Dear Bill: We were certainly sorry that you were not among the group who came down to watch the tournament last month. We had such a wonderful visit with so many of our friends from "back home."

We most appreciate the beautiful potted plant which came from "The Folks at Kendrick." The few things that we were able to do for the team, the coach and our friends were done in gratitude for the many things they have done for us in the past.

Your entire student body and the people from home were certainly a credit to Kendrick.

Effective around June 1st of this year we have been transferred to Seattle, Wash., which is the home office of the insurance company by whom we are employed. It is our hope that as soon as we are settled there that our friends will stop and see us.

FRIENDSHIP HANKY BASKET SCHEDULED

Sweden, Denmark, West Germany, England and Scotland are scheduled for visits by the 1959 Homemakers Tour that is being sponsored by the Cooperative League of the U. S. A. for June 25 to July. Women's interests have been considered in planning trips to pottery, furniture and handicraft co-ops, test kitchens and to interesting places to shop and to eat. There will be opportunities to meet women in the countries visited and to have meals in their homes on this budget-priced trip. Travel will be by Scandinavian Airlines.

The woman-to-woman theme of the tour will be aided by the Friendship Hanky Basket that will go along with the tour.

Anyone may send a hanky with her name and address attached, to fly overseas as an expression of goodwill from America. These hankies will be distributed to women who will be met by the tour members in the several countries visited.

The 1957 Friendship Hanky Basket that was sent overseas was most successful in creating friendliness toward the United States and in starting pen pal exchanges of letters, hankies, photos and recipes.

Mrs. Helen King will lead the the Homemakers Tour. She visited the same countries during the 1957 tour and has many friends among the women of these countries.

"Being able to buy excellent steel cooking knives in Sweden, is almost worth the whole tour," remarks Mrs. King. Foreign food recipes will be given to all of the tour members as well as an illustrated folder containing a day-to-day trip account.

Assistance will be given the tour members in taking good pictures, as Mrs. King is an ardent shutter-bug and a member of a camera club. Her color slides of the previous trip are still in demand at club meetings.

The all-expense tour will leave New York on June 25, and return July 18, for only $948. Special inexpensive rates have been obtained for round trip fares by air from the west to New York, also. Any woman who would enjoy the homemaker interests featured in the tour is invited to join the group.

For a booklet leaflet containing more information about the events planned for each country to be visited and details of the tour plan, write Mrs. Helen King, Homemaker Dept., P. O. Box 1004, Walla Walla, Wash.

SOME POINT

A retired Wisconsin farmer, on a tour of the country, stopped in Las Vegas and decided he would just once try his luck at the dice table. His opponent, a shrewd-looking, picked up the dice. As he rolled, out popped a third cube from inside his sleeve. Unruffled, the farmer picked up the dice, pocketed one and handed back the other two. His only words were: "Okay, roll. Your point is 18."

DEFENSE ALERT

Boise — Idaho's civil defense machinery goes into full operation on April 17, when the Gem State joins the nation in "Operation Alert," an exercise designed to test the country's readiness for an emergency.

In announcing Idaho's participation in the alert, Lt. Col. James S. Keel, state civil defense and disaster relief director, said the exercise will be similar to one held last year in which three mock bombs were dropped on the state. At that time, state and local civil defense personnel went into action to cope with problems arising from the simulated attack.

Keel said that again this year the problems will be delivered in sealed envelopes to the sheriffs of each county by Idaho National Guardsmen the morning of the alert. These envelopes will be opened when the first warning is received over the nation's civil defense communications hook-up from Colorado Springs, Colo.

"These problems will be written up to realistically portray things which would happen in each of the state's 44 counties in the event of an attack," the director said. "Through the state civil defense communications network, these problems will be coordinated by the state staff."

Keel said Idaho could expect anywhere from one to a half dozen thermonuclear bombs being dropped at strategic spots throughout the state. However, he added, at this time the number of bombs, their size and where they will hit is a secret.

He urged the fullest participation in the operation to make it more realistic.

