy about to be robbed of them.
One new way of removing metallic objects is by a magnet, a very small one which, attached to a string, is lowered into the throat and allowed to work its way down to the metallic object in throat or intestines, then withdrawn, pulling the object with it.
Now physicians also give antibiotics to prevent infection, then wait and watch while the object passes naturally. An unusual case reported in Los Angeles was that of a year-old boy who swallowed five open safety pins and at least 12 needles. Given antibiotics, most of the pins and needles passed were eliminated naturally, although some had to be removed by surgery.

Army Develops Arctic Subway In Greenland

WASHINGTON — The Army is carving an experimental "arctic subway" in Greenland's huge icecap and will expand the novel project if it proves feasible.
The underground tunnel will be about 15 miles long and about 25 feet below the surface. If all goes well, electric "subway trains" may one day be scooting under Greenland's icy mountains.
The idea behind such a subway would be to avoid such problems as weather, navigation, and trail marking involved in surface travel on the 700,000-square-mile arctic icecap that covers almost all Greenland.
While the Army did not say so, the underground network also would be invisible to enemy bombers flying the arctic route from Russia. The Army has already built a number of installations under the ice to house men operating the U.S. air station in Greenland.
Army engineers say the cost of the tunnel "probably would be much less than the average U.S. secondary road."

Button Maker Ready For Ike's Acceptance

PITTSBURGH — Arthur Garfield Trimble, button and badge maker, who claims he coined the "I Like Ike" slogan for the 1952 presidential election, says he is all set to go again if President Eisenhower decides to run in 1956.
Trimble was one of those boosting Eisenhower before he had indicated willingness to enter the 1952 race, and he was ready with his buttons and badges when the time came. He also had "I Told You So" buttons ready for the victory celebration.

Cleaned Cash

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. — Bartender Joe Lopez put $81 in change in a bank sack and then hid it in what he thought to be a safe place — a laundry bag.
While Lopez slept, a laundryman collected the bag.
Weary laundry workers searched through thousands of pounds of soiled clothes, but were unable to turn up the missing money.

Published Weekly by the Union Oil Service at Kendrick
W. L. "Bill" Rogers, Editor

HELLO, FOLKS:

We're not going to be "I told you so's" about this weather — but all will now agree that winter is here — and those who let us fill their stove oil tanks early are happy about having done so — for cozy warmth is theirs with a twist of the control knob. All of which goes to prove that you just can't beat Union Products.

A race horse owner from Idaho showed up at Churchill Downs with an 8-year-old horse that had never raced before. Since an 8-year-old starter is a pretty poor gamble he was off at $136.50 to 1, and galloped home first by ten lengths. The stewards, suspecting dirty work, demanded of the owner: "Why haven't you raced him before?" "To tell the truth," said the Idahoan sheepishly, "we couldn't ketch him till after he was 7!"

Ready for snowy, icy, muddy roads? Do you have winter tires on your car or pickup? If not, come in and talk it over. You'll be surprised at how cheaply you can be "ready to go" on winter roads.

A prissy woman came rushing up to the zoo keeper. "The monkeys are gambling at cards," she said indignantly, "you'd better get a move on and break up the game." "There's nothing wrong with that," soothed the keeper, "they're only playing for peanuts."

Let us wash and wax your car; grease it; fill the radiator with Prestone, and fill the crankcase with Royal Triton Motor Oil — then you'll be ready for winter.
