SWIM POOL OPENS SUNDAY

The Area Living War Memorial Swim Pool at Kendrick opened for the season on Sunday, with Elmer Stitzlein serving as life guard and E. M. (Bill) White as "office girl." The day was a bit chilly, but several season tickets as well as single admissions were sold.

The regular season's run began on Tuesday, but due to the chilliness of the water (and weather) not too many are expected until hot weather returns in earnest.

The pool itself is ready for the season's run. The filter house has been repaired and partially rebuilt. The dressing rooms are cleaned and ready — all that is lacking are the "customers."

Hot Lunch Year's Report

The Hot Lunch program served a record number of meals, 49,725 this past year. That is a lot of food, but the really amazing aspect of it, is that those meals were served for a total expense of $16,117.36, or a little over 32c per meal.

How can the Hot Lunch program serve the high quality meals it has (and those who have had a sample can vouch for the high quality) for 25c and stay in business?

The federal government, through the state, pays the program 4c per meal with milk served to the students. They do not allow 4c for teachers' meals, so the teachers pay 30c per meal.

The P.-T. A. Canning committee is one of the big reasons that our exceptionally able cooks can produce these appetizing, wholesome, attractive and, most important, student-appreciated meals. Without the canning program we would by necessity have to curtail some of the dishes and "quality and quantity" that the students "go for." Where you open a quart or can of fruit or vegetables for a meal, we open cases! Where you cater to the likes and dislikes of the four, five or six in your family — our cooks attempt to cater to the likes and dislikes of over 300. We could possibly operate the program without the canning projects, but can't you just imagine the walls of discontent if day after day your kids were served bread and butter, milk and beans?

The students thank you, the people who make the P.-T. A. canning program such a success, and look forward to your surprises for the coming year.

Summer Canning Program

A newly formed Canning Committee to help supplement School Lunches, met in the Kendrick school kitchen on Monday evening, June 2.

It is the hope of the group that enough surplus foods can be canned and frozen to supplement the lunch program and provide variety in diet. Items that could be processed to great advantage are: Strawberries, raspberries, blackcaps, rhubarb, corn, cucumbers, beets, apples, crab apples, prunes, etc.

Anyone having a surplus of these commodities who would like to donate them to the school lunch program for processing are asked to call any one of these chairmen:

Mrs. Bill Howell or Mrs. Jack Browning, Juliaetta; Mrs. Lawrence Heimgartner, American ridge; Mrs. Sanford Weaver, Cedar ridge; Mrs. Ervin Draper or Mrs. Herman Meyer, Leland-Cameron; Mrs. Fay Fey, Big Bear and Texas ridges; Mrs. Robert Magnuson or Mrs. E. M. White, Kendrick.

FISHING SEASON WINS!

Yes, folks, believe it or not, several schedules in Kendrick have been or are being disrupted by the opening of the fishing season on June 4.

Here are two examples:
The Board of Village Trustees met for their regular business session on Monday evening, rather than Wednesday!

The Kendrick Community Lions Club cancelled their regular meeting scheduled for Wednesday evening — and will "make do" with a dinner meeting on Wednesday evening, June 18 — which will be "Ladies Night" and installation of officers. A program is also planned.

There's no doubt about it — the piscatorial fans are in the ascendancy, and by golly, we don't blame them!

AND TUESDAY IT RAINED

Following a week-end of weather varying from cloudy but warm, to bright sunshine, things took a turn on the "damp side" Tuesday.

Shortly after noon dark clouds piled high in the west let go with a couple of brief but hard rain storms. They were not of cloudburst proportions, but the rain did come down!

Farmers would welcome a two to three-day soaker, now that bean planting and most rushing field work has been completed.

The fishermen, of course, would like to see the rain hold off for a day or two — after the season opens on June 4.

BOYS KILL RATTLER

HELLS CANYON BILL BURIED

Wash., D. C. June 2 — Hell's Canyon Dam legislation, subject of one of the nation's greatest private-vs-public power fights, was buried today in a sub-committee. It appears to be dead, at least for this session of congress.

The House Interior Reclamation Sub-committee turned down a bill to authorize a single multi-million dollar high federal dam in the Snake river between Idaho and Oregon.

Republicans said that with the help of two southern Democrats they had killed the bill, already passed by the Senate.

TOWN ALMOST DESERTED

Kendrick, in so far as the business "bosses" were concerned, was all but deserted Wednesday morning, June 4, as the annual fishing season "broke wide open."

There were parties of farmers and business men, just business men, and business men shepherding groups of youngsters including Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts — all heading for their favorite piscatorial spot.

We regret that the paper will be issued before catch reports become available — for they might be a lot of fun, especially hearing "about the big one that got away!"

HAS YOUR CHILD RECEIVED ITS POLIO VACCINATIONS?

