"HELLO WALK" IS NEW ADDITION AT U. OF I.

Proving that a safety hazard can be eliminated and a horticulture research "laboratory" and beauty spot added at the same time is the new "Hello Walk" entry at the University of Idaho, which will greet students returning to the campus this fall.

"Hello Walk" is a pathway bisecting the lawn in front of the Administration building where by tradition each student met is greeted. Students have used the same route since the university first opened its doors in 1892.

Gone will be the old flight of steep stairs. In its place will be several levels of risers which wend past native rock planters, along an organic garden, by several redwood benches and on to the Administration building.

The over-all design of the project was made by Charles Stoll, a senior architecture student from Williamsport, Pa., while working part time at the university's physical plant division.

The revamping grew out of the necessity for a safer student pedestrian crossing and the need for better control of traffic near the terminal area. Blake street was to be widened which meant the old stairs of the walk would have to go. In its place will be the new entry.

Working out the new look were members of the buildings and grounds staff and William Snyder, assistant professor of horticulture.

Stoll was asked to do the design as part of his buildings and grounds job and "give it something that means something." He was equal to the task and his design accepted.

"This is organic design," explained the 30-year-old student. "There is something growing and blooming throughout the year from among the 70 different plant varieties used. We attempted to simulate the outcroppings familiar to this area and provide a landscaping for day and night."

The walkway, which was made safer by a grade reduction at the end will have special lighting to highlight the area after dusk. Plant scientists and students will be able to use the area for the study of species not native to the Northwest.

Stoll, who has worked his way through the university, has had a hand in the project from the first mark of the pencil to the actual construction. He is currently working as a laborer with the contractor doing the job.

4-H'ERS STUDY SAFETY FACTORS

Chicago — VIP in the 4-H roster can be found under the heading of "Safety." VIP in this case means "very important project." Spelled backwards it could mean "people in vehicles."

Either way, the combination alerts more young people to the importance of safety than does any other 4-H endeavor. Some 900,000 boys and girls are participating in a 4-H safety project in which they help to lessen dangers on highways, farms, in homes and communities, reports the Cooperative Extension Service.

Right now when millions of motorists are taking to the road for weekend outings or long awaited vacations, chances of accidents mount. Motor vehicle accidents top the list, says the National Safety Council. Over the long 7th of July week-end, a record number of people died.

The death toll among rural people is exceptionally high, according to the Safety Council. Over the last ten years, 58,000 rural residents died and two million were injured on the highways. Fatal accidents for the decade increased 26 percent. Tractor fatalities climbed 50 percent over the last eight years.

While 4-H Club members represent only a small part of the 52 million automobile drivers, they do a commendable job in eliminating driving hazards in their communities the year-round. Members also check for health and recreation hazards, home safety, and safe handling of animals, according to the Extension Service, which supervises the work.

These and other deeds merit specific rewards provided for the 17th consecutive year by General Motors. They consist of scholarships, educational trips, certificates of honor and honor medals for outstanding 4-Hers who have made safety their No. 1 crop. Training aids for local club leaders and members are also made available by the company.

BEAN COMMISSION BUSY AT LAST SESSION

Boise — At the regular meeting of the Idaho Bean Commission, held in Boise on Monday, August 21, the Commission pledged its support to the Idaho Department of Agriculture in its drive to eradicate the Mexican Bean Beetle, which has been discovered in several garden plots in the Boise area.

The Commission heard a report from Willard Smith of the Department of Agriculture, and Herman Hilfaker, county agent of Ada county who explained the discovery of the Mexican Bean Beetle in the area, which prompted an emergency spray program. Smith said that four big power spray rigs had been employed to spray all of the beans where the infestations were found, as well as locations adjacent to infected areas. William Morgan, Burley, chairman of the Idaho Bean Commission, expressed the concern of the bean growers of the state, stating "that if this pest was to get into the commercial production area of beans in the state of Idaho, that it cause economic havoc to this important industry."

In other business the Commission decided to participate, in cooperation with the Foreign Agricultural Service of the U. S. D. A., in an Agricultural Trade Fair to be conducted in Hamburg, Germany, on November 1 to 10. Idaho beans will be prominently displayed, and prepared for serving to the visitors at the Trade Fair. In addition, the film, which was made for the Idaho Bean Commission entitled, "Sun, Soil and Water," which tells the story of the production of Idaho beans, will be translated into the German language and shown on a continuous basis at the Trade Fair.

In other business to come before the Commission, Ella Lehr Nisja, home economist advisor to the Commission, outlined plans for a larger food page publicity program to be carried out next year. Harold Parks, Juliaetta, is the local member of the Idaho Bean Commission.

U. OF I. HAS NEW CONSTRUCTION PROJECTS GOING

Work is going at a feverish pace on 20 construction projects to be completed by the opening of the fall semester at the University of Idaho next month. A record number of more than 4,200 students are expected to enroll for classes at the university this year. Largest project entails the finishing touches on the new $500,000 College of Mines building which will open its classrooms and laboratories to students for the first time this fall. It was financed one-half by contributions from the Idaho mining industry and one-half by state appropriations.

A new $170,000 home for the Alpha Chi Omega sorority will be ready for occupancy in early September. To house 80 women, the two-story home designed by Gale, Martell, Norrie and Davis, Coeur d'Alene architects, is of traditional design. The exterior features pink Roman brick with white cedar siding and black ornamental ironwork trim.

A move to make pedestrian travel safer at the corner of Blake Street and University Avenue has resulted in the widening of Blake Street and removal of the old "Hello Walk" steps. Three short risers replace the previous steep descent. In addition, native rock planters and an assortment of 70 plant species from all parts of the nation have been added to the area.

New luminaires to light University Avenue and Line Street are being installed to replace the outmoded lighting standards.

A new access road to the campus is being provided by the extension of Rayburn Avenue north to the Moscow-Pullman highway (State Highway No. 8). This improvement is expected to alleviate the rush-hour strain on the existing access roads.

Automatic fire sprinkler systems being installed in the Science hall and the Agronomy building are part of the continuing plan to increase the safety of older classroom and laboratory buildings.

Utility tunnels, carrying steam, water and gas pipes and electrical service to all parts of the campus, are being extended to new construction areas.

Within the next month, the university will call for bids on a major addition to the Student Union building, which is to be financed by student fees and revenue.

HELLO, THERE, FOLKS:

Having trouble with the fall work? Weather un-cooperative? If so, give us a call at 4251 and we'll be there in a flash with Union Products — they put zip into motors!

A Marine in a good mood entered the barracks and called out: "I'll give a dollar to the laziest man here."
Everyone scrambled to his feet and rushed forward to tell how lazy he was, except one tall Missourian. He drawled: "Just roll me over and slip the dollar in my pocket."

Chill mornings remind us that fall is here. So, better take time to check that stove oil tank. Then give us a call at 4251. We'll be right out with Union Stove Oil or Burner Oil! It's got the heat!

Hoity Toity: "My husband has no idea what I go through with when he snores."

Down to Earth Friend: "Mine never misses his change either!"

Bring in your car, pickup or truck before you start out on that hunting trip. Let us service it from end to end and drain the radiator and refill with anti-freeze. Then you'll be set for a good time — with no worries!

Elderly Gentleman: "Have I told you about my grandchildren?"

Acquaintance: "No, and I appreciate it."

There are no better products than Union. Try them.
