

Mathematics Contest Scheduled
 U. of I. Moscow. Invitations have been mailed to all Idaho high schools to participate in the 1958 national mathematics contest for the secondary schools of the United States and Canada, it has been announced by Dr. K. A. Bush, head of the mathematics department of the University of Idaho, and coordinator of Idaho's part in the event.

The contest will consist of an 80-minute multiple choice examination limited to material from elementary algebra, plane geometry and intermediate algebra.

The contest is sponsored in the hope of stimulating interest in mathematics among students of our secondary schools," Dr. Bush said. "The goal is to attract more students to the field of mathematics in the colleges and post-graduation years ahead to meet not only the growing needs of our own professions but also the demands of the expanding scientific horizon."

Scientists Have Long Studied Moon's Surface

WASHINGTON—For centuries man has dreamed of setting foot on the moon. Today scientists are talking seriously about sending manned rockets to it in a matter of years.

The moon is the earth's closest neighbor. It orbits around the earth at an average distance of 238,857 miles. This is about 10 times the circumference of the earth, but in astronomical terms the distance is negligible. Some stars lie so far away that it takes hundreds of millions of years for their light to reach the earth.

Galileo and other astronomers carefully studied the surface features of the moon after the invention of the telescope. They believed that dark patches on the moon were oceans and lakes, and gave them such names as the Sea of Serenity and the Ocean of Storms. Astronomers now know that these "seas" and "oceans" are completely dry plains.

The moon has almost no atmosphere to protect it from the rays of the sun during the day or to hold the sun's heat by night. Hence lunar temperatures shoot from about 243 degrees below zero Fahrenheit in darkness to about 212 degrees above during the day.

Flu Recovery Period Important

CHICAGO—The recovery period following an attack of influenza—or any other respiratory ailment—may be the most important days of your life.

Overly-restricted diets during convalescence may lead to other health problems, according to Dr. James R. Wilson, Chicago medical nutritional consultant and former secretary of the Council of Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Association. He has this to say:

"Flu victims may spend up to two weeks in bed with the symptoms of severe colds, respiratory and flu-like infections. During this time, these patients often are on inadequate diets.

"The U. S. Public Health Service, as of the middle of October, reported the cumulative number of respiratory illnesses at 50,700,000. Many of these patients rely on self-medication. They stay for too long on an inadequate diet.

Gal Graduates Would Go To College Again

NEW YORK—Is college education truly worthwhile for women?

According to nearly 6,000 Barnard College alumnae the answer is an overwhelming yes. If they had their lives to lead all over again only twenty-three alumnae, or a minute half of one per cent said they would not attend college.

The answer to this question, and sixty-seven others, were released in one of the most comprehensive surveys ever undertaken by a women's college. Exactly 5,757, or 56 per cent of the 10,200 alumnae who were polled, answered the questionnaire sent by the Barnard Alumnae Association to all the living alumnae, ranging from Barnard's first class of 1893 through the class of 1955.

While the survey covered women ranging in age from twenty to eighty-seven years old, the bulk of the respondents were between twenty-three and fifty-two. In terms of origin, these women are predominantly Easterners, but with a strong national and international representation.

Childbearing Now Safer Than Ever in History

NEW YORK, N.Y.—Childbearing is now safer than ever before, according to the statisticians.

In 1956, when registered births in the United States reached a record high of 4,168,000, less than 1,600 deaths were reported due to complications of pregnancy and childbirth. This is only one maternal death for every 2,700 live-born babies.

The 1956 maternal mortality rate of 3.8 per 10,000 live births represents a reduction of about one-half in the last five years, and of about three-fourths in the last decade.

Despite these excellent gains in making childbearing safe, continuing effort is necessary to further reduce the maternal mortality rate, the statisticians declare. The medical profession is constantly striving to improve the care of women during pregnancy and childbirth.

Route Markers

WASHINGTON—A member of the Planning Commission here has suggested using balloons to mark the path of proposed new highways.

Donald Gingery suggested inflating large yellow balloons and stringing them in tree tops and other conspicuous places. Planners could then inspect the routes from the air, more effectively than "looking at maps."

Freshmen Medical Students Set Top Enrollment In '57

CHICAGO—Of every 100,000 persons in the United States, 4.7 were enrolled as freshmen in American medical schools during 1956-57.

In fact, there were more freshmen medical students that year than ever before: 7,791, compared with 7,686 in 1955-56, according to the 57th annual report on medical education made by the American Medical Association's council on medical education and hospitals.

However, the number of 1957 graduates (6,766) from 78 approved four-year schools was slightly smaller than the 6,845 graduated in 1956.

