Exhibition Trick Riding Seen

Says Sunday's Lewiston Tribune: A new double trick riding act for the Lewiston area will be pre-viewed here this week-end at the Northwest Championship Junior Rodeo as one of the special events.

Mrs. Donna Plastino Parsley of Kendrick, first all-around champion in 1949 and queen of the 1952 Junior Rodeo, and Adrian ("Just call me Abe") Wilson of Craigmont, will do bends, fender drags, the "suicide," and other tricks from the back of the same horse.

The two were billed in trick riding at last year's show and have appeared in other rodeos in the area.

However, this week-end marks the first time they will be riding out into the arena in a double trick riding act. They hope to perform the act at other rodeos this summer.

The nerve-steady palomino who will carry the two through their paces is Sunny, the trick riding horse Donna trained and has used the last six years.

How did Sunny take to "riding double" after carrying just one?

"It's all the day's work to her." "She says, 'She packs us just as if she were packing one and puts her whole heart into it.'"

At one point in the act Donna will be riding on Abe's shoulders.

Motion Sickness Need Not Spoil Family Vacation

CHICAGO—You don't have to worry about that old vacation bug-aboo, motion sickness, according to a Minneapolis doctor.

Under most circumstances, motion sickness can be warded off, and even when preventive measures fail, drugs are available to give relief, Dr. John E. Eichenlaub said.

Motion sickness results from "too much nerve-tickling action" in the ear's labyrinth, the organ that helps a person keep his balance. Keeping the head steady reduces this action. The head can be steadied by leaning it against a headrest, bracing it in position with pillows or by focusing the eyes on the horizon.

It is not wise, he said, to focus on rapidly passing objects, such as autos or telephone poles, since the background seems to "dip and plunge." The same thing happens when one reads or does fancy work. It's all right to read if you choose big type, and periodically look away. Crocheting and knitting should be done only if you can do it without looking, he said.

Youngsters can be encouraged to focus on the horizon by playing animal-or tractor-spotting games, but not license-spotting games.

This background dipping and plunging effect is probably the chief reason for extra risk of sickness in certain airplane seats, especially in those on the left side just back of the wing, he said. The plane usually turns left and when the passenger can see down but can't get a broad long view, he looks at the passing landscape with short, rapid eye movements. So stay on the right, either front or rear, and keep the eyes on the horizon to minimize air sickness, Dr. Eichenlaub advises.

Eyesight Tests Show Child's Need

NEW YORK—For some time Kansas has been conducting a statewide program of giving comprehensive eyesight tests to school children, tests which go much farther than a mere check with the old Snellen chart. The purpose is to screen out children with seeing faults and advise them to get eye care from specialists.

Results show that one out of every five of the Kansas youngsters had some visual trouble serious enough to impair his school work—and the children in other parts of the country are undoubtedly fully as deficient. Specialists, teachers, mothers, and high school student volunteers cooperate in giving the 20-minute tests.

Out of one group of 1,200 Kansas children screened, more than 300 revealed seeing troubles which had never been detected before. The ones which show up most frequently are nearsightedness, farsightedness, astigmatism, lack of depth perception, one-eyed seeing and glaucoma.

Women Better Spotting Cancer Than Men

NEW YORK—The average housewife has to be fast on her feet to cope with all the high-pressure salesmen that come pounding on her door. She has to detect the good from the bad—the reliable from the phony. But this training, this ability to tell true from false is paying off in women's lives—this year 19,000 women will be saved from cancer who would have died a decade ago largely because they have learned to sift facts and do the right thing.

The result is that for the first time on record, less women than men are dying of malignant tumors. Women just can't be fooled by household remedies, by pills or secret cures for cancer. More and more they are heeding the advice of the American Cancer Society and going for regular physical checkups.

Oldest Annuitant Is 104 Years Old

NEW YORK—The oldest annuitant on the books of the nation's life insurance companies recently celebrated her 104th birthday.

Miss Sarah A. Walker, who was born March 30, 1853, in Wayland (then Marshall), Iowa, and now lives in Los Angeles, California, has already received $2.50 for each $1 invested in the annuities in 1919 when she was 65. She bought three small annuities to supplement her other income resources and has been drawing income checks for 38 years.

At last count, there were 600 annuitants who had reached 95 years of age, and 40 of these were centenarians.

