Bud Gephart Has Theory

Bud Gephart, well known Leland area resident, who has loved the outdoors all the days of his life, and spent many, many weeks studying wild birds and game, as well as hunting and fishing, says he has read all our articles this past year regarding the lack of Chinese pheasants. and the probable cause, with a great deal of interest. However, he says he cannot agree entirely with all our theories, and advances some of his own, which we consider well worth publication.

Bud says that although the coon is a well known and proven predator, he does not believe that he alone accounts for the scarcity of pheasants. He believes that the so-called grouse season, which affords a legal reason for carrying and using a shotgun, plus the habit of a great many people of carrying .22 rifles in their cars or pickups, is responsible in a large degree for the abrupt decline in Chinese pheasant population just before the legal season opens.

Secondly, Bud believes that the new farm operation of "plowing green manure", particularly sweet clover, accounts for many nests and young birds, as this is done just at the nesting and hatching season. And, too, believes it highly probable that new seed wheat treatments may poison a considerable number of adult birds just at the laying season.

Our note: The Gazette will welcome the theories of others as to just what has happened to the Chinese pheasant population in this area.

Suggest Cancer A San Antonio man was arrested for driving without a license. He could not get one, he said. Why? He had bad eyesight. Then the judge Virus May Cause asked him what he did for a living. Human Leukemia Motorists addicated to the use of

DETROIT-Is dreaded human leukemia caused by cancer virus? Medical scientists will know "within a few years," a Duke University virologist has predicted. Findings by a Duke cancer research team throw further light on the subject by adding support to the long-debated possibility that this blood-cancer disease is caused by cancer virus, Dr. Joseph W. Beard, professor of experimental surgery, declared at a cancer conference.

For more than 50 years some investigators have suspected this possibility. Opinions have been divided, however, because researchers didn't know exactly what to look for, and no significantly substantiating evidence had been found.

The Duke team has isolated three separate viruses which cause forms of leukosis in chickens, diseases closely resembling human leukemia. That is, the team has actually taken pictures and described the physical characteristics and chemical behavior of these viruses.

"At present it is still not possible to prove conclusively that human leukemia and Hodgin's disease are caused by cancer viruses, but if it's true, the problem of research has been greatly simplified. Modern methods and what has been learned from studies on animals and fowls give us the know-how we have needed for direct approach to the study of human leukemia," he said.

Science Studies Lobster's Brain

LOS ANGELES - A "miniature brain" in the lobster heart may tell us more about how the complex systems of nervous units in humans act together to produce behavior.

This tiny clump of nine nerve cells, which controls the lobster's heartbeat, is being studied in the zoology department at the University of California.

By placing microscopic electrodes in the nerve cells the investigators have been able to record the electrical activity generated by them. This energy comes from two groups of nerve cells-four small ones and five large ones.

The small cells apparently stimulate the large ones, which in turn cause the quick, rhythmic heart contractions. The nervous energy is fired in machine-gun-like blasts.

The study has suggested that the lobster heart is a model organism which is capable of very simple behavior patterns - rhythmic, coordinated contractions. The "miniature brain" with its relative autonomy and spontaneous, integrated and patterned activity shows strong resemblance to a central nervous system.

Marriage Superstitions Surround Old Shoes

LOS ANGELES - The throwing of old shoes at newlyweds embodies ancient beliefs in the shoe as a symbol of fertility, says folklore scholar Dr. Wayland Hand.

Articles of clothing have always played a prominent role in superstitions involving relationships between man and wife. For example, says Dr. Hand, the folk notion is still current in some isolated parts of North Carolina that if a girl puts on a boy's hat, it's a sign she wants to kiss him. An old Alabama belief holds that placing the husband's shoes under the bed will insure the fertility of the wife. The U.C.L.A. professor says that most American folklore beliefs originated in Europe, although some have taken peculiarly American twists from time to time.

Boy Digs to Pay For Dog's Burial

NEWARK-Stories about a boy and his dog are legend and numerous. Thirteen year old Tommy Gorse and his dog Wow Wow reflect the type of devotion that has stirred many such stories.

Tommy and his dog were born the same day and they grew up together. Tommy named the dog at the age of 3 when he babbled the words "Wow Wow." They were the closest of pals. Wow Wow followed Tommy to school each day, then turned home reluctantly. Recently Wow Wow died. Tommy refused the suggestions of parents and friends that the dog be buried in the back yard or the country, and spent $140 of his savings for college and medical school to bury the dog in a Chester, N. Y.

