SHORT LOCAL ITEMS OF MORE THAN PASSING INTEREST

Fire Reports Prove Interesting

Fire reports from the local forestry department office, compiled for us by Norman Lewis and Raymond Green, carry a great deal of information that should prove interesting, although in a brief form:

To date (Tuesday, Aug. 6) the local office has answered 21 fire calls. Of these seven were caused by lightning strikes; one set by the railroad; four by smokers; four due to debris burning; one to lumbering operations; three miscellaneous; and one unknown.

By location they were: Two below Spading; one on the Lewiston Hill; three between Kendrick and Arrow; one on the old Anshaka Grade; one above Potlatch on Deep Creek; one on Freeman Creek; three on Moscow Mountain; one between Kendrick and Juliaetta, etc.

Of the fires fought the largest was the one on the Lewiston Hill, which covered 3,500 acres. The smallest a burning snag. Total area blackened is estimated at 3,750 acres.

The "unknown cause" fire listed is the one between Kendrick and Juliaetta, a burning hay truck. The cause of this blaze has never been determined.

Wave Of Gasoline Theft

Kendrick has been hit by a wave of gasoline thefts over the past few weeks, tanks on parked logging trucks having been the principal "donors."

Among those who have had their tanks "tapped" are Burton Souder, Jr., Wayne Bailie, Jack Travis and Galloway Brothers, and there are undoubtedly others of whom we have not learned.

Up until this time Kendrick has been relatively free of thievery of minor types, and it is regrettable to see it now beginning.

E. M. White, village marshal, says action is planned to curb this sort of thievery, and that anyone caught will be dealt with severely. He asks that anyone seeing any suspicious actions about parked cars or trucks call him immediately. If possible, get the license number of the vehicle or vehicles parked near the scene.

Rain Slows Harvest Operations

During the past week barley and wheat have been pouring into the local warehouses in an ever increasing stream, and had no rain fallen operations would undoubtedly have hit their peak about the middle of this week. However, the rain, which reached downpour proportions in some sections, will set operations back from two to five days. Warehousemen say the moisture will probably lower the test on some wheat, but will generally benefit through easier threshing with less dust.

In most areas the rain will be a real benefit to bean growers, helping to fill out the beans.

So far as we have been able to learn, no oats have yet arrived at the local warehouses, and it is believed they will take another week or ten days to reach maturity.

More Hot Lunch Goodies

During the past week wild black-caps from the Gerald Ingle farm were picked by Mrs. Dick Cuddy, Mrs. Paul Lind, Mrs. Roy Fey and Mrs. Gerald Ingle, and processed for the freezer by Mrs. Elmo Eldridge. The yield was 15 quarts.

Apples for sauce were donated by Mr. and Mrs. Herb Schwarz of Cameron. They were picked by Bob Magnuson, Dave Clayton, Bill White and Dana Magnuson. Processed by Mrs. Ben P. Cook, Mrs. Howard Hoffman, Mrs. L. A. Wallace, Mrs. Bob Watts, Mrs. Ed. Nelson, Mrs. Harvey Head, Mrs. Geo. Brocke, Jr., and Mrs. Wilbur Corhill, they yielded 153 quarts for sauce and 25 quarts of apple butter.

Sounds like pretty tasty eating, doesn't it?

Council Bars Dancing

At the regular monthly meeting of the Kendrick Village Trustees, held Tuesday evening of this week, routine business was transacted, including the payment of bills for street oiling, which left the town in a "financially embarrassed condition." However, all agree that results were worth the cost.

In the line of special business, and in answer to many complaints, "cabaret dancing," or dancing at the local taverns and inns was ordered stopped. A stern warning was also issued regarding the sale of beer to minors, or to adults who might purchase it and turn it over to minors.

Parents Of A Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lohman (nee Donna Kanikkeberg) became the parents of an 8-pound 3-ounce daughter Monday evening, Aug. 5, at the Gritman Memorial Hospital in Moscow, at 7:10 o'clock. The little Miss has been named Janet Renee.

