KNOW YOUR CORRESPONDENT - MEET ALMA BETTS, "GOLDEN RULE"

AREA PIONEER WRITES NEWS
FOR MANY YEARS

Alma Betts

Alma Betts, constant and faithful, has been corresponding for The Gazette, and Golden Rule area for more than 25 years. We asked her what had kept her at it for all that time, and she told us the principal reason was to "keep their little community on the map." It used to be — that folks swapped news at the community gatherings in their little schoolhouse, and now that consolidation had taken their school it was more necessary than ever to hold community interest with a column of their own. She likes people — is interested in what is going on, so it has become almost a habit to jot down this and that as she hears it. Folks look to her and depend on her to get the announcements of coming events in at the proper time — as well as other current news.

Mrs. Betts gathers the news over a private phone line which serves about six families, and to those out of this reach she manages personal contact. Friends and neighbors cooperate by remembering to tell her the latest happenings in their household and often giving a lead on something "she can run down." She admits she has felt at times some of the items aren't newsworthy, but let her miss a week and she hears about it!

So this goes to prove that the news in the country paper doesn't compete with the dailies, for they carry the story of "Sputnik" and "Muttik," etc., so we just try to carry the life story of our people week-by-week.

Mrs. Betts is a pioneer of this area, born at Cameron to Rev. and Mrs. George Finkle. She has lived her whole life in the area there. In 1920 she moved to Southwick with her parents, where she lived until she married Glen Betts in Dec., 1924. Since that time she has been a resident of the Golden Rule community, which is east of Southwick, and embraces a farming and timber area.

A widow since 1953, Mrs. Betts has learned to be self-reliant and does things for herself when they need to be done. As an example: When the cattle got out and downed the fence, she knew what to do and did it before the "critters" got away. She said: "I'm a farmerette, and love it. I keep chickens and cattle, a garden and my home, which I have turned into a refuge for old people. At present, Billy Kauder, who is 89 years young, makes his home with me, as does Mr. Ring, who is 81. On the side, to make a little extra money, I sell greeting cards. I love my flower garden and I like things growing inside, so I have lots of house plants. But the thing I love to do best is entertain my friends and family, and for relaxation I crochet."

Mrs. Betts has one daughter, a son and three grandchildren, who have often urged her to sell out and "move closer to civilization" but she smiled and said, "What have they got that I haven't?"

As she looks back over the years she admits life with its many interests and activities has been rewarding — things haven't changed too much, not even the roads, though she admitted they do have some rock on them and you don't get stuck quite so often. But the picture remains much the same in relation to people and their activities in the community. Most of the "old timers" are gone, but replacing them are families with children — so it is more than likely "Golden Rule" will continue in the "picture" as it has for the past 50 years and more.

SURVEY FORMS MAILED

The information obtained from this survey will be compiled and presented to the National Wheat Growers Association to be used to try to obtain farm legislation helpful to Latah county farmers.

The Latah County Wheat Growers Association feel that their helping solve the wheat problem is dependent on obtaining the opinions and facts from the individual wheat farmer.

"Please return these survey sheets promptly so we can present the findings at the annual National Wheat Growers Association meeting in Spokane this week," urges Harold Snow, president of the county organization.

PATSY CUDDY IS BRIDE FRIDAY EVE.

BEAUTIFUL CEREMONY UNITES POPULAR YOUNG COUPLE

Friday evening, January 31, at 8:00 o'clock, the Kendrick Community Church was the scene of a beautiful wedding uniting Miss Patsy Cuddy, daughter of John Cuddy, Southwick, and J. Roger Christensen, son of Dr. and Mrs. D. A. Christensen, Kendrick.

Before lighted candles and large baskets of pale yellow carnations, chrysanthemums and white stocks, Rev. O. A. Wells, Southwick, solemnized the double ring ceremony in the presence of about one hundred guests.

Music was furnished by Mrs. Oscar Slind, at the organ, and Mrs. Charles Easterbrook, who sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in an original gown by "Byrdi," made up in nylon chantilly lace over net and satin. It featured a basque bodice, buttoned down the back with tiny balls and loops of satin, and long tapered sleeves with button wrists. The skirt of white net and satin, flowed full under a gleaming satin and lace five-pointed star effect from the waist. It was chapel length with train. Her waist length veil of French net was held by a cap of satin with rhinestone trim.