Palladium

NEW YORK—Palladium, one of the platinum group metals, resembles platinum in many respects. It is similar in appearance, has high ductility and strength but is little more than half the weight. Lightness is an advantage in some uses, notably for large pieces of jewelry.

Average American Is Wise, Able Credit Manager

CHICAGO — Consumer installment debt today is not excessive nor out of proportion to income, declares Dr. Thomas W. Rogers, executive vice president of the American Finance Conference, national association of independent sales finance companies. "In fact, consumer credit is down compared with disposable income today."

In 1955, he pointed out, when disposable income was $270.6 billion, consumer credit was $38.6 billion. But in 1956 when disposable income increased to $288.3 billion, consumer credit went up only $1.2 billion—13 per cent of disposable income as compared to 14 per cent the year before.

"To properly judge the credit position of the American family," Dr. Rogers declares, "it is essential to consider consumer credit obligations in their true perspective. For example, in addition to these obligations, Americans have millions in cash assets as well as savings represented in life insurance policies, pension and retirement programs. In 1956, nearly three out of four American families had liquid assets other than cash."

The average American consumer is a wise and able credit manager. He handles his money intelligently. He contracts for major purchases on time payment only when he knows he is able to take care of his obligations promptly. In emphasizing this, Dr. Rogers pointed out that a recent nationwide survey made by the Wall Street Journal disclosed that at the end of 1956, credit buying slackened while payments on consumer debt showed a decided increase.

Lip Reading Is Practiced by Many

LOS ANGELES—That waitress who serves your coffee every morning may be reading your lips to find out if you want one or two lumps of sugar.

Professor Alfred Larr of the University of California, said that people who work in noisy environments but whose efficiency of work depends on their accuracy of hearing, unconsciously learn to watch not only the lips of the speaker—but the facial expressions and gestures.

Dr. Larr, who teaches hearing therapy, is working on a project to determine the effectiveness of lip reading training under sound-proof conditions.

During the course of his research he has observed that "nearly everyone reads lips at one time or another without realizing it." Even in a relatively quiet room, he said, such sounds as "f," "th," and "t," may not carry far enough for a listener to hear them.

The listener, however, watches the lips of the speaker and "fills in," Dr. Larr said.

Italians, Too, Have Troubles With Latin

WASHINGTON—In Rome today it's no easier to do as the Romans did than it is in the United States. Not, at any rate, when it comes to conquering the Latin language.

The wall heard through the halls of American high schools—"Latin is a language as dead as dead can be—first it killed the Romans, and now it's killing me"—echoes across Italy. There, says the National Geographic Society, any youth who enters the equivalent of the American high school must first translate 300 verses of Virgil and 30 sections of Caesar's Commentaries.

Although the Italian language derives from Latin, the ancient tongue is so different that few graduates, after eight years of required study, can sight-read Latin. Educators, as a result, are considering a proposal to make the subject optional for students in technical fields.

People, Places Gave Name to Clothing

WASHINGTON — What's in a name? In the case of clothes, many fabrics and styles owe their identity to famous folk or faraway places.

The word "blue jeans" can be attributed to the fact that many centuries ago Genoa, Italy, specialized in weaving a heavy twilled cotton cloth called jense or jean. The word Levis honors Levi Strauss, a San Francisco who pioneered in overall-making in the mid-19th century.

Comparisons

NEW YORK—Each year Americans spend $10 billion for alcoholic beverages, $5 billion for cigarettes, and $264 million for chewing gum. Funds available for heart research, from all sources, including the Heart Fund, are less than 1 per cent of the $3.7 billion being expended yearly by American industry for product research.

Life Abounds In Deepest Parts of Ocean

LA JOLLA, Calif.—Recent research has shown that the fundamental processes of life go on in the deepest parts of the ocean, where pressures reach 17,000 pounds per square inch, the temperature hovers just above freezing, and the light of the sun never penetrates.

No more than a decade ago, says Claude E. ZoBell, professor of marine microbiology, University of California's Scripps Institution of Oceanography, some scientists believed that life could not exist under these conditions, particularly since it was thought that there was no food or free oxygen at great depths.

But painstaking exploration of the great depths of the Pacific has shown that animal life exists there in many forms, ZoBell says. Circulating water masses appear to provide food and fresh oxygen.