On Tuesday evening Mr. Lohman, Mrs. A. O. Kanikkeberg and Jordan Kanikkeberg took the baby to the St. Luke's Hospital at Spokane for correction of threatened bladder trouble. No immediate surgery was required, but she was left at the hospital for observation.

As we go to press (Wednesday) the latest word received from Dr. D. A. Christensen was to the effect that all was well with the baby.

Undergoes Surgery

Mrs. C. J. Spence, Juliaetta, underwent surgery at the Gritman Hospital in Moscow Wednesday of last week. She is reported as doing nicely.

About Next Week's Paper

Next week's issue, as most of our readers are undoubtedly aware by this time, will be our annual "Twenty Year's Ago" edition, with all news of that period so dated.

This issue is the only way we have of obtaining for ourselves and our hard working correspondents — a week's vacation. We hope that you, our readers, enjoy the paper as much as we expect to enjoy the vacation.

During our absence the Gazette office will be open as usual for the receiving of job work, ad. copy, news items, etc., with Dee Magnuson "in charge."

ASA B. CHOATE, TEAKEAN PIONEER, KILLED IN WOODS

Asa B. Choate, a pioneer farmer and woods worker of the Teakean area, met death about 7:45 a. m. Saturday in the Yakus Creek area 20 miles east of Orofino, Saturday. He was helping his son, Asa Choate, Jr., fell a tree. After sawing the tree through Mr. Choate and his son stepped back to watch it fall. The heavy trunk, however, struck a snag on the way down and the butt lurched toward Mr. Choate, striking him in the right side, crushing his pelvis and cutting an artery in his thigh. He bled to death within a few minutes, before being reached by an ambulance summoned from Orofino.

Mr. Choate was born January 5, 1884, at Teakean. His parents, the first settlers in the community, operated the post office and a general store there for many years.

Mr. Choate farmed in the Teakean area until 1946, when he moved to Lewiston. He worked at Lewiston as a carpenter for four years and then moved to Orofino, where he was employed as a trim saw operator and carpenter for the Riverside Mill. He began working with his son about a month ago.

On October 11, 1916, he was united in marriage to Cecile Worthington, who survives him at the family home.

Other survivors include two sons, Sherman Choate, Maldon, Washington, and Asa, Jr., of Orofino; five brothers, Fred of Springfield, Ore.; Edward of Lewiston, Idaho; Joseph, Orval and Cecil, all of Cavendish; two sisters, Mrs. Minnie Horne, Lewiston, and Mrs. Eva Schetzel, Port Angeles, Wash., and one grandson.

Funeral services will be held today (Thursday, Aug. 8) at 10:00 a. m. in the Orofino Methodist Church with the Rev. L. Marshall Campbell, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Normal Hill Cemetery, Lewiston.

Troy School Superintendent Resigns

The resignation of Clark E. Bell, for 10 years superintendent of the White Pine consolidated district at Troy, was revealed Thursday by Frank O. Brocke, chairman of the board of trustees. Brocke said the board met Wednesday evening and reviewed "a number of applications" for the post now vacant.

Mr. Brocke said "the board, and I'm sure the entire community feels a great loss in learning of Mr. Bell's resignation. He has been an ardent worker not only for the school district, but for the community, and his post will be difficult to fill."

Mr. Bell said he had accepted the position as superintendent of schools at Firth, in southeastern Idaho, and "regrets to leave Troy." He said he plans to move to his new location by the coming week-end, but had not yet determined if he would be accompanied immediately by his family.

Mistakes Made In Ads

Last week "another of those weeks" in the life of a newspaper office when everything seemed to go wrong. It happens every now and then we believe, to everyone.

In this case, not satisfied with making a mistake in large display letters in the Abrams Hardware ad., making a heading read "The Woods and Grass," which should have read "The Woods and Grass," we went on to leave a couple of "y's" out in the Thurber store ad., making two lines read "Boss" when they should have read "Boys."

We don't know how many other errors got by us — but there must have been plenty — it was "just one our bad weeks."

