HOOVER REPORTS

Seen through the eyes of the communists, American education is in a degenerative state; American culture, science and religion are under the thumb of big business; and that American laws are the repressive measures of desperate capitalists. Labor unions are attacked by the communists for allegedly becoming tools of big business, promoting American "colonial rule" abroad, and joining with the professions, the government and the judiciary in discriminating against women in the filling of high-paying jobs.

The communists are wise enough in the ways of the world, however, to know that more people buy sugar than vinegar. Therefore, it is not sufficient merely to be against everything. One must be for something. And the sweeter and more palatable the fare, the more people the communists hope to attract.

Nonetheless, the hypocrisy in what the communists say they are for is evident. The communists declare themselves for a lasting international peace (as long as no one stands up against communist aggression), for peaceful coexistence (strictly on the communist terms), and for freedom for all people (to live under a communist dictatorship).

Basically, communism pretends to offer all things to all men. Demands for a shorter workday, and end to discrimination of all kinds, aid to farmers, and promotion of higher salaries for teachers are all woven skillfully through the Communist Party line.

This approach presents the Communists with a two-edged sword. Not only does it offer attractive inducements to people from every walk of life, but also confuses the public by blending communist aims and purposes with those of legitimate, beneficial groups and organizations.

The uninformed citizen is thus doubly misled. Either he gets the idea that communists are good because they advocate shorter working hours, or he falls into the equally dangerous assumption that everyone who advocates shorter working hours is a communist. The resulting confusion and name calling have done much to benefit the communists by diffusing the forces of their opponents.

Unfortunately, some people try to resolve the problem by falling into the very error the communists are so careful to avoid. They concentrate on the negative rather than the positive. They are against communism without being for freedom. They are against ignorance without being for education. They are against sin without being for God!

It might be well for these persons to realize that Hitler was also against communism. However, what stood for is the basis of history's judgment. — J. Edgar Hoover, Federal Bureau of Investigation.

SCIENCE PROGRAM

scientists, a brochure describing the program, and an application blank will be sent to every high school principal and teacher of science and mathematics in the state of Idaho. "Day-long visits by scientists generally consist of a lecture or series of lectures on a subject agreed upon, by the speaker and the high school teacher," said Raunio. "Discussions with teachers indicate that some of the scientists showed remarkable versatility last year. For example, a chemical engineer gave five different lectures in one day — two to beginning and advanced algebra classes, respectively; one in nuclear engineering, one in physics and one in chemistry. Each was called for on the spot and each was directly keyed to the specific class being addressed."

INTERESTING BITS OF IDAHO HISTORY

The Lewis and Clark expedition reached Idaho at Lemhi Pass, Aug. 12, 1805, the first known white men to explore this state.

David Thompson, an early trapper with the Northwest Fur Co., began the Idaho fur trade with the Flathead Indians near Bonners Ferry, Idaho, on May 8, 1808.

David Thompson established Kullyspell (KallsPELL) House, a Northwest Fur Company trading post on Lake Pend Oreille, Sept. 9, 1809.

On April 12, 1810, Alexander Henry, whose party was attacked by the Blackfoot Indians on the upper Missouri, crossed the continental divide to seek safety on the Snake river, and built Fort Henry in what was later Idaho. (Near Sugar City).

Henry Harmon "Spalding," Marcus Whitman, and new missionary recruits met at Kamiah, July 9, 1839, and decided that the season's crops at Lapwai and Kamiah could be saved only with irrigation, which was used.

TO IDAHO A GLASS OF BEER Means Many Things

There's more to a glass of beer than the well-known satisfaction and cheerful pleasure you get from the golden beverage of moderation. More often than not, beer is the central ingredient and traditional refreshment for any gathering of friends in the West. Beer is a part of the West and there's a lot of the West in beer, too . . . premium western malting barley, western hops, grains and other ingredients. Beer returns a lot to its friends, too . . . over $1 billion annually in federal, state and local taxes. Yes, a glass of beer is many things.