One Egg—Really Rare

MIDDLETON, N.Y. - Mrs. Herbert Houck preparing breakfast for her family, cracked open a threeyolked egg. Mr. Houck, one of the state's biggest poultry farmers, whose stock produces some 6,000,-000 eggs annually, said that in 23 years in the business, he recalls only two three-yolked eggs.

Spread Between Farm Valuation, Income Widens

NEW YORK-Farm income and farm real estate valuations, which normally show similar behavior patterns because of their intimate relationship, have been going separate ways for some two years, creating a paradox without counterpart in the records of agriculture.

Figures compiled by the U.S. Department of Agriculture show that farm income has been in a down trend since 1951. The decline in net farm income from then to date is around 30 per cent, though there have been some stabilizing tendencies recently. Farm real estate prices, by contrast, after a dip in 1953, have been moving up steadily since and are now at record levels on a national basis. The rise from the 1953 low point has been around 8 per cent for the United States as a whole, although substantially greater in a number of states.

The Department of Agriculture calls the duration of this divergence "a unique departure from the usual relationship between land values and farm income," and it emphasizes that the real basis for land values in the future, as in the past, must be the level that can be supported by long-term land earnings. For the time being, however, the usual rules prevailing in the land market seem to have been offset by a number of factors that have maintained the demand for farms despite the recent earnings

The biggest single factor in the demand for farms has resulted from the revolution in agricultural production over the last decade and a half with the growth of mechanization and the introduction of new and more efficient farming techniques.

Rare Seal Often Pulls in Head

WASHINGTON-An animal that can pull its head almost completely into its neck - that's the Ross seal, rarest of all the seal family in the Antarctic. Collected by the Navy's polar expedition last winter, a frozen specimen of this unique animal recently arrived at the U.S. National Museum in excellent condition.

The seal-about 8 feet long-is a dweller exclusively on the drifting ice pack of the Ross Sea. So far as known it never comes on land or on the ice shelf. It apparently feeds almost exclusively on cuttlefish and squid, which are abundant in Antarctic waters. The nature of its teeth precludes the likelihood that it is a fish-eater.

It is yellowish-green on the underside and blackish-brown on the top, the fur often being marked with pale streaks along the sides. On the drifting pack it has fearsome enemies—notably the killer whale and the writhing snakelike sea-leopard, most savage of the seal family. This may account for the relative scarcity.

Those Under Retirement Incomes Increasing

NEW YORK-The number of persons 65 years old and over with some assured income for life under a public or private retirement program has doubled in the last five years and now adds up to more than half of the 14 million elderly part of the American population.

A large number of these lifetime income recipients is receiving retirement benefits from more than one source-for example, a private pension and Social Security. In many cases, too, these incomes are supplemented by returns from accumulated savings and investments. A substantial number of elderly persons in addition receives regular incomes under life insurance contracts.

While the great majority of private pension and retirement programs are relatively recent in origin, they are already making a decided contribution toward the financial independence of the older population.

New Rage in Old World Is Hillbilly Music

FRANKFURT, Germany-The old world is rocking these days to some genuine imported hillbilly music.

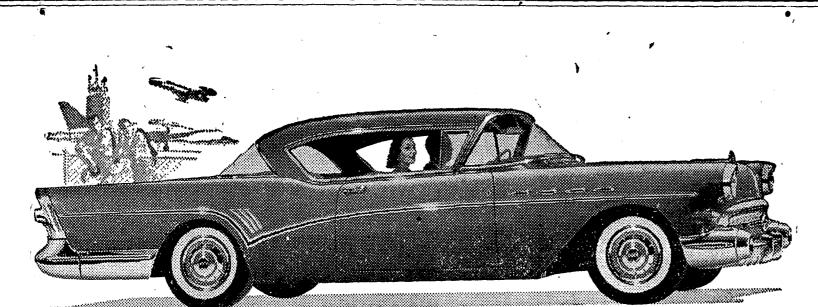

The American Forces Network puts on a show called "Hillbilly Gasthaus." Gasthaus is German for small hotel.

The program is so popular among Germans that a number of cases have been renamed "hillbilly gasthauses." A.F.N. gets hundreds of letters from hillbilly enthusiasts. Many are American GI's but quite a few are Europeans.

Polite Pickpocket

A polite pickpocket stole his wallet, but, said Miller: "He even buttoned my pocket again after lifting my purse."

It's a Whiz at Everything a car should do

TT turns out that the 1957 Buick is far more 1 than just a brand-new automobile.

It turns out that this new '57 Buick is winning. the raves with a new kind of going and a new kind of stopping-a new kind of handling and a new kind of road sureness-a new kind of safety and a new kind of comfort.