Weather Turns Cool, Rains

Following a week-end which saw the mercury column spend most of the daylight hours in the "high 80's" with the exception of Saturday, when it hit 93 degrees, and Sunday with a reading of 90, the indicator began a steady drop, a reading of 82 degrees being recorded Monday.

Monday night, or perhaps we really should say early Tuesday morning, rain began falling, and continued quite steadily until about 9:00 o'clock, gradually slackening into intermittent showers and sunshine. A high of 66 degrees was recorded Tuesday — jackets being a common sight on Kendrick's streets.

New Paint On Business Buildings

The fronts of the Kendrick Cleaners and the Kendrick Fire Hall received coats of gleaming white paint at the hands of Carl Mattoon and helpers last week.

The appearance of the west part of the main business district was helped considerably, as they indeed look neat and clean.

Surgery In Spokane

Mrs. Ervin Swenson underwent surgery in Spokane Tuesday at the Deaconess Hospital.

Mr. Swenson called her sister, Mrs. Burton Souder, that evening to say that she came through fine.

How To Train Your Calf

A stout halter and a bucket of grain are the basic tools for 4-H members on the road to successful showmanship, according to John Moore, of the county agent's staff. It will soon be show time, he said, and that means boys and girls need to get ready.

One of the first jobs is to teach your calf to lead. This will be easy if you tie her in the barn with a strong halter a few days before you try leading. Brush her and pet her when you give feed and water. When she is used to being tied up, untie her and let her follow you around the stall. Reward her with grain when she follows.

Train to lead and pose with the feet squarely placed, the head slightly above the withers. Lead forward and clockwise in a big circle. Never back a dairy animal. Pose with the front feet slightly higher than the hind feet, if possible, but never lower. Show with the halter. Do not use feet to move the animal's feet or pinch her back. Keep position to the left side and slightly in front of the animal. Never move to the right side. Keep the calf in full view of the judge.

The animal should be in good physical condition, but not too fat. Older heifers look better if they are fed leafy hay a month before the show. Give your heifer all the hay she will eat, and feed two to four pounds of home-grown grains each day if she is thin. Do not feed grain if she is fat.

Here are the pointers on fitting: Groom the animal well. She should show evidence of brushing but not much washing. Be sure there is no excess oil on horns, feet or hair. Polish the horns and clip around their base. Have the feet clean, trimmed and neat without polishing.

Clip head, ears and neck to withers, and down the shoulder to the brisket two to five days before the showing. Clip against the lay of the hair. Blend lines in clipping, using fine sandpaper if needed. Clip tail from switch to tail head. Switch of tail should be fluffed. Give feed and water so the animal looks natural. Avoid overfill and too much cold water.

A clean and neat showman makes the most favorable impression on the judges. School clothes or white uniforms are acceptable. Unusual costumes are out of place. The successful showman enters and leaves the ring promptly. He is courteous to the judges and other boys and girls in the class. He keeps his animal in top showing position all the time without going through fancy antics.

Plenty of practice is the best recipe for a blue ribbon, the county agent said. Practice at home and you will do better at the Fair.

Perhaps after a week's rest (next week is "Twenty Years Ago"), happenings will pick up.

Of course, during harvest, this is always the prevailing condition — so we're not complaining — just commenting.

Boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 21 throughout the state are learning safe practices that will pay dividends later in life whether they reside on the farm or in the city. Conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service, the 4-H safety program has been supported continuously since 1945 by General Motors.

Incentive awards offered to 4-H'ers for superior achievement include distinctive medals, college scholarships, and educational trips to the national 4-H Club Congress held annually in Chicago.

Careful Selection Urged in Books For Sick Friend

CHICAGO — When selecting a book for a sick friend, it's well to consider the book's effect on his morale, a hospital librarian says.

Writing in Today's Health, Rose Burket, Benton Harbor, Mich., pointed out that a book can do much for a patient, provided it is wisely selected. It should be one that can be used "now," she said. The psychological effect of getting a book beyond the patient's capacity is not good. The patient may reason, "I'm not getting well. I can't even read a book." Choose a book with good print that is not too long—one that the patient looks forward to reading as a pleasant occupation.

