Park Trees Get Trimmed

The trees in the Kendrick park have been receiving a trimming at the hands of Charles Easterbrook, assisted by Walter Sparber, and a number of others.

The "hair cut" looks rather severe at this time, but the big Lombardy poplars were far too tall, and that variety of tree rather leans toward the "brittle type," so undoubtedly it is for the best interests of all.

Bill White says that as soon as debris in the park can be cleaned up, the village streets are to receive a thorough cleaning and "shampoo." This past, long-drawn-out winter has deposited far more than the average accumulation of dirt on local streets.

JOINT DISTRICT P-T-A MET AT CAMERON MONDAY EVE.

A report was read of the Executive committee meeting, at which time a possible project for the new year was discussed. The most favored suggestion was that of a "Teacher Education Fund." The amount to be given for this fund to be decided upon after the P-T-A. Fund Raising night.

The Nominating committee introduced the following names for next year's officers:

Mrs. Albright gave an interesting glimpse into one of the many parts of UNESCO, which is "United Nations Educational, Social and Cultural Order." Mrs. Albright is very well informed on this subject, which helped to make it most interesting for the group. All wish to express their thanks to her for the information she gave.

Baseball And Track
Now is the time for the sports of track and baseball. Although track is rather new at Kendrick, we did quite well in meets last year and hope to repeat this season. Not too many boys turned out to participate last year, but this season it looks as if all the boys in the high school are taking a real interest.

Baseball will soon be in full swing and the Kendrick Tigers will be up to bat again. We hope that our ball field will be in better condition this year than last. Many of our games were played on the Lapwai field last year because of the wet conditions of the local grounds.

Don't You Do It — An Editorial
Every year in this country there are thousands of boys and girls who quit school because they think they are wasting valuable time. This is very alarming, for "they know not what they do."

Even in our school are students who have quit school to join the navy or the air force — sometimes just to be out of school. Students seem to believe that just as soon as they quit school they will get a job and begin earning money. They will then be "on their own and able to get married."

We're sure this all would be very nice except for the deadfalls that will be run into. Finding a well-paid job is always a stumbling-block to those who do not have at least a high school education. Surely, some have been lucky and found jobs which bring in a sizeable income every year. But in this day and age, the employment requirements aren't the same as they were a few years ago.

Students ask: "What is so important about a high school diploma in finding a job which pays well?" That little insignificant piece of paper that says that this particular party has graduated from high school is one of the most important articles anyone can have. For nowadays many employers make it a must to have a high school education, and sometimes even a college diploma.

"All this talk about a high school and college education doesn't relate to me," says the stubborn student, "because I can get a well-paid job working in the woods or on my Dad's farm." Probably he can, but what would happen if he were disabled — such as losing a leg or arm while working in the woods or on the farm? Then the real financial problems would begin. That is when the high school or college education would become a "must."

P-T-A. Fun Night
Monday, March 26, the P-T-A. will present their annual Fun Night. No one knows exactly what it's going to be, so better come and see for yourself — it's a sure way to find out.

National Assemblies Program
Thursday, March 22, there will be another National Assemblies School program. Flemming Orem, who was formerly with the Hurtado, Guatemala Band that brought the modern marimba to this country, will, as Mr. Cochrane would say: "Give us a song and a dance."

Talk On Game Conservation

Baseball Practice Begins
Monday of this week the boys began practice for their first baseball game.

Bebout home, where juices were served; at the Bennie Weatherby home came the salad; the main course was at the Roy Ross home and desserts at the Bowen and Strohm homes.

Forty-four were present. Games and songs were enjoyed at the latter places.

Says Mrs. Galloway: "We need one more worker in Kendrick, and one for the lower end of Big Bear ridge. Volunteers for these two places would be appreciated very much."

Play Greatly Enjoyed
The Junior Class play, "Strictly Formal," was presented to a capacity house last Wednesday evening in the High school gymnasium.

It was an amusing three-act comedy which brought gales of laughter from the audience. The well-chosen cast did themselves proud as well as their director, Mrs. George Merrick, and all may be proud of the production.

MORE INFORMATION FROM FACT FINDING COMMITTEE

The P-T-A. Fact Finding Committee spent all of one afternoon last week with Hugh Richardson, architect from Lewiston, studying the feasibility of building a new High School plant on one of four possible sites.

Careful study of the questionnaires revealed that the majority of those answering favored the building of a new Junior-Senior High School plant on a new site. Three hundred and twenty-two taxpayers indicated they were in favor of bonding for $300,000.00 or more to finance the necessary building.

