SCHOOL NOTES

During the third quarter the Montana cagers increased their lead to 10 points, but in the final stanza the Tigers narrowed it to 7.

The games leading scorers were: Red Riley and Doug Smart for Libby, and Armitage for Kendrick, each having a total of 14 tallies. Glen Weger led the game in rebounds, with a total of 18.

The Libby players entertained the Tigers in their homes — which was thoroughly enjoyed by Kendrick. Scoring follows: Armitage, 14; Weger, 13; Christensen, 0; Merrick, 2; Cuddy, 4; Havens, 2; Lockett, 0; Gertje, 0; Parks, 1; Clemenhagen, 2.

Tigers Meet Culesac
The Kendrick Tigers traveled to Culesac on Tuesday evening. The score was: Kendrick 55; Culesac 43.

This Friday the Nezperce Indians will travel to Kendrick. We urge everyone to come out and help the boys win this game.

School Board To Meet
The Kendrick School Board will meet Wednesday evening, Dec. 7.

Student Council Meets
The Student Council met Tuesday during the 4th period and discussed the possibilities of having an Annual.

They also talked about serving a light lunch to the ball players after home ball games. Other business consisted of the possibility of the Juniors giving a class play, and the Seniors showing movies.

To Spend Winter In South

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Reil left Wednesday morning of this week for a vacation trip of some three and a half months. They are going first to Corona, S. D., where they will visit in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gerhard Aschwege. From there they go on to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Peters at Dodge, Nebraska. They will also visit other relatives in that section.

They plan to arrive at the home of William Bolts in Tempe, Arizona for Christmas, and will vacation there until about March 15th. They plan side trip from Tempe into old Mexico, and other southern points.

Firemen And Wives Hold Party

The Kendrick Volunteer Firemen and their wives enjoyed a Christmas party at the hall last Wednesday evening. Hostesses were Mrs. E. M. White, Mrs. Kenneth Brown and Mrs. Charles Deobald.

Prizes at pinocle were awarded to Mrs. John Deobald, high; Elmo Eldridge, low, and Mrs. Elmo Eldridge took the galloping goose.

Delightful refreshments were served at the evening's close.

Girls' 4-H Club Meets

The Girls' 4-H Club met on Wednesday, Nov. 30, at the home of their leader, Mrs. Roy Glenn. They worked on sewing projects, after which pictures of Hawaii, taken by Mrs. Johanna Nelson, were shown.

The next meeting will be a Christmas party at the home of Sharon Fey.

NOTICE

On Wednesday Evening, December 14, the Kendrick Volunteer Firemen will be calling at your home for the Annual Donation — and will leave you a ticket to the Firemen's Ball — Dec. 31st.

Atomic Automobiles, Energy From Sun, Predicted By 2000

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—By the year 2000, automobiles may operate on electricity from central atomic power stations and acres of land may be covered with mirrors to gather energy from the sun, the Dean of the University of Michigan College of Engineering believes.

Dean George Granger Brown predicted that the rapid decrease in the earth's supply of fossil fuels, coupled with increased emphasis on nuclear and solar power, will bring about a marked shift in the nation's pattern of consumption.

Greater use will be made of electricity from central atomic plants, he said, such as in the heating and air conditioning of homes and the powering of cars. "The trolley car or trackless trolley may yet return to our highways," Dean Brown said, "and private cars on the main roads might take their power from an overhead line supplied by a central station."

Solar power is also in the offing, Dean Brown concludes, pointing out that a plot of land in New Mexico, 80 miles square and covered with mirrors, would meet the present requirements for work in this country if the mirrors had an efficiency of ten per cent. Latest laboratory devices already have been shown to utilize eight per cent of the sun's energy, he commented.

Uranium Hunters Must File Claims

DENVER — Many a uranium prospector will find what he considers the BIG strike this year. But after finding it, what will he do with it? Chances are, if he hasn't filed the proper claim, he can lose his find to the nearest and most agile claim-jumper.

Uranium, like other valuable minerals, is found in the ground but to get it out and to the nearest mill requires filing a claim and working said claim. And, like everything else, there is a right and wrong way to file a claim.

On Federal lands, the first step is to mark the boundaries with four corner posts. A notice of lease application must be attached to one of the corner posts showing the name of claimant along with a location description.