Boise — A solemn warning went out to the nation today that some eight million children under five years of age have failed to obtain any polio vaccine protection whatsoever.

The warning was sounded by Dr. Thomas M. Rivers, medical director of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, who pointed out that during last year the highest attack rate for paralytic polio was among children one year old.

The estimate of eight million children under five without any polio shots means that about 40 percent of American pre-school youngsters are as vulnerable to paralytic polio as they were before the Salk vaccine became available, Dr. Rivers said.

Dr. Terrill O. Carver, Idaho administrator of health joined with Dr. Rivers in declaring this "an appalling situation. It should not be tolerated by thoughtful parents. I can not urge them too strongly to take steps to correct it before the summer high incidence polio season is upon us," Dr. Carver said.

According to Dr. Rivers, as of May 1, there remained at least 46 million persons under 40 still without any vaccine whatsoever.

The latest compiled figures of the Idaho State Health department show an alarming percentage of Idaho's population under 40 without even one shot, while others have had only one or two of the three injections necessary for maximum protection against paralytic polio.

"With the means at hand to spare them, it is plainly tragic for these individuals to be unprotected against crippling polio," Dr. Carver said.

We must look at the space age through eyes like these

One day they'll come to focus on a career—in science...law...philosophy...medicine...engineering...the arts.

To prepare our youth in these challenging times, help is needed as never before say educators. Many companies are responding with financial and other aid.

Standard long ago recognized its obligation as a good citizen to help support our education system and for 20 years has encouraged and assisted young minds to explore the wide field of learning.

We have helped hundreds of students attend college, 241 this year alone. Included in our program are scholarships, graduate fellowships in engineering, science and business plus financial aid to university departments concerned... broad projects in basic research... outright money gifts to schools.

Besides these, a program of "learn by doing" kits, motion pictures, film strips, booklets have been used and acclaimed by teachers. To millions of children, the Standard School Broadcast has long meant an opportunity to hear and enjoy good music. All of these projects are continuing.

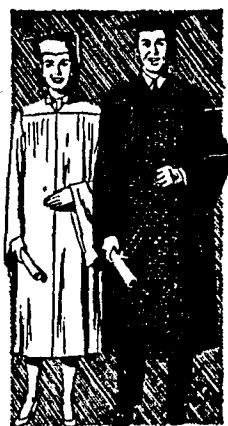

Worthwhile? We think so, because one of the most productive investments is in human beings—those who in time to come will take over responsibilities in industry and in our nation.

Insured Pension Plan Benefitting Older Employees

NEW YORK — Life insurance companies writing pension plans report that material progress has been made in recent years in bringing insured pension programs into a position of protecting the job opportunities of older workers, says the Institute of Life Insurance.

The most effective pension plan, according to pension experts in the business, is one which provides, among other features, a continuation of the pension rights, even though the worker leaves the employ of the firm, and one which does not involve unduly larger annual premiums for the older worker. This feature, known as vesting, prevents the older worker from being tied to his job because of his pension credits and enables him to be re-employed without the employer assuming extra pension obligations.

As a recent United States Department of Labor survey report indicated, there is actually no warrant for an employer citing the existence of a pension plan as a barrier to the employment of an older applicant. It was pointed out in that report, however, that many employers used it as an "excuse."

Claim Sound Can Destroy Cancer

ANN ARBOR—Ultrasonic sound can be used to destroy cancer, chart the structure of living cells, and play a part in the treatment of mental disorders, a scientific meeting at The University of Michigan was told.

Dr. William J. Fry of the University of Illinois' Biocoustics laboratory told the 54th meeting of the Acoustical Society of America that Russian scientists claim they can selectively destroy cancer tissue with beams of high frequency sound.

Tumors so treated could not be transplanted to an experimental animal, Dr. Fry said. "This implies that a type of immunity to cancer has been produced. They also report that the highly malignant tumor melanoblastoma has been treated in humans with encouraging results."

Dr. Fry also described an "ultrasonic microscope" which has been developed at his university. It directs beams of sound through tissue samples while probes on the other side measure the amount that gets through.

Radiation Hazards Not Overwhelming Problem

MINNEAPOLIS—Radiation hazards likely to develop from nuclear weapons testing are too slight to be worth considering in life insurance calculations of the American public's health and longevity. They are insignificant compared to the commonplace hazards of our daily living, says the medical department of a national life insurance company.

But within the next fifteen or twenty years, say the insurance doctors, safe disposal of radioactive wastes resulting from peaceful development of atomic power can be a substantial problem. American casualty companies are already writing public liability insurance for nuclear reactors.

