Tack a New Room Onto Your House

Only three hours time and $11.50 built this extra winter room

Hundreds of home owners are discovering an easy, low cost way of turning cold windswept porches and breezeways into warm extra rooms that can be used all winter long.

A pair of scissors, hammer, tacks, molding strips and a roll of crystal-clear Flex-O-Glass, is all that it takes to make this extra room of plastic.

If your porch happens to have screens, leave them up. Just cut to size and tack it right over them. Otherwise, simply tack the shatterproof plastic between uprights. When spring comes, take it down and store it away to be used next season. It's guaranteed two years.

A porch enclosed with this crystal-clear plastic, at a fraction of the cost of common glass, is especially valuable as a children's playroom because Flex-O-Glass is unbreakable and lets in Sunshine Vitamin D (Ultra-Violet Rays) which common glass filters out. Local dealers here carry Flex-O-Glass in rolls.

Misplaced: Three Famous American Cornerstones!

WASHINGTON — How can you lose a cornerstone which may weigh several tons? This is the question Federal authorities are pondering in the wake of a hunt for New York City Hall's cornerstone. Missing are the cornerstones of the White House, United States Treasury and Washington Monument. Apparently they are obscured by additional building and a dearth of records.

The Washington Monument was dedicated on July 4, 1848, amid a throng of 15,000 spectators, including Mrs. Alexander Hamilton, Mrs. Dolley Madison and George Washington Parke Curtis, Martha Washington's grandson. The trowel was the one wielded by George Washington at the laying of the Capitol cornerstone in 1793.

Into the monument's cornerstone went over 70 mementos, including Washington's portrait and coat of arms; a city map; census; housing and tax statistics; all United States coins from the gold eagle $10 piece to the half dime; and newspapers (New York Daily Sun, Mobile Register and Journnal, Baltimore Daily Sun and the Western Citizen of Paris, Kentucky).

But today no one knows where the cornerstone may be found, although it is presumed to be somewhere in the northeast corner, probably hidden by subsequent foundation enlargement.

Tradition has it that President Andrew Jackson handed the mason a lock of hair from his grand-daughter's head along with one of his messages to Congress, to be placed in the cornerstone of the Treasury. But the stone cannot be found in the granite building erected in stages after 1836.

Before the White House renovation in the early 1950's, mine detectors were used in an attempt to find a metal plaque indicating the cornerstone location. But, if located, the cornerstone remained untouched and it is not known if somewhere in the White House structure there lies a repository of mementos of the capitol's early life.

Cadet Skips Drills Without Demerits

NEW BRUNSWICK — An Air Force ROTC cadet has missed drills and more drills without drawing a single demerit from officers at the Rutgers University detachment. And the cadet isn't the colonel's boy either!

In fact, this particular cadet couldn't be anybody's boy; she happens to be a pretty young lady named Eve Winant.

Miss Winant, a Douglas College senior now finishing up her second year in the advanced AFROTC at the State University's men's college, became a celebrity of sorts when she was accepted—informally—as the first female ROTC member in the history of State University.

At Rutgers — traditionally a men's college—Miss Winant found that the students were surprised to have a girl in their class. "I think they considered it an intrusion of their right," she says. "There were very few who would even say 'Good Morning' to me for the first month or so."

All this changed now, though, and Miss Winant is very much a part of the senior AFROTC class at Rutgers University—that is, all except for Tuesday afternoon drills.

Bedridden Scholar Earns College Degree

DETROIT—Nick Kobane, 36, has earned a college degree—the hard way. For 17 years Kobane has been a patient at Receiving Hospital, paralyzed from the waist down since he was shot by a Detroit policeman who mistook him for a burglar.

Now, after seven years of study, he has a bachelor-of-arts degree in chemistry from Wayne university.

Oregon Senator Wants Abbreviation Accord

WASHINGTON—Oregon has been a state for 96 years and it's high time, believes Senator Neuberger, that everybody agrees on the proper abbreviation of her name.

Neuberger (D., Ore.) cites several authorities in support of "Oreg." So "Oreg." it ought to be, he contends.

Women and Horses

LONDON—A divorce-court judge believes "Women are like horses they need their heads some times."

Judge Samuel Richards Edgedale made the comment in dismissing a young wife's petition for a divorce on grounds of cruelty but cautioned the husband about "keeping too tight a rein" on her.

The judge advised the young couple to consult a marriage guidance council.

New Call For Bids Authorized

U. of I., Moscow — A new call for bids in the construction of an 85x190-foot concrete skating rink at the University of Idaho was authorized by the board of regents at its meeting this past week-end, it was announced this week by President D. R. Theophilus of the university.

The skating rink and its encompassing development of the university.