Proof Is in the Eating, Says 4-H'er

The pretty Pennsylvania 4-H miss pictured here is typical of her 4-H sisters throughout the land who can bake a mouth-watering loaf of bread or pan of golden rolls. She is like some half-million 4-Hers enrolled in a baked foods project, reports the National 4-H Service Committee.

It was just 10 years ago that 4-H Club girls took up baking as a serious project governed by rules and certain well-defined objectives spelled out by the Cooperative Extension Service. It was then that the demonstration aspect of good baking practices was launched as a national awards program, according to a 4-H Service Committee spokesman.

The awards were made possible by Standard Brands, Incorporated, and as the years went by, they were increased considerably. Today, six national scholarships of $400 each are given to the highest ranking girls. An even dozen will qualify for expense paid trips to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago the last week in November.

For the best two-girl team demonstrators in the state and for the individual 4-H demonstrator as well, Standard Brands provides a $50 U. S. savings bond for each. Medals are expected to be given to an estimated 2,500 girls this year who win county recognition.

Participation in the 4-H bread demonstration program last year increased by 23 per cent over 1959, according to the National 4-H Service Committee. This seems to indicate that "homemade" bread is not a lost art.

U. OF I. CARRYING ON SPUD RESEARCH

U. of I. Moscow — The college of agriculture of the University of Idaho is carrying on 27 potato research projects, which include many phases of production, marketing and nutrition, James E. Kraus, dean, reported.

All branches of the potato business are being studied. There are four programs in chemistry, four in agricultural economics, one in agricultural engineering, one in agronomy, two in entomology, two in home economics, eight in horticulture, four in plant pathology and one in growing potato seed.

One of the studies seeks a remedy for early dying, a disease that causes severe damage every year, limiting potato production in some cases as much as 50 percent. Purpose of the project is to identify chemical compounds that will control the fungus. Recent and anticipated developments in the Idaho potato industry are being studied by two scientists. The general objective is to determine the relationship between the fresh and processed potato markets and to forecast expected developments as a guide to the industry. Another study is under way on the costs of handling, shipping and packing potatoes in today's markets.

INTERESTING BITS OF IDAHO HISTORY

Nathaniel Wyeth, on his second expedition across Idaho, stopped to build Fort Hall (near Pocatello) during July and August of 1834. The Fort was sold to the Hudson Bay Company in 1838. Henry Harmon Spalding located the Lapwai Mission among the Nez Perce Indians, October 12, 1836. In 1839, Spalding set up a printing press, the first in Idaho, and printed an eight-page publication. Robert Newell, William Craig and Joe Meek left Fort Hall, Sept. 27, 1840, and took a wagon west from Fort Boise over the Blue Mountains, thus showing that the Oregon Trail was a possible wagon route. Moved to a new site at what was later to become Cataldo, the Coeur d'Alene Mission of the Sacred Heart reopened April 9, just in time for Easter, April 12, 1846. James Marshall's discovery of gold in California, Jan. 24, 1848, led to a great rush on the California trail through southeastern Idaho, and 12 years later, to the discovery of important gold deposits in Idaho.

NEWS VERY SCARCE

This week has been one of those when it seems as if "there just ain't no news" on the local scene. Hunting and the weather occupy most of the conversational channels — and that seems to about "cover the situation."

THREE INJURED IN DEARY CAR WRECK

An automobile accident a half mile east of Deary on State Highway 8 Saturday at 5:30 p.m. caused injuries to three persons and demolished a 1959 two-door station wagon. It was the only traffic accident of the weekend in Latah County. State Officer Roger Marsh said the car was being driven east by William C. Swan, 29, Bovill. Swan diverted his attention from driving to light a cigarette, lost control and the vehicle went off the shoulder, flipped sideways onto the front end, then dropped back onto its wheels. Swan received bruises and lacerations about his head. Percy Parcher, 15, Bovill suffered shoulder bruises and lacerations on his head. Joe Brady, 16, Bovill sustained an injured back. The three men were taken by Deary ambulance to Gritman hospital. Brady was still hospitalized.
