HONOR DAY AT U

U. of I., Moscow — It will be honor Day for high school seniors of the state at the University of Idaho on Saturday, May 2. Invitations are being extended by the Associated Students to all high school seniors in the upper 10 percent of their graduating classes to come to the university and be recognized.

"When you get in college you acquire an increased appreciation of academic endeavor," said Dick Kerbs, Rupert, president of the Associated Students. "As a result, we students at the university thought we would like to honor the top scholars in Idaho's high schools."

The students will be taken on tours of all the university's different colleges. They will hear talks by members of the faculty. These will be followed by question periods. Displays will be set up in all the colleges by student honorary organizations.

Honor Day has been coordinated with Ag. Science Day, and students will be taken on a tour of the many scientific exhibits sponsored by the college of agriculture. A student talent show is planned for the evening.

Students arriving Friday, May 1, will be entertained at a mixer in the evening. On Sunday morning, May 3, the four campus religious centers — Protestant, Latter Day Saints, Catholic and Episcopal — will hold open house. At 10 a. m. the students will hear a final talk by Kerbs and songs by the Vandaleers on the main campus lawn.

Housing in dormitories and fraternity and sorority houses is being arranged by the student organizations representing the living groups.

HOG CHOLERA

U. of I., Moscow — Hog cholera, most dreaded of swine diseases, may make a sweep across the nation this spring unless hog growers take immediate steps to prevent it.

Reports reaching Dr. Lloyd Scrivner, station veterinarian at the University of Idaho, say that in some areas the disease has not had the attention from hog growers that it deserves. Prevention through vaccination has not been thorough, and some owners have entirely neglected this important phase of the industry.

"We have the means of controlling cholera," Dr. Scrivner emphasizes. "There are different ways of doing it, but they all lead to the same thing — prevention of individual losses as well as epidemics. The method the owner uses depends on the condition of his pigs, their age, local circumstances and other factors. The local veterinarian is the best man to decide the type of immunization to be used."

Dr. Scrivner points out that cholera is one of the most rapid of all diseases both in its spread through a community and its effect on swine herds. Estimated losses from the disease during a normal year are about $50,000,000.00.

TREE FARMER TELLS SUCCESS STORY

Norm Berg who owns 320 acres of prime tree growing area 7 miles north east of Troy has just completed an interesting publication on the history of his tree farm. In addition to the record of events connected with this tree farm Norm has a collection of most of the trees and shrubs growing on his place. He has also related the assistance he has received from the Extension Farm Forester, the Woodland Conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service, the Forest Service Ranger and the Forester for the Western Pine Association. These foresters have given Norm advice and help on establishing a management plan and applying it to his various stands of timber. Norm has kept an accurate record on all log sales. During 1958 more than 1/4 of a million board feet of sawlogs were removed in commercial thinning. Fifteen cords of fire wood were cut from tops and a non-commercial thinning. These thinning were taken from an over stocked white pine stand. Through this work Norm hopes to increase the rate of growth of the remaining stand. To illustrate this story Norm has included some excellent color photographs. This publication is an important step for it documents the time, effort and tremendous interest on his part.

WORK EXPANDED

Expansion of home demonstration club work is evident in figures announced this week by Miss Mildred Haberly, state leader, as a prelude to National Home Demonstration Week, May 3 to 9.

There are 690 women's clubs in the organization, she said. Total membership is more than 19,000. Both figures are new highs. During the last two years more than 100 new clubs have been organized and nearly 4,000 women have enrolled. There are county home demonstration agents in 34 counties. These agents, employed by the University of Idaho extension service, assist the women in planning and conducting their programs.

More than 2000 volunteer leaders helped with clothing projects. An equal number gave instruction on food preparation. More than 700 worked in family economics, 800 in home management and 600 in health. About 500 women leaders were involved in farm and home safety campaigns.

AVOID RACKET

Boise — Septic tank owners are advised to rely on local plumbing firms for cleaning or other work on their septic tanks, rather than on fast talking strangers.

T. S. Flood, executive officer of the State Plumbing Board, said that Idaho has no law to adequately protect home owners against the fly-by-night operator doing this type of work.

Their usual procedure is to make an indefinite price offer after a so-called free inspection. The final charge is often fantastic, sometimes as high as $200.00 for a job that should cost about $20.00.

A man owes it to himself to become successful. After that he owes it to the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Medical Findings Often Result Of 'Happy Accident'

CHICAGO — Most "accident-prone" individuals are considered a liability in their work, but there are some "happy accident-prone" people who are pretty important.

They're the researchers, scientists, and doctors who accidentally discover some important thing while looking for something else, according to a special article in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Among the most famous of medicine's "happy accidents" are Fleming's discovery of penicillin when he left a Petri dish uncovered and van Leeuwenhoek's discovery of bacteria when he focused a magnifying glass on a drop of water instead of on a fly's leg. Out of these grew the "penicillin age" and the science of bacteriology.