We'll be specific.

When you press the pedal of a new '57 Buick, the response is literally instant . . .

Because the high-torque power of a new 364cubic-inch V8 engine is delivered in the split of a second through a new full-range Variable Pitch Dynaflow* that's immediate in its oilsmooth action.

When you brake to a stop, you and the car stay on a level plane . . .

Because an ingenious new ball-joint suspension in every '57 Buick virtually ends the down-in-front dip that cars have on sudden

When you take a turn or swing into an "S" curve, you still hug the road like a streamliner on rails—

Because under you is a massive wide-frame new chassis that "nests" the whole car inches closer to the road with the lowest center of gravity in Buick history-yet with no change in road clearance.

And when you sit in the deep comfort of those soft wide seats, you can drive with the pleasant ease of a clear conscience, without watching the speedometer . . .

Because only in Buick today can you have an ingenious new Safety-Minder* that acts as a warning sentinel for the miles-per-hour you preset for yourself.

There are many other new things that make this gorgeous Buick a car of limitless wonders -from the bigger and more rakish windshield that makes seeing more relieving, to the extra roominess that's so surprising in this beauty with the sports-car lowness.

But there's nothing like a firsthand sampling to know how modern the newest thing on wheels really is. Come in today for your meeting with the newest Buick yet.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century - optional at modest extra cost on the Special. Safety-Minder standard on Roadmaster, optional other Series.

Huge Market Now For Leisure-Time Items, Services

NEW YORK-The growth of the economy in recent years accompanied by a big rise in personal income levels has created a multibillion dollar market for a wide variety of leisure-time products and services as well as expanding the demand for basic necessities.

An important factor in this development has been the increasing prevalence of paid vacations and holidays for the average worker in the factory as well as in the office. Along with this, the short work week has become standard in business and industry and in virtually all other lines of activity. As a result, more leisure without loss of income has become one of the distinguishing characteristics of American life and of our living standards, and it has become a significant force in expanding consumer expenditures and in economic activity in general.

This trend has brought obvious benefits to the people and to the nation in the physical and psychological values to the typical individual and family of more time and money for recreational activities. From the financial point of view, however, it has been a costly development and an added charge on production. It is now estimated that paid vacations and holidays alone cost industry an average of about $200 a year per worker.

Ever See a Sphygmomanometer

WASHINGTON - The history of two diagnostic medical instruments that everyone remembers from his earliest visits to the doctor's office—the stethoscope and the sphygmomanometer (bloodpressure instrument) form the nucleus of a new exhibit at the Smithsonian Institution. These instruments are part of a collection lent to the Institution by Philip Reichert, M.D., of New York City.

The romantic history and evolution of the stethoscope began in 1819, when the young French physician Rene Theophile Laennec announced his invention of this instrument. Since then the stethoscope has become not only the standard equipment of every medical practitioner but also one of the very symbols of the profession.

As early as 1733 Stephen Hales measured the blood pressure of a horse, but it was not until late in sphygmomanometer came into being. As the new exhibit shows, it was with Riva Rocci's invention of a constrictive cuff instrument in 1895 and von Reklinghausen's experiments in 1901 that the modern blood-pressure instrument was born. Subsequent developments have been merely refinements of these two innovations.

Basketball? Gauchos Play It on Horseback

WASHINGTON-For 65 years basketball has fascinated North Americans, but the organization of a "Pata" league in Argentina introduces a new twist. The Argentines play their basketball on horses.

Originated by the Indians and enthusiastically adopted by the hard-riding gauchos of the pampas, the game of pato has been called the roughest of them all.

Pato means duck in Spanish. The name is an apt one, for the original "ball" was a dead duck sewn into a leather bag. The duck's head was allowed to stick out and two other handles were attached.

Pato's object is to throw the duck into a basketlike net at each end of a polo-sized field about 230 yards long and 90 yards wide. The catch is that each player holding the ball must "offer" it at all times, holding the pato at arm's length so that opposing players can grasp it.

The dead duck has long since been replaced by an official ball with six leather handles.

Rising Traffic Toll Shown in Death Claims

NEW YORK-Motor vehicle fatalities in the first quarter of this year resulted in 11,000 life insurance death claims for an aggregate of $23,000,000, the Institute of Life Insurance reports.

This was 1,000 more claims and $3,000,000 more in benefit payments than in the corresponding three months of 1955 and represented the largest first quarter total on record.

If the rate of gain of the first quarter continues through 1956, this year's life insurance death claims from auto accidents may be expected to reach a record $100,000,000.