Last week we answered questions one through nine of the questionnaire. The results of questions 10 through 13 are as follows:

One hundred and seventy-nine returns indicated that the persons returning them were satisfied with the grade schools as presently arranged; 40 returns said they were not satisfied. Suggestions from the above 40 ranged from putting all the students in the district under one roof, to returning to one-room schools throughout the district. The question about courses of study to be added to the curriculum brought a unanimous response for the vocational subjects such as Home Economics, Vocational Agriculture, Woodworking and Mechanics. It is hoped that we can have the facilities for such courses in the near future. Two or three persons said they would like to see more foreign language, mathematics and the "3-R's". But overwhelmingly the questionnaires indicated approval of the course of study as dictated by present plant facilities.

Question No. 12 asked for comment on any courses that should be de-emphasized. There were only seven answers to this question. Six persons felt that athletics should be reduced and one person misinterpreted the question. This seems to indicate general approval for all subjects presently being offered. One hundred and seventy-five parents stated that they had children in school or of pre-school age.

Approximately 30 returns came in after the above tabulation was made, but percentage-wise the answers did not affect the totals.

The Fact-Finding Committee is still gathering facts and figures concerning the initial costs of the various possible sites, differences in building costs between the possible sites and estimates of landscaping costs. It is a slow and tedious process. As soon as the figures and estimates are completed, they will be submitted to the School Trustees for consideration.

One resident of the district (who asked that publication of his name be withheld) wrote the following on the back of his questionnaire:

Due to the fact that I have no children, I feel completely unqualified to answer the questions. Except for the gymnasium I have never had reason to enter the local school. Consequently I have no opinion as to which subjects, repairs or location would be most suitable.

In regard to a bond election, I voted in favor of the bond issue last year and suppose I would again, assuming that increased taxation would result in a better education for the youth of the community, and consequently end up being a good investment for both the community and myself. (Name may be obtained at school).

Roses And Shrubs Dead
The beautiful weather of the past week-end Sunday and Monday, with temperatures reaching into the 60's, brought out home owners in full force for raking, pruning, trimming and general clean-up jobs about their homes. Sunday, in particular, the sky was dotted with the smoke of trash fires as winter debris went up in smoke.

"The pruning and trimming revealed a sad story to almost everyone — that of dead rose bushes. Kendrick, which has for many years been a producer of fine roses, has "hardly a bush left alive!" The early freeze evidently getting them, despite the fact that many had covered and banked the bushes before the first cold wave hit — but evidently the say had not yet gone down.

Other shrubs, too, felt winter's bitter blow. Some report forsythia badly injured if not dead. Scotch broom must also be "written off" as well as japonica, bridal wreath (in some instances) and other less hardy shrubs, including snowballs.

There seems little doubt but that some trees, caught with their leaves, have also been seriously injured.

Horticulturalists say not to trim trees and most varieties of shrubs too severely, or to write them off as full losses until it is time for leaves to make their appearance — and then to be sure to cut away all of the dead growth.

This condition exists not only in Kendrick, but almost throughout the entire Inland Empire.

The loss, particularly in roses, will run into many thousands of dollars, since it was not uncommon to pay as much as $3.50 for a good rose bush.

"Rocky Road To Lewiston"
The road from Spalding Junction to Lewiston is, beyond a doubt, in the worst condition it has been in for a great many years. River biscuits, sand, potholes, dust are the lot of the motorist traveling it.

Those having "china choppers" are advised to keep their mouths tightly closed when on this section, or they will surely be jolted out!

Mrs. Oscar Slind returned Tuesday from Spokane where she had spent the past five days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Leland, and other relatives.

Kendrick Grange Met Tuesday
The regular meeting of the Kendrick Grange was held Tuesday evening with 27 guests present. It was a visitation night and Troy was present with a good delegation.

During the business session a communication was read from the Latah County Fair Board telling the local Grange that they were to serve with Troy at the food booth this fall.

It was voted unanimously to have the Latah County Fair this fall close at 4:00 p. m., Saturday, and not carry through Sunday.

Martin Johnson, Pomona Master and Mrs. Martin Johnson, Pomona Home Economics chairman, of Deary, were among the guests.

The "Name Road Signs" that the local Grange has as a project for 1956 are in the process of being made. Posts are being treated and lumber for the "name arrows" has been purchased, Roy Glenn reported.

The Troy Grange was in charge of the program, which included a reading by Mrs. Wallner; several accordion solos by Alfred Severson, and a reading by Ed. Solberg. This was followed by dancing.

Refreshments were served by the committee at the evening's close.

Stockmen's Banquet Tuesday

A livestock research expert will be the speaker when Moscow area businessmen host stockmen at the annual Stockmen's Banquet Tuesday, March 20. The event, highlight of the business-farmer calendar, will begin at 6:30 p. m. at the Elks Temple.