This ability to make some valuable or pleasant discovery without deliberately looking for it is called serendipity.

The most recent serendipitous event to make headlines was Dr. Winston H. Price's discovery of a common cold vaccine. This researcher at the Johns Hopkins School of Hygiene and Public Health was not looking for a common cold preventive, but was working on isolating influenza viruses.

Some of medicine's happy accidents include:

—The conquest of smallpox after Edward Jenner recalled the boast of a former milkmaid that she was immune because she had had cowpox—which then became the agent for mass immunity against smallpox.

—The development of the stethoscope after a Paris physician, Rene Theophile Laennec, saw children tapping messages to each other along opposite ends of a discarded plank. He recognized in the game the principle of the stethoscope.

30-Ton Killer Roams Coastline

LOS ANGELES—A 30-ton killer, as vicious as a shark but as playful as a porpoise, roams the California coast, making forays into such well-known waters as Santa Monica and Monterey Bays.

This is the killer whale, which has been an object of special study by Dr. Richard Boolootian, zoologist at the University of California, Los Angeles.

Dr. Boolootian has observed these whales killing cormorants, apparently for the sheer pleasure of killing. They seize the birds, kill them, and spit out the bodies.

He has also seen the marine killer come in as close as four or five feet offshore, leaping out of the water, swimming on its back, and engaging in other playful antics much in the manner of a porpoise.

"There is no record of a killer whale killing a human being," Dr. Boolootian says. "People just don't stop to argue with them."

Visual Checkups Aid School Work

CHICAGO — Approximately 450 textbooks have to be studied nowadays during the school years from first to twelfth grade. And from the grades to college more than 90 per cent of school failures can be blamed on poor reading ability. The startling fact is that from 50 to 70 per cent of the slow-reading pupils have normal or even superior intelligence but are handicapped by seeing problems.

When you read a page of print, your eyes make a series of stops. The number of stops depends on the number of words your eyes can grab at each fixation. The slow reader (150 words or less a minute) stops at almost every word and quickly tires. The fast reader takes in several words at each brief pause.

Comics, TV Mix With Good Books

LOS ANGELES — Parents shouldn't hold books up to their children as "something good" while deriding television and comics as a "waste of time."

This attitude, according to Mrs. Doris Ryder Watts, visiting lecturer in children's literature at the University of California, Los Angeles, creates the impression in a youngster's mind that books, like castor oil, are good for you—but are most unpleasant.

This leads to erroneous conclusion that if suspense, excitement, and thrills are wanted, one must turn to the comics, TV, or movies.

Mrs. Watts believes there is no reason why young people shouldn't think of a book as a synonym for adventure.

Farm Acres Increase

NEW YORK—The typical American farm in 1940 contained 174 acres; by 1950 the average size had grown to 215 acres and that may go to 220 acres by 1960, according to a recent study.

SOMETHING TO CHEW ON

William Wrigley, the man behind the gum, has given the faint-hearted advertiser something to chew on besides Spearmint and Juicy Fruit.

Wrigley boarded a Chicago-bound train with a friend who, during the conversation, queried:

"As long as your gum is so well known the world over, why don't you save the millions of dollars you spend on advertising?"

Wrigley promptly shot back: "How fast is this train going?" His companion answered, "About sixty miles an hour."

"Then," parried the chewing gum magnate, "why doesn't the railroad deatch the engine and let the train travel on its momentum?"

The graveyard of marketing is filled with names that were once household words. People forget!

4-H CONGRESS

U. of I. Moscow — Leadership and personal development will hold the limelight at the annual Idaho 4-H Club Congress on the University of Idaho campus this year, according to state leaders now busy planning the event.

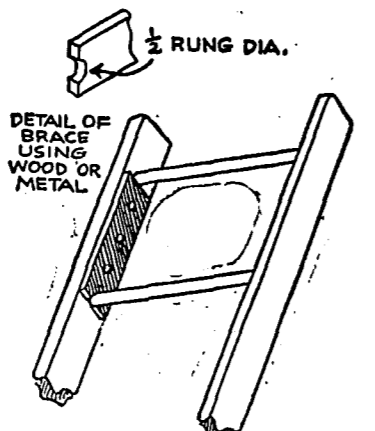

"With the age limit of club members attending raised to 14 years and over, we are gearing the program to the broader approach of community service and citizenship," the leaders say. "We expect more than a third of the 600 club members enrolling in the Congress to take part in the leadership development workshop under the guidance of Glenn Dildine of the National 4-H Club Foundation and Vernon H. Burlison of our own Extension Service. We believe the development of leadership in our

You'll have much more peace of mind when working from ladders if you'll take a few minutes each year to check your ladders and make sure they're in safe condition.

It's surprising how many people risk their lives on step and extension ladders which experienced carpenters, who use ladders virtually every working day, wouldn't go near. You should make a periodic check of your ladder steps or rungs and the supporting frames to catch any dangerous deterioration before it is too late.