Thieving Rat Caught

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Corkill and family spent Thanksgiving in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Farrell at Troy.

Just Relax

The visitor to the mountain region, finding an ancient cabin with an equally ancient character taking his equality ancient character taking his ease on the rickty porch, was asked to sit awhile an' rest his bones. He accepted the proffered rocker gratefully. The old man wordlessly puffed his pie. Finally he broke the silence. "Stranger," he said, "Yore sure awearin' yorself out. Whyn't you rock with the grain?"

Capuchin Monkey Best at Bluffing, Showing Off

WASHINGTON, D.C.-Bluffer of bluffers is the white-faced capuchin monkey which lives in troops on Barro Colorado Island, the Smithsonian Institution's tropical preserve in the Panama Canal

Safe in the treetops, where it is one of the most accomplished of gymnasts, one of the creature's favorite sports is to throw sticks, nuts and fruits at human visitors on the ground. Meanwhile it makes threatening gestures and seizes branches which it shakes violently with both hands. Sometimes it stands with head down and tail up, the white ruff around its neck spread so that it appears about twice its actual size. The white faces of the creatures are like those of badly wrinkled, little old

Its natural habitat is the treetop world. There in daredevil fashion it catapults from limb to limb, distances of as much as 15 feet, and seldom misses its goal. The flight is made with arms and legs outspread, so that they serve as a sort of parachute.

The capuchins live in bands of 30 or more individuals, and when on the move such a band may extend for as much as a quarter of a mile through the treetops. The members of such a band keep in communication with one another by a call which has been described as "like a human imitating a crow," given three or four times in succession.

27 Per Cent Now Live in Suburbs

NEW YORK-The population gap between suburbs and cities narrowed further in the 1950-55 period, with the outlying parts of standard metropolitan areas growing seven times as fast as the central cities in the period, according to data compiled by the U.S. Bureau of the Census.

Despite this trend, however, the central cities of the metropolitan areas still contain the biggest single block of the U.S. population, amounting to just under a third of the total. This proportion has changed little over the last decade

The population of the outlying areas of standard metropolitan areas gained about 9½ million in population in the 1950-55 period to habitants. The comparable figure in 1940 was less than 26 million. As a result, the suburbs now have 27 per cent of the total civilian population of the United States, the highest such proportion on rec-

Men Preferred In Two Departments

NEW YORK - Want to start an argument next time you're in mixed company? Well-according to the Better Vision Institute, men can estimate distances much more accurately than women can.

And, what's more, they also have a slight edge in judgment of speed. These skills are important to an automobile drive, particularly at intersections and in meeting oncoming cars.

In tests; fifty-four men and 54 women were measured for visual acuity, distance judgment, and speed estimation, on three different instruments. The people with good far-point visual acuity were found to be better than the others in distance judgment and a little better in speed estimation. But driving experience had no substantial relationship in either of these skills. It would seem that the average driver without special training improves very little in distance judgment and speed estimation after he once learns to drive.

Man Gets Mad When Police Play Unfair

HAGERSTOWN, Md.-When the police aren't playing fair, a citizen has a right to get mad.

That's the story Robert Wall, a 23-year-old resident of Martinsburg, W.Va., gave Magistrate William Kreykenbohm when he was arraigned on charges of exceeding 70 m.p.h. and passing on a hill. State trooper Vic Guilmino testifled he had to chase Wall at speeds up to 85 m.p.h. before he was stopped. "I just got aggravated because the trooper was traveling in a plain car, not a marked one," Wall explained to the magistrate. His aggravation cost him $115 in

Washington Landslide

WASHINGTON - Officeholders and Government employees recently voted 5 to 1 in favor of retaining bean soup, a historically daily delicacy in House and Senate dining halls. . The balloting was initiated by the newly-formed Committee for Preservation of Bean Soup at the United States Capitol-which sounds like a highly influential organization.

Librarian Believes Automation Should Stay in Factories

LOS ANGELES - Automation is all right in a factory but it is a dangerous animal to let loose in a library, warns Dr. Lawrence Clark Powell, librarian at the University of California, Los Angeles.

Writing in the "1956 Bookman's Yearbook," Dr. Powell casts a suspicious eye at the "would-be housekeepers, analysts, probers and planners who long to de-emphasize books, mechanize the library, and change its name to "materials cen-

Dr. Powell, who is current president of the Bibliographical Society of America, adds that "we now have documentalists, communications clerks, and media men who blank out when they hear the words library, librarian, book and

The Los Angeles campus librarian insists that the administration of a library be efficient and economical. But he is thoroughly alarmed at the growing jargon of technicians about automation, bibliographical control, contact points, mass media, decision-making processes, retrieval of information, and the dissemination of knowledge. "These people will do everything to a book but read it," he warns.

