

BEEF CATTLE BEST FARM INDUSTRY IN STATE OF IDAHO

University of Idaho, — Today the beef cattle industry in Idaho is the largest single source of agricultural income in the state.

By 1968 it is expected to be the largest single source of all income. Fast-growing cattle feeding operations, expected to expand still more, are primarily responsible for this income boost in the industry.

Such is the outlook for the Idaho beef cattle producer as seen by T. Donald Bell, head of the department of animal husbandry at the University of Idaho college of Agriculture.

Cattle on feed have increased sharply, particularly in southern Idaho. Average number of head in feedlots during the 1930-40 period was 26,000. Last year Idaho cattle feeders finished 149,000 head.

"Our cattle feeding increase, 470 per cent over the 1930-40 period, is the second largest increase of any state in the country for the same period," Bell explains. "Only California has shown a greater increase in cattle feeding."

Four reasons are cited by Bell for the expansion of cattle feeding in Idaho are:

Increasing abundance of feed products in the state; increasing numbers of available feeder cattle in the area; expanding markets on the West Coast resulting from almost explosive population changes in that area; and increasing awareness by more people of the possibilities for feeding cattle in the state.

Trends in per capita meat consumption further strengthen the outlook for the livestock industry. Pork consumption, Bell relates, has fluctuated up and down during the past 20 years but now is at about the same level as it was at the start of that period. Lamb consumption on the other hand, has had a rather steadily increase. Reaching a peak in 1956-57. During the same period poultry consumption also increased.

BIG BIRDS ARE OBSERVED

Sage grouse studies, such as the booming or strutting ground counts of males each spring, are part of the management work done on this important upland bird species by the Fish and Game department. Sage grouse are hunted in Idaho, but usually with a season of only a day or two. Between 20,000 and 40,000 birds are harvested annually. They provide fine sport and are excellent table fare, but should be cleaned as soon as they are killed to eliminate strong tastes. These birds are found on the sagebrush plains of southern Idaho. They normally summer in meadows along creeks and near springs.

"With 1,007,000 head of cattle this year, Idaho ranked 24th as a beef state," Bell notes. "With 149,000 head of cattle in feed-lots last year the state ranked 14th in cattle feeding. Idaho has a terrific potential for increasing numbers from our state is blessed with an abundance of alfalfa hay, which usually amounts to a surplus. Also, the state has available for cattle feeding increasing supplies of corn silage, barley and other grains, along with by-products of the sugar beet and potato industries. Cattle are available and pastures and Idaho has near by the fastest expanding market of any area in the United States. IT'S BEEN AROUND! Remarked the blonde to her girl friend, who was showing off her engagement ring: "I've not only seen it, I've worn it!"

MORE FROM YOUR BEEF DOLLAR

Price per serving, rather than price per pound is the important thing for the thrifty beef buyer, says Ruth J. Shane, county home agent.

Here's a guide to the number of servings in a pound of several common cuts:

Short ribs, blade and pot roast — two; club, T-bone and porterhouse — two or three; round steak and trimmed arm pot roast — three to four; boneless roast and ground beef — four or five.

The outlook for beef-eaters is good, Mrs. Shane said. The quality of beef should be excellent and most cuts will be abundant. Although prices are likely to be lower at the end of the year, the reduction will be small.

When you keep fresh beef, the home agent advised, wrap loosely and put it in the refrigerator. A loose wrap allows air to circulate and this reduces spoilage.

Store cooked meat tightly covered in the coldest compartment of the refrigerator. Do not keep beef longer than one week in the ice-cube compartment.

You can store frozen beef as long as 12 months in a home freezer.

FACE LIFTING

The War Memorial Honor Roll at the edge of the Kendrick park, last week received a thorough renovation at the hands of Marvin Long and Mrs. Paul Lind.

The name board was removed, the glass washed inside and out, the names on the rolls straightened and cleaned, and the entire structure given a thorough scrubbing with soap and water.

To complete the job the planter box at the front was filled with blooming plants. The results are indeed excellent.

NEW COMPOUND DEVELOPED

The first new antiknock compound developed by the petroleum industry in 38 years, has been announced by Howard G. Vesper, President of the Standard Oil Co. of California, Inc. The new compound will be known by the trade-mark "Methyl," and will be used exclusively in the company's three Chevron gasolines.

"For many years our subsidiary, California Research Corporation, has sought a more efficient antiknock compound for gasoline," Vesper reported. "This has been important because today's engines demand an antiknock compound that can withstand temperatures and pressures several times greater than were used in automobile engines in 1922 when the first antiknock compound was introduced.

"Methyl steps up octane performance so effectively that it stops power wasting knock better than any other antiknock compound known, for both new and older cars. In addition to extensive tests in laboratories, Methyl has been proved by more than 2 1/2 million miles of road service," Vesper explained.

STATE LIBRARY MEET HELD AT McCALL IN APRIL

The Revision of Library Standards was the topic of the Idaho State Library Association meeting at McCall, Idaho, April 28 to 30.

Some 130 librarians of elementary and high schools, representatives of the P.-T. A., who sponsor and assist in the work, and officers elected attended. The topics of discussion included:

1. Recommendations to the School Library Standards. This represented better service from school librarians, who should be able to spend more time in supervision of the help, from the class employed, whether high school students, or P.-T. A. members.
2. Preparation of useable material in schools, so that students did not deplete materials from the public library.

Recommendation that the budget for school libraries be increased from $1.50 to $5.00 per student, and ten books per student be required to standardize the library.

That special funds be set aside for periodicals, and magazines for current reference be provided.

A "Supervisor of School Libraries" was a very interesting topic for discussion. Whom should he be supervising? The administrator of the school — the librarian who had student help and was only in the library part time, or the students who conducted the library in her absence?

There are only ten accredited librarians in the public libraries, and Latah county boasts two of these, Mrs. F. Suttner of the Moscow Public and Mrs. Kenneth Bell of the Latah County Library.

The needs of the schools was answered by a questionnaire from the Elementary School principals. Here it was of interest to note the need of Idaho schools — 85 schools needed money; 55 needed librarians; 33 materials, to provide for their readers; 18 education of school boards as to the value of the library in education; 55 elimination of study hall and library; 28 schools had central libraries; 5 use or share a public library; 79 had class room libraries.

It was interesting to note that one P.-T. A. member reported a good elementary library, but it was locked and no one had time to supervise it. Also, the Bookmobile was coming to town, but the schedule for the teachers, conflicted with its use.

One school reported $1,000 library money for 630 pupils, and thought they were well supplied. It was the consensus of the meeting that standards should be revised. One school reported only $50 provided per year, and $15 per teacher for materials. One school reported only 50 cents per student per year.

On the state library level the Bookmobile was requested to:

Have more books and come more often, making regular trips especially for the schools.

The meeting was conducted by Lee Zimmerman of the University of Idaho. Speakers included: Miss Mary Helen Mahar, Office of Education, Washington, D. C.; Irving Lieberman, Director of School Librarianship, University of Wash.; Henry Drennan, Idaho State Librarian.

Dr. Boyd Martin spoke on "Education Necessary to Live," emphasizing if we could only realize our schools in every category are the sources of this vital step in our lives. Let's work together with those who furnish the funds, with those who use them, and demand the best which they can buy. — Ella Benscoter.