ZoBell says that estimates indicate a minimum of about 10 pounds of organic carbon exists per acre on the deep-sea floor. He emphasizes the scarcity of information on the region, however. "Our knowledge of animal life on the deep-sea floor having an area greater than Africa is based upon fewer than 100 grab samples fished from depths exceeding four miles."

ZoBell was aboard the Danish research vessel Galathea during her around-the-world-trip in the early 1950's. The party spent several weeks studying the great depths of the western Pacific.

Although many specimens were collected, the only creatures brought up alive were bacteria. These were shipped to the Scripps Institution in specially designed gear, refrigerated and compressed to 15,000 pounds per square inch.

Earth's Rumbling Said Quite Normal

WASHINGTON—Mt. Etna spews hot sand. Fuego hurls a pall of ash over central Guatemala. Several tremors rock San Francisco, the Aleutians, and Manchuria.

Shaken spectators of nature's fireworks might well wonder whether Vulcan is working overtime this year. Traditional hot spots, such as Fuego, have been rekindled. However, statisticians say the situation seems to be normal—if not quiet—along the earth's notorious "Belts of Fire."

The Coast and Geodetic Survey, which keeps one ear to the trembling earth, has listed 266 major earthquakes during early 1957 as compared to 299 during an identical period of time last year.

As for volcanoes, our planet is—quite literally—letting off a normal amount of steam. No more than a handful of the earth's 450 active volcanoes speaks at once.

Autos Cripple More Children Than Polio

Automobile accidents make cripples of 25 times as many children as polio does. They involve more than 2,000,000 people a year, killing about 36,000 of them, and costing over $2,000,000. Yet highway officials say that 85 per cent of all traffic accidents could be prevented.

One clear-cut way to attack this vital problem is through the visual factor. Some 3,000,000 American drivers have such poor eyesight that they are a menace on the road at any time. And about 17,500,000 additional drivers have substandard vision. The accident toll would be cut down tremendously if every motorist had frequent eyesight examinations and followed the specialist's advice about any seeing faults which were discovered. Most drivers could be brought up to par by glasses or other means. Some with uncorrectable visual errors could learn to compensate for them and thus pilot their cars safely, at least under certain conditions.

Independence Is Old Story for Ethiopia

WASHINGTON—Ethiopia, mountainous and isolated on the north-east shoulder of Africa, boasts one of the world's oldest traditions of independence. Italy's brief, six-year conquest that ended in 1941 marks the only break in more than 2,000 years of Ethiopian sovereignty.

The African kingdom has an equally ancient tradition of Christianity, having embraced the Coptic form in 330 A.D. The Egyptian Coptic Patriarch formerly headed the Ethiopian Church, but in 1952 the Ethiopians obtained their own Archbishop.

Mining Income

NEW YORK—The direct share of mining in national income ranges among countries from slightly more than 1 per cent (India, China, Greece) to 10 per cent or more in Peru, the Union of South Africa and Chile, observes a Twentieth Century Fund study. It is about 2 per cent in the United States.

Farmer's Debts Are Now on Par With His Assets

NEW YORK—For the first time in more than a decade, farmers' aggregate debts are on a par with their cash assets, according to figures compiled by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Both totals are at new high levels, but debts have shown the greater rate of growth of the two in recent years, in common with the trend in the rest of the economy.

The Department of Agriculture estimates that farmers owed an aggregate of $20.7 billions at the beginning of this year in mortgage and non-real estate debt, including Commodity Credit Corporation loans. At that time, their combined holdings of currency, bank deposits (checking and savings), U. S. Savings Bonds, and investments in cooperatives added up to an estimated $20.4 billions.

Thus, when 1957 got underway, farmers had about 99 cents in cash for every dollar of debt. Relationships this low have not been seen since the early Forties. Back in 1950, for example, farmers had more than $1.40 in cash or its equivalent for every dollar they owed. The proportion was even higher at the end of World War II, reflecting wartime prosperity which enabled farmers to save more than ever before during the period and at the same time to reduce their debts to the lowest levels in years.

However, the present relationship between financial assets and debts is still far better than it was in 1940, when farmers in the aggregate had only 50 cents in cash or its equivalent for every dollar they owed. Furthermore, other savings and assets in agriculture have increased greatly in recent years. Right now, for instance, three out of every four farm families own life insurance.

Medicine, Religion In Closer Accord

CHICAGO—American medicine and religion are in closer accord today than in any period in modern times, according to the Journal of the American Medical Association.

