Ancient Kendrick News Item

While working on the remodeling of a house at Genesee, Jordon Kanikkeberg found a Genesee News, dated April 5, 1896, and in it, under the heading of "Latah," appeared the following news item:

"Kendrick, Idaho, April 5 — The election today was the quietest in the history of Kendrick. The results show that Miss Jessie Parker, a waitress in the St. Elmo Hotel, has been elected to the town board of trustees, and may probably be elected mayor.

Her candidacy was at first looked upon as a joke, but this afternoon, when there was an apparent lull in voting, her friends began working for her, and as a result she received 32 out of the 57 votes cast. It is claimed tonight that she will qualify, and will be in the race for the mayoralty, an office that comes under the selection of the members of the trustees. Her friends also claim she will be elected.

There was more to the article, but during the years, a mouse evidently "chewed out" the article.

Receives Wonderful News

Mrs. Parker McCreary was one of the happiest young women anyone could possibly wish to see Sunday — for on Saturday she received two letters from Germany that told of her family — two sisters, father and brother in Germany.

The family was torn apart during the war, and she had presumed her father, in the German army, and her brother, in the German Air Corps, to be dead — and she knew not the whereabouts of her sisters.

However, with much patience, and the help of an aunt and the present authorities in West Germany, they were located, and two letters received from them on Saturday.

Death Lies In The Streets

"Boys and girls, you're playing with death when you play in the streets!"

That warning was given to Idaho school children this week by Harold Davis, Traffic Safety director, as he asked them to do their part in the child safety program, the Traffic Safety division is conducting this year.

"During this program we're doing everything we can to get drivers to watch out for you boys and girls in traffic," Davis said. "We're also urging your parents to teach you safe traffic practices. But none of these efforts will keep you safe if you don't get on the ball yourselves." Young people must learn that automobiles move fast — often far too fast — and that anyone who happens to get in a car's path is likely to get hurt.

"Children often think that, because they can see a car coming, the driver of the car can see them," Davis said. "Sometimes the driver doesn't see them, or if he does, he may not be able to stop his car in time to avoid hitting them. So smart children take no chances." Running in the street after a ball or other toy, crossing in mid-block or at intersections against a light are all things that place children in danger.

If there are no sidewalks, walk on the left side of the road facing traffic. Never use roller skates, tricycles, wagon, scooters or sleds in the street or road.

When riding a bicycle in traffic ride with, not against, traffic, and keep to the far right. Do not weave or stunt. Do not carry passengers. Never hitch to a passing automobile or any other vehicle. If you must ride at night, be sure your bicycle is equipped with a good light and a rear reflector. Carry books and packages in a carrier — not in your hands.

Farmers' Band Plays Important Role in Community Life

CHICAGO—A Farmers' Band, founded nearly 30 years ago in the heart of the Southern Michigan fruit belt, has played an important part in the unity and progress of the community.

The musical group has played such a significant role in the lives of the people is the 35-member Farmers' Band of Leisure Corners, about 13 miles outside South Haven.

Formed in the interest of better living, this group is typical of many farm areas in the United States that have grown in musical activity.

Contributing true community spirit, the Farmers' Band plays for benefits, charities, holidays, festivals—or just for fun—and their music offers something for every taste. The band's concerts sparks many community activities and is a source of civic pride.

About 80 per cent of the band's members are local farmers and range in age from the teens to over 70 years. The farms range from 40 to 200 acres in size and produce mainly apples, peaches, pears, cherries and plums. Recruits for the band come from the new people in the community and from the South Haven and Fennville high school bands.

Weekly rehearsals are held and distance seems to make little difference to these farmers. Some members travel as far as 20 or 30 miles to play—rain or shine—and after a long day in the field or orchard.

Difference in age is no barrier, either," says Jos Clark, director of the Farmers' Band. "Teenagers play alongside grandfathers and share their experiences."

Thin Seafarers Less Susceptible To Seasickness

CHICAGO—Chances of seasickness are lowest among passengers who are under 25, slightly thin, traveling midship on a second or third voyage—and are supplied with one of 11 drugs recently proved to be helpful.

A five-month study of 26 anti-motion sickness drugs among 17,000 servicemen, shows that 11 of them were helpful and three of these were more effective than the rest.

The tests were run from Nov. 14, 1954 to April 10, 1955, on military transports crossing the Atlantic. Ten eastward and five westward crossings were used. Passengers were given unmarked pills which were either drugs or placebos. Placebos are inactive substances used as a yardstick against which the action of real medicines can be measured.

The study showed that susceptibility to seasickness decreased with age; that individuals quarantined fore and aft were more susceptible than those in midship; that heavier individuals were slightly more susceptible than their lighter colleagues. The activities of the men while on board had no relation to their susceptibility to illness.

Motion sickness was twice as frequent in persons who had had it before as in those with no history of sickness. However, seasickness was less frequent on westward trips—probably because all the passengers had had at least one previous crossing.

The most effective drugs, by trade name, were Bonamine, Phenergan, and Marezine, when given three times daily.