The skating rink and its encompassing development of the university's recreational area is a project to be financed from funds derived from student fees. The current bid for the projects were rejected as being too much higher than the contemplated expenditure. The bid for a concrete rink by John E. Thomas, Moscow, was $257,200, and of Hansen & Parr Construction Co., Spokane, $256,500.00.

The regents authorized the new call for bids at a time deemed feasible by the university bursar and engineer.

Mankind Devised Air Conditioning From Nature's Book

WASHINGTON-It took man until the 20th century to develop air conditioning, something nature's engineers thought of many years

The industrious honeybee has for more than 40 centuries regulated the hive's temperature. In summer well-organized fanner bees flutter about tirelessly, circulating air which maintains a pleasant atmosphere for brooding bees and removes excess moisture that would ferment the nectar.

Bees construct elaborate homes that suggest modern apartment hotels. The hive is honeycombed with thousands of nursery cells, each a sort of efficiency apartment where a single egg hatches and the larva grows to maturity. When a full-grown worker emerges, the worker bee "staff" thoroughly cleans the cell to prepare for the next tenant.

Like bees, ants and termites are master builders. African termites erect many-storied skyscraper nests. Leaf-carrying ants of tropical America dig underground apartments, some 30 feet wide and 8 feet deep. Worker ants venture out each day to cut pieces of leaves that are borne home like unbrellas. Masticated, the leaves serve not as food but as beds for fungus the ants grow to eat.

The mountain-beaver or sewellel, tunnels an intricate subway system with numerous exits. Its motive: swift, safe travel beneath' dangerous traffic on the earth's

Chances of Seeing 65 Now Greatest

NEW YORK-About three out of every five American males who were 20 in 1910—those born in 1890-will still be alive to celebrate their 65th birthday this year. For women born in the same year the survival rate is even more favorable, the comparable proportion being slightly higher than seven out of ten.

The decline in mortality since the turn of the century has brought better chances of survival to each successive generation of Americans. While the gains have been particularly impressive in early life, substantial progress has also been made at the ages when most men are gainfully employed and when women bear responsibility for the care of a home and children.

Our younger generations undoubtedly will have an even more favorable record of survival than persons born before the turn of the century, because death rates have been decreasing since 1900 and are likely to decline still further in the future.

Radio Debate Over Existence Of God

LONDON - Two middle-aged British housewives recently debated the existence of God over Britain's biggest radio network.

Mrs. Jenny Morton, 52, wife of a minister, made her appearance to challenge Mrs. Margaret Knight, psychologist and unbeliever. Two previous broadcasts by Mrs. Knight had brought demands from newspapers and clergymen for her suspension.

Mrs. Morton, a resourceful speaker, said Mrs. Knight's attack on dogma was misplaced. "Christian belief is more than that: It is that living experience of God in Jesus Christ into which, generation after generation, men have entered," she said.

She said the creeds and theology were "men's attempts to describe that experience." Mrs. Knight contended that the decline of church-going revealed in statistics proved a decline in

U.S. Will Modernize Spanish Fleet By 20

MADRID - The United States Navy agreed to modernize the Spanish Fleet and the agreement provides that modern equipment will be supplied for an "initial group" of 20 Spanish warcraft. Other vessels are to enter the program later.

New armament, radar, and firecontrol equipment are to be installed on the 20-destroyers, gunboats, corvettes, and mine sweep-

The agreement is within the framework of the aid-for-bases accord between the two countries.

Easy Arrest

POCATELLO, Idaho - Without moving from his chair at the County jail, Deputy Sheriff Earl Cutler arrested a man wanted on a charge of grand larceny.

Cutler said he served a warrant on Franklin Warren, 20, of Fort Hall, who was leaving the jail after visiting a friend.

Published Weekly by the Union Oil Service at Kendrick W. L. "Bill" Rogers, Editor

HELLO, FOLKS:

Well - It's "Fill Up Time" for now, while this brief bit of Indian summer is here, it's time to fill that fuel oil tank and be ready for the stormy days that lie ahead. Just phone us at 1251 - say: "Fill 'er up" and we'll do the rest. And we'd like to talk to you about our 'Stay-Ful" Service, That's one we know you will want.

In a night club, a gal wearing an extremely low-cut gown was pointed out by one young swain to another. "That girl," said the first, "is wearing a $1,000 gown."

"Possibly," replied his friend,

"but you can see her heart isn't

"You're getting to be a stuffy old stay-at-home," complained the wife. "What happened to all the zip you used to have?"

"Well, principally," replied the husband, "I'm beginning to feel my corns more than my oats."

No reason to drive a squeaky, dirty car or pickup. Bring it in for a grease and wash job. A bit of wax goes a long way toward protecting the finish over winter, too. Let us apply that also. We use those famous Union Lubricants on every grease job.

How is the anti-freeze in your vehicle's radiator? Strong enough for winter? Let us test it — free!