She carried a white orchid corsage, nestled in a spray of pale yellow and white chrysanthemums on her white Bible.

Miss Judy Cuddy, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing a ballerina gown of lace over yellow taffeta, with yellow velvet trim. She carried a white Testament with nosegay of white and yellow flowers and knotted streamers.

Miss Jeanette Cuddy and Miss Rona Armitage, both cousins of the bride, were her bridesmaids. Miss Cuddy was dressed in a pink ballerina length gown of lace and net over taffeta, and Miss Armitage wore a blue ballerina length gown of lace, net and satin. Both carried white Testaments with nosegays and streamers to match. (The girls' Testaments were gifts from the bride, and had their names imprinted on them.)

The groom's best man was Wm. Mitchell, Moscow. Ushers were Howard Holt and Leland Slind, Moscow. All wore the conventional business suits with white boutonnieres.

Candle lighters were Doug and Dave Armitage, twin cousins of the bride. They wore white jackets and dark gray trousers.

Mrs. Cuddy chose for this special occasion a silk dress of aqua, with black accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Mrs. Christensen chose a royal blue silk dress with white accessories. Her corsage was also of white carnations.

The reception room in the church parlors was decorated with white candelabra, and greens of ivy and fern.

The bride's table was covered with a gleaming white damask cloth and displayed pale yellow candelabra, and a beautiful three-tiered wedding cake with white swan dividers, topped with a miniature bride and groom, behind the swan detail. Pale yellow roses and hearts decorated the cake.

After the bride and groom cut the traditional first piece, the cake was then cut and served by Mrs. James Griffin, a sister of the groom, of Waterville, Wash., assisted by Mrs. James Holt, an aunt of the bride.

Mrs. Douglas Christensen, Tekoa, Wash., a sister-in-law of the groom, served punch, and Mrs. James Cuddy, an aunt of the bride, presided at the coffee service, at a table centered by a musical score of "Here Comes the Bride," which had been previously used at her bridal shower.

Miss Carolyn Skaggs took charge of the good book.

Miss Jeanie Skaggs and Mrs. Max Clemenhagen unveiled the many beautiful gifts and put them on display.

The new Mrs. Christensen is a senior at K. H. S., and Mr. Christensen is a sophomore at the University of Idaho. The good wishes of all go with the happy young couple.

STORM OF PROTEST

The new "Personal Property Tax Forms" which were distributed about Kendrick the first of this week are really evoking a storm of protest from local business men.

Said one: "How the hell am I to know the depreciated value of my old typewriter, adding machine, safe and like equipment? It was bad enough as it was — but now!"

Said another: "These office chair warmers, seem to think we business men don't have a *! *! thing to do but fill out forms for this that and the other. I'm getting fed up with the whole outfit!"

And so it went! Personally, we wonder who dreamed up the long-form thing, and why?

SEEN TUESDAY AFTERNOON

Tuesday afternoon about 2:30 o'clock, a number of very severe cases of spring fever were noted on Kendrick's Main Street.

The matter was brought to our attention when we noted quite a crowd gathered in front of Burt's Confectionery, and on crossing the street to find out what was going on discovered Bill White and Ed. Long digging a hole through the concrete sidewalk to set the big street light pole there back into the sidewalk, rather than out across the curb.

After inspecting the hole, and making the usual asinine comments, we counted the "sidewalk superintendents" and there were seven of them! Another look disclosed that they weren't there just to "superintend" — but all were suffering from severe cases of spring fever, as disclosed by the relaxed, sleepy look on their faces.

P. S.: We didn't dare stick around — or we'd have had it too!

INSURANCE TO COST MORE SOON

ACCIDENT AND LIABILITY ON CARS TO BE UPPED

San Francisco — Motorists in the eight western states, along with most other states, face higher charges for automobile liability insurance in 1958. This view of the outlook for automobile insurance rates was given to the public this past week by the National Board of Casualty Underwriters, a rating organization with a membership of 122 stock companies writing casualty insurance.