A special article and editorial in the Journal discusses the growing cooperation between our half million "men in black" and "men in white."

Perhaps this has happened because the individual is re-emerging from his "part of the mass" status, which came with the mechanization and specialization of society, the editorial states. With leisure time overtaking working time, the individual shines again, and he "wants to know more about himself and how he relates to all men and all things of all times."

A Chicago physician, who participated in a two-and-a-half-hour struggle to revive a young man whose heart had stopped, said "Actually, we never were sure throughout that we were completely alone in this thing. We knew we were getting some guidance."

Free Ports Bolstering Greater World Trade

WASHINGTON — Holland's free port at Amsterdam's Schiphol Airport is the world's second shopping paradise catering exclusively to air travelers. Shannon, Ireland—a stopover for most transatlantic flights—first adapted the free port concept to the air lanes in 1947.

Currently more than 100 free ports or similar facilities are maintained in 35 countries. While most are located in harbors, some are landlocked towns such as Linz, Austria, and Nogales, Mexico.

Following the modern trend, the majority of free-trade areas are tightly restricted zones within cities, inaccessible to the public. Only a handful of internationalized ports such as Hong Kong and Singapore still preserve the old free-wheeling traditions, with doors open to all comers and few or not duties imposed on imports.

Farmer Saves Chickens By Using Blinders

CHICAGO—A farmer in Holland discovered an ingenious solution to a familiar problem. When one of the chickens in his flock got accidentally pecked and began to bleed, others in the flock, excited by the sight of blood, would peck the injured one to death.

The farmer was losing a dozen chickens a week in this way until he had aluminum spectacles fastened to the birds so that they could not see ahead to attack each other but could still see downward and sidewise. The cannibalism then stopped, and chicken production went up 20 per cent.

Silt-Laden
WASHINGTON—On an average day some half a million tons of silt ride the Colorado River down to Lake Mead, the huge reservoir created by Hoover Dam. During the flood year of 1927 the river carried 27,600,000 tons of silt past a given point in 24 hours.

Study Dairy Food Consumption
U. of I., Moscow — During the past two and a half years the department of dairy husbandry at the University of Idaho has been studying the effect of quality on the consumption of dairy products. Leader of the project has been R. A. Hibbs, assistant dairy husbandman in the agricultural experiment station. A sorority group, a fraternity group and agricultural college staff members have served as test panels.

Following is a summary of the findings to date:
Tests with the student groups indicate both boys and girls prefer milk served at 40 degrees or lower.
Girls are more tolerant to strong flavors, such as rancid flavor, than are boys.

When both milk and butter were placed on the table on a free-choice basis, boys on the average, consumed twice as much of both as did the girls. Cost, however, was not a factor in this study as the university dairy department provided the additional milk and butter, above usual consumption.

With adult groups, mostly men attending luncheons at the Student Union, milk was consumed by about 25 percent when they had to ask for it. Consumption increased to about 50 percent when the waiter asked if they wanted milk. Approximately 93 percent consumed milk when it was on the table at each place prior to the meal.

Butter taste trials in the homes of 42 families indicated that grade A and B butters were fairly well accepted, but that normally grade C butter is found undesirable for table use.

"A Crisis Emerging"

It might be well to reveal a great need which was brought into the open in recent reports. What is the need? — 56,000 clergymen for American churches! Based on appraisals by church authorities, the immediate, pressing shortages in the three major faiths are as follows:
 Roman Catholic, 30,000 priests; Protestants, 25,000 ministers and Jewish, 1,000 rabbis.
 There are 305,500 churches and synagogues in the country, served by 220,000 clergymen. Many of these clergymen serve two or more places of worship, and about 130,000 other clergymen work in other church fields.

Among the Protestant denominations, the unfilled requests for clergymen are as follows: Methodists need 2,800; United Lutheran, 464; Baptists, 292; Presbyterians, 450; Disciples of Christ, 561 — and we could go on and on.

A survey among Protestant denominations by Dr. Elmer Millon, director of the department of the ministry for the National Council of Churches, shows that at least 15,000 churches are seeking pastors, but can not get them. About 10,000 other Protestant posts, in education, social welfare, foreign missions, the chaplaincy and other church activities are vacant. This is certainly critical.

As local citizens, it should be our constant duty to be aware of local talent along these lines and encourage young people to consider such an all-important field of endeavor. These vacancies must be filled.