An inflexible rule for hospital librarians that should also be observed by friends is: "never give a patient any book you have not read since he may identify himself with some unfortunate character or incident," she said.

If the main character of the book died of a heart attack, the book would be an unfortunate choice for a heart patient; while for a new mother or someone with a fracture the incident would have no personal meaning.

All patients lead temporarily restricted and abnormal lives, so books with neurotic characters or horror scenes that may return to disturb the patient should be avoided, Mrs. Burket said.

Feared Lizard Is Actually Harmless

LOS ANGELES—One of the most feared reptiles in South Africa, the vivid blue-headed Agamid lizard, is actually harmless.

Dr. Raymond B. Cowles, zoologist at the University of California, Los Angeles, who studied the reptile on a recent African tour, says the lizard is greatly feared by all natives even though many know it is non-poisonous.

The villainous reputation of the reptile may be related to a native legend, Dr. Cowles says. According to the legend, God gave the message of death to this lizard and the message of eternal life to the chameleon. The darting speed of the lizard enabled him to win the race over the slower, more hesitant chameleon. Thus by chance man is mortal.

In North Africa related forms of the Agamid lizard are hated by the Mohammedans. They give as their reason for hatred the animal's proneness to head-bobbing, which they believe is an intolerable mimicking of their bowing to Allah.

Predict Record Year For Insurance Buying

NEW YORK—It looks like another record year for life insurance in 1957, the Institute of Life Insurance reports.

In the first half of the year, the buying of new life insurance has been nearly 30 percent larger than a year ago and if the present pace continues, 1957 may see a total of $70,000,000,000 in purchases of new life insurance.

Purchases in the first six months were an estimated $33,000,000,000, about $8,000,000,000 more than a year ago. The greater part of the rise was accounted for by ordinary life insurance policies, the purchases of which were up some $5,000,000,000 in the half year.

As a result, life insurance outstanding in the country at mid-year is estimated at $437,000,000,000, up $24,000,000,000 since January 1 and $45,000,000,000 more than twelve months ago.

"These huge life insurance gains in '57 should mean the best progress in many years in widening the margin of family financial protection over the inflationary cost of living," Holgar J. Johnson, Institute president, said.

Biggest Concrete Dam Now Under Construction

WASHINGTON—Bulldozers have begun to gnaw at the banks of California's Feather River, clearing land for what is scheduled to be the world's biggest concrete dam.

When completed, 730-foot-high Oroville Dam will harness a stream that flooded disastrously in 1955. Its output of hydroelectric power will almost equal that of the Columbia River's Bonneville Dam. And it will become a mighty link in the irrigation system that turns the Golden State's Central Valley into a horn of plenty.

A green trough 500 miles long, Central Valley separates the Sierra Nevada from California's Coast Ranges. Nearly 60,000 farms and 2,000 factories thrive on its 12 million level acres.

Plenty in Fishing
MIAMI — Salt-water sports fishing in Florida is a $200,000,000-a-year industry, according to a survey by the State Board of Conservation and the University of Miami.

The estimate was based on interviews with more than 6,000 fishermen.

Eye Superstitions Have Lingered on Through Centuries

CHICAGO — Throughout history many have been prone to believe strange things about the eyes and some of these superstitions linger on today, in spite of all that radio, television, and the press are doing to spread scientific knowledge.

Stories of the evil eye are scattered through the folk-lore of most primitive peoples. Polish folk-lore tells us about a Slav who was sure he had it and blinded himself to protect his children. Sometimes whole nations have been so convinced of the power of the evil eye that laws have been passed to prevent the injury of crops by deathly looks.

The Neapolitans have always feared the evil eye, and even today they believe in it more strongly than any other group of people. But they think only men can be endowed with it. In modern Egypt, if a child is sickly-looking, the mother blames it on evil eye influence. In India the superstition is universal, and in Turkey and Arabia horses and camels are believed to be subject to the evil eye.

During the twelfth century the possessor of this dire power was visualized as a wizened old woman with a squint or one who had double pupils. Grimm's Fairy Tales says you can recognize a witch because if you look her in the eye you can see your image upside down, due to the evil characteristics of her eyes.