"The outlook is based not on opinion but on stern economic facts," the Bureau stated. "Reluctant as the insurance carriers are to seek higher rates, there is no alternative. As inflationary pressures continue to push up the costs of settling accident claims incurred by insured motorists, rate revisions during 1958 will undoubtedly involve increases. In many states rate increases have already been approved by supervisory authorities that will affect a large part of the volume of business written in 1957. Inflation has forced up average claim costs for both bodily injury and property damage liability. In addition, the adverse effect of inflation on property damage claims has been aggravated by continually climbing repair costs resulting from car design, the new wrap-around windshields, for example.

During the postwar period from 1946 through 1956, claim costs for both bodily injury and property damage increased on the average more than 6 percent a year, with the result that bodily injury claims settled in 1956 on a countrywide basis were 82 percent above the 1946 level and the property damage claims were 88 percent higher. And there is no evidence of any apparent leveling off of costs in the foreseeable future.

In addition to the upward trend in average claim costs the companies have been confronted since the latter part of 1955 with the adverse effect of increasing claim frequency, that is the number of claims per 100 insured cars. This latter apparently following the beginning of the horse-power and speed race between automobile manufacturers.

The rise in automobile insurance rates will not be halted until the present trend of average claim costs and claim frequency is reversed. Motorists cannot exercise any control over the inflationary forces that have gripped our economy. But motorists collectively have it within their power to control the number and severity of automobile accidents. Unfortunately it is a power that has largely gone unused.

In the accident category, largest percentage is the age group 17 through 23 years of age record the most; 23 through 28 come next, and the 28 through 55 the smallest.

RAILROADS NEED RELIEF
 Wash., D. C. — Relief from tax handicaps, removal of outdated restrictions and elimination of subsidies to competitors are necessary to restore the ailing railroad industry, Robert S. Macfarlane, president of the Northern Pacific railway, told the Surface Transportation subcommittee of the Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce committee.

In a statement, Mr. Macfarlane called the existing 3 percent federal excise tax on freight charges and the 10 percent passenger fare tax discriminatory and injurious to shippers, the traveling public and the railroad industry.

The 3 percent freight tax unjustly aggravates the freight disadvantage of long-haul shippers who already pay higher transportation charges than shippers who are close to markets, the railroad president pointed out. He added that American shippers must pay the tax while their Canadian competitors escape the levy.

As an example, he said, that on a haul to Chicago, a western shipper pays a tax of $24.21 on a carload of lumber; $24.36 on a carload of wood pulp, and $21.30 on a carload of apples. The Canadian shipper, in many cases a direct competitor, pays no tax whatever.

Large industries may avoid the tax by acquiring and operating their own private transportation facilities. This shift cuts deeply into railroad traffic and revenue, he emphasized.

The taxing policies of both federal and state governments impose heavy and discriminatory financial burdens on the railroads, Mr. Macfarlane said. Railroads are subjected to heavy taxes for the support of state and local governments. Meanwhile, he continued, "the freeways used by our competitors are untaxed, and their construction and maintenance costs are paid for out of public funds provided by taxpayers generally, including the railroads."

"The law should provide that such outlays be repaid by the users of these facilities," he stated.

Are your headlights, windshield wipers, tail and stop lights in good working order? When did you last have them checked?

New Drug Aimed At Wheat Rust

Acti-dione Combats Fungus Diseases

Chemical variations of an antibiotic drug show promise of providing farmers with a potent new weapon against crop-devastating wheat rust and the fungus infections that attack cherry trees and apples.

A team of research scientists reported to the American Chemical Society that derivatives of the antibiotic Acti-dione, have been successfully used to combat fungus diseases in plants through intercellular systemic activity within the plants themselves.

Following a report by Drs. Hamilton and Szkolnik at the New York Agricultural Experiment Station, further work with the Acti-dione derivatives conducted by The Upjohn Company, Kalamazoo, Michigan, indicates that the chemicals enter through the leaves and spread throughout the above-ground portion of the plant, killing many fungus infections as they are contacted.

New chemicals may stop devastating wheat rust.

Experimental control of leaf and stem wheat rust, cherry leaf spot and apple scab has been achieved with the new chemicals.