By Don Burrowbridge, Director Thor Research Center for Better Farm Living

"Can you give me a list of rules to follow for the best care of mower cutter bars?" writes a farm reader.

We might point out, to begin, that you can expect troublesome side draft, increased loads, and generally poor work output when the mower knives become dull and ledger plates worn. These things will indicate when it's time to get to work on the cutter bars.

FarmTool is helpful instrument in mower maintenance.

Keep rivets well tightened and replace ledger plates when serrations have worn smooth. If knife sections are broken or so badly worn that they cannot be ground to the proper angle, replace them.

You'll find that a portable electric grinder or an electric FarmTool with grinding attachment does a really good job in grinding worn knife sections. The trick is to grind these knife sections to the same cutting angle as on the new sections. Guards that have been dented by rocks should be ground smooth to the original point. If the point is broken off, replace the guard.

The guards should be properly set and aligned. Each must be tight on the bar and adjusted to make each ledger plate provide shearing contact with the corresponding knife section.

The versatile FarmTool, an electric impact wrench that is 10 tools in one, also is just the tool to tighten the bolts that connect the pitman to the steel plate.

By Don Burrowbridge, Director Thor Research Center for Better Farm Living

A board foot supposedly is a board that measures 1 inch thick, 12 inches wide and 12 inches long. But as that old song goes, "It ain't necessarily so."

For example, 2 by 4s don't measure that at all but are 1 3/4 by 3 3/4 inches; 1 inch boards are 3/4 inch thick.

The explanation is simple: Cut originally to the exact dimensions, most lumber is dressed before it leaves the saw mill. Planed smooth, it is marked "S4S," meaning "surfaced four sides." That's why the 2 by 4 you buy is 3/8 of an inch less than those dimensions.

FINISHED LUMBER SIZES (in inches)

Nominal	Actual
1x2	25/32 x 1 5/8
1x4	25/32 x 3 5/8
1x6	25/32 x 5 5/8
1x10	25/32 x 9 1/2
1x12	25/32 x 11 1/2
2x4	1 5/8 x 3 5/8
2x6	1 5/8 x 5 5/8
2x10	1 5/8 x 9 1/2
2x12	1 5/8 x 11 1/2
3x6	2 5/8 x 5 5/8
4x4	3 5/8 x 3 5/8
4x6	3 5/8 x 5 5/8

Use right lumber size for accurate building, repairing.

This problem of size looms big when you want to use new lumber in an integral part of an old house. Dry lumber that doesn't shrink or swell is especially important in such remodeling work. Uneven walls and ceilings marred with cracks and bulges could result otherwise.

You can expect the least shrinkage in cedar and redwood. Moderate shrinkage is found in cypress, Douglas fir, cherry, chestnut, hemlock, pine, spruce and walnut.

The biggest shrinkers in drying are basswood, beech, elm, gum, birch, larch, oak and maple.

Many a wise how-to enthusiast has saved a lot of money by buying a poorer grade of lumber and dressing it himself.

A portable electric handsaw helps him cut it to size and with an electric sander he puts on a satiny smooth finish. Upgraded in this way, the lumber is ready to become a proud part of bookcases, room dividers, record cabinets, flower boxes, picnic tables, and other home or farm projects.

ceived a first and preview of science and engineering from the campus specialists in their respective areas of learning.

The JESSI program, rather than being a stick-of-candy treatment to entice superior students to choose scientific and engineering careers, is a serious effort to have the students understand what these areas are about, what the various branches include, what is included in the college program of studies, with emphasis on the study demands, and what they should master in high school (including good study habits and procedures) if they expect to be prepared to pursue the college program of their choice. The campus setting makes for maximum expression and receptivity. A minimum of five hours per day in subject matter, topped off by evening career discussions by representatives of various industries, provide the JESSI students with meaningful information which not only gives significance to high school math and science, but also gives them a basis on which they can make college and career decisions with confidence.