Research Needed In New Cosmetics

CHICAGO — As cosmetics leave the "realm of luxury" and become items of necessity, more and better research into the fundamental properties of the skin also becomes a necessity, according to a Federal Food and Drug Administration official.

Unfortunately, carefully controlled research into the fundamental principles of skin properties and mechanisms and the actions of various chemicals and drugs on skin has "not kept pace" with the many new products and the claims made on their behalf, he said.

Certain unobjectionable claims have been advanced for the effectiveness of certain preparations for reducing skin dryness and eliminating skin blemishes and wrinkles.

However, in recent years, the trend has been to advertise such products as being more than just cosmetics — that they serve as "skin foods, rejuvenators or tonics," "Contour creams" for bust development or bust reducing, wrinkle eradicators, and "deep pore" cleaners.

"To date, however, no conclusive evidence has been offered in support of many of these claims," he said.

New Drug May Help In Radiation Cases

LOS ANGELES—Fatalities from radiation exposure may be significantly reduced by pre-administration of a new experimental drug from England, research at the University of California, Los Angeles, has shown.

The research, which has been carried out by Dr. Thomas Haley, Anna Flesher, R. Veomett, and J. Vincent of the Atomic Energy Project, has been concerned with a drug which carries the complex chemical name of Quinoxaline 1,5-Di-N-Oxide.

Untreated irradiated mice suffered 100 per cent mortality at the end of 16 days. Mice which had received injections of the new drug just prior to irradiation had only a 65 per cent mortality rate after 30 days. Postirradiation treatment with the drug reduced the mortality rate only slightly.

Part of the beneficial effects of the drug was related to reduction of intestinal bacteria, which multiply rapidly following radiation injury, causing acute bacteremia. Bacteremia is a major cause of death following radiation injury.

One-Year-Old Proves Real 'Bouncin' Baby

PHILADELPHIA — One-year-old Anne Michele Acosta likes to climb on chairs. One night her parents, Benjamin and Patricia Acosta, went to bed and forgot to remove a chair away from a window of their third floor apartment. Next morning, Anne Michele was found on the pavement under the windows.

She had a few bumps and cuts, but otherwise was unharmed. Best anyone was able to figure out, Anne Michele had climbed upon the chair and tumbled through the window to the street below.

Witchcraft Still Has a Place in This Modern World

LOS ANGELES—Burn witches, if you will, but you won't kill witchcraft. It's still alive and cackling, brewing deeds of dark evil, even in California's bright sunshine.

Dr. Wayland Hand, professor of German and folklore at the University of California, Los Angeles, said that superstition and witchcraft are among the forms of folklore which are still very much alive.

He defined witchcraft as a belief in and a fear of supernatural creatures and forces with power to do evil and to cause physical harm. These creatures are often thought to be in league with the Devil himself.

"Witchcraft is among the oldest forms of folklore and is still known in its primitive forms all over the world," Dr. Hand said.

From his extensive files, which he someday plans to convert into a published Dictionary of American Popular Beliefs and Superstitions, and from Western Folklore, published by the University of California Press, he drew a few examples of present-day witchcraft:

A woman in the San Jose area was jailed earlier this year for offering to cure a child's deafness with dirt stolen from a cemetery on nine consecutive midnights. She was arrested while accepting a down payment from the child's parents.

Wise Credit Use Called a 'Thriff'

CHICAGO—Intelligent use of installment buying has been called an actual thriff.

"The dynamic thriff of the American people has been a major factor in keeping our economy at its present high level," says Richard E. Meier, chairman of the executive committee of the American Finance Conference, national association of independent sales finance companies.

"With the intelligent use of installment buying," Meier declares, "American consumers have raised their standard of living, increased their personal capital assets, and kept national employment at a record peak fulfilling the demand for new products."

Meier emphasized that installment buying is a form of budgeted saving that permits families to own cars, homes and appliances they need and want. People are not 'going into debt,' he said, but are acquiring capital assets out of current income. They are accumulating possessions with substantial cash value while holding on to their cash reserves for future emergencies.