A former Washington State College professor of animal husbandry, Jerry Satola, will be the speaker. He is now associate director of Armor and Co., Livestock Bureau, but served 24 years in charge of research and teaching in animal nutrition, livestock feeding and meats at Washington State.

The dinner meeting, which has become one of the largest social gatherings of the year for the Moscow area, is alternately held under the auspices of the two attending groups. This year businessmen, led by Reuben Bauer, chairman, have promised one of the best of the group of dinners. Farmers planning to attend are asked to make reservations at the Chamber of Commerce office at the Hotel Moscow not later than Monday, March 19. And local businessmen are asked to also indicate their intentions of attending the sessions by that date by reporting to Harry Graser, a member of the sponsoring committee.

Robert Gibb, director of athletics at the University, will serve as toastmaster and other program highlights are being planned. Working with Bauer and Graser on the dinner committee are Elbert McProud, Williams mittie are Elbert McProud, William ander and D.W. McPherson.

The featured speaker was Professor of animal husbandry at WSC from 1919 to 1943 and then became director of research for a large feed company in Los Angeles. While still at Pullman, Satola served as secretary of the Washington Cattlemen's Association and was president of the Western section of the American Society of Animal Production.

He has written numerous bulletins and scientific articles dealing with livestock feeding and nutrition research. He travels extensively and is familiar with the livestock producer's problems on a nationwide basis. His home now is in Chicago.

Circles To Meet

The afternoon circle of the W.S.C.S. will meet Thursday at 2 p. m. in the home of Mrs. Ben P. Cook with Mrs. Carl Gustafson as co-hostess.

The Evening Circle meets Tuesday evening, March 27, in the church basement. Mrs. Ward Helton has charge of the program. Mrs. Elmo Eldridge is the hostess.

Have You Heard About Fortisan?

It's one of the new curtain materials, a special type of rayon, that may be washed and ironed by hand or machine. The county agent had information about it this week from Wilma Shryack, home furnishing specialist of the University of Idaho extension service.

The fiber shows little shrinkage, but it is advisable to follow washing instructions on the label because Fortisan is often blended with other fibers.

Fortisan resists heat, moisture, sunlight and dust which are the worst enemies of curtain fabrics, Miss Shryack says. The new fiber is also quite strong and stands twisting and rubbing. The curtains have a silky texture and excellent draping qualities which permit them to hang in rich folds.

For long curtain life, the specialist recommends their rotation from one window to another to provide even exposure to sunlight. It is also a good idea to reverse the curtains from top to bottom if the design permits. Keep the material out of the rain. Clean curtains often.

Depend On Color

Color is the cheapest and one of the most effective remodeling tools.

It is also one of the most popular, according to Faber Birren, color stylist. Only 25 percent of painted houses were painted in any color other than white ten years ago, he says. Today, more than 50 percent have escaped from behind the white curtain.

Color can perform functions. It can make a house seem high or short, long or squat. It can hide bad features and bring out good ones. It can make an institutional type house look warm and friendly or make a snug Cape Cod seem cold as a dispensary.

Start With Roof
Most color designers believe in color styling from the roof down. The reason is that the roof is the largest unbroken surface visible from street level. In most instances, roof color dictates what colors can be used tastefully elsewhere on the house.

Asphalt roof shingles come in a sufficient number of colors and shades to satisfy any preference. In general, a dark roof color will make a house lower. A light color will make it seem taller. Darker colors are most often used on 2-story homes, while pastel colors are used on low ranch-style houses.

Walls of a house offer special eye appeal when the panel front door or wood windows in key locations are brightly painted as an accent. When the ponderosa pine doors and windows are painted in colors that harmonize with the roof and siding colors, they serve the function of unifying the home. The fact that wood windows can easily be painted is one of their virtues.

Make It Dramatic
Often, a commonplace little house can be given a feeling of drama by varying the colors used on different exterior walls of the house. A wing or attached garage can be painted a different color from the main structure. The second story can be painted a different color from the first.

When a house has particularly handsome features, they can be emphasized by decorating them in bright colors. This would be suitable for particularly good looking grille-work, a porch, a gable end, a dormer, or an outside chimney. Unattractive features, on the other hand, will seem inconspicuous if painted to match their background.

Cattle Grow Faster Now
Yes, cattle grow better than they used to.

Proof was brought to the attention of the county agent this week. The agricultural marketing service of the U. S. D. A. reports productivity in the United States has increased 38 percent in the last 30 years. Each cow produced 539 pounds of live weight in 1954, a boost of 148 pounds since 1924. Live weight production includes the weight of cows produced and the gain put on cattle during the year.

Better animals, better care, more feeding and a swing to beef-types accounts for the increases. Farmers pay more attention to the genetic history of breeding animals than they used to. Greater production is bred into the stock.