Should Christianity weaken, the threat of Communist domination all over the world will grow exceedingly and might eventually prevail. With Christianity at the forefront, seeking peace and good will, being led by capable leaders, universal brotherhood will become a reality. — Rev. John H. Emerson.

Slow Down And Live

Boise — "What is a safe speed? Twenty miles an hour? forty, fifty? That question is often put to Harold Davis, traffic safety director.

"It's impossible to say that any given numerical speed is absolutely safe," is Davis' answer to the question. "Under certain conditions any one of these speeds might be unsafe. Under other conditions a higher speed might be safe."

Davis said the conditions he had in mind were those of weather, road, traffic, the driver's physical and mental state, and his vehicle's mechanical fitness.

"What might be a perfectly safe rate of speed for physical and mentally fit motorists to drive on a smooth, straight road on a clear day might be a dangerously fast speed if any one of those conditions were changed," he said. "Suppose it were raining or foggy, or the driver was ill or tired. Any one of these conditions automatically cancel out any posted speed limits along this smooth, straight road."

He pointed out that posted speed limits set the maximum under ideal conditions. Under the law the driver must always use his judgement in selecting a speed under adverse conditions.

Mr. Davis listed the following tips on speed and safety:

1. Drive at a speed that will enable you to stop in the assured clear distance ahead.
2. Slow down before you get to curves and intersections.
3. At night drive at the speed which will let you stop within headlight range.
4. Drive with traffic. You are probably going too fast if you are passing many cars — too slow if many are passing you.
5. Where children are playing, be able to stop in a car length or less.
6. On longer trips, stop occasionally for a stretch, drink a cup of coffee or a glass of milk. When you're tired or unattentive, stop!

No Word On Road Work

To date we have received no authentic information on what, if any road work is planned for this area this summer — and in the meantime, under the impact of heavy hauling, what little oiled road we have is rapidly disappearing.

We don't blame the local crew, Ed. Brown and James Candler, in fact, "our hat's off to them" for the valiant struggle they have put up to maintain the roads — given nothing but some patching mix, a shovel, and trucks. The only decent bit of road between Kendrick and Juliaetta is the short stretch they laid last summer with patching materials!
 Why on earth the state can not see fit to cut off the point of the sliding and dangerous "Brammer" hill between Kendrick and Juliaetta, and rebuild this stretch of road is more than we can understand. We'll wager there isn't another four miles in the state that carries as much traffic, yet remains so narrow, crooked, rough and dangerous. It is our belief that the highway department has spent enough removing slides from the Brammer hill to have fixed it right in the first place — and then been done with it.

Will the state allow this condition to continue to exist until someone is caught in a slide and seriously injured or killed? Only time will tell!

Game Law Arrests Rise

Arrests for violation of fishing regulations continued their season increase last month, but activity was still fairly light. Fishing charges accounted for 40 of the 64 cases processed during the month. The others were 14 for various types of hunting law infractions, eight for wrong class of license and two for illegal trapping.

The highest fines were four of $100 each, which went to a Washington man with a resident license, and three eastern Idaho men for using explosives to take fish. Most of the hunting law violations were for carrying an uncased gun in field or forest without having a valid hunting license.

The canted flight deck of the USS Forrestal, the navy's new super-carrier could accommodate four football fields.

HELLO, FOLKS:

Well, on your next visit to our station you will meet a new, but familiar face. We have leased our service station department to Charles H. Parks, who needs no introduction to any of you — yet will be "new here." Charles is eager to serve you with the best of lubrication work, tire repairing (new tires too), wash and wax jobs, gasoline, and all the other services that make a Service Station all that the name implies. Try him, won't you?

The church choir was learning a new hymn.

"Now don't forget," said the choirmaster, "wait until the tenors reach 'The Gates of Hell,' then you all come in."

Don't risk your life and those of your loved ones by driving on "banana peel" tires. Come in and let us show you how cheaply you can motor in safety and comfort on those famous U. S. Royals — for your car, pickup or truck.

Boy Friend: "Gee, you look pretty Miss Jones. You look sweet enough to eat."
Miss Jones: "I do eat — let's go."

Let us wash, wax and lubricate your car before you start on that vacation trip. A thorough vacuum cleaning of the interior goes with every job. Try us.

Son: "Say, Pop, what is a delegate-at-large?"
Pop: "A delegate who goes to a convention without his wife!"

Always travel "Union".