Water Supply May Be Critical in Future

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa.—The tremendous growth of population, agriculture and industry in recent years has caused the spectre of a water shortage to plague government and industrial leaders.

Dr. Wakefield Dort, Jr., assistant professor of geology at the Pennsylvania State University, says the greatest possible use must be made of existing water supplies, new sources must be located, and basic research concerning water problems encouraged if serious water shortages are to be avoided.

Even Pennsylvania, a State which has a fairly good rainfall average, will face serious trouble if steps are not taken soon, according to the Penn State geologist.

"In most parts of the State there are supplies of surface and subsurface water sufficient to satisfy local demands," Dort says. "However, in some areas, especially centers of recent population increases and the sites of rapid industrial expansion, supplies of chemically and biologically pure water are far from adequate."

Cockroach Is Lending Science Helping Hand

LOS ANGELES—At last they've found a use for the pesky cockroach.

Make him radioactive, and he becomes a useful tool in the quest for more effective insecticides and in furthering the knowledge of heredity chemistry.

Researchers at the University of California are using radioactive carbon to trace pathways of life chemistry in the cockroach. In general they are seeking the ways in which these pathways differ in insects and higher animals, including humans.

Thus the lowly cockroach may contribute to the doom of his own kind as well as other troublesome insects to the benefit of mankind.

Joys Of Family Reunions

In the past weeks and all during the summer, one of the nicest customs is taking place in these parts. Whoever had the original idea of "Family Reunions" certainly deserves a pat on the back.

In these so-called "busy" times, when all are trying with all their might and main to keep up with grocery bills, auto expenses, clothing for the family, various social and civic obligations . . . and the everlasting and ever-mounting taxes, it seems there just isn't enough "time" to go around. We see some of our friends occasionally, and members of the immediate family here and there. Mostly these visitations are confined to a fairly small area.

But then comes that annual "Family Reunion." And a large majority that have ever made one, never miss another, if at all possible.

We think they're wonderful. Children, grandchildren, right on through great-great-grandchildren . . . and all the in-laws and anyone else who can get an excuse to partake — getting together at least once a year for a session of real American fellowship.

You know, this all-important time that most of us just don't have enough of, actually is "all" that we really do have. We're going to be here on earth just a relatively few years. And when we take time to see, visit and talk with our friends and relatives, we're actually spending that portion of time about as good as possible. Maybe we're not making that "extra buck" that seems so necessary, but something more important is being accomplished.

Think back to the real pioneer days. They had absolutely none of the conveniences we have nowadays . . . no electricity, no modern highways, autos, and the oodles of other luxuries which we now consider as necessities . . . yet, they found time for long visitations with their friends and relatives fairly regularly, all during the year.

Now we do it once a year — at least those families wise enough to hold annual family reunions. It's a wonderful tradition and we congratulate each and every one who is taking part in one of them. — The Radio Post, Fredericksburg, Texas.

Asiatic Flu Is Mild

Boise — A number of stories and articles appearing recently in magazines and newspapers have told of the so-called "Asiatic" or Oriental type influenza which has been sweeping the Far East and has not hit the United States. Some cases have been diagnosed in Idaho, but not, at the time of this writing, in any epidemic proportions such as has been the case in Asia.

Considerable alarm has been expressed by some that the flu may reach epidemic or world-wide epidemic proportions. Progress of the influenza spread has been relatively slow in this country and may, or may not, become epidemic.

This Asiatic strain of influenza, although it hits 20 to 25 percent of the population in an area, is a relatively mild form of flu. The virus causing it is somewhat different than any influenza virus heretofore recovered, but the disease itself is not unlike the flu or influenza that practically all of us have had at one time or another.

The symptoms, which last from two to five days, are quite similar to those of a cold — running nose, cough, muscular pains, headache and a fever of 101 to 104 degrees. The bulk of the cases to date have been among adolescents or young adults.

Should this type of influenza hit Idaho, and should you contact it, the best thing to do is call your physician, and go to bed. Your doctor will probably give you antibiotics, which won't help the flu but will keep such complications as pneumonia from developing. Stay in bed until you have fully regained your strength to avoid hazards.