The systemic antifungal chemicals are being tested in experimental greenhouses in two ways. One method consists of placing a plastic bag around the base of the branch, spraying the leaves of the same branch with the chemical, and then inoculating the whole branch with the fungus disease several days later. If the top portion of the branch, which did not receive any of the chemical spray is protected from infection, the chemical has apparently traveled from sprayed to non-sprayed leaves, killing the invading fungus as it moves upward within the plant.

New Cattle Diseases Threat to Profits

Three new transmissible diseases of cattle have added their threat to the farm profit picture in recent years, making the disease situation even more confusing, according to a report by the American Foundation for Animal Health.

The similarity in some symptoms of these diseases, and their similarity, also, to several other cattle problems makes prompt diagnosis by a veterinarian doubly important, the Foundation says. The three new diseases are infectious bovine rhinotracheitis, virus diarrhea, and mucosal disease. Clinical or pathological signs of these three may also resemble those older diseases, shipping fever and malignant catarrhal fever.

Fortunately, the death rate is low, with the exception of malignant catarrhal fever and mucosal disease, which are almost always fatal. All five of the diseases produce a fever of 104 degrees or higher, resulting in depression as another symptom. However, the fever may be present for several days before the depression is noted.

Early Detection, Not Age, Important In Cancer Cases

NEW YORK—Early detection of cancer can often lead to successful treatment or at least to substantial relief even in persons of advanced age, it is emphasized by the Insurance Company statisticians.

Periodic health examinations of the elderly are a practical means of early detection, the company points out, adding that educational measures suitable to persons in later life should be devised to make these people aware of the danger signals that may mean the presence of cancer.

Cancer ranks among the foremost problems of geriatric medicine, the Metropolitan statisticians point out. In 1956 there were more than 126,000 cancer deaths in the United States among persons at ages 65 and over. In that age group, cancer as a cause of death is outranked only by heart disease and cerebral hemorrhage, and accounts for about 15 per cent of the total mortality in this group.

The statisticians estimate that at present there are about 365,000 new cases of cancer each year among persons over 65, and that one in every four persons reaching that age will eventually develop cancer. In the course of a year, there is one new case of cancer among every 65 men at ages 65-69; the proportion is one in 33 at ages 85 and over. Among women, the corresponding rise is from one case in every 80 to one in every 44.

Permanent Pleats For Men's Pants

NEW YORK—Development of a process to produce permanent pleats in all-wool dresses and skirts and permanent knife-sharp creases in men's all-wool trousers which will not come out in the rain, warm soapy water or dry cleaning was announced from Australia today through the Wool Bureau in New York.

Developed in the Geelong, Victoria, laboratories of the Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organization, the process, patented in Australia, is known as "SI-RO-SET." It has proved successful in tests in several Australian apparel factories and in actual wear trials and is now being licensed to approved firms in that country.

In the process, the garment is sprayed with a weak chemical solution just before the final pressing. The crease is then fixed by steam pressing for 15 seconds. Completely safe for factory application, the process is described as having "no damaging effects on wool and producing pleats and creases that last indefinitely."

Health Insurance Payments Increasing

NEW YORK—Benefit payments to insured persons covered by voluntary health insurance through insurance company policies were 15% higher during the first nine months of 1957 than for the same period the year before, the Health Insurance Institute announced. Reports from the nation's insurance companies showed that from January 1 through September 30, 1957, an estimated $1.8 billion had been paid to help pay hospital and doctor bills and to replace income lost because of accident or sickness.

Benefits paid under group health insurance policies covering hospital, surgical and medical care and loss of income totaled $1.3 billion by the end of the third quarter, an increase of 20% over the same period for 1956, while the rise in benefits under individual and family type policies was over $469 million, an increase of 4%.

Tomato of the Future Resists All Diseases

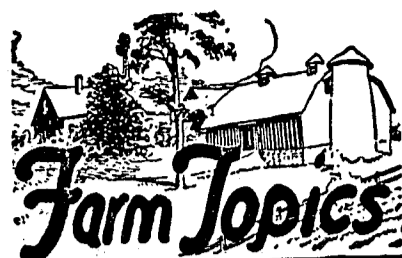

RIVERSIDE—University of California plant breeders are making progress toward their goal of developing a tomato with built-in resistance to tobacco mosaic, nematodes, verticillium wilt and fusarium wilt.

