Tornado Season Approaches Many Parts of America

NEW YORK — Tornadoes, the most violent and spectacular storms produced by nature, are a menace to the life and property of almost everyone living between the Rockies and the Atlantic. They occur in the eastern Gulf states at the beginning of the year, then advance north-westward to reach Iowa and Kansas in June, remaining in that area until late September.

Knowing what to do when a tornado is observed may mean the difference between life and death, even though there is no universal protection against them except in caves or underground excavations, such as the so-called "cyclone cellar." Here are a few suggestions:

If you are in open country: 1. Move at right angles to the tornado's path. Tornadoes usually move ahead at about 25 to 40 miles per hour. 2. If there is no time to escape, lie flat in the nearest depression such as a ditch or a ravine. If in a city or town: 1. Seek inside shelter, preferably in a strongly reinforced building. Stay away from windows.

In homes: Usually the safest part of the house is in the corner of the basement toward that from which the storm is coming. However, when you are unable to determine from which direction the tornado is coming, go to the southwest corner of the basement, which usually offers the greatest safety, especially in frame houses. People in houses without basements should find other shelter, preferably in a storm cellar, although a ditch or ravine can offer some protection.

Powerful Gasolines Now Being Tested

SAN FRANCISCO—Fuels of the future—gasolines with octane ratings well above the 100 level—are now being tested on Bay Area streets in a fleet of experimental cars powered by revolutionary high-compression engines of 12:1 ratio.

These complex and costly gasolines, which are being perfected to power the cars and trucks of tomorrow, are undergoing thousands of miles of downtown driving tests to check wear and tear on engines under the most severe operating conditions.

New motor oils, designed to furnish future engines with outstanding lubrication plus the greatest possible protection from harmful deposits, are also being tested in experiments that will consume some 50,000 gallons of specially-prepared 100-plus octane gasoline. At the same time, laboratory specialists are in the process of logging hundreds of hours of indoor tests simulating high speeds and heavy loads under all kinds of weather conditions.

Preparation Important To College Education

ANN ARBOR, MICH.—If you want your children to go to college, you should start working them toward this objective by the time they're in the eighth grade, according to Clyde Vroman, director of admissions at The University of Michigan.

Vroman predicts three trends will emerge from the increasing demand for higher education:

1. Students will become more serious and more competitive for success.
2. There will be an upgrading in the achievement of standards of the student body, and
3. Higher education programs will gradually become more difficult for students unless they possess "good ability and seriousness of purpose in abundant quantities."

Record Traffic Toll Shown in '56 Claims

Motor vehicle fatalities in 1956 resulted in a record 45,000 life insurance death claims, representing aggregate death benefits of $97,000,000, the Institute of Life Insurance says.

This was 3,000 more claims and $7,000,000 more in benefits than was paid in 1955.

"These figures reflect the growing carnage on the highways," the Institute said. "The world would be horrified if it were to be reported that every man, woman and child in Council Bluffs, Iowa, died in a catastrophe—and the year's traffic toll is the equivalent. In the years since World War II, the number of traffic deaths has run up to an aggregate greater than the number of battle deaths among U.S. armed forces during the entire war."

Chosen Career

CHICAGO—Medicine as a profession still has a strong appeal among young people.

A recent report by the American Medical Association shows that 7,600 students, a record number, entered medical schools in the 1955-56 academic year.

Early California Conflict Halted Legislative Work

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. — An historian seeking the solution to a political "who-dunnit" has stumbled upon a little known California conflict which once reached the proportions of a Greek tragedy.

The "who-dunnit" element appeared when political research of Dr. Robert L. Kelley revealed a startling reversal of political form in 1870. Party control suddenly switched and, even more odd, it seemed that the legislature sat dormant throughout one session—scarcely a bill was passed.

Research divulged the reason. By 1870 hydraulic mines in the Sierra Nevada had become multimillion dollar giants, spewing forth a steady stream of wealth for investors. Their roaring jets of water fed by hundreds of miles of ditches and flumes had also filled the Sacramento river and tributaries with silt and debris, burying 40,000 acres of the once rich valley floor and leaving terror and devastation in the wake of floods. A bitter conflict arose between farmers and mining interests, symbolizing the historic clash between agrarian and explorative industries in California—and the nation.

The struggle was a major problem for 20 years, involving at times the entire state. It swayed back and forth between courts and legislature, splitting both parties and paralyzing the legislature of 1881.