Logging Trucks Moving

Logging operations got under way again here Monday morning, and the big trucks, loaded with logs for local mills or pulp logs for P. F. I. at Lewiston may be seen most any time passing up or down Kendrick's Main Street.

It is said that some woods areas are still far too wet to permit any but limited operations, but on the whole, work is going forward at a good clip.

Log dumps at the Mead & Howard Mill in Kendrick, and the Juliaetta Mill at Juliaetta, all but empty last week, are now beginning to take on a "ready for steady running look."

Licenses Sales Heavy
Hunters and fishermen bought 5,269 more Idaho fish and game licenses in 1956 than in the previous year, the Idaho Fish and Game department reports.

Mrs. Fay Whitson, license clerk, said the final tabulation shows 276,161 licenses of various classes were sold in 1956 as compared with 270,882 the previous year. Increased sale of resident classes accounted for 4,612 of the difference, while only 657 additional went to non-residents.

The report shows a decline in only two classes of licenses for the year. A drop of 13,245 in the resident combination license class was more than made up by heavy increases in the separate resident game and resident fishing tickets.

Resident sales last year totaled 216,211 as compared with 211,599 the year before. Non-residents bought 59,940 as compared with 59,283 in 1955. Mrs. Whitson said most of the non-resident purchases are for the $4.00 five-day tourist fishing license. Non-residents bought 41,686 of these licenses; 12,874 season fishing licenses, 1334 bird hunting licenses and 4,046 big game hunting licenses in 1956. All non-resident classes showed a slight increase, except the $12 season fishing license, which showed a drop.

Slow Down And Live

Boise — Idaho joins all other states in a concerted campaign to reduce those summer-time traffic accidents through participation in the annual "Slow Down and Live" program. The summer phase of the year-long "Back the Attack on Traffic Accidents" campaign will continue through Labor Day, according to Harold Davis, state traffic safety director.

"Slow Down and Live" is an attempt to stem the "Hurry Complex" which attacks many drivers on vacation or week-end trips. Its purpose is to "sell" the public on the idea that common sense should cause them to take it easy behind the wheel.

"I shall continue to place the full prestige of the governor's office behind an all-out attempt to make our highways safe," Gov. Robert E. Smylie stated in his message to the 34th Idaho State Legislature this year, in which he deplored last year's all-time high toll of death and destruction on our highways.

The state traffic safety director warned that official action alone will not guarantee safe highways. Davis said that equally important is public support, or, better still, public insistence that the rules of common sense, courtesy and caution be observed. He urges holiday drivers on public highways to curb the "hurry bug" which leads to the fatal five — excessive speed, improper passing, speed too fast for conditions, following too closely, and failure to yield the right-of-way. In short, "Slow Down and Live — and Let Live!"

Relax On Vacation

Here are some thoughts on late summer vacations:

More attention should be given to rest in connection with vacations. Too many people returning to work after their two weeks off sigh wearily and say, "I'm glad to get back home for a rest."

Here are some tips on taking vacations for rest and relaxation: Don't get into a cross-country driving marathon. Realize that you can't see the whole United States in two weeks. Settle for a leisurely sight-seeing trip if you spend the time in travel.

Keep the body relaxed by mild exercise. Don't attempt a strenuous athletic program. If you are going to do a lot of walking, do it in easy stages. Unless you are in really good condition — and few vacationers are — start your activities in mild doses until your muscles are limbered up.

And finally, remember that the sun will burn the pale city dweller's skin. Don't stay out too long in it!

Remember: Let the word "rest" rule your vacation at all times.

Employment Picture Underwent Changes In Recent Years

NEW YORK — The structure of employment in manufacturing has been undergoing a significant change in recent years as between production and nonproduction workers, according to data compiled by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The figures show that the rise in manufacturing employment in the period since the end of World War II has been dominated by the non-production classification, embracing a diversified group running from executives through research personnel to clerical staffs. Of the 1.6 million persons added to manufacturing payrolls between 1945 and 1956, 1.3 million, or four out of every five, have been in the non-production group.