Scientists Study Uncharted Gulf

WASHINGTON — A study by Australian scientists of the unpredictable tides in the Gulf of Carpentaria will shed new light on one of the world's least-known major bodies of water.

The gulf cuts deeply into the northern coast of Australia. It is 420 miles wide from Cape York to Cape Arrhem and 400 miles in length, almost one third the size of the Gulf of Mexico.

Besides unstable tides, generally shallow water and many shoals make navigation dangerous in the Carpentaria gulf. Its shoreline ranges from flat, miles-wide marshes to rock granite cliffs. Mariners are warned by shipping authorities that some of the island-dotted coasts are still uncharted.

Plankton—tiny plant and animal life — swarms in gulf waters, giving off a vivid phosphorescent glow. At night, waves and ripples are marked with rainbow colors, pink, blue and yellow.

Electron Microscope Probing New World

WASHINGTON — A hitherto invisible and almost unprobed world of the infinitesimally little, as extensive as that revealed by the optical microscope over the past two centuries, now is being seen and explored. Objects and possible organisms within it may be as much as a millionfold smaller than ever seen before. This is the rapidly opening field of the electron microscope.

About the smallest object that can be seen with visible light, regardless of how great the magnification of the microscope used, is approximately 100,000th of an inch in length. In two centuries the microscope has improved enormously. But it still is incapable of making visible even the largest of molecules or any of those strange things between the worlds of the living and the non-living—the filterable viruses. Now this barrier has been crossed by the electron microscope. By means of it one may see objects 100th the length of the smallest made visible by the optical microscope.

Two Fires Confuse Television Watcher

GUELPH, Ont.— Frank Traplin was watching a television movie of a fire that destroyed the three-story Windsor Hotel when his wife shouted from the kitchen: "Fire! Fire!"

Replied Traplin: "I'm watching the fire on TV. Don't bother me now."

Minutes later, firemen extinguished a blaze in the Traplin kitchen. A neighbor had called them. Damage was estimated at $3,000.

By Accident

LITTLE ROCK—A man stepped in front of a moving car and State Patrolman Leslie Caldwell was forced to slam on the brakes. "Where do you think you're going?" demanded the pedestrian. "To police headquarters," Caldwell replied. "Stop in." The man paid a fine for drunkenness.

Earthworm Proves High Intelligence

BERKELEY, Cal.—Earthworms exhibit one of the highest known types of learning, says a University of California graduate student.

Mrs. R. P. Bharucha-Reid has been training earthworms—just regular angleworms so familiar to fishermen—to find their way through a maze of glass tubes. She found that earthworms can learn their way around faster after training has begun if they are given a little time, first, to become familiar with their surroundings. This "familiarizing" is known as "latent learning" and is recognized as one of the highest forms of learning behavior.

Scientists have long been interested in finding out more about the learning processes of simple organisms in hopes of getting a better understanding of learning in higher, more complex forms.

Prospects for Future Scientists, Engineers

CHICAGO—The nation's largest scholarship organization reports that a high percentage of the nation's most gifted high school students plan to make science and engineering their career.

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation conducted tests among 60,000 high school seniors to determine winners of $3,000,000 worth of scholarships.

It said a survey among 5,078 semifinalists showed that 56 per cent of the boys and 16 per cent of the girls want to become engineers or scientists.

In addition, 36 per cent of the girls want to become teachers.

Experts have been warning for some time that engineering and teaching are two fields in which the nation suffers from a shortage.

The survey showed that the next most popular field is medicine and other health pursuits, favored by 10 per cent of both boys and girls.

Business careers were favored by 8 per cent. Law was most popular with 8 per cent of the boys and 5 per cent of the girls.

Recorded Chatter Parakeets' Downfall

DALLAS—Justice of the Peace Bill Richburg listened to the recording and then ruled a Dallas man had just complaint against his neighbor.

The neighbor admitted having 60 parakeets in his garage. The plaintiff contended the chattering of the birds kept him awake at night.

The evidence was a 15-minute tape recording of parakeet talk as heard from the plaintiff's bedroom window.

The judge gave the parakeet lover four days to dispose of the birds.

Small Stuff Only

BUTTE, Mont.—Arrested on suspicion of burglary, a 9-year-old boy told officers he never stole a bill larger than $5 for fear that if he tried to change it he'd be asked where he got it.

The boy and his companion, aged 12, confessed to at least 50 burglaries and petty thefts in the Butte area.

Many Problems Yet Before Man Can Rocket Into Space

BERKELEY, Cal.—Tomorrow's rocket ship may be like a miniature planet in which the first space travelers will have to take along their own atmosphere, their own day and night, and maybe even their own gravity.

This was suggested by Dr. Nello Pace, an associate professor of physiology at the Berkeley Campus of the University of California, speaking to a recent symposium on space medicine.