Piano Popularity Grows and Grows

CHICAGO - In an age when a marvel like radio can be superseded in one generation by the miracle of television - a mechanism that has remained the undisputed center of Western culture for more than 200 years is indeed a marvel. This is the story of the piano, virtually the same in mechanical principle today as when it ascended to eminence more than two centuries ago.

Today's piano with its 25,000 contact points and 8,000 moving parts was already bringing pleasure and education to every corner of civilization way back in 1856.

At the start, the piano was the mark of gracious and intelligent living. But as democracy has spread, the piano as a symbol of the fruits of achievement spread even faster. Today, the piano is enjoyed by people of all ages, in all sections, and in all income brackets. It is equally at home in the school room, the concert hall, the factory recreation hall, the church and the living room.

Throughout its fascinating history the piano has remained the mark of sensitivity and achievement. Some 20 million Americans can attest to this today, for that's the number now playing for their own enjoyment and relaxation, according to the American Music

Big Shuckers Get Well-Needed Brakes

ELVERTA, Calif. - Local rice farmers often came a cropper in their self-propelled "paddy wagons" when harvest time rolled around-until they got a brake.

Giant combines, used by growers to harvest rice swiftly before start of the rainy season, presented unique steering problems because of size. They're about as big as a house. Operators, trying to steer by tank-type methods the tracked behemoths along peregrinating levees, became exhausted after a short time—and harvested only a portion of the crop. Rice ranchers curried their brains for a solution and found it. in hydraulic power-braking equipment, developed by the products division of Bendix Aviation corp. Now, steering is accomplished through hydraulic-actuated wheel cylinders by simply "flipping" a valve and applying light foot pres-

An installation on the Ukropina ranch combine has made it possible to harvest from 600 to 700 sacks of rice a day, compared to a previous high of only 150 to 200 sacks, according to superintendent Paul Felter. That represents savings of $2500 a day.

Dad Offers Proposal For Far-Away Son

CLEVELAND-After his son returns home and gets married, Charles Sorci should prove a popular in-law.

The son, Pfc. Gerald Sorci, 18. is on duty with the Marines in Japan. He phoned his father and asked him to "take his place" and propose to his girl friend.

So the elder Sorci, with a ring and some orchids in hand, made the pitch to Amy Raber, 18, who put on a new blue dress for the Joke's on Jokester CHARLES CITY, Iowa - James Condon got the worst of it when he joked with his friends.

Condon told them in jest they could paint his house for him while he was away for a few days. When he returned he found that the friends had taken him at his word-applying light blue, cream, green, yellow and pink paints to his house.

GOLDEN RULE

Dec. 4 — Thieves entered the Geo. Finke home Thanksgiving Day, by crawling through a window, sometime between 11:30 and 3:00 p. m. They took an ivory table radio, ivory electric alarm clock, a flash attachment for a camera, a man's wrist watch, a billfold laced with horsehide, and zippered all around, containing $5.00, plus some silver, and all the personal papers of Mrs. Finke.

Mrs. Oscar Lawrence left Kendrick Tuesday evening by train for Houston, Texas, to make an indefinite visit with her daughter, Mrs. James Carmichael (Ann) and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Elben and family came up from Lewiston Tuesday evening and stayed until Saturday putting in some time hunting.

Mrs. Ivaroh Stage went to Lewiston Wednesday to visit her mother, Mrs. John Basher.

Russell Betts and Wm. O'Brien were Orofino visitors Wednesday. They were luncheon guests of the Carl Finke family, and also called at the Don Christensen and Eugene Orofino visitors on Monday. Betts homes.

spent Saturday and Sunday with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Bud Adamson and family, at Kooskia.

Georgia Reece and Mrs. Wm. Reece and son visited with Alma Betts Friday afternoon.

The Southwick Homemakers Club spent another busy day at the Ruth Armitage home, with Virginia Cantril as co-hostess — working on crib quilts and sleepers for the Chiliren's Home as a Christmas project. Plans were also completed for the 'Husband's' annual dinner. A discussion was also held on ways and means to do something to help the Opportunity School in Lewiston.

Mr. and Mrs. Ishmael Martin and daughter of Lewiston were Sunday visitors in the Roy Martin home. D. V. Kuykendall was an Orofino visitor on Monday.

Mrs. Pat Holiday of Lewiston visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. V. Kuykendall, Friday. Herman Kuykendall was a Saturday visitor and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bonser and sons were Sunday visitors.