As a result, the number of non-production workers rose to a record high of more than 3.7 million last year. This was the equivalent of 22 per cent of all persons employed in manufacturing, a proportion seldom approximated in the past. The number of production workers came to 13.2 million in 1956, and has fluctuated in a comparatively narrow range in recent years.

This shift in the composition of jobs in manufacturing is in line with the long-term trend of employment throughout the economy, with the white collar worker catching up with and passing the blue collar classification as the biggest single group in the working population.

Sun Glare Can Cause Accidents

URBANA, Ill. — Sometimes the sun can be an enemy. This is particularly true in the summer months when the sun's glare can be a decided safety threat to drivers, says O. L. Hogsett, extension safety specialist at the University of Illinois.

Glare from the sun, or reflections from cars and pavement, combined with high speed will produce numerous accidents during the coming vacation season.

Many other accidents will result from "visual fatigue" caused by the strain of looking against sun glare.

The new styling of cars, with greater glass area, lavish chrome trims and light-reflecting colors, has greatly increased the hazard from glare. Another factor is the popularity of convertibles and sport cars, whose drivers have little protection from the sun.

Here are Hogsett's suggestions for reducing glare and decreasing danger:

Use a visor to protect your eyes from overhead glare.
Avoid driving at sunrise and sunset, when the rays of the sun hit directly into the windshield.

Prenatal Mortality Continues a Problem

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Prenatal mortality—death of infants before or soon after birth—continues to be a major medical problem, according to a recent study. In recent years prenatal deaths have averaged more than 135,000 a year in the United States. Approximately half of these are stillbirths, and the remaining half are babies dying within one week of birth.

Some progress has been made in reducing the prenatal mortality rate—it fell about one-third between 1940 and 1954—but the improvement has lagged far behind that for childbirth mortality among mothers, which decreased 86 per cent in the same period.

The major factors contributing to the death toll in the prenatal period, the study shows, are lack of early and adequate prenatal care; twin and other plural births; puerperal toxemia; chronic and infectious diseases in the mother; and the use of inadequately trained midwives, a practice which is still fairly common in some sections of the country. Cesarean births, while quite safe for the mother, are still attended with high risk to the infant.

Heart Diseases Hurt American Industry

CHICAGO — Heart diseases rob business and industry of trained men during their most productive years. They deplete manpower of skilled employees and are responsible for a tremendous labor turnover and time loss.

Studies have indicated that these diseases are far more costly than strikes from a standpoint of lost productivity and are about ½ as costly as on-the-job accidents.

New Fog Signal

NORWALK, Conn. — A signal for motorboats has been developed by a Norwalk concern which says its timer automatically controls fog signals to conform to legal requirements. The company says the timer actuates a horn relay, or an electric air valve in a signal eye that fits regulations covering fog signals.

Mica Purchase Depot Out

There's not much chance, at least now, that a mica purchasing depot will be set up in Latah county, Rep. Gracie Pfof (D. Idaho) informed the Daily Idahoonian, Friday.

Moscow's Chamber of Commerce a week ago had requested her to work for establishment of such a depot within the county to facilitate recovery and exploration of mica resources within the county. A new firm has recently been formed to mine mica again extensively in the Deary area.

Establishment of a buying depot here would facilitate operation of mica deposits in the county, it was brought out. Now mica mined here must be sent to Custer, S. D., depot. Reports frequently are not received for several months upon acceptance or rejection of the shipments, entailing unwarranted expense to the county shippers, the Latah county appeals recited.

Mrs. Pfof wired that "The General Services Administration has no present plans to establish a mica purchasing depot in Latah county, but it is not closing the door to the possibility in the future if area production justifies it."

The federal government is interested in the county as a possible source of strategic mica because production records of the Idaho Beryllium & Mica Corp., which ceased operations two years ago. Assets of this corporation are now owned by Deary interests and extensive operation of these deposits are planned.

The government, Mrs. Pfof added, is continuing its mica purchasing program for defense purposes, with termination date of June 30, 1967.