By wrapping these four kinds of resistance into a single package, thousands of dollars in crop losses can be prevented annually, according to Robert K. Soost, plant geneticist on the University's Riverside campus.

Working with a hybrid of wild South American tomatoes produced by researchers at the Hawaii Agricultural Station, Soost found that it was resistant to tobacco mosaic; neither symptoms nor the virus appears in inoculated plants. He found the resistance to be due to a single dominant gene.

Test Kit Aids Milk Analysis Tells Total Solids Content in Samples

Research on the production by dairy cattle of essential non-fat food constituents in milk will be greatly aided by a portable testing kit designed to measure the total solids content of small milk samples, the U. S. Department of Agriculture said today. This solids test is used in conjunction with the well-known Babcock test for butterfat.

The portable testing equipment, developed by USDA dairy scientists, is a useful instrument for fundamental research under field conditions. Eight of the kits have been used in cooperative dairy breeding and management experiments in Louisiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Tennessee, Virginia, and Wisconsin to determine the usefulness and accuracy of the device as a research tool.

The new method of testing made possible with this equipment may become the basis for expanded research under a cooperative plan involving several States and Canada's Province of Ontario.

Consumer interest in the solids other than fat contained in milk has been increasing. Among these non-fat solids are protein, lactose, casein, albumin, sugar, and several minerals—all having a place in the human diet.

Ladino Clover Yields Valuable Hormone

A new, potentially valuable estrogenic hormone has been isolated from Ladino clover, and its structure has been determined by Agricultural Research Service scientists, the U. S. Department of Agriculture announces.

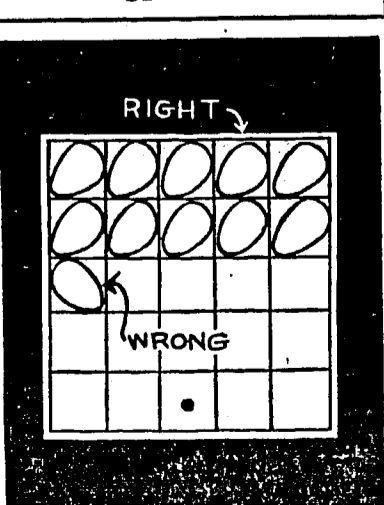

This estrogen has been named "coumestrol." It is known to be present in alfalfa and strawberry clover, as well as in Ladino clover. The new hormone was discovered at USDA's Western Utilization Research and Development Division, Albany, California.

Estrogens, which regulate specific growth and reproductive activities, are one type of the chemical compounds known as hormones. They occur naturally in both animals and plants or they can be synthesized. Stillbestrol, used to promote faster weight gains in feeder cattle and poultry, is a useful synthetic estrogen. Synthetic estrogens have been extremely valuable also in human medicine.

Estrogens that occur in animals are secreted by the ovaries and are associated with female sex development. Less is known at present about the character and function of estrogens in plants.

Coumestrol is not only different in chemical structure from known animal estrogens, but it differs also from plant estrogens previously isolated. Although estrogenic compounds are known to be active in about 40 plants, only a few of these plant hormones have been isolated.

Egg Packing

Simple packing precaution cuts down broken eggs in shipment. When filling crates, place all eggs so they lean one way in the fillers. This makes space between layers sufficient to avoid crushing from eggs above.

Hi-Fi Pickup Aids Recording of Sounds Made By the Heart

CHICAGO—High fidelity, so precious to the record collector and audio engineer, is also the goal of those who hear and record the sounds of the heart as an aid to the diagnosis of heart disease.

At the opening session of an American Heart Association four-day scientific meeting, a new device was described that promises ultra high fidelity in recording, from the outside of the chest, faint heart sounds or murmurs not now detectable by methods in common use.

The device is a special "pickup" developed through the collaboration of a medical scientist, Dr. Dale Groom of the Medical College of South Carolina, and an engineer on the scientific research staff of General Motors, Yro T. Sihvonen. It looks something like a stainless steel microphone or small bell. So sensitive is the pickup, said Dr. Groom, that it has been used only in a special sound-proof "room within a room," built within the hospital laboratory out of steel and Fiberglass and mounted on shock absorbers.