An injunction was finally granted to prevent the miners from using the rivers as dumps.

South American Minerals Important

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa.—Mineral raw materials from Latin American countries might well provide the margin between victory and defeat in the event of war, says Dr. John D. Ridge, professor of mineral economics at the Pennsylvania State University.

Dr. Ridge therefore believes that the United States must be careful not to do anything to bolster its own mining economy which would have harmful repercussions in Latin America and that Latin America must be defended from Soviet aggression.

Says Dr. Ridge: "Raising tariffs on mineral raw materials imported by the United States from our southern neighbors would reduce markedly the tonnages they could sell in this country and would force them either to seek other markets or to curtail production.

"In either event, when we later need to resume large imports from our southern neighbors, the United States might find those countries unable or unwilling to meet our requests.

Nation's Marriage Rate Continues Upward

NEW YORK—Marriages in the United States increased last year, reaching an estimated total of 1,587,000, or a rate of 9.4 marriages per 1,000 population. This figure, which includes the Armed Forces overseas, compares with the postwar low of 9.2 per 1,000 in 1954.

Most states recorded small increases in marriages, but in two—Indiana and Oklahoma—there was a pronounced upswing, almost 17 per cent in Indiana and about 11 per cent in Oklahoma.

Eleven states reported a decrease, in most cases relatively small—under five per cent in Nebraska and Georgia and two per cent or less in the other nine states.

In cities with at least 100,000 population, the trend was similar to that for the states—there were increases in 74 cities and declines in 29.

Nylon Artery Makes Medical History

DECATUR, Ala.—Already carrying the life blood of a growing number of men and women, a new man-made Y-shaped artery is making medical history. The new artery, made of nylon, replaces the vital human aorta where it branches to carry blood to the legs.

Today, less than eight months after the first medical meeting report on the nylon "aortic bifurcation graft," more than 200 people in the U. S. and foreign countries are walking testimonials to the success of this new replacement artery.

Welfare Costs Up

NEW YORK—The cost of government-sponsored social welfare under civilian public programs in the United States has risen fivefold in the last decade.

Compilations made by the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare show that expenditures for these programs from the public purse—Federal, State and local combined—rose from $4½ billion in 1945 to some $21½ billion in 1955.

Nation Still Leans On Coal Industry For Power Sources

University Park, Pa.—In spite of recent developments in atomic and solar energy, the coal industry must look forward to a steadily increasing growth to meet our country's needs for industrial and domestic uses.

This is the opinion of Dr. H. Beecher Charnbury, professor of mineral preparation at the Pennsylvania State University, who predicts the constant rise in population and the sharp expansion of our public demand for greater conveniences will continue to supply the impetus for progress in the coal industry.

"When we add to the coal needed for industrial and domestic uses the energy that will be required in the not too distant future to supplement our oil and gas supplies and the coal that will soon be increasingly used for coal chemicals, the long term prospect for the coal industry is good indeed," Dr. Charnbury says.

However, if the coal industry is going to make the progress it must make, it must have help. He cites the need for more technically trained engineers for the efficient production, preparation, and utilization of coal.

Dr. Charnbury also cites the need for more research, not only in the utilization of coal, but also in the field of mining and in preparation.

He points out that in Pennsylvania, where coal is a billion dollar business and more than 75,000 persons are employed in just the mining of it, research is needed to determine more economical methods of extracting the coal.

New Disease Like Scarlet Fever

CHICAGO—An apparently new disease with symptoms resembling those of scarlet fever, but without its seriousness, was reported by a Pennsylvania pediatrician.

Thirty cases were seen at the State Hospital for Crippled Children at Elizabethtown, Pa., according to Dr. Mary D. Ames.

The scarlet fever-like symptoms were fever, sore throat, and a generalized bright red rash. However, no streptococci, the causative agent of scarlet fever, were isolated from the throats of the patients and there was no scaling of the skin as in scarlet fever.

Dr. Ames pointed out that it is very important to distinguish between the new disease and scarlet fever because of the hardships that would follow wrong diagnosis. A diagnosis of scarlet fever means that the patient must be quarantined for at least seven days. In Pennsylvania, other persons residing on the premises cannot handle or sell food, milk, candy, beverages or tobacco. The child loses time at school and the adults may be cut off from necessary income, she said.

More Americans Take To Wheeled Housing

The steadily growing trend to life on wheels (mobile homes) has made this industry a booming billion-dollar business, with nearly 200 manufacturers and 3500 dealers.