Ladder rungs can be reinforced with wood or metal.

As added precaution with steps and rungs, before they have had time to become loose or weak, it frequently is advisable to reinforce the ladder with wood or metal. This can be done with wood by nailing a support board to the inside of the ladder frame, after wedging the board between two rungs or steps. Or you can use flat stock steel, in the case of a rung ladder, nailing the steel to the side frame and bending the ends of the metal so they fit the contour of the rungs.

A reader recently wrote us about the value of painting ladders to protect the wood and give longer life. We do not advise painting because it covers defects and can prevent detection of any signs of cracking. For those who like a protective finish on the ladders, we suggest that clear varnish or wood preservative, or other transparent finish, be used so condition of the wood will be visible.

The electric jig saw now has gone the full circuit, from table saw to portable saw to combination portable and table saw. The combination provides one of the handiest power tools you'll ever find for your workshop.

Accomplishing the feat of converting a portable saw into a table or stationary jig saw is the newest thing on the handyman market, a small steel table which sits on your work bench. The table, 15 inches long, 16 inches wide, and 8 inches high, is open at the front so the portable jig saw can be inverted and fastened beneath, with blade projecting upward through an opening in the table surface.

Portable saw easily converted to stationary table saw.

The jig saw attaches firmly to the underside of the table with brackets and a single locking wing nut and rubber footings hold the table in place while the saw does your cutting work. Rip guide and miter gauge are incorporated in the table surface to help you align and maneuver the material you're sawing.

If you haven't already become acquainted with the advantages of a portable jig saw for your farm or home workshop, you really have been missing something. You'll be amazed at the multiplicity of tasks which can be accomplished with the jig saw, especially if you have one of the new steel tables so you can use the saw as a portable or stationary tool. The jig saw will cut steel and other metals, up to 2-inch wood plastics, sheathing, fiber glass, leather, and other materials—and make intricate irregularly-shaped cuts.

state's 4-H Club members offers the greatest opportunities for boys and girls in the 4-H program and the greatest service to the community in which they live. The workshop is open only to club members who have attended the Congress at least once prior to this year.

Theme of the 1959 Congress is: "Improving Family and Community Living Through Shared Leadership." A full program is arranged for all club members. Those not eligible for the leadership workshop will find pleasant and profitable sessions waiting for them in social development, career exploration, crafts, recreation, and work in the various fields making up 4-H Club projects.

Leaders have set June 14 to 20 this year as dates of the Congress. Four dormitories, Willis Sweet, Uppham, Hays and French Halls will house the youngsters. Some 25 county agents and home agents will be on the campus to assist with the leadership workshop and other program features. Members of the University 4-H Club will help with dormitories, classwork and activities.

NEW SNAP BEAN

U. of I. Moscow — A new snap bean has been developed at Kimberly, Idaho, and Greeley, Colorado, has been released to seed growers by the department of agriculture. The name is "Tendercrop." Men who produced it report that it is resistant to mosaic, well adapted for commercial canning, and suitable for home gardens.

Tendercrop resulted from 12 generations of breeding and selection at the University of Idaho branch experiment station at Kimberly, and at the U. S. D. A. experiment station at Greeley. The bean was developed by William J. Zaumeyer and H. Rex Thomas, both of the U. S. D. A. It resists common bean mosaic, New York 15 mosaic, and a new virus disease called pod mottle.

The plants are upright, vigorous, about 16 inches tall, and have a spread of two feet. The dark green pods are about 5 1/2 inches long, and a quarter inch thick, and round. The pods remain slender even when mature. Seed development is slow so the pod is meaty. Seeds are a mottle purple.

Published Weekly by the Union Oil Service at Kendrick
W. L. "Bill" Rogers, Editor

HELLO, FOLKS:

Well, here we are again, with spring apparently "just around the corner", and due to the fact that it's getting later 'n later, we hope you have checked your supplies of gasoline, diesel fuel, lubricants, greases and motor oils. If you have, call us right now at 4251 and we'll be there in a flash with your needs.

The new baby proved to have very powerful lungs. One day his brother, aged five, said to his mother: "Mother, baby came down from Heaven, didn't he?" "Yes, dear," answered the mother. "Golly," said the five-year-old, "I don't blame the angels for tossing him out, do you?"

How about your car? Does it squeak and squawk? Do you wish it was quieter and looked better? If so, bring it in to us for a thorough lubrication with those famous Union Products. We take out the noise! And if you'd like it to run smoother, let us fill the crankcase with that famous Royal Triton Motor Oil!

He came home from the play looking bored stiff and utterly fed up. "Didn't the play end happily?" inquired his wife.

"Yes," replied the critic, "we were all happy when it ended!"

Got a lubrication problem? If so, call us. Union makes a lubricant to fit every need. We stock them.

Always travel Union — best!