In this environment, completely noiseless to the ear, murmurs could be heard and recorded from the hearts of virtually all normal subjects (mostly medical student volunteers), said Dr. Groom. These murmurs, the significance of which is not known, were similar to murmurs heard by other investigators in normal subjects from the inside of the heart when a tiny microphone has been maneuvered into its chambers at the tip of a catheter or thin tube. With the new pickup, Dr. Groom pointed out, such faint sounds can now be recorded from the outside of the chest.

Be Prepared for Winter Ailments

TOLEDO — With Asiatic flu an added factor the winter season may be a severe one for respiratory illnesses.

When illness strikes, most families follow the recommended routine of telephoning a physician, getting the patient to bed, keeping him warm, etc., but too often they don't have in their medicine chest items important in aiding the comfort and recovery of the patient.

Surprisingly, many homes do not even have a thermometer.

Other non-medical items which should be handy in every home when common winter illnesses strike are:

An atomizer for spraying nose and throat passages with a recommended medication to relieve congestion and soreness.

A vaporizer to provide steam which relieves coughs and sore throats, helps clear congestion and eases the discomfort of fever periods.

An ice bag for cooling a fevered patient and a hot water bottle to help overcome chills.

Alcohol or other antiseptic for washing and sterilizing.

Photographic Technique Aids Shock Wave Study

LOS ANGELES—A photographic technique known as a "spark shadowgraph," that freezes action at less than one-millionth of a second, is making possible detailed studies of air shock wave movements such as those that might follow A- and H-bomb explosions.

The studies are being carried out under the direction of Dr. Benedict Cassen of the Atomic Energy Project of the University of California, Los Angeles.

Refraction by air density along the shock wave front causes the wave to appear in photos as a dark line followed closely by a white one. As the shock wave dissipates the line becomes fainter.

Shock wave effects on tiny models of skyscrapers, shelter trenches, terrain features and civilian bomb shelters in an experimental blast tube were photographed. Shock waves were shown to "bounce off" model skyscrapers but then to continue through with lessened intensity. They penetrated down into trenches even with parapets in front. The bottom of a shock wave going up a hill becomes a "Mach" jet that darts out in front of the wave's main line.

Catastrophes Took More Lives in Past 1/2-Year

NEW YORK—Catastrophes—accidents in which five or more persons are killed—took approximately 1,200 lives in the United States during the first half of this year, it is reported by statisticians.

The toll of lives lost was higher than for the corresponding period of any year since 1947.

This unfavorable record reflects in large measure the heavy loss of life caused by hurricane Audrey, which struck Louisiana and eastern Texas in late June and left approximately 350 known dead and a considerable number of persons still reported as missing.

STATE FUNDS HIT HARD

Boise — The State of Idaho's general fund ended the year $1 1/2 million worse off than expected, a fact that is reflected in Kendrick by the withdrawal of $21,313.00 in state funds from the Farmers Bank of Kendrick, since the issuing of tax anticipation notes began last October.

State treasurer Ruth G. Moon reported last week that the state general fund ended the year a little over $8 1/2 million in the red. She said she had expected a deficit of $7 million, based on last year's experience and taking into account an additional $3 1/2 million for schools that was not spent last year but was voted this year.

As a result of the general fund deficit, Mrs. Moon said, tax anticipation notes (by which the state has been borrowing money from itself) have been issued to date in the amount of $11,800,000. Of these, $2,800,000 have been redeemed, leaving $9 million in tax notes yet to be repaid.

One effect of the state's issuing the tax notes rather than borrowing money in other ways, Mrs. Moon explained, is that the taxpayers have been saved approximately $28,500 in money that would have been paid out in 3 1/2 percent interest. Another effect, not quite so good, is that she has been forced to withdraw almost all of the state's money from the 93 banks outside Boise.

Drilling Operations Abandoned

Spokane — Standard Oil of California has announced that it has abandoned drilling operations at its exploratory well in the Rattlesnake Hills of Benton county, in eastern Washington.