The Berkeley scientist explained that a way must be found to supply the rocket ship with an atmosphere consisting of oxygen and some "inert" gas, probably nitrogen. This would mean either carrying heavy tanks of the gases or manufacturing them somehow in flight. There would also be the problem of eliminating the respiratory end product, carbon dioxide. He suggested that part of this problem may be solved by carrying along tiny green plants that would supply the atmosphere with oxygen and utilize the carbon dioxide. The problem would remain, however, of adding another gas to the atmosphere, inasmuch as human beings cannot live on pure oxygen.

Dr. Pace cited several psychophysiological problems that must be dealt with. One of them is whether man needs a specific cycle of day and night, and, if so, what kind of such variation would permit optimal performance.

Big Flies Terror Of Insect World

WASHINGTON—Terrors of the insect world are fly devils, found everywhere except the polar regions.

These bloodthirsty, predaceous insects attack and kill about anything on wings near their own sizes. They themselves are the biggest of flies and some species measure as much as two-and-a-half inches in length. They are the Asilidae, or robber flies. One of the world's largest collections of these insects, containing nearly 28,000 specimens, has been added to the collections of the Smithsonian Institution.

The acquisition came from the estate of the late Stanley W. Bromley, formerly of the Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories. In addition to the robber flies, the collection contains approximately 7,000 other insect specimens. Dr. Bromley spent a lifetime in its assembly.

Dr. Bromley's primary interest was in the Asilidae. The way of life of these big "tigers" does not differ much around the world. One customarily sits motionless on the end of a twig. When another insect wings past, it darts out with lightninglike speed, grabs the victim in its powerful legs, and jabs its javelin-like proboscis into its body. Then it sucks the prey dry, leaving only the empty shell.

Segregation Held Not School's Top Problem

CHICAGO — Segregation is least important among major school law issues, Duke University educator E. C. Bolmeier believes.

Dr. Bolmeier recently told the National Association of Secondary-School Principals that the most important legal issue in the schools is religious instruction, followed by liability from pupil injury, authority over pupil conduct and racial integration, in that order.

"From a long-time view," he declared, the segregation issue "stands far down the list as an important issue in school law . . . if there is any doubt as to the eventual conformance with the recent United States Supreme Court decision, one need only to observe the expressed attitudes and opinions of college and high-school students of today who will formulate school policy tomorrow."

Starfish Simply Sends Stomach to Dinner

ITHACA, N. Y.—Cornell University zoologists are trying to find out how a starfish sends its stomach out for dinner.

Prof. John Anderson, head of the Cornell research project, said a hungry starfish grapples with a clam or oyster, then pushes its own stomach out through its mouth into the open shell. Digesting a complete living clam in an hour or two, the starfish pulls its stomach back in, Anderson said.

One problem faced by the researchers, Anderson said, is how the starfish opens its prey's shell.

New Claims

MOSCOW—A Moscow newspaper claims Russia's "flying freightcar" helicopters set two Soviet lifting records recently.

Moscow Pravda reported one helicopter reached a height of more than 2,000 meters (6,561 feet) with a four-ton load. A second with a two-ton load rose to 5,082 meters (16,673 feet).

Dogs Win Round In Mail Battle

Memphis, Tenn. — Postmaster A. L. Moreland has dolefully admitted here that experiments in bribing dogs not to bite postmen have flopped miserably. Rover won, going away.

"We even tried a new fangled anti-bite weapon — a super-duper biscuit," Mr. Moreland said. "But it only made the friendly dogs cuddle a little closer and the other brand more bite-happy."

The usefulness of dog biscuits in battling the bite problem has been tested by Memphis postmen for the past month. But, conceding defeat, Mr. Moreland has mailed back the unused portion along with a failure remark.

Bereft of biscuits, postmen now complain that friendly dogs leap all over them begging for a handout. And the others are still at their favorite pastime.

Mr. Moreland said the Memphis experiment may not have been completely conclusive.

"Not many of our postmen," he explained, "were willing to hand a snarling dog a biscuit!"

Published Weekly by the Union Oil Service at Kendrick
W. L. "Bill" Rogers, Editor

HELLO, FOLKS:
How are you and the politicians making out? And we've certainly had plenty of them call during the past few days, haven't we?
Well, regardless of how you intend to vote, let us make a suggestion: Drive to the polls in a car that is squeak free, and whose motor performs like the manufacturer intended it to. It's easy if you'll let us lubricate it from end to end with those famous Union Products, and fill the crankcase with Royal Triton Motor Oil. Enjoy your car — don't fight it!

An American Indian petitioned the court to have his name changed. The judge asked his present name.
"Chief Soreaching Train Whistle," the Indian replied.
"And to what do you want it changed?" inquired the judge.

"Toots," replied the Indian.

Don't live in a chilly home, when it's so easy to have it warm and comfortable. Just pick up your phone, call 1251, and tell us to fill that fuel oil tank. We'll do the rest. And remember: Union Stove oil is not only hot, it's clean!

At the end of the fifth round the heavyweight staggered to his corner, dazed and battered. His manager whispered in his ear: "Say, slugger, I've got a great idea. The next time he hits you, hit him back!"

Got anti-freeze in your car yet? If not, bring it to us. We'll take care of the job and do it right!

Always travel "Union".