This description should be in reference to a public land survey, or to a natural object or permanent monument. Within 60 days of recording the claim, a lease application must be filed with the Atomic Energy Commission.

Leases run for five years with a maximum of five three-year renewals. A minimum of $100 worth of work is to be done on each claim per year. No royalties are charged for producing ore on federal lands.

What Makes Homing Pigeon Stay on Course?

NEW YORK—What makes a homing pigeon fly home? That's a debatable question. Some fanciers believe homing or carrier pigeons merely follow an instinctive urge. Others think the sun plays an important part in guiding their flight. Still others say the birds are guided by a sense of smell.

Whatever the answer is, there's no doubt that the homing pigeon possesses a memory sense plus exceptional vision. His eye has extreme mobility in every direction, by virtue of six muscles. It also has an extra eyelid—a sort of transparent blinker which closes in flight to protect the eyeball against dust and wind and injury. Thus the pigeon actually wears spectacles provided by nature.

Homing pigeons have been used since long before the birth of Christ. The ancient Egyptians took them on sea voyages and sent back messages warning of hostile vessels. In wartime, the Romans harnessed them to their chariots and released them to summon relief legions as needed.

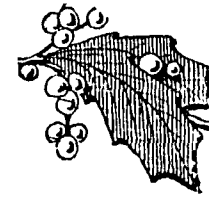

Electric Stimulator Keeps Heart Active

PHILADELPHIA — Harvard University medical professor, Dr. Paul M. Zoll has announced that through the use of an electrical stimulator he has kept a human heart functioning as long as 109 hours after it stopped beating normally. Through this stimulator, Dr. Zoll said, he has treated 27 cases of heart arrest, keeping the hearts going until they were able to function without assistance.

Your Handy Helpful Hardware Man suggests:
HOW TO MAKE ORNAMENT HANGERS

Emergency hangers for Christmas-tree ornaments can be made from lightweight cardboard. Cut and fold the cardboard as indicated in the drawing and then insert the hanger in the ornament. A wire or string through the eye of the hanger will fasten it to the tree. Cardboard with a waxed finish is best for this purpose. The eyes of these hangers may be strengthened with the little circles used as notebook-ring reinforcements.

Handy Man Hint is condensed from one of Popular Mechanics' "DO IT YOURSELF" books, available at this store.

Studies More Important

U. of I. — When 26 Idaho 4-H Club members stepped off the train Nov. 26, in Chicago, to attend the National 4-H Club Congress, Ned Pence, Idaho's national winner in Forestry, was not among them.

The Mackay youth's work this past season made him eligible for both the trip and a $300.00 scholarship that goes to national winners. Ned wasn't sick; there was no sickness in his family, but as he put it, "there is the matter of grades" in two or more classes at the University of Idaho, where he is a freshman. They could be better, much better, and Ned wasn't of the turn of mind that lets him have a good time on a trip when there is danger that those grades would suffer even more if he left school for a week.

State 4-H leaders say Pence is just the kind of fellow they would like to have had on the trip with the Idaho delegates. They express regret that he didn't go — but at the same time they admire him for "putting first things first." And to those who have done college work, grades are about the first thing in college life.

"It is Ned's ability to stay with hard work in the face of temptation to slow up and have a good time," they say, "that made him a national winner."

Whether Pence is still eligible for the $300 scholarship is not known at present. State leaders say they figure he is. This year he received a $100 scholarship from Potlatch Forests, Inc., as last year's state 4-H Forestry winner. He is one of six sectional winners over the nation.

Deer Season Is At End

The deer season in this section came to an end on Wednesday evening, Nov. 30 — and many sportsmen as well as animal lovers — frankly say that they are very glad, for the slaughter, to say the least, has been terrific.

In this section, with roads running along the sides of most of the ridges and logging roads, accessible to Jeeps going almost everywhere, the deer have been literally "power cornered." The "grapevine" has carried many accounts of useless and needless killing because the "sportsman" could make the kill, and "wife, daughter, son or somebody else they knew" had a tag!

It has long been our belief that only one tag should be issued to a hunter permitting one big game animal kill. If he bags a deer, the tag goes on it and his hunting is over. The same would apply to an elk, a bear or possibly a mountain goat. If he or she killed, they would have no further excuse for being in the woods!