The wildcat well was located about 20 miles north of Prosser, and was drilled to a depth of about 8,400 feet. Company spokesmen stated that six months of slow but intensive drilling through unusually hard volcanic rock formations have revealed nothing of commercial significance. Expenditure on the well to date, exclusive of the initial geological work and lease acquisition costs, total approximately $625,000. Numerous special techniques were employed in attempts to speed penetration.

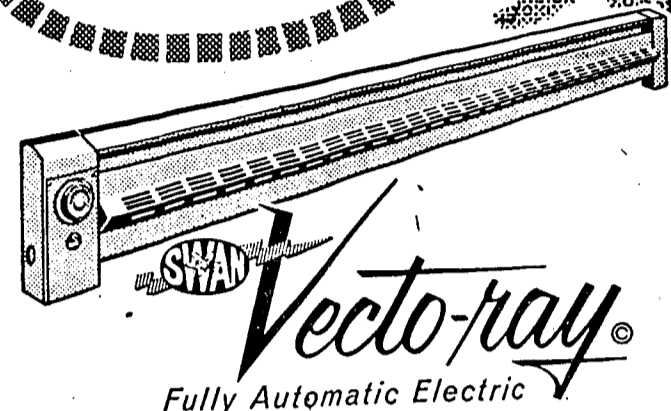

The well, known as Rattlesnake Hills Unit No. 1, was designed to test a large block of more than 100,000 acres.

Rattlesnake No. 1 was the latest of three recent attempts by Standard to develop oil or gas production in eastern Washington and Oregon. None have proven successful.

An average of 20 to 25 men were employed on the round-the-clock operation.

Use Corn Silage As Winter Feed Ewes Fared Well In Illinois Tests

Corn silage makes good winter feed for ewes.

You may need to rely on corn silage if your hay crop this summer was shorter than usual or if you have a problem of soft corn because of early frost, says J. M. Lewis, assistant professor of agricultural research at the University of Illinois Dixon Springs Experiment Station.

Most farmers will feed corn silage with other roughages, but it can be fed as the only roughage if properly supplemented, Lewis points out.

Ewes will eat from six to eight pounds of corn silage daily if it is the only roughage. Supplement this silage with one-fifth pound of protein and one-half ounce of feeding-grade limestone daily to correct the protein and calcium deficiency in the corn silage.

Ewes did well in experiments using corn silage as only source of roughage.

Half of a flock of ewes were fed through the winter at the Dixon Springs Station with silage as the only source of roughage. In addition to the recommended amounts of protein and calcium, they also got a pound of grain consisting of equal parts of shelled corn and oats. The other half of the flock were fed all the good alfalfa hay they would eat, plus the same amount of corn and oats.

Stay Safe From Fire During Winter Days

Wintertime is "Fire Danger" time in both rural and city homes and therefore the time when safety measures should be adopted and carefully pursued.

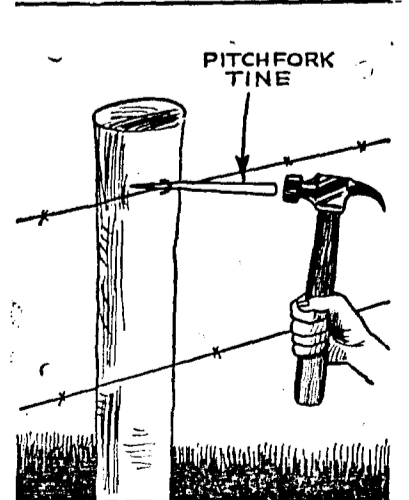

Fire destroys property, but worse, it causes serious injury and often death. More than half of all home fires occur in kitchens and bedrooms, and most home fire deaths and injuries involve women and children.

Fire safety in the home and on the farm can be achieved by anyone who takes the trouble to learn and live by a simple set of rules.

Alertness is the key to fire prevention. Look for causes that can turn homes and barns into a flaming torch. Review your safety practices in regard to the following set of rules:

1. Be sure the heater or furnace is in good condition. Look out for cracked stoves or other defects.
2. See that automatic mechanisms on heaters and furnaces operate properly.
3. Be sure smoke pipes are tight at the joint, not rusted or worn through. Flues should be a safe distance from woodwork.
4. Never overwork or force a furnace or heater that is giving insufficient heat.
5. Never try to quicken a fire by using kerosene.
6. Always keep a metal screen in front of a burning fireplace.
7. Handle hot ashes with care, always deposit them in a metal container equipped with a cover.
8. Keep flammable materials and rubbish away from furnaces and heaters. Get rid of flammable trash.