U. S. bomb tests, however, are yielding information of value in the solution of the radioactive waste disposal problem. Safety provisions for commercial atomic power plants are rigidly laid down by the Atomic Energy Commission, and make accident hazards, extremely small. We can confidently expect that we will deal with the vast new problems of the dawning atomic age as well as and perhaps better than we have dealt with those of the automobile age and the air age, predicts the insurance company's report.

Co-education Firmly Entrenched in College

ANN ARBOR—Seems more than likely that if Betty Co-ed wasn't in attendance in today's college classes, Joe College would rise up and demand her return.

"That's how firmly co-education is entrenched in our colleges today," says Algo Henderson, professor of higher education at The University of Michigan.

"I think the significance of separate education of the two sexes has largely disappeared because the automobile has caused men to be present on every women's campus," Professor Henderson says. "This mobility means that in their social life they do have co-education so the separateness is confined to classroom learning."

Baby Snooper

NEW YORK—Parents will be interested in a new attachment for their radios which will enable them to tune in on nursery noises and determine what goes on. It's a low-power radio transmitter that plugs into any outlet, broadcasts on a frequency that doesn't interfere with normal radio operation.

War-Baby, Plastic Is Industrial Giant of Times

CHICAGO—Plastic, the war baby of 15 years ago, is an industrial giant today—and it's still growing.

No other field of chemistry can claim more flux, development, or progress, according to Erik Nielsen, scientific advisor at Armour Research Foundation of Illinois Institute of Technology.

But ramifications of the plastics wonderworld go far beyond the field of chemistry—into building, steel, glass, ceramic, rubber, textile, lumber, and many other industries.

With the amazing development that has transpired since World War II, Nielsen added, it is likely that the future will bring wonders in plastic not even considered today.

Among the wide variety of present and possible uses are:

Plastic sheets under concrete foundations to protect them from moisture penetration.

Plastic piping for water and gas lines.

Plastic tiles for floors and walls. Plastic paints, plastic insulation, and plastic foams for mattresses and furniture.

Plastic furniture, cabinets, and bathroom fixtures.

Plastic reinforced glass for natural and artificial lighting.

Plastic prefabricated houses.

Up until World War II, Nielsen pointed out, plastics were known only by such names as celluloid, bakelite, nylon, and neoprene. Many people considered the field has realized complete development.

Much credit for expanded work in the field goes to the Germans, he said, who were looking for substitutes for materials whose supply lines had been cut off.

Russia Has More Women Engineers

CHICAGO—What does Russia have that we don't have? Women engineers, for one thing.

"Over a quarter of Russia's technological personnel are women," said Dr. Frank D. Carvin, director of the mechanical engineering department at Illinois Institute of Technology. "Our percentage of women engineers is infinitesimal in comparison."

"There is no reason why women scientists, technicians and engineers in the United States cannot step in to help fill the gap caused by our long-range shortage of engineers."

Assistant professor Lois Graham teaches both men and women in mechanical engineering—a field where thermodynamics and heat power meet fluid mechanics and metallurgy.

"The very fact that women engineers are being offered the same high salaries as men engineers shows that we finally are coming into our own in what for years has been considered a man's field," Miss Graham said.

Jays of Owing Pets Outweighs Any Danger

CHICAGO—The joy that children receive from pets, particularly dogs and cats, far outweighs the danger incurred from bites and disease that the animals may inflict on them.

This was revealed in an article by Dr. Hugh A. Carithers, of Jacksonville, Fla., appearing in the Journal of Diseases of Children.

The report noted no serious or lasting effects to 157 children who had been bitten by one of 10 species of animals during a 20-month study.

The majority of the children bitten were between the ages of 2 and 10 years. "This is during the time when parental protection wanes and the adventuresome spirit takes over," said Dr. Carithers. He added, "After the 10th year a child has attained considerable discretion in handling animals."

Busy Northerners Have High Dandruff Rate

NEW YORK—Your chances of being bothered by dandruff are greater if you live in a large Northern city and have a responsible job in a tension-producing business, according to the first nationwide survey of its kind ever made. Farmers, on the other hand, have the least dandruff problem, especially if they live in a temperate climate.

A sampling of barber shops, beauty salons, and drug stores was polled in 50 major, medium and smaller cities.

Land Limited

NEW YORK—Only 7 per cent of the land area, or 2 per cent of the total surface of our planet, is fully suited to agricultural production, notes a report of the Twentieth Century Fund. When the earth doesn't meet their requirements, tiller of the soil must either compromise with the existing environment or try to change it.

Science Makes Own Snow to Study Its Mysteries

WASHINGTON—Scientists have created miniature snow storms in their laboratories to unravel the mysteries of one of nature's greatest beauties.

No one has ever found two crystals of snow exactly alike, although thousands have been photographed. The six-sided crystals, as delicate as the finest lace, are copied by designers seeking exquisite patterns for dresses, china, and other objects.