Christmas Seal Sale On

Rev. J. Wesley Miller, Gooding, president of the Idaho Tuberculosis Association, said this week that the official 1955 Christmas Seal Sale began in Idaho on Nov. 16. Rev. Miller said that funds raised during the 49th annual sale of the seals will be used to support the year-round programs of the voluntary tuberculosis associations for the coming year. The Seal sale, which will continue through the month of December, is sponsored each year by groups of volunteer workers in all of the 44 counties of the state.

In making his announcement Rev. Miller praised the work carried on by the association during the past year, but warned that during the coming year, "We can anticipate increased expenditures as well as increased demands on our time. With the completion of the new 50-bed wing at the state Tuberculosis hospital at Gooding expected in 1956, we should make an all-out effort to find every unknown case of tuberculosis existing in Idaho, and then assist them in obtaining proper medical care. It is the unknown or hidden case that presents the real problem in preventing the spread of this disease," Rev. Miller continued, "for it is these individuals who unknowingly will continue to infect others, bringing the needless misfortune and deaths which this disease may exact in the community."

"The tuberculosis association has always acted as a first line of defense against TB," Rev. Miller said, "and I urge the residents of Idaho to support their local drive generously and together we will bring about the defeat of this disease."

Annual Candlelight Program

U. of I., Moscow — The annual Christmas Candlelight concert of the Vandaleers, well-known choral group, will climax a series of three music events scheduled by the University of Idaho's music department during the month of December.

The Vandaleers, conducted by Glen R. Lockery, will present their concert in Memorial gymnasium Sunday, Dec. 15. Assisting with the program will be the University Symphony orchestra, directed by Carl Claus.

Famed 'Wild West' As We Know It Was Short-Lived

WASHINGTON — The "wild west" of the movies, fiction, and to some extent of fact—of Sitting Bull and Chief Crazy Horse, of war-whooping scalping, hard riding, half-naked red savages whose signature music is the fast tattoo of horses' hoofs—was a relatively late development which reached its climax only in the 19th century shortly before the Plains Indians were settled on reservations.

The mobile and aggressive Sioux and Blackfeet, the fighting Comanche, whom our Army officers on the frontier used to call "the finest horsemen in the world," were plodding footmen little more than a century earlier. Then they hunted the big, shaggy bison on foot. When they moved camp their only beasts of burden were dogs—and women. They first recognized the horse as a "big dog" capable of carrying heavier loads farther and faster. But when they became "horse Indians," the use of the new animal came to change every major aspect of Indian life—not only their hunting methods and war tactics, but also their childhood games, their social life, and their religious beliefs.

Legend ascribes the origin of the Indian horse to strayed animals of the epic Coronado Expedition of 1541 but Indians probably first obtained horses through peaceful trade from Spanish ranches in New Mexico a century later. Gradually horses spread from tribe to tribe. By mid-18th century some Indians of the Canadian Plains were skilled horsemen.

Woodpeckers Pecks Puzzles Professors

UNIVERSITY PARK, PA.—How do you stop a bird from doing what comes naturally?

That's the problem of scientists at Pennsylvania State University who are looking for a way to stop giant woodpeckers from pecking holes in wooden utility poles.

Faced with damage amounting to thousands of dollars each year, utility companies have provided a research grant for a three-year study with the hope that foresters, wood specialists, wildlife experts, and zoologists can help with the problem.

The culprit is the colorful, but shy, pileated woodpecker, a large bird that is appearing in increasing numbers in heavy timber areas. The birds are protected by the federal government.

Real 'Wild West' Said Really Wild East

STORMVILLE, N. Y.—Hey, you Texans and Hollywood heroes, some folks are saying the real birthplace of the American cowboy happens to be up in these here parts. A recently discovered pre-Revolutionary War village only 65 miles from New York City is the spot and Charles and Susan Zurhorst are convinced it was here, not in the heart of Texas that the first cowboys rode.

The Zurhorsts stumbled on cowboy lore while developing a piece of property they purchased for a vacation retreat. They discovered a "lost village", old Indian trails, bits of pottery and other traces of early settlers. But the biggest discovery was that the hilltop was a haven for renegade cowboys in 1776.

"They were called cowboys because of their habit of stealing cattle, the most prized possession a man could have in those days," Zurhorst said.