Easy Puller

Tine from a discarded pitchfork makes handy staple puller. Pointed end is inserted under staple and short hammer blows do the rest. Staples pulled in this fashion can usually be used again.

Color Important to Our Comfort, Health To Our Way of Life

CHICAGO — The importance of color in our lives is something which most of us only dimly appreciate. It can affect our comfort, our health, and our finances. In some cases it, may even be the deciding factor between life and death.

The United States Army withdrew its regulation navy blue shirts in malarial districts of Europe when it learned that malaria-bearing mosquitoes alighted most on dark blue, red, and brown and were likely to avoid yellow, orange, and white. In South Africa it was found that pink and yellow mosquito curtains did not harbor the insects.

Through control of light and color, chickens will lay more eggs, cows will give more milk, goats will give milk when they otherwise wouldn't, and brown weasels will turn to white ermine in mid-summer instead of mid-winter.

Traps for Japanese beetles are painted yellow because this color seems to tempt them fatally. Barnacles will avoid light-colored ship bottoms but cling by the ton to dark hulls.

Science has been able to prove that human beings have a decided muscular reaction to color and light. Red colors and bright illumination tend to increase muscle tension and speed up the pulse and breathing. Blue colors and dim lighting relax the muscles, slow down the heart and lungs.

Early Gals Could Turn Eyes of Male

SANTA BARBARA — If all else fails and you still can't get your man, ladies, try inserting crackling paper in your shoes to attract male attention.
 Don't laugh—Arab women in 708 A. D. shuffled about snapping, crackling, and popping with the same amorous intent, and they apparently got results.

This rather unique method of allurements is only one of the curious practices associated with early paper-making brought to light by Dr. Thomas S. Weir, assistant professor of industrial arts at University of California, Santa Barbara College. He just completed two years in Lebanon as a consultant in technical education for the U. S. Foreign Operations Administration.

Long before papyrus became commercially remunerative—way back in 1700 B.C.—the ancients were inscribing their views on clay, ceramics, flat stones, skins, palm stalks, the bark of trees, and flat bones, according to Dr. Weir. But by 936 A.D. captured Chinese papermakers had taught the Middle East peoples the art of making fine paper. It subsequently spread throughout Europe.

The Arabs used paper not only for writing and as "male lure," but as "judgment shirts" inscribed with the wearer's crime, as hat stiffeners, kites, and needlework patterns.

Study Tells Increases In Plant Capacity

An indication of the growth of America's productive resources in recent years as the result of record investment in new plant and equipment by major industries is provided by data compiled by the National Industrial Conference Board from information collected by the Federal Reserve System.

These figures show that aluminum has had by far the biggest growth in annual capacity of the selected industries studied, with an increase of 108 per cent in the 1952-57 period. The second biggest increase, amounting to just under 36 per cent in the five-year period, was in synthetic fibers. Other increases in annual capacity between 1952 and 1957 were cement, 27 per cent; paperboard, 26.8; steel ingots and petroleum products, 22.9 each; paper, 18.3; and pig iron, 17.6.

Britain Moves To Save Ruins of Hadrian's Wall

WASHINGTON — Remains of a massive stone wall built by Roman soldiers 1,800 years ago still stretch like a belt across the north of England.

To preserve Hadrian's Wall, as it is best known, a movement is under way in England to put the historic barrier under stewardship of the British Government. Storms, sheep, and the ravages of builders already reduced much of the structure to ruins.

Wending across the moorlands of Northumberland and Cumberland, Hadrian's Wall extends 73.7 miles from Bowness on Solway Firth to Wallsend on the Tyne River.

Far-Away Frogs

CASABLANCA — A local frog raiser just can't keep his products at home. More than 7,000 frogs, valued at more than $800 disappeared recently, less than a year after 5,000 frogs disappeared from the same pond.