A quarter of a century ago, Dr. Ukichiro Nakaya and his colleagues at Hokkaido University, Japan, began an intensive study of snow, the National Geographic Society says. By 1946 they had succeeded in duplicating in a cold chamber all the natural types of snow crystals.

After more years of research, Dr. Nakaya has reported that the variety in snow crystals is caused by differences in the temperature and the degree of humidity in the atmosphere. The discovery makes it possible for scientists to estimate upper-air conditions during a snowfall by examining the shape of snow crystals on the ground.

Snow forms through the condensation of water vapor on tiny particles of matter, such as dust, in the atmosphere. Each particle is only about five hundred-thousandths of an inch in diameter—so small that it can be studied only with an electron microscope.

In colder areas, crystals fall as individual units, but in warmer regions, crystals stick together while making their earthward journey. Such a group is called a snowflake, and, in extreme cases, it may grow to be four inches in diameter.

Ocean Floor Holds Many Secrets

WASHINGTON — Scientists hope to pry open Davy Jones' locker to read the private diary of the earth.

Powdered rock, silt, plants, shells, bones, and meteorites have been dropping into the ocean abysses for billions of years. Layer after layer of sedimentary rock has formed, providing an eons-old chronicle of earthly happenings. In places this record may go back to the time when oceans were first formed.

A new branch of science has developed in recent years to study the history carved in stone at the bottom of the sea, the National Geographic Society says. Known as marine geology, it is so new that until 1948 there was no English-textbook in the field.

A major breakthrough occurred when a Swedish scientist, Dr. B. Kullenberg, invented the piston corer—a device for removing a long column of ocean sediment. So far, scientists have barely scratched the ocean floor with this promising technique, but they hope drilling will eventually help to answer such questions as "When did life begin?" and "How old is the earth?"

Hospitalized Child Study Is Reported

CHICAGO — The personal handling of a hospitalized child by doctors and nurses is just as important to his parents as his medical care and treatment, according to researchers.

In a report on the reactions of 100 parents whose children were hospitalized, San Francisco researchers said that hospitalization is as hard on the parents as on the child and that modifications in hospital routine and adequate explanations by the physician can do much to ease the parent's anxiety and their children's.

Of the 100 parents interviewed on the child's admission, all expressed anxiety regarding separation from their child. In 57 their anxiety was "overwhelming" and the parents "had such difficulty coping with their own fears and anxieties that they were unable to give support to their child," the authors said.

However, 44 of 68 parents interviewed on their children's discharge felt better about the hospitalization because of the "friendly personal handling" of their child by the hospital staff.

Tree Farm System Has Grown Rapidly

CHICAGO — More than fifteen years ago the forest industries recognized the tree-growing potential of small woodlots and began doing something about developing them through the American Tree Farm System. Since that time the Tree Farm program has had solid support from the forest industries. Under sponsorship of the American Forest Products Industries it has spread to 45 states. More than 43 million acres of privately owned woodlands have been certified as Tree Farms.

KILLING THOSE PESKY ANTS

The job of killing ants is much easier, says Homer Futter, county agent, if you can locate the nest. Unless you wipe out the entire colony, a partial attack on the insects may only cause them to change their lanes of travel and leave you to carry on a long campaign of guerrilla warfare. Finding an ant nest in a building is not always easy, because it may be behind a wall or under the foundation. In such cases, the next best thing is to find the crack through which the ants pour. Treat this area thoroughly with a long-lasting insecticide.

Insect specialists recommend chlordane. A number of others may be used such as dieldrin and lindane. They may be applied in sprays, dusts or granules. In using these materials, be sure to follow directions of the manufacturer. Ready-mixed, or oil-base sprays are usually most desirable for use indoors because they dry to an almost invisible coating and are less likely to cause spotting or staining. They are inflammable and should not be used near an open flame. They will damage asphalt tile and linoleum.

Water-base sprays are usually better for use outdoors because oil-base sprays injure plants. For ground nests, chlordane can be applied as a drench. To prevent ants from coming into the house, use an oil-base spray on the outside walls from the ground up to the windows, paying particular attention to joints where house joins foundation or basement walls.

SHOULD HAVE IDAHO TREE

Wash., D. C. — "Idaho should have a state tree on the Capitol grounds," Sen. Henry Dworshak said this week. He asked interested Idaho groups to contact Roger Guernsey, state forester at Boise, for information on how to sponsor planting an Idaho tree.

Dworshak said the architect of the capitol had assured him that Idaho is eligible to have a state tree on the grounds of the capitol. "Our state, which depends on lumbering and recreation for much of its income, should be represented by a tree . . . as a symbol of our state's beauty and its forest resources," Dworshak added.

The Senator said Guernsey suggested a white pine as Idaho's official state tree, would be appropriate to represent the state.