Scientists of Tomorrow, a Portland, Oregon, non-profit organization, is in its fourth year in spearheading the JESSI program on a nation-wide scale as a major answer to a basic guidance need of our superior high school youth in making college program and career decisions. So that qualified students from the lower economic brackets are enabled to attend, industries operating within the areas of the sessions are asked to contribute to the JESSI Student Assistance Fund. Ability-to-pay must be eliminated as an admission determinant if JESSI is to render maximum service.

JESSI announcements and application forms have been mailed to the head science of Kendrick high school. Additional information may be had by writing to Scientists of Tomorrow, 114 Sylvan Building, Portland 1, Oregon

PHILOSOPHY

Rubbing elbows with a man will reveal things about him you never suspected. The same is true of rubbing fenders.

TREES, WILDLIFE

The Tree Farm program of growing trees as a crop holds the key to material increases in wildlife resources as well as to the nation's wood supply, according to Arthur H. Carhart of Denver, well-known outdoor writer and conservationist, author of a new booklet, "Trees and Game - Twin Crops."

"Trees and wildlife live together on nearly half a billion acres of commercial timberlands in the United States," Carhart said in the new publication. "A great many of our animals and birds require forest environments for food and shelter. The value of natural resources lies in making use of such wealth. Therefore, wise management of timber and of game is directed at the production and harvest of each as a crop -- indeed, they are twin crops."

Carhart said well-planned management of timberland means two things of prime interest to sportsmen. First, in most instances, it assures high levels of production of both wood and wildlife. Second, it is the best prospect of sustained yields in both resources.

Carhart emphasized the importance of keeping wildlife populations in balance with the ability of timberlands to feed them. He cited several instances of major deer die-offs brought on by overpopulated herds. "There's a potential in the Tree Farm movement, and all forest management like it, to materially increase not only timber supplies, but game resources as well," said the noted writer.

Do you bring home everything you've paid for?

It's a good question.

Which you can answer "yes" — if you always buy from the business people right here at home — where you live.

Wherever you buy, part of your money goes to build and keep up the community in which you spend. To support churches, schools, civic projects, to pay the people who work in that community, and to provide better business and job opportunities for those who live here.

When you buy in YOUR OWN TOWN, you get about the same merchandise you'd get anywhere else — PLUS the enjoyment of these other things that your money helps to pay for.

When you buy anywhere else, you get merchandise ONLY. And your home community is a little poorer because you carried off part of its resources. And the many things other than goods that your money buys are left for somebody else to enjoy, while they wait for you to return and hand them some more.

As just one simple, sample — there are no parking meters in Kendrick. You park and shop at your leisure.

BETTER DIESEL PERFORMANCE

When you use RPM DELO Lubricating Oils, your diesel engines spend more time working, less time in the shop. It stays on parts whether engine is hot or cold, running or idle. Special compounds prevent deposits that clog and stick rings.

To extend the useful service life of your diesel engines and reduce down time, use RPM DELO Lubricating Oils.

THE Bull itin

Published Weekly by the Union Oil Service at Kendrick
W. L. "Bill" Rogers, Editor

HELLO, FOLKS:

Mr. Farmer: Are you ready for that field work? Are your supplies of gasoline, diesel fuel, oils and lubricants "stock piled and waiting?" If not, pick up your phone and call us at 4251, and we'll be there in a flash with those famous Union Oil Co. products!

Distraught Wife: "Dear, our new maid has burned the bacon and eggs. Would you be satisfied with a couple of kisses for breakfast?" Hubby: "Sure! Bring her in, and get the heck out of here."

Why drive a car that's covered with winter's mud, that squeaks and squawks? Bring yours in for a wash and wax job, and a complete lubrication with those famous Union Oil Co. products. We will fill the crankcase with Royal Triton — the oil without a peer!

Jones: "Who started the 40-hour week?"

Smith: "Robinson Crusoe. He had all his work done by Friday!"

It's just a bit too cold not to have a fire these days. How is your supply of fuel oil? Better check that tank and call us at 4251.

A man bought a parrot for $10 at an auction sale. When the sale was over he asked the auctioneer: "Does this bird talk intelligently?" "You should know," replied the auctioneer. "He's the only one that was bidding against you."

There are no better products than Union. Try them.