More cattle are finished on grain, and the average carcass weight at slaughter has risen from 474 pounds to 511 pounds. There are more cattle and fewer calves in the total slaughter, records show.

Part of the gain is also accounted for by the larger number of beef cattle in the herd. In 1924 only 35 percent of the cows were beef types. Milk cows outnumbered beef cows about two to one. Now, 50 percent are beef animals. They put on weight faster and more efficiently than do dairy stocks.

Potlatch Running Chocolate
The warm weather of the past few days has fed enough snow water into the Potlatch river that it is now at a stage which may best be described as "average" for this time of the year" as it is lapping at the foot of the Northern Pacific flood gauge near the depot.

With the increased flow has come the chocolate color that indicates a great deal of valuable soil is going down stream — in fact, the color can best be described as "deep chocolate." Not all of this soil, however, is coming from farmers' fields. A good deal of it comes from newly cut-over logging areas, where the hillsides have been gouged for logging roads. It takes some years for these cuts to "heal" and cease washing — although some never do.

There is a tremendous amount of snow still lying in the headwaters area of the Potlatch, and the more water escapes now, the less will have to come when the spring rains begin.

The hope of tomorrow is in the hands of the nation's school teachers — today.

Creep Feed When Forage Is Poor
Lamb's Food Must Have Nutritive Value

Creep feeding lambs during periods when range forage is low in nutritive value will help to maintain a steady rate of gain.

For a rancher to take advantage of early spring prices, his lambs must be born during the season of the year when nutrients in range forage are scarce, according to Donald T. Torell, animal husbandry specialist at the University of California field station.

"Unless the lactating ewes are provided with supplemental feeds, their milk supplies may be short," he said. "For an efficient rate of gain, the lambs must receive additional nutrients from some other source. Since the range feed, which they begin to nibble at about two weeks of age, is so low in nutrients, it provides little food value for the lambs."

In the north-coastal region of California, lambs must put on most of their gain from the first of March, when the grass has gained strength, to the first of May, when the grass starts to dry. This is a relatively short period. Consequently, when the lambs are weaned, they are usually too small to be sold as fat lambs and must go as feeders at a considerably lower price, Torell said.

Creep feeding is profitable when forage has low nutritive value.

"Creep feeding the lambs from the time they are two weeks old until March 1 will produce lambs of sufficient size to better utilize the feed at this later date and will produce larger lambs at weaning."

Airborne Granular DDT New Control Technique

Granular DDT applied by properly equipped airplanes has been introduced as a new technique in the control of corn borer by entomologists of the U. S. D. A.

DDT is the only insecticide in a granular formulation which has been tested sufficiently to warrant a recommendation for use in corn borer control, says Tom A. Brindley, entomologist in charge of USDA Corn Borer Control Research.

Up to 87 per cent control of corn borer infestation was achieved by air seeding granulars through properly equipped airplanes during 1955 tests in Illinois. Best distribution and results were achieved with rice seeding equipment when the airplane flew 35 to 40 feet above the ground, covering 14 to 15 corn rows.
Ground treatment also gave up to 87 per cent control in tests.

The number and timing of treatments depends on the severity of the infestation and the desired degree of control, reported Brindley. In general, one application to commercial corn should suffice. Seed corn or other valuable crops may well receive two applications.

A single treatment should be applied as soon as 75 per cent of the plants show evidence of recent feeding in the whorl.

HELLO, FOLKS:

Well, it's time to remove those sawdust tires, wash off the winter's accumulation of mud, and in general get your car ready for a Sunday drive or picnic — and here is what we recommend: Bring it in to us. Let us "yank off those sawdusts," wash, wax and grease it. We'll use those wonderful Union Lubricants, and fill the crankcase with that famous Royal Triton Motor Oil. We're not mechanics, but we'll bet it will run quieter and smoother when we're through with the job. Try us, won't you?

Judge: "Didn't I tell you the last time you were here that I didn't want to see you here again?"

Drunk: "Yesh, yer' honor, an' thash what I told this officer, but he wouldn't believe me!"

Tires battered and chewed up by winter's havoc? If so, bring them in and let us take them in trade on those wonderful new U. S. Royals, Royal Eights, or Royal Masters. Then you can drive with safety and peace of mind. The cost is low. Why not let us figure with you? No obligation, of course.

It was 1:00 a. m. when the sedan wobbled to a stop in front of the white house on 8th and Elm, and two weaving gents dragged a third from the car.

The porch light went on and a stout lady under it called: "Don't fetch him in here! He lives at 9th and Elm." Then proudly she added: "My husband's a handsome, much stronger man — and they won't be luggin' him home for a good two hours yet!"