Four Weddings; One Divorce Mean Trouble

NEW ORLEANS — Four marriages and only one divorce didn't seem like proper arithmetic to a Criminal Court judge who sentenced a pretty 25-year old seamstress to two years in prison for bigamy — and it all started when she tried on a wedding dress at the wrong time. It made the man she was already married to suspicious.

Curious Husband No. 3 trailed his wife one night and uncovered another husband. He complained to police and a subsequent investigation turned up Husband No. 2, idly whiling away time in the State Prison on a bad-check conviction.

Husband No. 1, it proved, had been legally divorced — way back in 1953.

Gone Fishing

CLOVIS, N. M. — Witness Paul Nisbitt was a day late for a trial in District Judge A. T. Hensley's court.

Asked Judge Hensley: "Where were you?"
 Answered the tardy witness: "Went fishing."
 Said the judge: "Ten days."
 Then the judge turned down Nisbitt's plea that his fishing chum be allowed to bring him his sleeping bag.
 Ruled the judge: "Common jail."

Anyone Got Change For Two Guineas, Or Maybe A Bob?

NEW YORK—Anyone got change for half-a-crown, two guineas, a quid or bob? That's British money, and once you get the hang of it, it's all very simple, states Sir Arthur Morse.

Sir Arthur, Chairman of the British Travel Association, recently visited the United States for a coast-to-coast tour on behalf of the "Come to Britain" drive.

"We staunchly avoid using the decimal point" he said. "This makes our money seem a bit complex at first, but after some practice it becomes quite clear."

"Fix in your mind that a pound is worth $2.80; a shilling, 14 cents; and one British penny, slightly more than one cent. Or, if you prefer to work in reverse, a nickel is fourpence, a dime is eightpence and a dollar is seven shillings."

Not even Sir Arthur will claim that the system is the epitome of streamlining, but there are many compensations. One is that Britain is one of the few countries in the world where a perplexed traveler can safely hold out a handful of coins and say: "Here, take what it costs and let me have the change."

Folding money, Sir Arthur explained, is always referred to as "notes," never as bills. "A bill is something you are handed in a restaurant, what Americans call a check."

Siesta Saving Custom Say Experts

CINCINNATI—Viva la siesta!

That brief afternoon nap is not the refuge of the lazy but the premium a wise man pays for a long life, say two University of Cincinnati professors.

Dr. Clarence A. Mills, expert on the effect of climate and weather on man and professor of experimental medicine and Dr. Robert Kirsner, associate professor of romance languages and literature, both laud the siesta.

Ten minutes of sleep will do it. A short nap is better, Dr. Mills says, than a long slumber which makes one groggy.

In most sections of America, sudden and extreme temperature changes stimulate people to great spurts of productive energy, but many people keep right on going without sufficient rest.

They may and do collapse from exhaustion, America, Dr. Mills says, has the highest heart-disease rate of any place on earth.

Only 1 of 10 Veterans Resell G.I. Houses

LOS ANGELES—Of the 2,400,000 homes purchased by veterans under the G.I. bill of rights between 1944 and 1952, only about one-tenth had been resold at the end of 1952.

This is indicated by a regional survey of G.I. homes resales recently conducted by Dr. James Gillies and Dr. R. Clay Sprowls of the School of Business Administration of the University of California.

In an analysis of a sample from 50,000 loans guaranteed by the Veterans Administration in the Los Angeles area, the two men found that about 10.8 per cent of the homes had later been resold. Since Los Angeles home owners are among the most mobile in the nation, it is reasoned that the 10.8 per cent figure is a conservative one for the country as a whole.

A-Bomb Shelters Must Have Atom Power

GALENA, Ill.—This area has built-in A-Bomb shelters, but needs some atom power before they will be suitable for occupancy.

Pete Bailey, a grocer, commissioned Joseph D. Feely, a real-estate agent, to survey abandoned lead mines for possible use as refuges.