Sales of the wheeled houses have rocketed from a little over $1,000,000 in 1930 to approximately $500,000,000 last year, according to figures released at the 20th annual National Mobile Home Show in the New York Coliseum.

Another $500,000,000 is invested in mobile home parks, most of which cost as much as $500,000—each.

Mobile home occupants now number 3,000,000, with another quarter of a million people joining their ranks every year.

There are more than 1,000,000 of the wheeled houses in use today. Average annual income per family exceeds the national average by more than $1,000.

Chinese Reds Invent American Staplers

NEW YORK—The Red Chinese, while disavowing most of the philosophies of our free enterprise system, are not a bit hesitant about borrowing its more concrete benefits.

Latest thing to come out of a China that's force-feeding itself industrialization is a stapling machine for the use of the thousands of bureaucrats the communist system requires. It's hailed as an all-Chinese step forward, but even a casual examination proved it to be a copy of the familiar device produced by a Long Island firm.

WASHINGTON—The Post Office Department will issue a centennial postage stamp in May commemorating the start of the "Age of Steel" in this country.

The "first day" of the new issue is to be timed to coincide with the Sixty-fifth General meeting of the members of American Iron and Steel Institute.

Builder Predicts Impending Return From Suburbia

CHICAGO—"It is just a glimmering today, but the pattern is already set for many cities throughout the country. People are becoming dissatisfied with life in the suburbs; they are going to move back to the city, and then straight up!" So predicts Chicago realtor Ralph W. Applegate, a specialist in the construction of high-rise residential cooperative apartment buildings. He is convinced that for Chicago and scores of other cities, the time is ripe for a major reversal of the trend to a suburbia. As an example, he cites Phoenix, Ariz., where the Phoenix Towers, a $3 million 14-story luxury cooperative is now nearing completion near the downtown area. Demand for apartments in the building—the first of its kind in the state—was so great, he says, that more than half were sold from blueprints alone. According to Applegate, cities can expand just so far. After that, they invariably bog down, deep in their own mire of public and private transportation. Fifty years ago, city planners, if they were any for most young towns, had no conception of the potentially strangling volume of traffic which would result as the community expanded outward in every direction. "Most cities of any size have reached the point of horizontal saturation," Applegate says. "There simply isn't anywhere to go but straight up! And, if we go up, there's no point in doing it 45 or 60 minutes away from business and social centers of community life. We must build near downtown. As communities grow and expand, it becomes more difficult to surmount the problem of finding space for new homes close to centers of business and social activity."

New Missing Link Is Uncovered

Washington, D. C.—Finding of a "missing link" in the evolution of modern mammals—a creature that had branched off from the great family of odd-toed ungulates, which includes the horse and rhino, toward the present tapir—is reported by C. Lewis Gazin, Smithsonian Institution curator of vertebrate paleontology. This ancient animal, of which a fossil jaw and parts of a skull were found in the Wind River basin of Wyoming, was Dilophodon, about the size of a fox, which lived during the upper Eocene period of geological time, about 45,000,000 years ago. The Wind River area long has been a favorite hunting ground for mammals of the Eocene, the period when the warm-blooded creatures began to take on some of their present forms.

Also encountered were the fossil remains of a somewhat larger tapir, Desmatotherium, rather resembling the smaller tapir, Dilophodon, but cannot be considered directly ancestral to any living form although representative of the general complex from which arose rhinos, horses, tapirs, and certain groups of extinct hoofed mammals.

Men at 21 Top Auto Fatality Lists

NEW YORK—Men at age 21 record the highest mortality from motor vehicle accidents, according to experience of one insurance company among its millions of industrial policyholders. At this age, the toll among men is nearly eight times that among women. The motor vehicle accident death rate among the insured male during the years 1953-55 rose sharply from an average of less than 10 per 100,000 at ages 1-24 to a peak of 64.1 per 100,000 at age 21. The rate for females at age 21 was 8.4 per 100,000. Among females, there was a comparatively gradual rise in the death rate from this cause during the teen ages, with a rate of 13.4 per 100,000 at age 18, but the peak rate, 16.0 per 100,000, occurred at ages 65-74 years.

The higher motor vehicle death rate among males in the late teens and early twenties may reflect, in large measure, frequent disregard of safe driving practices the statisticians suggest.