The 7,791 freshmen part of 28,852 students enrolled in the 76 four-year approved medical schools and four schools of two-year basic medical science in the U. S. 1956-57 was the eighth consecutive year that a new record in total enrollment was established, the report said. In 1956-57 there were 28,639 students enrolled.

In addition to teaching these medical students, the schools also undertook to teach more than 62,000 other undergraduate students in allied medical fields. These were in dentistry, nursing, pharmacy, x-ray, and medical technology, arts and science courses, physical or occupational therapy, and medical records and medical librarianship. The schools also assisted in the education of interns and residents and practicing physicians doing postgraduate study.

The schools spent more than 200 million dollars in 1956-57, the report said.

Life Span Still On The Increase

NEW YORK—America's wage-earners and their families continue to gain in average length of life, according to statisticians of a major life insurance company.

Average length of life among millions of industrial policyholders reached 70.2 years in 1956, a slight gain over the preceding year, the statisticians report.

Among these insured persons, the gain in longevity has amounted to 4 1/2 years since 1946, 10 years since 1936, and 24 years since 1909. In 1870-1894, the average lifetime was only 34 years.

The average length of life of the industrial policyholders has increased more rapidly than that of the general population of the United States. In 1909, for example, the longevity of these policyholders was about six years less than that of the population as a whole.

6,700 Foreign Physicians Study In United States

CHICAGO — More than 6,700 foreign physicians were taking advanced medical training in American hospitals in 1956-57, it was reported.

The study covered only interns and residents who had both a foreign citizenship and permanent residence in a foreign country. It did not include displaced persons resettled in the U. S. or foreign citizens who have immigrated to the U. S. for permanent residence.

There were 6,741 foreign physicians serving internships or residencies in 797 American hospitals. Of these physicians, who came from 88 countries, 4,753 were residents and 1,988 were interns.

The physicians were in 44 states, the District of Columbia, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico. Four states, Idaho, Nevada, New Hampshire, and Wyoming, did not report any. About one fourth (1,673) of all the foreign doctors were in New York state. More than 100 each were in Ohio, Illinois, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Missouri, Maryland, Michigan, Texas, the District of Columbia, Connecticut, and Minnesota.

Colleges Offer Group Insurance Programs

NEW YORK—Group life insurance is provided as a fringe benefit at 38 of 49 colleges and Universities which replied to a questionnaire sent to 50 such institutions by the Columbia University Committee on the Future of the University.

Among 31 benefit programs covered by the survey, group life policies were surpassed only by retirement programs, on 48 campuses; salary during disability, 47; insured medical benefits, 45, and travel expenses to meetings, 45.

Of the 38 colleges and universities providing group life insurance, 19 extend it in reduced amounts to retired employees, too.

Tear Gas Raid

DETROIT—A New York diamond salesman told police here he was robbed of an estimated $500,000 in diamonds by a lone bandit who fired a tear-gas shell at him as he entered the lobby of a downtown building. The salesman chased the bandit to the street but failed to catch him.

Economic Balance Is Forecast For Coming Year 1958

CHICAGO—The year 1958 will be a year of economic balance and stability, with neither a rapid expansion or serious decline, the Committee on Trends and Economic Policies of the United States Savings and Loan League forecast recently.

"The outlook," said the Committee, "is for a fairly stable period of business activity at a high level, with any declines in some businesses being offset by gains in others. The year may not prove to be attractive to businessmen who fear more competitive markets or to workers who prefer a more active labor market, but it should be a year of good but not rapidly rising employment, continuing high incomes and reasonably stable prices bringing definite gains in real incomes to consumers."

"Capital spending appears to have leveled out and may decline slightly. The index of industrial production which is currently standing at 144 of the 1947-49 average seems likely to stay close to this level or decline slightly in the immediate future. Prices in both the wholesale and consumer areas are tending toward stability. The immediate dangers of inflation appear to be over. Thus a year of relatively stable business activity seems to be in prospect."

The Committee noted that total gross national product is at an all-time high, amounting to an estimated annual rate of $439 billion in the third quarter of the year, compared with an annual rate of $413 billion in the comparable quarter a year ago.

Black Ink Was No Post Office Panacea

LOS ANGELES—Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield may have his woes with a department that is knee-deep in red ink—but in 1788 America's Postmaster General found he couldn't please folks even when he had ledgers showing a surplus of cash.

Research by Dr. Robert A. Rutland, assistant professor of journalism at the University of California, Los Angeles, into post office records at the time the Constitution was ratified reveals that Postmaster General Ebenezer Hazard was a harried official.

His department had a surplus of $1,839 in 1787, and $929 in the first quarter of 1788. Despite this, he couldn't please Congressmen, or the public.