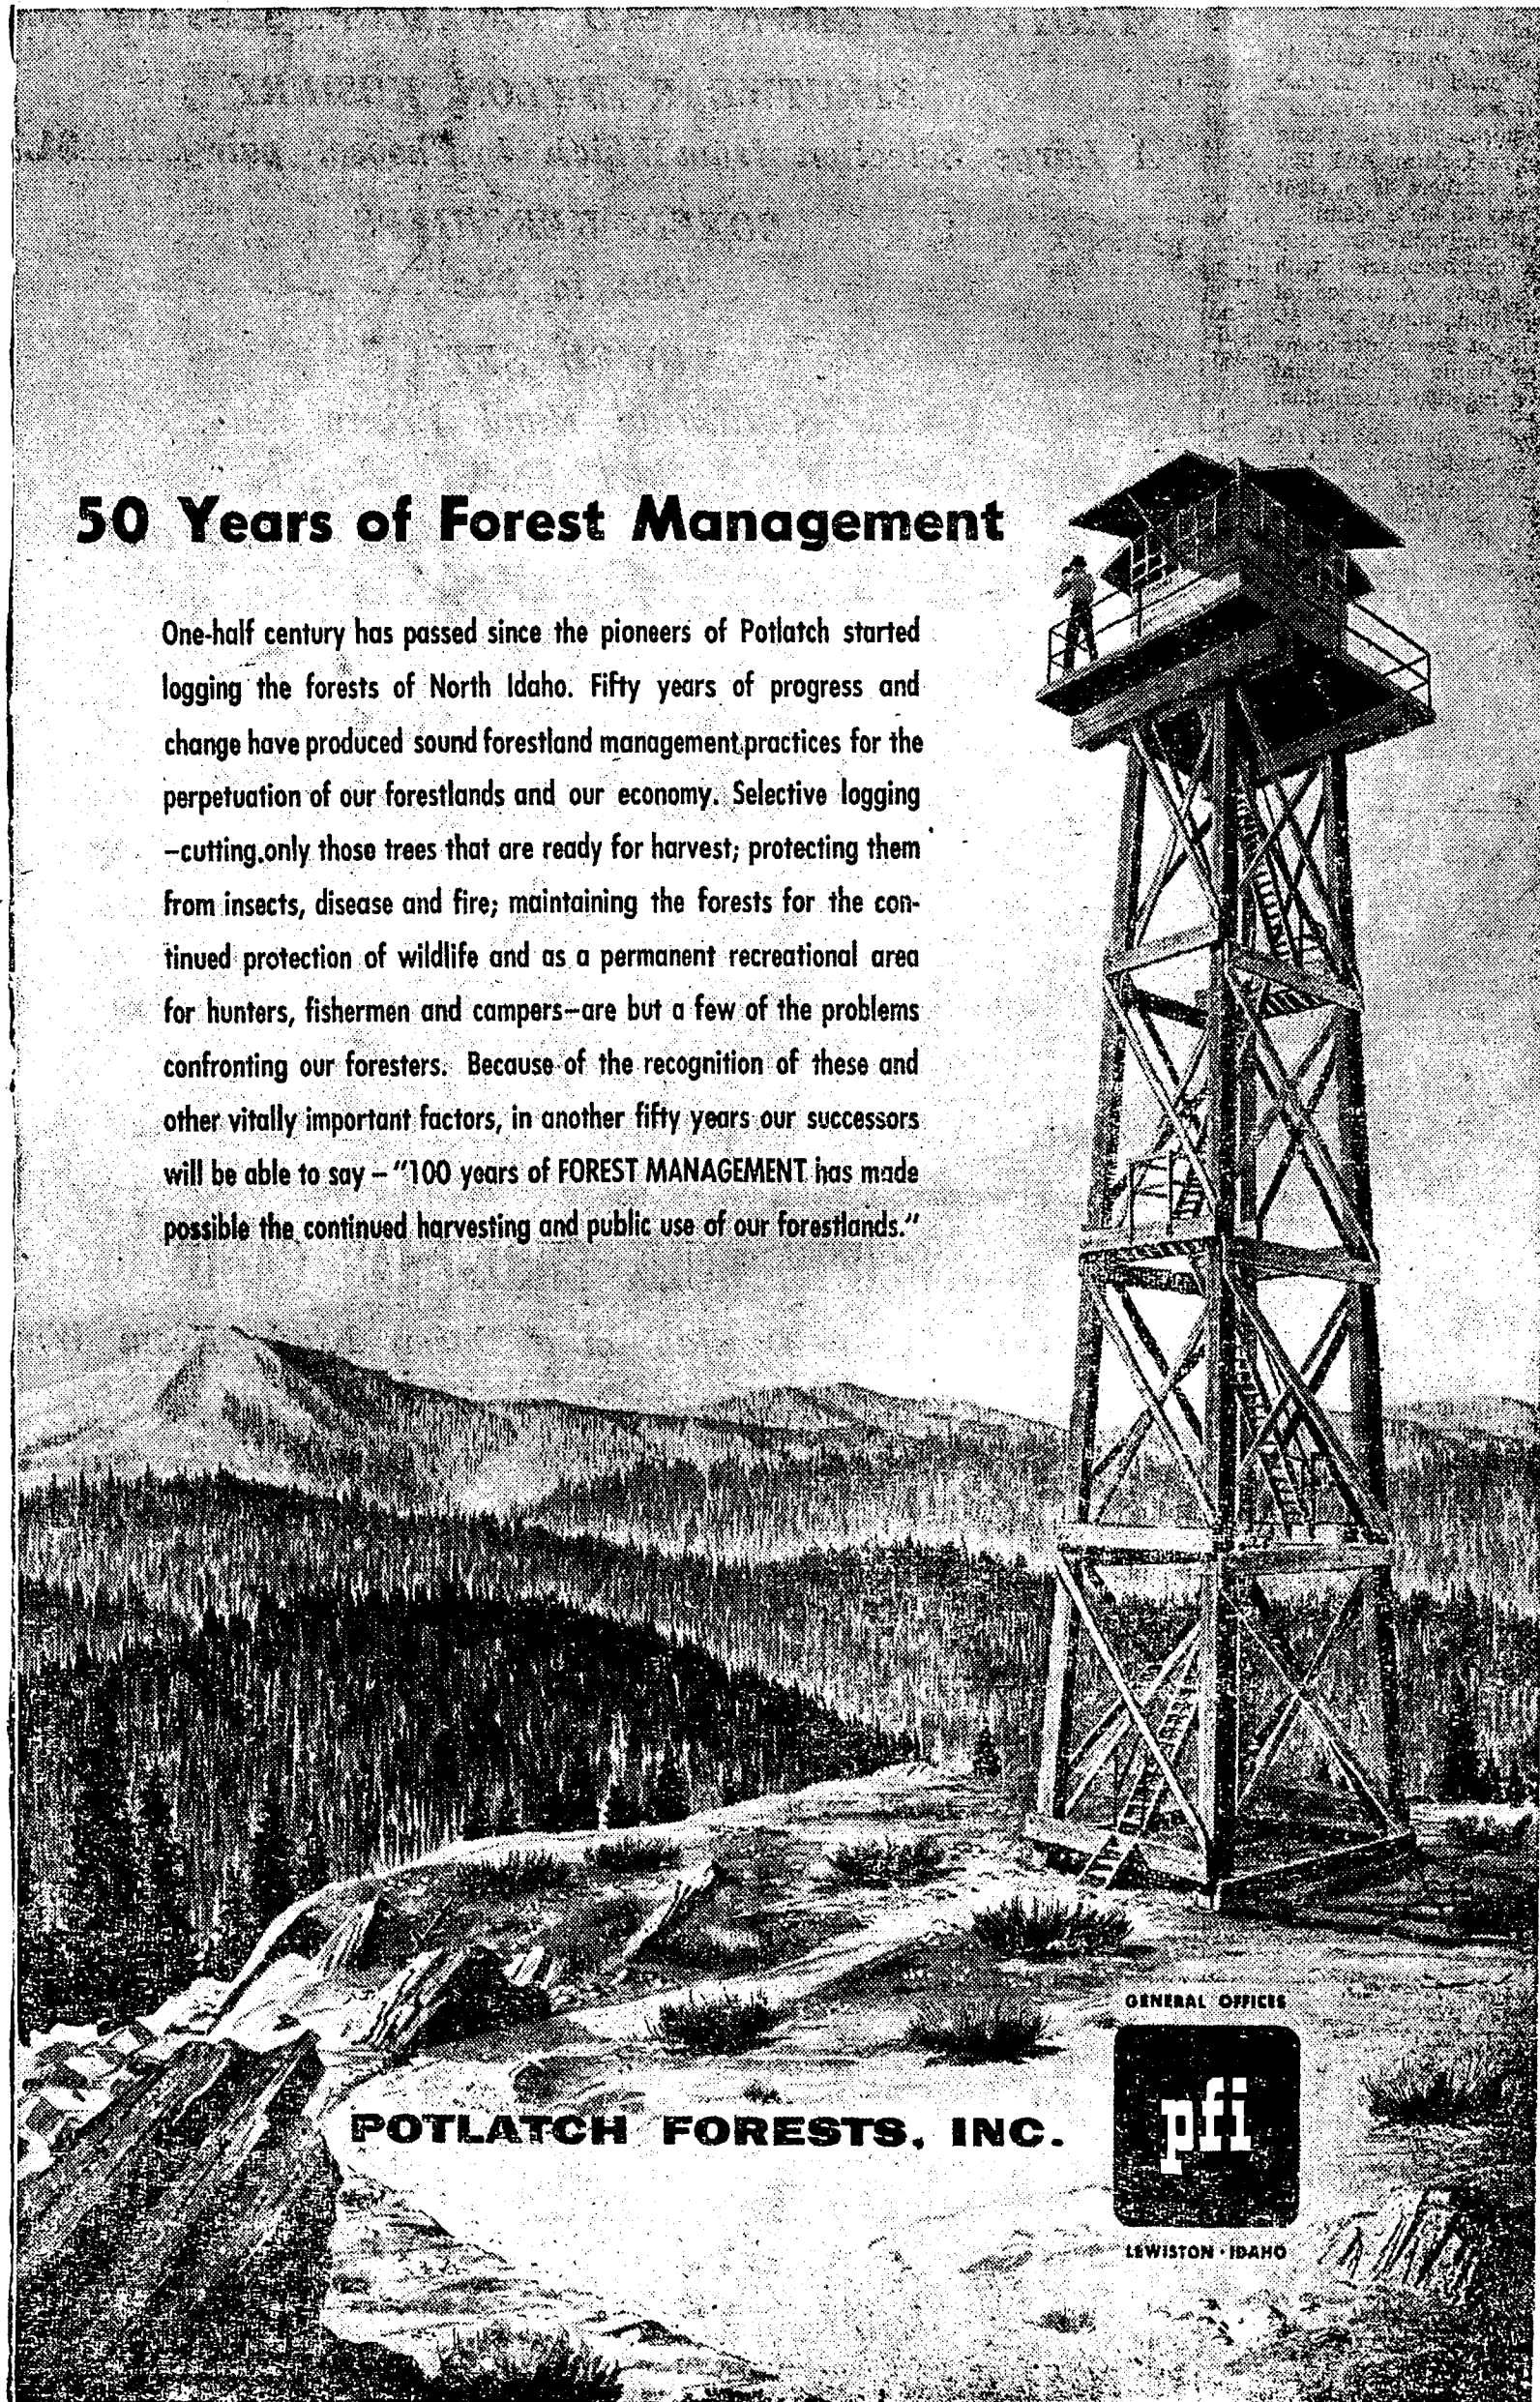

Feely reported to Bailey that the most likely shelter is the Tri-State Mine, south of town. The mine is 30 feet deep. Its inclined shaft gives access to miles of subterranean tunnels.

But, said Feely, "tons of water from underground rivers cascade through the diggings must be pumped out to keep the mines dry."

"Until atomic energy is harnessed in small packages to provide pumping power for Galena mines, the mines themselves will not provide refuge for safety in this atomic age."

Can't Be Warned

RICHMOND, Va. — Some people simply refuse to heed a warning of any nature. That's the opinion of troopers who arrested 10 drivers for speeding at a radar check point on U. S. 30. All 10 had copies of a pamphlet handed them by two other troopers 38 miles back warning that their speed would be checked by radar.

50 Years of Forest Management

One-half century has passed since the pioneers of Potlatch started logging the forests of North Idaho. Fifty years of progress and change have produced sound forestland management practices for the perpetuation of our forestlands and our economy. Selective logging — cutting only those trees that are ready for harvest; protecting them from insects, disease and fire; maintaining the forests for the continued protection of wildlife and as a permanent recreational area for hunters, fishermen and campers—are but a few of the problems confronting our foresters. Because of the recognition of these and other vitally important factors, in another fifty years our successors will be able to say — "100 years of FOREST MANAGEMENT has made possible the continued harvesting and public use of our forestlands."