Picture for Candles Brighter Than Ever

WASHINGTON—The simple candle, man's main source of light for 20 centuries, brightens many a special corner in the dazzling age of electricity. Although gas lamps and incandescent bulbs ended dependence on wax and tallow dips, tens of millions of candles are set aflame each year—in the dusky still of churches; over the silver, crystal and gleaming damask of festive tables; on countless birthday cakes.

Total Construction Should Set New Records in 1957

Chicago—Construction will continue at a record pace this year, although there will be little change in the volume of residential building. This is the opinion of John M. Neff, manager of the ceramics and minerals research department at Armour Research Foundation of Illinois Institute of Technology, Chicago. He believes total construction will set a record in 1957, as it did last year, but that private home construction—which failed to live up to expectations last year—will not do much better in 1957. "This latter point does not reflect a recession in the building industry as some people seem to think," Neff declared. "The building industry is holding its own in our growing economy, but not in the areas that were expected." The volume of all types of construction last year totaled over $44 billion, an increase of 3 per cent over 1956. Residential construction in 1956, however, was down 8 per cent from the previous year. This does not indicate that the supply of housing is catching up to demand, Neff contended. But it does reflect, he said, a more cautious attitude on the part of people who are house hunting. "The public is standing off and giving more consideration to how they want to live 20 years from now," Neff declared. It is largely this thoughtful pause in making a decision, he said, that is responsible for the slowdown in private home construction.

Human Body Reacts To Hunger, Pain

Los Angeles—What happens to your body when you are hungry or hurt? Dr. Bernard Engel, University of California, Los Angeles, psychologist, has made a study of such "abnormal" conditions. Subjects who fasted up to 24 hours showed a slight drop in blood pressure, a very slight rise in temperature, increased saliva flow, decreased respiration rate, and an increased incidence of stomach contractions. Subjects who had their feet suddenly plunged into a bucket of ice water showed a marked increase in blood pressure and an increased heart rate. The blood volume in their fingers also dropped, and a blocking of stomach contractions occurred. Anticipation of pain produced similar but not identical results. In general, Dr. Engel said, the studies did not support earlier theories which had suggested that the body did not physiologically distinguish between hunger and pain.

Official Asks for—Gets Speedy Service

NEW YORK—One of New York's outstanding optical firms recently had an urgent call from the State Department in Washington. A prominent member of the Department had had his bifocals swept into the Caribbean Sea by a wave while he was struggling with a big fish. The request was that a new pair of glasses be made and shipped by an afternoon plane that same day. It was 11:30 a.m. when the call came. The manager of the optical firm, who had served this official for 25 years, knew his prescription was a complicated one. Nevertheless, he immediately asked a master technician to drop everything else and grind lenses. The grinding was done with unusual speed, the manager himself set the lens in a suitable frame and made meticulous adjustments. An airlines pilot grabbed them and raced to the airport. The State Department official was wearing his new glasses down in the Bahamas by the time the sun set. His name was John Foster Dulles.

Med Students Liable For Military Duty

CHICAGO—Military service hands like a sword over the lives of students enrolled in the country's 76 approved four-year medical schools. A recent survey by the American Medical Association disclosed that 81.5 per cent of all male students enrolled in medical schools during the 1955-56 academic year were subject to military liability. The number cited as liable for service makes no allowance for physical disabilities and other factors that would render an unknown percentage ineligible for service.

Need the Time

LONDON—The House of Lords has decided to give its members 4 minutes instead of 3 to reach the voting lobbies whenever legislation is voted on. "Many of us are getting older," one spokesman commented.

Bring it in and we'll drain and flush the radiator, refill with pure Kendrick city water. We'll grease your car from end to end with Union Lubricants — drain the crankcase and refill with that wonderful Royal Triton Motor Oil and you'll agree it will run as "smooth as silk."

Auntie: "I'd be ashamed. In my day a nice girl didn't hold a boy's hand."

Modern Girl: "Today, Auntie, a nice girl has to!"

Need tires for safe summer driving? If so, come in and let us figure with you on a set of those famous U. S. Royals. Royal Masters of Royal 3s. You'll be surprised at how cheaply you can drive in safety, comfort and style.

"Do you think our daughter will ever get married, John?"
"Well, yes, dear, I do. But I wouldn't worry about it for at least 20 years, darling. I never heard of a girl of 16 months being classed as an old maid."

Car need washing, waxing or cleaning? If so, bring it in. We make a specialty of making you proud of your car.