The post office debate at that time wasn't over red or black ink, but over the use of stagecoaches or post riders for conveying the mail. Hazard favored riders, claiming that he was saving thousands of dollars by using them instead of the lumbering stagecoaches.

Turkey Builds King-Size Span Across Bosphorus

WASHINGTON—One of the longest suspension bridges in the world is being built across the Bosphorus at Istanbul, Turkey.

Linking Europe to Asia, the 4,396-foot span rises as a new symbol of Turkey's unique place in world affairs. The ancient land of Asia Minor is western in spirit though its people are Moslems; it is the only country holding membership in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Baghdad and Balkan pacts.

This keystone nation is slightly larger than Texas and just as dry in places. The population numbers some 24,000,000, of whom the pastoral Kurds are the largest minority.

Of next-door neighbors, Turkey has many. Her territory in European Thrace borders upon Greece and Bulgaria. Easterly borders are shared with the Soviet Union and Iran. On the south Turkey has a short common frontier with Iraq and a long frontier with Syria.

Insecurity: Ancients Also Had Their Troubles

LOS ANGELES—Do electronic brains, suspended government contracts, and the threat of automation give you a sense of economic insecurity?

Dr. Arthur Patch McKinlay, professor of Latin, emeritus, at the University of California, notes that Antiphanes, an Athenian playwright of the 4th century, B. C., advised his hearers (in one of his 300 dramas) as follows:

"Anyone who counts on a secure livelihood is very much mistaken. A war tax snatches all that he says—or he loses everything in a law suit."

Helping Uncle Sam

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., — Students in a seventh grade social-science class here recently opened a public subscription for funds to "get a man-made moon into space before too long."

The youngsters asked for donations of 10 cents, planned to send 2 1/2 money collected to the United States Treasury.

JUST THINKING!

The old bench has gone from the sidewalk.
The shade trees aren't there anymore.
The pole we used to tie to,
Has gone from in front of the store.
I used to walk 'neath those shade trees
And knew most everyone on the street
And now I can walk the town over
And not know a soul that I meet.
That old bench to them was important
For that's where the old boys would meet
As many as could sit upon it
The rest sort of sat on their feet.
They talked of the crops and the weather,
Sometimes back through their lives
they would trace;
One by one they kept disappearing,

One by one others kept taking their place.
I am sure that if I go to heaven,
The very first fellows I'll meet
Will be those old boys from Juliaetta
Sitting on the shady side of the street.
Oh, well, I guess we must advance in the future
For most old things cannot last,
I am ever thankful for the present
Still there is an ache in my heart for the past.
— Mrs. William Schetzle.

In memory of the old men of Juliaetta, who sat on the bench and whittled and talked — my husband was one of them. — Mrs. W. S.

Nine Better Driving Rules

Stay alert to extra dangers. Don't allow preoccupation with your passengers or radio to divert your attention.

Slow down in bad weather and adjust your driving to the conditions prevailing on the road.
If you drive, don't drink — if you drink, don't drive!
Remember darkness doubles danger. Slow down at sundown.
Dim your lights on the highway even though an oncoming driver fails to dim his. Maintain control of your car by looking at the right shoulder of the highway.
Yield the right-of-way to pedestrians in crosswalks. Do not pass a car that has stopped to permit a pedestrian to cross.
Come to a complete stop at "Stop Signs" and observe stop-and-go signals.
Follow other vehicles at a safe distance. Allow at least one car length for every ten miles of speed.

HELLO, FOLKS:

Still wearing your winter tires? If so, how about coming in and letting us discuss trading with you for a set of new ones suitable for spring and summer driving? You will be agreeably surprised at how cheaply you can own them.

Doctor: "Now see here, Sam. You'll just have to cut down on your intake of alcohol or else you won't have a red corpuscle left. You know what a red corpuscle is don't you?"
Sam: "I think it's a Russian non-commissioned ossifer."

These chilly night remind us that we still must heat our homes. Have your checked your fuel oil tank lately? If not, better do it, and then call us at 1251 for a refill of that clean-burning hot heat

Union Burner Fuels.

Truck Driver: "Why don't you look where you're driving?"
Young Man: "Why don't you drive where you're lookin'?"
Truck Driver: "You want me to run over that blonde?"

Have you tried for a free tank of Union Gasoline? If not, why not. There is no drawing. Just drive in, say "Fill 'er up," and if you can guess within 1c of the cost of filling your tank, the gas is "on the house."

A woman driver charged with speeding and driving through a red light at an intersection, explained to the judge:
"I always hurry through intersections to get out of the way of reckless drivers."
